Next Governor-General May Come From Outside Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker may search beyond Canadian shores for the man to become the next Governor-General.

Federal sources say that is not to rule out the possibility that the next representative of the Queen in Canada may be a Canadian.

CLOSER TIES

But Mr. Diefenbaker would like to see closer ties among the Commonwealth family. In fact in his forthcoming seven-week Commonwealth tour, he may keep his eye peeled for prospects, men of stature and eminence who might appeal to Canadians generally.

For years, ever since Confederation, the Canadian Governor-General was picked from among Britain's prominent men.

But former Liberal prime minister Louis St. Laurent decided in 1952 that the Governor-General should be a Canadian in keeping with Canada's growth to nationhood.

The man he selected, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, proved so successful in his job that he already has received two extensions to the normal five-year term.

The 71-year-old Mr. Massey will remain in his post at least until after Queen Elizabeth tours Canada next June and July.

He may even remain on until the end of 1959, depending on circumstances, but in the meantime Mr. Diefenbaker is faced with the task of finding a successor.

DREW MENTIONED

The names of many persons have been raised as possible successors. They range from Hon. George Drew, Canadian high commissioner to Britain and former Progressive Conservative leader, to Princess Margaret, sister of the Queen.

More recently, the names of Earl Mountbatten of Burma, Britain's first sea lord, has come up.

But informants say that while Mr. Diefenbaker has great respect for the distinguished officer, there is great doubt that he will be considered.

The major point is that Britain likely will continue to need him for defence operations for some time to come.

Another possibility is that Mr. Diefenbaker may look to the smaller parts of the Commonwealth, such as Australia or New Zealand, or to the newer members, such as India, for a possible successor.

Perhaps some form of reciprocal arrangement might be worked out, informants suggest. Canada, for example, might pick a man from Australia and Australia take a man from Canada.

CRASHES IN CRATER

LEOPOLDVILLE, Belgian Congo (Reuter)—Three persons are feared to have died in a Belgian military aircraft which crashed inside the crater of the 10,000-foot Nyamuragira, Africa's second highest volcano, it was announced Tuesday.

Immigrant Flow Less Than Half Of Last Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal restrictions will reduce the flow of immigrants to Canada this year to less than half of arrivals in 1957, a government source says.

Arrivals now are expected to total about 125,000, the smallest since 1955 when 109,946 immigrants came to this country. Immigration in 1957 totalled 282,164, the highest number since 1913 when 400,870 arrived.

A flow of 125,000 this year would be well below the annual average of 153,000 in the 10-year period from 1948 to 1957.

The immigration restrictions were imposed in July, 1957, because of unemployment large movement last winter. They have not been relaxed and have had the effect of reducing arrivals in the first six months of 1958 to 97,764 from 182,624 in the corresponding period in 1957.

The restrictions are slated to remain in effect until at least the end of the coming winter. Whether they will be relaxed next year will depend on the extent of unemployment this winter and in the following spring.

One source said that if they are not relaxed, immigration in 1959 will not be any larger than this year's.

Present immigration restrictions are aimed at preventing persons without jobs and sponsors from entering the country. Most immigrants now arriving are persons joining families in Canada and those with special skills or jobs to go to.

In the first six months of 1958 the number of British immigrants dropped sharply to 16,262 from 73,578.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1958

Minister of Highways Opens 23.3 Miles of New Road Between Trenton, Marysville

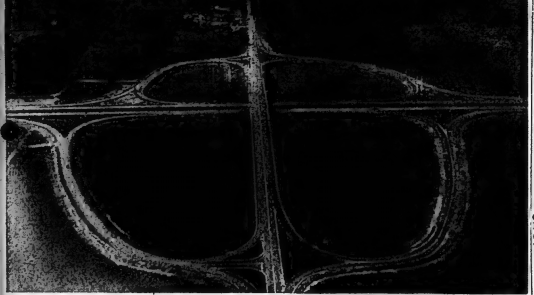
Tuesday afternoon official ceremonies were held just east of the Highway 14-401 interchange to mark the opening of the newest portion of Ontario's trans-provincial highway system. The 23.3 mile divided, four-lane controlled-access highway, which cost the Department of Highways almost ten million dollars, was opened by the Honorable Fred M. Cass, Minister of Highways, ably assisted by the log-chopping abilities of Messrs. Roscoe Robson, sheriff of Hastings county, and W. Elmer Sandercock, MPP for Hastings West.

The ceremonies were chaired by Lloyd Price, MPP for Hastings East, who commented in his opening remarks that he hoped the use of his new highway would reduce the automobile accident rate in this area. In a series of short addresses Sheriff Robson, who was one of the persons instrumental in the original planning of this section o fHighway 401, complimented the excellent work of the engineers involved; Mr. Sandercock, MPP, pointed out the many difficulties which had to be overcome in the planning and construction of the new super-highway; and Mayor Ross Burtt of Trenton thanked the Department of Highways staff for the excellent co-operation they rendered the municipalities involved.

Mayor Gerald Hyde of Belleville extended an official welcome to the Honorable Mr. Cass and other visitors and stated that Belleville was pleased to see the opening of the new highway in anticipation that the existing traffic problem in Belleville would be somewhat relieved. He also expressed the firm belief that there would be no need to fear a loss of business due to the re-routing of through traffic.

Highlighting the speeches was the Minister of Highways, Fred M. Cass, who described this section as another step towards the fulfillment of a twenty-year-old dream for a trans-provincial highway.

FINISHED IN 5 YEARS



The Department of Highways expects that the super-highway system between Windsor and the Ontario-Quebec border will be completed within the next five years indicated Mr. Cass. He described the construction and use of these highways to be beneficial to nearby municipalities in that the accident rate should be decreased, the working force of the community should find it easier to move to and from work, and that the commerce of municipalities concerned should not be adversely affected. He stated that the Department of Highways, especially the local district offices, always tries to give the municipalities the best of service. He then announced that the new section of Hwy. 401 from Trenton to Marysville would be officially open with the completion of a log-cutting ceremony provided by Sheriff Roscoe Robson and W. Elmer Sandercock, MPP (Hastings West).

Thereupon these two worthies stepped up to the two birch logs laid across the highway and with the aid of two chromed-headed axes, thoughtfully supplied by Kingston district highways engineer, Lloyd Walker, proceeded to make the chips fly with swift, sure strokes. Indeed their performance was so noteworthy they were requested to an encore which they also executed with great gusto, much to the delight and verbal encouragement of about two hundred spectators, and officials. The log-chopping 'contest' ended most satisfactory in a dead heat with each of the participants winning an intimate by the merest edge.

Ontario Highways Minister Hon. Fred M. Cass tests the edge of axes used Tuesday to chop logs officially opening ten million dollar new 401 Highway link north of the city. Left to right are: W. Elmer Sandercock, MLA, Hastings West; Highways Minister Cass; Warden Lloyd H. Price, and MLA for Hastings East, and Roscoe Robson, Hastings County sheriff.

The new Trenton-Belleville-Marysville section of Highway 401 starts on the west at Highway 33 and the new 609-foot bridge over the Trent River is shown above.

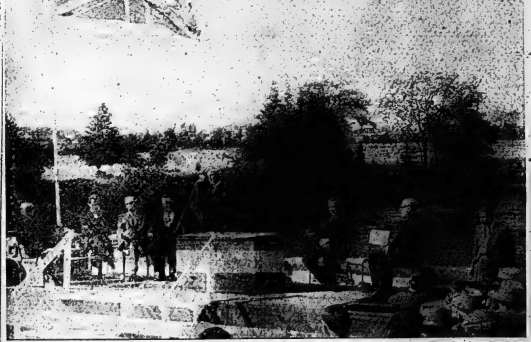
The new ten million dollar Trenton — Marysville section of the 401 Highway is an excellent example of the commendable fashion in which the Ontario Department of Highways tends to the landscaping of the new highways. The design and planning of this particular section of the trans - provincial highway system was carried out in such a manner that the contractors were able to leave untouched a great many mature trees. This has allowed an advantage of some twenty years in the overall landscaping effect as compared with the procedure of levelling the land and planting new trees and shrubs.

Landscaping, however, has not been confined to the preservation of existing trees and woodlots. Over 8,000 evergreens, deciduous trees, and flowering shrubs have also been planted along the new throughway. In addition, the Department of Highways has laid some 474,000 square yards of sod and seeded some 350 acres of right-of-way. The latter has been accomplished by means of the department's hydroseeder - mulch blower method, a money - saving process which the DH has been the first in Canada to use.

The completion of the Trenton-Belleville-Marysville section of Highway 401 brings the total mileage of that highway now in use to 213 miles. It is also anticipated that an additional ten mile section, that connecting the Trenton end of the newly-opened section west to Brighton, will be in use before the end of this year. This section, together with another section extending the Toronto by-pass west of Highway 10, will bring the total mileage in use on Highway 401 to 239 miles by next January.



EOKA Declares It Did Not Kill British Woman

NICOSIA (CP) — Leaders of the Greek Cypriot community and EOKA terrorists alike today condemned the slaying of an English woman in Famagusta last Friday.

In a message from Athens, Archbishop Makarios, exiled leader of the Greek Cypriots, said the murder as well as the ensuing "blood orgy" conducted by British troops in the roundup of suspects "provoke the shame and anger of every honest person."

Makarios added: "I am certain that the Greek Cypriot people bear no responsibility for the English woman's murder."

An EOKA leaflet circulated in Nicosia charged that Mrs. Kathleen Cutliffe was murdered by the anti-EOKA organization "Cromwell" and the Turkish underground.

Birch chips flew on Highway 401 yesterday as the four-lane 23 mile stretch of pavement from Trenton to Marysville was officially opened. Highway was declared officially open by Highways Minister Hon. Fred Cass after Roscoe Robson, Hastings County sheriff and former MLA for East Hastings, and W. Elmer Sandercock chopped birch logs across the highway. Interested spectators are Highways Minister Cass (wearing dark glasses), and county Warden Lloyd Price. In the background are Mayor Ross Burtt of Trenton; Belleville Mayor Gerald Hyde and Norris Whitney, MLA for Prince Edward-Lennox.

STIRLING

Plan Party For Children On Hallowe'en

STIRLING — Mrs. Alex Bush was hostess on Thursday for a meeting of Nova Valley Women's Institute with 30 ladies in attendance.

Mrs. Rose Bush opened the meeting, and Mrs. J. R. Donohoe gave her report and read the messages of thanks.

Plans were made to visit Wooler W.I. and Seymour East W.I. in October.

The next convention will be held in the "Masonic Temple, Belleville, on October 23rd and Mrs. Irven delegates are Mrs. Percy MacMullan and Mrs. Roy Bush and alternate delegates were appointed.

The Tweedsmuir Workshop will be held at Marsh Hill United Church on November 27th. The W.I.W.I. committee for the Tweedsmuir history book are Mrs. Roy Bush, Mrs. Wm. Irven and Mrs. Stanley Irven, and they were appointed to attend this meeting.

The institute authorized the Friendship Link secretary to renew the subscriptions to the Canadian magazines as a Christmas gift to their sister organization in England.

Plans are made for a Hallowe'en party at the school house on Thursday evening, October 30th. There will be prizes for the public school children who attend in costume. The program will be conducted by Mrs. Jack Bush and Mrs. Ernest Carr. There will be a small charge for the adults, and refreshments will be served.

The girls' club work will be conducted by Mrs. Vernon Sherry and Mrs. Allan McDonell.

Mrs. Percy MacMullan brought a message from Mrs. N. Coombs at Abbotts' Leigh W.I. in England. She gave excerpts from messages and clippings received.

She also gave excerpts from a letter received from Malaya, and gave a brief report of the work done by the National Association of Women's Institutes of Malaya. They started six years ago and in 1956 they affiliated with A.C.W.W. Today they have 227 institutes and 7,500 members and the movement of all young society is steadily growing. They have a special film which portrays a newly married Malayan girl, who joins the institute and learns how to use a sewing machine, and eventually she becomes a demonstrator who will help other girls in other villages.

This year A.C.W.W. are planning to have societies set aside a day in October to celebrate "The Tenth Anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights."

HOME ECONOMIC AND HEALTH PROGRAM

Mrs. Roy Vandervoort was in charge of the program based on "Home Economics and Health" which was arranged by her and Mrs. Ralph Usman. She read a poem on "Health."

Mr. Phil Conley officiated at the piano for the sing-song.

Those who did not wear a print dress paid a small fine and this money added to the sick fund.

Mrs. Roy Tucker read an interesting article on the theme, "The Heart of the Home is the Livable Kitchen."

Mrs. Gilbert Finkle gave a demonstration on "smocking." She displayed patterns, materials, threads and such and explained the various stitches.

A contest entitled "Parts of the Body," gave the ladies a chance to use their brains in trying to solve the answers.

The hostess and lunch committee served refreshments and Mrs. Percy Craighead voiced thanks for program, demonstration, and refreshments

AWAKE NIGHTS — ASLEEP DAYS

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They toss and turn in bed — and then are dull and listless and irritable around the day. All of which may be due to a temporary kidney condition which calls for the use of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they slow down and sometimes stop in the system, disturbed rest, tired feeling and backache often follow. If you don't rest well at night — if you haven't that sprightly step of health in the daytime — use Doan's Kidney Pills. You can depend on Doan's!

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Easton and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pound and family, of Bethany, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tyrrell.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ketcheson, of Morley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walker, of Belleville, and Mrs. Emma Easton visited with Mrs. Walter Tyrrell.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Badgley and family, of Carmel, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Badgley.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Cook and family, of West Huntingdon, and Mrs. John Rose visited with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rose.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Phillips, of Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Clare and family, of Marsh Hill, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Carman Huffman.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Foster and Shirley, of Northport, also Miss Betty Badgley, visited at the Swan home.

Mrs. Carman Huffman and Nancy and Mrs. G. Swan attended a trousseau tea in honor of Miss Shirley Foster at her home in Northport on Tuesday evening. On Wednesday evening they also attended a shower in her honor at the home of Miss Marlene Tweddy, Foxboro.

Mrs. Duane Martin, Gail and Lois, spent Saturday afternoon at the Swan home.

Preparations are underway for the harvest festival service to be held on Thanksgiving Sunday, October 12th, at 9.45 a.m.

The Friendship Guild's banquet, formerly planned for October 29th, will be held instead on November 5th at the home of Carman Huffman, from 2.00 until 5.00 p.m.

The W.M.S. rally will be held at Shannonville on October 23. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Grills were evening callers on Wednesday at the Swan home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clare left on Friday evening for a motor trip through the U.S.A.

Mrs. Walter Treverton and Percy and Elaine, attended the Sunday School rally at Shannonville United Church on Thursday evening.

Mrs. G. Swan attended the grandmothers' meeting of Plainfield W.I. on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Horace Palmer.

Albury

ALBURY — Congratulations are extended to Marilyn Dowlator and Robert Hawthorne, who were married in Redners-ville on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Williamson spent Sunday afternoon and tea-time with Mr. and Mrs. Smith Brown.

This community was shocked to hear of the sudden passing of Mrs. Lou McCutcheon on Saturday. Sympathy goes to Mr. McCutcheon and family. Many friends called at the home on Tuesday.

GERMANY AT WAR—WITH STARLINGS

They may seem to be playing a childish game of soldiers, but these West German wine-growers are engaged in serious business at Oppenheim. They're making war on starlings and driving the birds away from the vineyards. Explosive shrapnels, shrill whistles, cap pistols and garbage can lids loudly clashed together.

SHANNONVILLE

United Church WMS Plans Oct. Rally

The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Shannonville United Church was held in the church hall on the afternoon of October 13.

The president, Mrs. Charles Woods, welcomed all and read a lovely poem entitled "Nature's Sculptor." Mrs. K. R. Vivian, group leader, gave the worship. The Scripture lesson was read from Deut. 17th by Mrs. Gordon Alkey and Mrs. Vivian commented and explained the passage of the Bible. Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Alkey and Mrs. Vivian, "New Venture of African Women." Mrs. Vivian's reading was entitled "Neighbors."

The president thanked the group for their devotional, and Mrs. Vivian thanked Mrs. Arthur Houston who acted as pianist in the absence of Mrs. Damon Hinchey through illness. Mrs. Frank Dorsiter and Mrs. Will McFarlane expressed thanks for cards they received from the society.

Mrs. W. Ross gave the treasurer's report, and plans were made for the rally in the church on October 23rd.

Offerings were dedicated by the president.

The lesson asaiged by Mrs. Gordon Alkey, served delicious refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Raymond Clark on Wednesday November 9th.

Carmel

CARMEL — Because of the freely fall weather, everyone is busy with the corn crops.

A large crowd attended the communion services held at Carmel Church on Sunday morning.

A class of young people were taken into the church Miss Jean Rose, by Rev. Reed and Rev. McCrea. The junior choir provided the hymns. A large crowd were also present for the Sunday School class.

Simpson-Sears Issues Largest Christmas Catalogue in History

Company Looks for Record-Breaking Christmas Sales This Year

Santa Claus made his first visit of the 1958 season last week when mailmen began delivering Simpsons-Sears new Christmas catalogue to almost 2,000,000 Canadian homes. The arrival of this colorful annual gift book is a tangible reminder that shopping for the festive season has officially started.

While prices generally are about the same level as last year, substantial price cuts have been made on major home appliances. Refrigerators and freezers are down $50.00. Automatic home laundry equipment is reduced $50.00 a unit, with wringer-washers down $30.00. Electric gas ranges are $50.00 lower. British Lee Riflefield rifles converted for sporting use are offered at $17.95, which is $5.00 below last year's price. Watches, diamonds, home movie projectors and silver-plated flatwares are also substantially reduced.

Families are encouraged this year to do their Christmas shopping before the rush begins by using the company's "Buy Now Next Year" credit plan. Under the Simpsons-Sears plan, customers buying before November 15 make no monthly payments until after the new year. There is no extra charge for this extended service.

Space ships, guided missiles, moon rockets and electric trains are the sponsors of all creative heavy billing in the greatly enlarged toy section this year. One detailed-looking moon rocket fires a 3-stage projectile 300 feet straight up into the air, then the second stage satellite is automatically released and soars off to still greater heights. Compressed air and water powered the missile power.

For little girls who cannot wait to grow up is a 1930 "flapper" outfit complete with fringe trimmed chemise and imitation mink stole and high-heeled shoes, all for $3.75.

Red is the color of news this Christmas, according to Simpsons-Sears' publicity men. A page of red lingerie for mother and big sister and red sport shirts and pyjamas for dad and the boys. Also new this Christmas are gold-plastered Last Cane Red" pyjama outfits with night-caps for all members of the family. Chemise-style lingerie with all the gaiety and fun of Paris per era period is also featured for the first time.

Under the heading of "Make This a Practical Christmas" Simpsons-Sears will offer a 24-inch TV set with a 5-speaker High Fidelity sound set as well as several stereophonic phonographs and stereo tape recorders. Stereophonic sound, a comparative newcomer to home music reproduction, is now snowballing in popularity and will be "the" thing this Fall, says the music industry. The Simpsons-Sears stereophonic phonographs and tape recorders play both conventional and stereo records and tapes.

INJURED BY DEER

WAYCROSS, Ga. (AP)—An enraged 300 - pound buck deer charged and severely injured a veteran Okefenokee Swamp park guide Tuesday. Last Lucas barely escaped with his life when the buck lowered his antlers and charged while the guide was leading him in a corral.

CONTRACTS POLIO

BRANTFORD (CP) — A young mother of three children who did not receive Salk vaccine is suffering from polio, Dr. G. Murray Fraser, medical officer of health for Brant County, said Tuesday. Dr. Fraser said the woman, in her early 30s, is progressing under medical treatment.

CARMEL

Calico Club Holds Election of Officers

Mrs. Dafoe outlined the course for the fall and winter, and Thompson gave a brief talk on the contest of a sewing-bag.

The remainder of the evening was spent by each member making a button-hole.

AT THE BELLE — Wash Day — Olivia De Havland, portraying a hard woman of the soil, scrubs a twelve-year-old bundle of talent, David Ladd, who plays the role of a shocked boy in Samuel Goldwyn's "Proud Rebel", stirring outdoor drama in Technicolor, also starring David's father, Alan Ladd, and King, a collie sheep dog. "Proud Rebel", opens today at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

AT THE PARK — Incredible Savagery, Flaming Passion — Violence overwhelms the screen in the giant Technicolor thrill drama, "Attila", starring Anthony Quinn as the terrible Hun and Sophia Loren as a power-hungry, pleasure-mad darling of a decadent empire, opening tonight at the Park Theatre. And on the same program "The Devil's General", starring Curt Jergens. Both attractions are first Belleville showings.

AT THE McCARTHY — Ship's captain Rock Hudson, his dog Anchor, and his pretty passenger, Cyd Charisse, take to the deck in this scene from "Twilight for the Gods", based on the best seller by Ernest K. Gann, author of "The High and the Mighty." Hudson and Miss Charisse are starred. Arthur Kennedy, Leif Erickson, Charles McGraw and Ernest Truex are co-starred. The picture, filmed in the Hawaiian Islands in Color, opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The men who hold the balance of power in the movie industry are no longer the big studio bosses but a dozen top stars.

How did this revolution happen?

Let the stars themselves explain. Some modestly deny they are the new rulers of Hollywood. But all admit the power of box office favorites has grown immeasurably in the last decade.

Frank Sinatra: "I saw this trend coming five years ago. I knew the time would come when the major studios no longer existed as such, but would offer their facilities in partnership with actors and creators of film properties."

Sinatra, dropped from his MGM contract as a singer on the skids six years ago, is back at the studio — as partner in Sound Came Running and two more films.

James Stewart: "After the glamor and glitter is stripped away, you've got to realize that movies are pretty much like any other business. We exist on supply and demand, too. The demand now is for solid, reliable performers who can get people out of their homes and into the theatres.

"People don't have the movie habit any more. They won't go to the theatre unless they see pretty sure of getting their money's worth. When they know that Duke Wayne or Gary Cooper is in the picture, they can judge from past performance that it ought to be pretty good."

Cary Grant: "We've gotten to be like a well-advertised brand of tea. Housewives buy that brand of tea rather than take a chance on a brand they're not familiar with.

"The moviegoer is the same way. He'll see one of our pictures because he knows he's pretty sure of getting a certain quality, while he might not take a chance on a new fellow across the street."

Why are there only a dozen stars who fit this category?

William Holden: The studios are to blame for that. Right after the war there were 700 to 800 actors under exclusive contract to the studios. Today there are 175, and virtually none of them are big names.

"As soon as the picture business started getting tough, the studios dropped the actors. The producers argued why should they pay an actor $2,500 or $5,000 a week when they can let him go and hire him back at $100,000 per picture?

Of the golden dozen stars, all but Marlon Brando were under studio contracts at one time. But now they are free agents and get as much as $750,000 in salary and perhaps half the profits.

Godfrey Says He Would Die If He Had to Quit Working

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—As Arthur Godfrey begins his 30th year in television and radio he is one of the hardest-working men in the industry.

Each Wednesday morning on CBS radio he presents a one-hour program, then he does his half-hour morning television show on CBS-TV. And recently he has launched a new weekly night-time show on CBS-TV.

Why, a reporter asked him recently, does he continue to work so hard? He obviously could afford to retire at 55 and spend his time at his greatest enjoyment—flying and showing his horses, his airplanes, hunting. So why quit?

"The reason I don't is because I think I would die," Godfrey replied. "I like my work. I like it very much. The only part I don't like is what happens extra-curricularly. For instance, I can no longer just go into a store and buy a pair of socks." If he could walk into a cafeteria again and have coffee and doughnuts without anybody paying any attention, he'd love it.

MISSED TREAT

"Those are mundane things to the average person, but, boy, it would be a treat to me. And it's been too many years since I could do it. I've built my whole career on nothing but my knowledge of life. I saw the seamiest side of it, and yet it's been over 20 years since I knew what it was to be hungry. That's a long time to remember.

"When I go out into the country (riding at horse shows) . . . I appear on my horse in a ring. I think that's the only legitimate excuse I've got for making an appearance. That's the only time I really perform well—as it's a worthwhile performance. Unless you could sit behind me in an airplane. I'm a pretty good pilot too. Or, if you could sail with me in a boat, or go hunting with me. I can do those things, but the public never sees them."

The only formula Godfrey says he knows for keeping going, even when you don't feel like it, is to "do your job and take a joy in doing it."

The McFarlands' opening night foemen and Icelane rivals since the day the Indians lurked behind trees on the banks of the Moira, the Kingston Merchants, trotted out for their first seasonal practice the other night.

Among those who needed introduction to the rail-birds, although they should have looked familiar, were defenceman Vic Fildes and winger Jim Maxwell, late of the University of Michigan, and Moe Savard, high points-getting centre, who got his mail last season in Cornwall.

A more familiar face and figure were those of "Bep" Guidolin, former playing coach and player of the McFarlands who was used on defence in the latter-hoop workout.

Newcomers included Vigor Gendron, who played with Fort Geogan with the Lennyville Rebels last year, and is the property of the Chatham Maroons; Neil MacDonald, former Gull Black Hawk, who played with the University of Michigan, and Pete Gauthier, brother of Jean Gauthier, who played on the Kingston defence last season.

Lynn Davis, who was more or less of a sensation last year, especially against the Maos, was in goal, while at the other end was Kenny Johnson, well known around the streets.

Predicted the high-scoring trio of the Merchants, Gagnon, Colvin and Partridge worked out as a front line unit. Other tries were Bellringer, MacDonald and Linesman; Savard, Maxwell and Bukachevski and Toppazzini, Chiarelli and Senior.

Joe Levandoski paired off with Fildes as one defence unit. Others were Gauthier and Whitey MacLaren, and Guidolin and Gendron.

Following the workout Manager Brabin said forward-wise the team is not in bad shape. "As a matter of fact," he added, "we could have the best forward units in the league."

"Our defence has to be improved," Wally said, "but we're looking for the Montreal Canadiens for help here. We've got Jean Gauthier and if the Canadiens want him they have indicated they will give us some one with the same potential."

MACS AT ST. KITTS TOMORROW

The McFarlands get their first taste of exhibitional combat at St. Catharines tomorrow night when they take on the fast-skating Teepees of that city in their opening competition of the season. The Teepees play a return engagement in Memorial Arena Friday night.

Next Tuesday they trek to Peterborough to take on the Junior "A" Petes of the Limlock City and on Wednesday night they test their old foemen, the Whitby Dunlops in Trenton Community Gardens. Incidentally, the tickets for this game are now on sale at Bill Cook's Tobacco Shop.

BOOSTER CLUB

The Maos' Booster Club is holding a general meeting tonight in the main lecture room (upstairs) in the Bridge Street Arena.

President Armand Duffy is anxious to get as many Boosters out as possible for there is much important business on the agenda. Then it will be a first-class opportunity for Booster members to meet the new members of the Maos, since practically all the players will be on hand to meet their friends of the pews.

"I understand," said President Duffy, "that some of the boys are complaining about something or other. By the boys I mean members of the Booster Club." They can get cleared up on all the club's activities if they show up at tonight's get-together."

If Series Goes To Seven, Burdette Gets The Nod

Casey Indicates Bob Turley Will Be Big Game Selection If Ford Trims Braves Today

By JOE REICHLER

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Although the world series could end today, both managers—Fred Haney of Milwaukee Braves and Casey Stengel of New York Yankees—were thinking of a possible seventh and deciding game.

After giving two-time winner Warren Spahn the job of clinching the series in the sixth game today, Haney told reporters:

"I'd like to clear it out as quickly as possible, but if we don't do it today, then we get another chance tomorrow."

Haney, naturally, expressed faith in Spahn's ability to repeat his third straight victory over Yankees and declined to speculate on his seventh-game pitcher. There was no doubt that Lew Burdette, winner of the second game and loser of the fifth, would be his man.

YANKEES PROBLEM

Stengel's pitching problem appeared more acute than Haney's. Due to a late hour Tuesday night, he was still undecided upon his sixth-game pitcher, let alone his seventh.

He indicated, however, he would probably settle upon Whitey Ford today, with Bob Turley his seventh-game choice should Yankees win.

"Ford thinks he should pitch the sixth game, and he thinks Turley should pitch the seventh. I haven't decided," Stengel said.

Ford has started twice and Yankees lost both games. The 29-year-old southpaw was charged with one of the defeats and relief ace Don Duren the other. Whitey was the victim of Spahn's brilliant 4-hitter shutout only last Sunday and Stengel's placing of Ford's name on the head of the list raised some eyebrows.

"Ford tells me his arm is all right, and he'll do his best," said Stengel. "Spahn showed us he's a great pitcher. You've got to go with your best against a guy like that."

"I'm not worried at all about pitching Turley with only two days rest," Stengel said. "He's strong, he's a clean liver and he's never had a sore arm."

SPAHN FINE

Spahn, a 37 - year - old lefthander, assured Haney his arm was fine.

Stengel's lack of decision on today's pitcher was prompted by the questionable availability of Don Larsen, who pitched and won the third game Saturday. The big right-hander was the logical choice to hurl today's game but he has been plagued by an inflamed elbow.

"I'm not going to name my pitcher until the day of the game," Stengel said. "I've got to find out about Larsen's arm. I don't like to use him with only three days rest."

The lineups depended upon the pitchers. Haney said he would use his right-handed platoon, with Andy Pafko in centre field and Joe Adcock at first base, if Ford were to pitch. With a right-hander going for Yankees, Billy Bruton would be in centre and Frank Torre at first.

The Yankee lineup was all set except for third base. Stengel said he will stick with Elston Howard in left field and Yogi Berra behind the plate.

"If Ford pitches for me," he said, "I may play the kid (Bobby Richardson) at third base. Those right-handers of Uhlirs hit it down that way with a left-hander on the mound. And the kid's the best glove man I've got. If a right-hander pitches for me, it might be (Jerry) Lumpe. I seem to remember that he got a hit as a pinch-hitter against Spahn in the last series. Now, if I use the long ball, I might play (Andy) Carey."

Cadis Plan To Curb Soccer Riots

GLASGOW (Reuters) — Magistrates have been called in to help curb hooliganism and fighting at soccer games between the city's traditional and bitter rivals, Rangers and Celtic.

Celtic means from a Roman Catholic area where many Irish immigrants live. Rangers fans are mostly Protestant. Supporters of both clubs frequently appear in court following brawls which break out at matches when the soccer sometimes is almost obscured by flying bottles and fists.

The magistrates' plan, approved in private Tuesday, is to be sent to the Scottish Football Association, the Scottish League and the two teams.

The plan advises limiting the crowd to 80,000, admission by ticket only; a special gate and section for boys only; increased police supervision; no flag or banner waving; no bottles allowed and a severe appeal to good behavior.

Rangers' home in Ibrox has a capacity of more than 100,000 with a record attendance of 118,000. Celtic Park, home of Glasgow Celtic, has a capacity of 82,000.

Pirates Made 3-Win Comeback In 1925 Series

MILWAUKEE (AP) — If New York Yankees fight back to make this a seven-game world series and then win it, they will match the comeback of the 1925 Pittsburgh Pirates.

The '25 Pirates, managed by Bill McKechnie, were the first series to overcome a 3-1 deficit in a best-of-seven series, beating Washington Senators.

Way back in the very first series in 1903, when it was a best-of-nine competition, Boston Red Sox, trailing 3-1, bounced back to win the next four and defeat the Pirates. Deacon Phillippe pitched five complete games for Pittsburgh in that series.

Only Few Fans To Blame For Incident

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos president Cec Ross said Tuesday the football club "deplores" incidents involving a small group of fans who did some unsportsmanlike activities following last Saturday night's Western Interprovincial Football Union game here.

The game officials were mobbed by a group of 15 to 20 persons following the game in which Eskimos lost 21-15 on Winnipeg Blue Bombers when a penalty to Eskimos cost them a last - minute touchdown.

Officials involved said they have sent a full report to football Commissioner Sydney Halter in Winnipeg and if any action is to be taken it will be up to the commissioner.

Don McCanael and Sid Bercov of Edmonton, Paul Dojack of Regina, George Cullen of Vancouver and Les Ferguson of Calgary were the officials involved.

They were struck and kicked by fans as they left the stadium and an estimated $75 damage was caused to McCanael's car by fans who kicked in a front door while the five men sat in the car.

No complaint has been laid with city police.

Ross made his statement after the matter had been discussed at a regular management meeting.

"Eskimos deplore the incidents involved because by and large, if they took place," he said, the department of Eskimo fans "and are certain that only a small number of the 25,000 fans were centres in Canada."

Lenser Quits Lumber Kings, Eastern League May Operate With Five Clubs This Season

By GEO. H. CARYER
Sports Editor

Wally Lesaer, Pembroke's unpredictable man with the golden arm, has done it again.

The man who came from nowhere to assume the ownership of a senior "A" hockey club, dropped it quicker than he picked it up.

His eleventh-hour action left Pembroke without a hockey club, and the Eastern senior "A" league with the possibility of a five-team loop.

Seven hockey-minded Pembroke businessmen headed by Bill Higginson and Alan Siegel rushed to the rescue. They told an Eastern League meeting in Gananoque last night, the Lumber Kings would operate if they could be assured of player assistance.

Belleville, Kingston, Hull-Ottawa, Cornwall and Cornwall, other clubs said they would help the Kings with players to what extent was possible.

Higginson said he would notify OHA president Lew Cook on Thursday whether he could guarantee an entry.

He said there are only eight players left from last year's team and no one has been picked to replace coach Bucky Buchanan who resigned a few weeks ago.

Higginson said they would offer the position to Bep Guidolin who played with the Belleville McFarlands last season. He added that Lesaer had offered the job to Guidolin previously providing he could bring two signed players with him. Guidolin refused.

Lesaer told president Cook on Tuesday he was dropping the Lumber Kings because of the town council's decision to rescind a promised $2,000 grant.

Higginson said the meeting the other night would raise $5,000 to start the team operating, and a financial campaign was already under way.

If Pembroke decides not to enter a team, the league will meet in Kingston on Monday next to redraft the schedule.

The Pembroke delegation, however, was optimistic. "If we can get the players, we will get the franchise," it stated.

Reports that teams in the NOHA-OHA league were offering salaries said to be above the limit led to the eastern league requesting a joint meeting with the other group to discuss the decision made re salary limits at a meeting held in Kitchener a short time ago.

The meeting went on record as being "violently opposed" to suggested changes in percentages given to the OHA in playoffs.

The league adopted a Belleville-Whitby motion that team rosters be changed to seventeen players plus a sub goalie, one player or two per game basis, this to be reviewed after the joint meeting. The league will go with 25 cards with Belleville being permitted to dress 18 players plus a spare goalie and other clubs 15.

The eastern league will also request the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to present a draft copy of the pro-amateur agreement to the proposed joint meeting.

Riders' Hill Tops Western Points Race

WINNIPEG (CP) — Halfback Jack Hill of Saskatchewan Roughriders continues to pull slowly away from the field in the individual scoring race in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press showed that Hill leads the pack with 78 points on nine touchdowns and 24 converts. Shepard has nine touchdowns and eight singles for his 63 points.

Place-kicking end Joe Mobra of Edmonton Eskimos moved back into third place as he hit for a touchdown, two converts and a single in Saturday's weekend encounter. Mobra has 54 points, five better than teammate Jackie Parker and quarterback Jim Van Pelt of Bombers.

Novice Hunters Must Pass Test Next Year

TORONTO (CP)—Novice hunters will be required to pass a special gun-handling safety test before they apply for their first gun licences next year, the Ontario lands and forests department announced Tuesday.

Only hunters applying for a license for the first time will be required to take the test. Those with licenses now may renew them simply by filling out a form.

The regulation was passed at the request of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters. Special courses in safe gun handling will be given by instructors, drawn mainly from Ontario fish and game clubs.

The department said it expects most taking the test will be just coming to the hunting age, 16.

Bulldogs Claim 'Hot' Prospect

Riseley scored 36 goals and 34 assists with the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Marlboros last year as they won the Memorial Cup. He is currently suspended by Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League for jumping their training camp.

Bulldogs manager-coach Murph Chamberlain said Tuesday any contract with Riseley may have to be approved by the Black Hawks, but he thinks a deal can be worked out.

SPORT IN BRIEF

SAYS OPERATION HELPS

BUFFALO, N.Y. (CP) — Left winger Parker MacDonald of Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League says that now a 1¼-inch piece of broken-off surgical drill has been removed from his shoulder, "I can shoot a lot better." An operation also removed a pair fixed three years ago when he suffered a shoulder separation. The former Toronto Maple Leaf spent two years with New York Rangers before being farmed out to Buffalo.

U.S. TAKES PENTATHLON

BERNE, Switzerland (AP) — A United States team captured the five - nation modern Pentathlon tournament Tuesday by winning the fifth and last event, the cross-country race, with three men in the first five. Top teams' standings: U.S., 14,562; Switzerland, No. 1 team, 14,146; Italy, 13,630; West Germany, 13,562; No. 2, Switzerland 13,181, Austria 11,552.

CUT DUBLINSKY

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Giants of the National Football League asked waivers on reserve quarterback Tom Dublinski Tuesday, making room for a rookie lineman. Dublinski, formerly with Detroit Lions, played for Toronto Argonauts in 1955 — the last time the Big Four club hit the playoffs. He was knocked out of action in a pre-season exhibition game with Vancouver with a severe knee injury and was cut all of the season.

Chihawks Face Old Nemesis In Rangers Opener Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers started the National Hockey League's 1958-59 season tonight. The Hawks are already facing trouble.

The game will be in Chicago and the Hawks will be up against their old nemesis—Ranger goaltender Gump Worsley. Hawks beat the Hawks for three years running until Chicago lost out with Worsley in the nets until a defeat was finally hung on him late last season.

It was the home-ice disasters that accounted for Chicago's dismal record against the blueshirts last year. Rangers, who finished second to Montreal Canadiens in the league race, won nine of their 14 games with the Hawks, lost four and tied one.

Hawks managed to squeeze out of the league cellar last year at the expense of Toronto Maple Leafs but how they'll make out in this 42nd NHL season is anybody's guess. Half their 18-man roster is made up of newcomers, including two former Rangers, Danny Lewicki and Jack Evans.

They've also picked up centre Fred Glass from Toronto and defenceman Dollard St. Laurent from Canadiens.

Missing is Dave Creighton, now assistant coach Toe Blake of the Stanley Cup champion Canadiens reasoned in Montreal Tuesday night that Rangers were better because to lament Creighton's departure.

With their first game three days away, meanwhile, the Leafs were wrestling with a personnel problem. They're overlooked.

Assistant general manager Punch Imlach and coach Billy Reay figure on going with 17 or 18 players for the season opener, they have 22 players in camp but are considering three goaltenders. Likely to be sent to the minors are defencemen Joel Price and Steve Kraftcheck and forwards Rudy Migay and Gary Collins.

Reay figures goaltender Clarence Campbell thinks the teams are better balanced this season. But nobody is predicting that Canadiens, who breezed to the league title and captured the Stanley Cup last season, will have too much trouble unless they run into wholesale and serious injuries.

"I figure there are two teams to beat—Boston and Detroit. I say Boston because the Bruins gave us a battle in the playoffs and Detroit because the Red Wings have plenty of good players. But we five old pros.

"New York looks to be the mystery team of the season with so many rookies."

Thousands Of Motorists Happy To Be 'Tagged'

It's a pleasure—when the tag is green! explained one of the motorists. "That means that "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze has been put in the cooling system of my car. And, of course, everyone knows what that means . . . complete and positive protection all winter long against frost, rust, corrosion, foaming and clogging.

Join the happy thousands of motorists who are enjoying the complete and lasting protection that only "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze with its exclusive magnetic film can give. But make sure your car is tagged with the distinctive Green Tag . . . assurance that your radiator has been filled with "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze.

DISCUSS REALIGNMENT

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, said Tuesday a meeting will be held in Memphis, Oct. 21-22 to discuss possible realignment of baseball clubs in the loops. Included will be presidents of the American Association, International League, Texas League, Southern League and Southern Association, Texas League, South spokesman said.

Atlantic League and Western League. Discussion will centre around whether some clubs can transfer be switched to other leagues, a

Labor Federation Approves Money for Public Relations

TORONTO (CP)—Armed with more money, labor plans to present its case to the Ontario public with more force.

Delegates to the Ontario Federation of Labor's annual convention were told Tuesday that unions can spend their money no better than in telling the public what they are doing—and how.

Murray Cotterill, information director for the United Steelworkers, said many of the OFL member unions have underrated the importance of public relations. Organized labor often had more money than companies to tell its story, but the difference is the employers know how important it is to spend money to influence public opinion."

EXTRA EVY

Federation secretary-treasurer Douglas Hamilton said public relations will be emphasized in management to public sympathy. An added levy bringing it up to more $40,000 a year, will pay for the stepped-up program.

Roger Neelworker official, District 6 director Larry Sefton, charged Sisil Company of Canada with trying to break the union in its strike against Stelco in Hamilton.

He said survival of the union as an effective agent for the workers is at stake.

"It will be more time again before these employers set out to destroy our organization—because that's what they are out to do."

In another speech Mr. Cotterill, OFL accident prevention committee chairman, urged a safety authority with equal representation of employers and unions, along with government officials, to reduce the number of industrial accidents.

APATHETIC ATTITUDE

He criticized unions for an apathetic attitude toward safety standards and for not insisting on safety standards.

The authority would have power to establish basic rules governing safety practices for each section of industry, commerce and other jobs coming under provincial jurisdiction.

In resolutions the federation urged an amendment in the National Housing Act to prohibit the use of public funds by builders who refuse to sell homes on the ground of race, creed or color.

It unanimously approved a motion urging every affiliated union in Ontario in its next contract demands a reduction of the work week "without loss of take-home pay, with the 30-hour week as an early result.

SEEK FLU SHOTS

TORONTO (CP)—The United Electrical Workers Union has proposed to the 70 companies with which it has contracts that they buy Asian flu vaccine for their employees and pay doctors to administer it.

LAUNCH DRYDOCK

BLEXEN, Germany (AP)—The world's largest floating drydock, which can lift up to 80,000 tons, was launched here Thursday. More than 12,000 persons watched the 761-foot steel colossus glide into the Weser River. It was built for the Deutsche Werft Shipyard of Hamburg.

RICH DISCOVERY

LONDON (AP)—The Russians today said they are going to be able to export diamonds following a rich discovery north of the Arctic Circle. Moscow radio said the young diamond industry in Yakutia, Siberia, has been extended northward with the discovery of a rich kimberlite "pipe" which has been named Udachnaya (Russian for lucky).

Spooks Snapped

13 ghosts in medieval robes have shown up on a colour snap taken of the deserted altar in Winchester Cathedral, England. The strange figures are standing and kneeling before the altar, dressed in the styles of the Plantagenet and Tudor periods. One figure has a beard like a Biblical patriarch. The altar steps are clearly visible through the figures. Experts say it is definitely not a double-exposure. A supernatural phenomenon? Or a hoax? Whatever it is, it's interesting like all the hundreds of human interest items appearing in the Toronto Star. You get more of everything in the Toronto Daily Star. More human interest stories. More columns of news, more features and fat, fat more pictures. Penny for penny, page for page, you get Canada's best newspaper value when you get the Toronto Daily Star.

WI Holds Enjoyable Sept. Meet

REDNERSVILLE — The September meeting of Redneresville (W.I. was held in Centre hall on Thursday evening with Mrs. Douglas Redner as hostess. Mrs. Harmon Montgomery presided, and opened the meeting.

An invitation was received from Gilbert's Mills W.I. to attend their 50th anniversary on October 30th. The collection was taken.

The conveners Mrs. Douglas Redner and Mrs. Hubert Townsend for historical research and current events, took charge of the program, with Mrs. Townsend as leader. Several readings were given. Mrs. MacKay and Mrs. Elmer Young were the leaders for geography contest with Mrs. MacKay's side as the winners. They received a prize. The lucky plate prize went to Mrs. Hugh Wrenn.

An old-fashioned lunch was served. A vote of thanks was extended to program conveners and lunch committee for the lovely evening.

HOUSES ARRANGED FOR MORE SUNSHINE

In Munich, Germany, architects came up with this idea of staggering houses for a maximum of light and view. Each house has a garage and no house interferes with its neighbors in admitting sunlight through the windows.

It's Thanksgiving...time to get together

Thanksgiving is a time of real family reunion—a time of good food and good fellowship. It's a time to gather with friends and family in a setting that's warm with the good memories of the Thanksgivings that have passed, and bright with the promise of those that lie ahead.

Start with the best, then you can't go wrong. Add a generous measure of fun and you've got the right ingredients for a happy occasion. Pour generously, put it right. That's the proven way and almost everybody's doctor. Dr. Miles Nervine is used for misery the world over. Contains no habit-forming drugs. Helps you relax, sleep, eat normally, feel and look better. Carefully and thoroughly tested. Dr. Miles Nervine is dependable. You can be yourself here quickly. Effective, drive-in-the-country-thing little dosage. Get a package at your druggist.

After normal drowsiness by adding its basic and sticking characteristics, pour in 1 1/2 oz. Molson's Export Ale. Do not stir. Let the ale settle and you'll see a perfect layering effect. Now you're ready to eat. Your appetite is now at its peak.

Press down the wing with the back and make a cut just above joint to body from the outside. Repeat on the other side. Remove the wing completely from the body and carcass.

Slice the breast with downward, diagonal strokes, starting each cut a little higher than the one before it. Slice the thigh completely removed and a slice down into the joint for removal of the drumstick.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT. — Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones and Mr. and Mrs. George Bilham and Larry were Saturday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bowers and family, of Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Curtis were Saturday evening visitors of their daughter, Mrs. Robert Pearson, Mr. Pearson and Linda, of Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Mallory have returned home after spending the past month with relatives in Vancouver and other points in Western Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Reddick and children, of Belleville, were tea-hour guests of the Acker family, last Sunday.

Congratulations and best wishes to Mr. Raymond Masse and Miss Lois Wright, who were married in the Alliance Tabernacle, Belleville, with a reception following at Holloway Street United Church.

Master Brian Bowers spent the weekend with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bowers, while his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn Bowers, are holidaying in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Curtis entertained last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pearson and Linda, of Trenton, and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Trice, Stephen and Cathy, of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Scott, of Belleville, were last Sunday afternoon callers of Mrs. Sarah Acker.

White's Church will hold their fall bazaar on Wednesday, November 6th. All members are requested to make preparations for this event.

Church and Sunday School services were held at White's Church on Sunday morning with the Rev. Roy Rickard, B.A., preaching on the topic, "We Are Members One of Another," from Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians. "This being World Wide Communion, 51 countries were observing this rite which was first practiced by Jesus and His disciples. All churches were united by the spirit of Jesus," he said.

FEAR ☠ DROWNED
FATEGARH, India (Reuters)—Sixty people are feared to have drowned in the flooded Ramganga River Sunday when a boat carrying them capsized after striking a submerged tree trunk.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

Thursday, October 9

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — If you do not plan your time intelligently, you will be unable to combine business and social duties properly. Be sure to P.M. that you attend to financial matters of moment, especially those concerning employees or fellow workers.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Be careful in dealings at home today or you could jeopardize much harmony as well as real estate interests. Be resourceful and considerate. P. M. take a little trip to nice spot with friends and have a delightful evening of fun.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — It would be unwise to shuttle to and out of job today to do some shopping or taking care of other errands. Schedule time properly and finish work that has to be done. P. M. attend to cleaning, clothing, other chores at home efficiently.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — If you do not use will power, a forceful friend could cause you to spend extravagantly at this time. P. M. gives a fine opportunity to dash out with some intimate friends for a truly enjoyable evening. Take it.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Take no chances with any influential or powerful persons today. Stick to all rules and laws which apply to you. P. M. family ideas come forth with excellent ideas that will help you to get a far greater income and added prestige.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — A private worry could get out of hand in the way of your utilizing information or ideas that are at fingertips from new sources. Get hold of yourself and see those advisers and experts instead, put affairs in operation. Shop, too.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Pal or newcomer with too big an ego, today vexes you with small criticisms that are hardly worth noticing. Steer clear of them quickly. P. M. sends some information comes your way that is invaluable.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — Take care you do not get embroiled in some serious quibbling between higher ups, associates, authorities. Be with those who admire your respect and thus you get much accomplished, plus achieving your desires.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Rather than grumble over regular chores that must be attended to, finish the most important quickly, then off to something of real magnitude and merit that appeals. P. M. excellent for meeting with influential individual.

Capricorn (Dec. 24 to Jan. 20) — You can enjoy yourself as you please today, but it is not necessary to be extravagant. Inexpensive pleasures are often the best. Later in the day join with a pal and go in search of vital information.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Avoid family tie who does not feel well and would start a most provoking argument. Be gay and thwart each thrust with a joke or a smile. Tonight an important person comes along who answers all your needs and solves problems.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Get up-to-do your work at office or home while taking time also to chicken with friends and neighbors is not wise. Stick to important labors diligently. P.M.

WORLD MOURNS LOSS OF POPE OF PEACE

In this photo taken a few weeks before his fatal illness, Pope Pius XII wears the triple tiara while being borne in the genital chair in Rome. A new Pope will soon be chosen by the College of Cardinals to lead the world's 450,000,000 Roman Catholics.

Homage Paid to Gentle Pope By Canadians of All Faiths

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada paid homage today to the man whom was spiritual leader of 7,000,000 of its population.

Political and religious leaders of all faiths expressed tributes to Pope Pius XII, who died at his summer palace at Castel Gandolfo, Italy.

Roman Catholics of Canada, representing 44 per cent of the population, had been much affected by decisions and acts of the Pope during his 19-year reign. In Canada, as elsewhere, a was regarded as among the most worthy men ever to occupy the Holy See.

Word of the pontiff's death reached Canada about 11 p.m. EDT Wednesday. Radio and television stations interrupted programs to give the news. And church bells pealed in city and village to spread the word in mournful, monotonous gongs.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker was among the first of top brass to ate, saying "all Canadians would want to join with me at this time in expressions of regret at the passing of His Holiness. . . . The death of this gentle and scholarious man of peace removes from the world one who had the respect of millions."

Special prayers and services were ordered in thousands of churches and chapels.

The influence of Pope Pius in Canada was great. He named both Canadian cardinals, 17 of the Canadian church's present 19 archbishops, and 24 of its 61 bishops.

James Cardinal McGuigan of Toronto said: "We shall all miss this great figure. . . . Those who met him and knew him intimately will miss something personal that radiated from a meeting of hearts."

Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal issued no statement, but spent the night in prayers and mourning. Today he and Cardinal McGuigan were preparing to fly to Vatican City for the funeral.

They will attend the conclave of the College of Cardinals between 15 and 18 days after the Pope's death to elect the next pontiff.

From leaders of other churches came sympathetic tributes.

Rt. Rev. J. Angus MacQueen, moderator of the United Church, expressed "sincere sympathy . . . to our Christian brethren of the Roman Catholic Church. Our prayers will join with theirs that God will grant their church

Pope Literally Worked Self to Death In Opinion of Officials of Vatican

By EUGENE LEVIN

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Pope Pius XII will return in death Friday to his native Rome, to lie in state at the Vatican and be buried in St. Peter's Basilica.

His death early today, though anticipated for hours, sent a wave of shock around the world and brought widespread expressions of tribute from political and church leaders outside the Iron Curtain.

He was 82 and had served 19 years as the supreme leader of the Roman Catholic Church.

He was the first Roman-born Pope since 1721, and Friday will be sent to seek a successor to a Pope who gave the church one of its most brilliant leaderships.

Pius suffered a stroke on Monday and another on Wednesday.

For hours he hovered in death's agony. Then, while millions around the world prayed, he died at 3.52 a.m. (10.52 p.m. EDT) Wednesday in the papal summer residence in this hill town 18 miles south of Rome.

Eugenio Pacelli, the 261st Pope, was the leader of the world's 500,000,000 Roman Catholics in one of the most burdensome history spans for the office.

He wanted to be known as the "Pope of Peace" but when he was elected March 2, 1939, the world already was on the eve of the Second World War. Ahead were the years of onslaught against religion by Communism.

Already all the 55 cardinals who are able were preparing for the nine days of ritualistic mourning, the funeral and the grand conclave that will elect the next pontiff.

The cardinals, princes of the church, will make the selection. Their choice most likely will be one of their number, though it could be a prelate and not a cardinal.

Pius was the first pope to die in his papal summer residence and the first in 200 years to die outside Rome. Changes in form are necessary in the traditional ritual. But Pius already had provided for that contingency in a regulation issued in 1945 stating that if a pope died outside Rome he should be returned to Vatican City in dignity and decorum.

NATIONAL MOURNING

The Italian government ordered three days of national mourning. Italian flags were flown at half-staff and theatres and amusement places were closed.

From Montecarlo to Rome, the body will be taken first to the Vatican for a John Lateran Pope's own titular church in his capacity as Bishop of Rome. Then it will be removed in solemn procession to the Sistine Chapel, where it will lie in state for three days, guarded by Swiss Guards at the end—presumably next Friday, Oct. 17—of the entombment in the grottos of St. Peter's, in a place of the Pope's own choosing. Pius XII had asked to lie alongside Pius X, whom he canonized as a saint in 1954.

The cardinals at their meeting today also vowed to arrange for the "interregnum" — the period between death of a Pope and the election of a new one. During this period the direction of emergency affairs of the church will be in the hands of Cardinal Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, 76-year-old dean of the College of Cardinals.

CONCLAVE SOON

The secret conclave for choosing a new pope is to be held as soon as possible after 15 days following the death of a pontiff.

There are 55 living cardinals. But only a full complement of 70.

For the last 400 years an Italian always has been elected. For the first time in 600 years Italians are a minority on the College of Cardinals, but most church circles expect they will elect an Italian again.

Most prominently mentioned of non-Italians is Gregory Peter Agagianian, Russian-born patriarch of Armenia. Pius XII called him to the Vatican last June to direct the church's world-wide missionary activities. Another is Samuel Cardinal Stritch, Archbishop of Chicago and Apostolic Delegate to Japan.

U.S. Navy Escorts Stopped, Say Next Move up to Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The next move toward ending the Formosa crisis is up to Communist China, U.S. officials said today.

They speculated that it may be made Friday when Chinese Ambassador Wang Ping-nan meets again with U.S. envoy Jacob Beam at Warsaw.

It will be their first meeting since last Saturday—the day before China announced unexpectedly that it was halting for one week its artillery bombardment of the Formosa Strait area.

State Department authorities said they believe the United States has done about everything possible to encourage the Chinese Reds to extend their cease-fire into an indefinite, or perhaps permanent, suspension of hostilities.

U.S. ACTS

The U.S. made its move Wednesday with an announcement that since the Communists have stopped attacking Nationalist-held Quemoy Island, the U.S. has halted its warship escorts of Nationalist supply vessels. Suspension of escort operation was one of the conditions Communists first mentioned during the temporary truce.

The U.S. department coupled its announcement with a warning, saying: "If the Chinese Communists attack Quemoy again, then, under the order, United States naval forces will be resumed forthwith to the extent necessary."

The Chinese Nationalists for their part were holding off their fighter planes from attacking mainland positions.

State Secretary Dulles and his chief adviser on Far Eastern policy were reported to have decided to follow a wait-and-see policy for the next day or so.

Eight Provinces To Appeal Any Rate Increases

OTTAWA (CP) — Eight provincial governments were to serve notice today on the federal cabinet they will appeal any new freight rate increase granted the railways.

At the same time they planned to ask the board of transport commissioners to throw out an application by the railways for a 15-per-cent freight rate increase. It would ask the board to discontinue hearings that began here today.

It was learned that legal counsel for the provinces—all except Quebec and Newfoundland—at these decisions at a get-together Wednesday night.

Their immediate plea to the cabinet, it was understood, would be making on the ground that the board has no jurisdiction to consider a freight rate increase on the basis of future increases in wage costs.

WAGE DEMANDS

The railways' application came after they said they could neither negotiate nor conciliate the board's recommendation of a 16-cents-an-hour wage boost for non-operating employees. They also explored additional sources of revenue. They say the 15-per-cent freight increase would cover the proposed wage boost, yielding about $60,000,000 a year.

Meanwhile the 130,000 non-ops, who can't export again travelling in an armed sympathetic strike.

The board heard objections to the increase Wednesday from groups including the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and the Interprovincial Farm Union Council.

WOULD EXAMINE BATE

From the CPR, the commissioners heard a suggestion that the low Crowsnest Pass freight rates on export grain travelling in the West should be examined.

The CPR has stated in the past that it would get extra revenue of $60,000,000 a year in new revenue from the 15-per-cent rise if they were at normal levels — the board's earnings would then meet the cost of contract settlements with employees.

But the railways protested that a boost of the size sought by the commission could not be afforded by farmers.

REJECT PERON PLEA

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—A federal court judge ,Wednesday rejected a claim by deposed dictator Juan Peron to be included in the amnesty proclaimed by the government of President Arturo Frondizi. The court ruled that according to Argentine constitutional law, Tyrants are excluded from any right to the amnesty. Peron was ousted by a military coup in 1955.

Italian Named Chamberlain By Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Benedetto Aloisi Cardinal Masella was elected by the College of Cardinals today as papal chamberlain, to administer affairs of the Roman Catholic church until a new pontiff is chosen.

The election was necessary because Pius XII died without appointing a chamberlain, who supervises important duties in the interregnum between the death of one Pope and the election of a successor.

From the Pope's death and until the election functions normally assigned to the chamberlain have been exercised temporarily by Eugene Cardinal Tisserant as dean of the College of Cardinals. Many had expected he would be elected chamberlain.

Seek to Avoid Division in UN On Bomb Tests

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The Western powers worked today to keep the United Nations assembly, for the time being at least, from taking premature action on the issue of nuclear tests.

Under the urging of the United States, representatives of Britain, Canada, France and the U.S. itself conferred Wednesday evening on the formal wording of a resolution for the UN assembly's political committee. The resolution is aimed at heading off an assembly vote which through sharp division might imperil the success of the Big Three Geneva conference scheduled for Oct. 31.

It was not known in advance of today's UN meeting what the specific terms of the Western moves involved, but its general substance was understood to include these points:

1. The committee would become history, hopes for the success of the forthcoming Geneva talks. These are supposed to deal with the ending of nuclear tests by Britain, the U.S. and Russia and further methods to guard against surprise attacks by nuclear weapons.

2. The committee would recommend that the Geneva participants and the UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, should report regularly to the UN the results of their conferences.

3. The committee would put on record its hope that the Geneva talks would serve the way for solving the more difficult issues in the whole disarmament question.

U.S. PRESSURE ALLIES

The very vagueness of these points indicated that the U.S. was pressing its major allies to join with it in a move to keep peace in the UN.

The general assembly's political committee met Wednesday in a non-doctrine session on whether to give the disarmament item priority in its deliberations. Russia is pushing for immediate action calling for an immediate pledge of test suspension, but the U.S. insists that the question of disarmament—including the test issue — should be debated together.

REJECT CHARGES

BELGRADE (AP)—Hungarian charges that Yugoslavia interfered in Hungary's affair during the anti-Soviet revolution in October, 1956, were flatly rejected today by Premier Josip Broz Tito's government.

Hungary's Premier Imre Nagy were formally rejected Wednesday. A spokesman in Budapest first pulsed and denied the fabricated accusations contained in the Hungarian note of last July 31, the official Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported.

Cardinals Will Be Prisoners Until They Elect New Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A wisp of white smoke from a chimney thrust through a window of the Sistine Chapel will tell watching thousands in a few days that a new pope has been elected.

The white smoke will signal the fact the ballots — cast by the conclave of most of the 55 cardinals have given some candidate the necessary majority of two-thirds plus one.

This signalling system is an ancient custom.

To maintain secrecy, it shah long been required that the cardinals' ballots be burned after they are tallied. Many ballots always have been necessary in the past for a decision.

Three centuries ago, an attendant noted the smoke through an open firse, along with that of candles, was smudging paintings in the Sistine Chapel, among them Michaelangelo's Last Judgment.

To remedy that, a small stove was obtained and its chimney thrust out a window. The smoke told the crowd in St. Peter's Square that a ballot had been burned.

Some kindly soul, presumably with consciousness of the cardinals, got the idea of mixing a handful of damp straw with the ballots to produce black smoke in sign that a vote had been inconclusive, and putting dry straw with the ballots to make white smoke when a pope had been chosen.

In this age the Vatican radio may scoop the smoke signals on the news. (At the last election, they were about even). But there

Wheat Sales Prospects Good

LONDON (CP)—Trade Minister Churchill wound up a quick two-day British tour Wednesday with optimism about the prospects of marketing this year's wheat crop.

"In fact," he told reporters, "I think 1958 is going to be a good year for Canada."

Churchill came to England with W. C. McNamara, chief commissioner of the Canadian wheat board, to talk about wheat sales with "our oldest and best customer," and he said he was leaving "very encouraged indeed."

There are indications, he said that Britain which usually takes about 100,000,000 bushels of wheat from Canada annually, will be buying as much, or more, this year. And the prospects in other countries were just as good.

Wintermeyer Says Talk Speculation

TORONTO (CP) — "Liberal Leader Wintermeyer of Ontario today said no one could unveil the Tory platform at this time "because the party hasn't got one."

He said a statement by Julia Lallarsh, president of the Ontario Women's Liberal Association, in which she said she was making public four items in the Liberal platform, was "strictly speculation."

Today Wintermeyer said the party's platform committee had not even studied the possible sale of beer in grocery stores.

In Cathedrals, Churches, Palaces And Hovels Millions Mourn Pope

LONDON (Reuters)—The world greeted the death of Pope Pius XII today in sadness.

Great cathedrals and tiny parish churches organized requiem masses for the dead pontiff as the bells tolled in mourning.

Non-Catholics joined the nearly 500,000,000 Roman Catholics throughout the world in hailing Pius XII as the "pope of peace."

Temporal rulers, statesmen and church leaders of all faiths issued messages of sympathy.

Italy's Prime Minister Amintore Fanfani called for three days of official mourning throughout the nation which harbors the Holy See. The Italian flag was lowered to half staff on all public buildings. Schools, theatres and other public entertainment places were closed.

Queen Elizabeth sent a message expressing "deep sorrow" to the Vatican. President Eisenhower issued a statement saying "the world is poorer for the pontiff's death."

News of the Pope's death was given this morning to the Queen at Balmoral Castle in the Scottish highlands where she is vacationing.

The Queen's message, sent to the British minister in the Vatican said:

"The Queen commands you to convey . . . an expression of the deep sorrow with which Her Majesty and the Duke of Edinburgh have received the news of the death of His Holiness Pope Pius XII.

"This sad event has revived in Her Majesty's mind the memory of her meeting with His Holiness in 1951 and her recollection of his

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—A new Pope may choose to be known by any one of 81 names, all used by one or more of his predecessors.

But the Popes of the last 350 years have chosen their names from 21 of pontifical names to nine and those of the last two centuries to seven.

After his election by the Cardinals of Cardinals, it is probable that the new Pope will choose one of these names: Benedict, Clement, Innocent, Leo or Pius.

In the last century, four Popes have chosen the name Pius and two Leo and one Benedict.

Pius IX, 1846, when announcing his pontifical name to the conclave of 1939, explained that he had chosen it in homage to his predecessor, Pius XI.

Pius IX, Pope, for reasons of modesty, has taken the name of the first of the line of the apostle Peter, although five have called themselves Paul, St. Peter's fellow-martyr and missionary to Rome. The last of these died in 1621.

Fire Department Will Show Films At No. 2 Hall

The Belleville Fire Department will be showing several motion picture films for the benefit of Belleville residents at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening next. These films will be shown at No. 2 Fire Hall on West Moira Street as a part of the fire department's Fire Prevention Week campaign.

The films, most of which are in color, include: "Your Fire Department which shows all the activities of a modern fire department such as receiving alarms, answering calls, training, fire inspection, and station life; 'Rookie Training,' a film showing completely the training of a man from the time he reports on the force until the time he is ready for duty at a fire station; and 'Give Up A Brake,' a color short informing motorists as to what to do when fire apparatus is on the road. These films, some of which have been shown in the local schools, are very much worth seeing.

Chief Vance would like people to note that the fire department maintains a Fire Prevention Bureau all year and that a Belleville resident may call on the fire department any time and ask to have his house inspected for possible fire hazards. The department still has a supply of baby-sitters' emergency cards available for the use either of parents or sitters. A call to the department will assure delivery of these very excellent items.

The fire department will be continuing its instruction program in the Belleville General Hospital this afternoon, and in more of the city and district schools this and next week.

Prints were noticed by road construction crews two weeks earlier leading out of a forest.

Nasty Weather Needed for Good Hunting

"What we need is some real nasty weather," said Bob Bland, co-owner of the Sports Centre, Belleville, when questioned on the duck hunting so far this season.

"They aren't flying," said Bob, a hunter himself. "The weather seems to be a bit too mild and the ducks just do not want to go south. They're just sitting as pleased as can be in the middle of the lakes and marshes.

The sad truth of the matter is that the fall ducks just have not got underway yet. A spot of hail, sleet or just plain awful weather would do the trick.

Don Thomas, owner of Interiors in the city, reports that over 1,000 gun licences have been issued, so the hunters are prepared.

The novice hunter will find it a bit difficult to get his duck as it takes a great deal of experience and a quick sure aim to get a duck when they are on migrating.

So fall will call the duck hunting season so far this year looks like a good one for the ducks and a bad one for the hunters. But cheer up boys things are bound to get better.

45 Teachers In Attendance At Conference

The first mathematics conference of the secondary school teachers of this district was held in Quinte Secondary School on Tuesday evening. About 45 teachers attended from Belleville Collegiate Institute & Vocational School, Quinte Secondary School, Albert College, St. Michael's H.S. and Trenton, Napanee, Brighton, Norwood, Tweed, Stirling and Deseronto High Schools.

After dinner in the Quinte cafeteria, Dr. R. L. Jeffrey of Queen's gave the main address. Dr. Jeffrey had this past summer, attended three educational congresses in mathematics and science in Scotland and reported at this conference their findings at the secondary school level. This was an excellent talk and very informative. Inspectors Kinlin and Shiels, B.C.I.V.S., and a third Inspector, Mr. Jeffrey for grades 11, 12 and 13.

The arrangements for this first conference were made chiefly by Miss Elizabeth Stewart, head of the mathematics department of Quinte Secondary School and the chairman was Dr. Ross Stirling, vice-principal of the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School.

In order that further conferences might be held throughout the year, a permanent executive was elected: Mr. Osborne, Napanee, chairman; Dr. McMullen, Albert College, vice-chairman; Miss H. McLaren, B.C.I.&V.S., secretary; Mr. Stirling, B.C.I.& V.S. and Mr. Tighelaar, Prince Edward School, Picton as committee members.

Two Charges Will Be Laid Against Driver

Charges of careless driving and of leaving the scene of an accident will be laid against an alleged hit-and-run driver who early last night sideswiped another vehicle on Dundas Street and then drove away without stopping.

Donald Morrison, R. R. 1, Corbyville was eastbound when the westbound vehicle sideswiped his car and then drove away.

Police later found the wanted car near the upper bridge and police are making frequent investigation revealed Mr. Switzer to have been the driver.

Sabre Production At Canadair Cancelled

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadair Limited has announced termination of a nine-year program of Canadian production with delivery at the last of 1,815 Sabre jet fighters moving off the assembly line.

A company spokesman said production is continuing of the CL-28, an observation airplane, and that three other types of aircraft will be rolling out next year.

The second is the Canadair 540, a two - engine, medium - range executive aircraft powered by Rolls-Royce Dart engines.

Production will continue until January of the TL-33, an advanced jet trainer.

The company continues operation of its nuclear division for scientific and research purposes.

REVIEW SABRE SALES

A statement recalling the nine-year history of the Sabre fighting craft, the company said the value of Canadian Sabres totalled almost $560,000,000, including exports of planes and parts.

Employment involved 100,000 - 000 man-hours, 56,000,000 of them at Canadair and the rest at plants of Canadian suppliers and sub - contractors. Engineering work amounted to more than 1,000,000 man-hours.

Salaries and wages amounted to $190,000,000, of which $100,000,000 went to Canadair personnel.

The company said that of the 1,815 Sabres built at Montreal, more than 1,50 now are flying in the air forces of nine nations, Canada, Germany, the Union of South Africa and Colombia bought them directly from Canada. The United States, Greece, Italy, Turkey and Yugoslavia obtained them through inter-governmental arrangements.

Fairgoers Turn Deaf Ear to Girl's Story

Program directors at Madoc Fair proved something or other yesterday.

They proved that a fair-going crowd can turn a deaf ear to the sobs of a seven-year-old girl, who has lost her ice cream cone in the crowd.

It was only a gimmick on the part of the fair program directors but the ignorance of mid-way-goers to buy the little girl another cone for the $2 $5, and earned the little girl a $5 bill for her efforts.

During the height of the afternoon midway activities the little girl appeared on the crowd of walkers enjoying her big ice cream cone. Suddenly the cone fell to the ground and a passersby who stopped to enquire sobbed out the story of her ice cream and also her money—being gone.

Later on the performance platform the little girl was introduced to the crowd, who were told that the first person offering to buy another ice cream cone would have earned $5.

Volunteer Firemen Issue Still Awaits Clarification

TRENTON — The volunteer fireman issue is still up in the air today. Whether the former volunteers will be accepted by the council as the basis for re-instatement is not known.

A notice hanging on the bulletin board in the fire hall, from the town office, says that the former volunteers can apply for their former positions and their applications will be given the same consideration as those of any other applicants.

Whether this means they will fall under the new regulations of age limits and educaties standing or that they will be taken back on the force on the strength of their experience is not clear. However the letter indicates the men must apply as new men and does not mention anything about "re-instating."

It is understood the former volunteers are asked, to apply separately and if they do will be tried individually at the next meeting of council by the council as a whole and not by the Protection to Persons and Property Committee.

CITIZENS WORRIED

Another question being asked by town citizens is: "What will happen if a major fire breaks out?" Will the former volunteers answer the plea of the mayor and turn out to help? Will the present permanent force of seven men (one of whom is new to firefighting) and be able to handle a fire? If the Air Force and Belleville Fire Department are called can they get here quickly enough to keep the blaze from getting out of control?

Tuesday night the former volunteers met with Mayor Ross Burtt and the mayor asked them to turn out to the next meeting. Acting Chief Ellis a hand if they were needed.

COUNCILLOR EXPLAINS

Remarking on Tuesday night's meeting, Councillor Hilton this morning that his committee felt that because the term had accepted the resignations of the volunteers these volunteers were no longer a body and because of this the committee could not meet with them. He said it would be necessary for the council to do so once the men have been re-hired by the town and are back in an organized body.

He denied that the Mayor's remarks at the meeting that councillors had all been asked to attend the meeting. He said the mayor had called him and told him of the meeting and had said he (Councillor Worrall) and his committee were being extended the courtesy of an invitation to the meeting.

Councillor Hilton also said this morning that he had known nothing of the meeting until Mr. Worrall had told him and he had not been called by anyone else.

Only Answer Appears to Be Subway Under Rail Tracks

TRENTON — Forty trains per day pass the Sidney Street level crossing and now hundreds of motorists at the same crossing it was reported at the last meeting of the town council.

Eric Aldersey, town engineer, told the council he had been at a meeting recently with other persons involved and it was their opinion that the only answer was a subway under the railway tracks.

He said it was estimated this would cost in the vicinity of $200,000 but would be the responsibility of Sidney Industries and the railway area. The crossing is about 400 feet outside the Trenton town limits.

The engineer said the township has been steadily improving the crossing by grading it but it is expected they will follow up on the installation of a subway perhaps within the next year. The crossing has quite a steep grade on each side of the tracks and this tends to help make it a project which could easily be done.

The engineer said it was reported that the installations of signal lights at this time would be "folly" because of the possibilities of the subway going in. Lights would cost about $10,000 and because the railway line there is a double track, gates would also have to be put in use.

Mr. Aldersey reported that the town has placed "danger, RR crossing" signs at the edge of the town limits to warn motorists leaving Trenton of the crossing.

With the town bridge under repair and giving service only to one-way traffic Sidney Street has been used more frequently for persons wishing to use the 401 highway. The street is one of the main arteries to the highway as are Front and Division Streets on the west side of the Trent River.

However the Department of Highways plans to reconstruct Sidney Street as a highway and have it listed as just for that purpose. The main highway link from Trenton to the 401 will apparently be Highway 33 and the streets it now uses through town.

The report was turned over to the Public Works committee and Mayor Ross Burtt commented he would like to see Division Street widened as soon as possible due to it being used as one of the main connecting links to 401 and a part of Highway 33.

Legion Sports Officers Meet

TRENTON — A meeting of all District "F" Legion Sports Officers was held in the Canadian Legion Hall at Hastings on Sunday afternoon, October 5th. District Sports Officer William Bates, of Bowmanville was in the chair for the well attended meeting.

Trenton Branch was represented by First Vice President Horace J. Ketcheson and Branch Sports Officer W. H. "Bill" Milne.

Also in attendance was Zone F-2 Commander Frand "Dude" Hills of Port Hope.

Many contentious problems were resolved and the location of playoffs of various sports at District level established.

In addition to Trenton, branches represented were present from Port Hope, Cobourg, Bowmanville, Hastings, Campbellford, Peterborough, Norwood, Brighton, Bridgenorth, Tweed and Hastings.

Company Trying To Eliminate Plant Odor

TRENTON — Councillor Vagn Lange told the council meeting last Monday night that the Hinde and Dauch Paper Mill of Canada Ltd., have assured him they are doing all they can to eliminate the odor which their plant is expelling.

He said he checked with the management of the plant recently after receiving several complaints from town citizens on the rank smell, and was informed that they are now working on an operation which will eliminate the greatest part of it. The only time an odor will be noted will be when there is a strong north wind and a low ceiling. He told the councillors that the company has asked that this information be published.

Mr. Lange asked the council to give the company a chance to prove this new operation and if it was successful everything would be fine.

The matter was brought up in the council by Councillor Charles Hilton during the report of his committee. He said many complaints have been received concerning it and he felt it was time something should be done about it. He suggested that a committee be named to meet with the company to see if they have any idea what they can do to stop it.

It was after Mr. Hilton's remarks that Councillor Lange made his statement.

The council was also told the chairman of the Board of Health will also be bringing a report up and will have a report for the next meeting of council.

Service Bureau Officer Coming

TRENTON — Word has just been received that Mrs. Edith W. Moyer, the Canadian Legion Dominion Command Service Bureau Officer, of Ottawa, will be in Trenton on Tuesday, Oct. 21.

Mr. Moyer will be in the secretary's office at the Trenton Legion Memorial Hall from 4 to 8 p.m. and from 8 to 10 p.m.

Veterans or their dependents with pension problems, or similar interests, are invited to make an appointment to discuss them with Mr. Moyer.

All those interested should contact the Branch No. 110 Service Bureau Officer, James Thompson at Trenton, EXeter 2-4586, as soon as possible to arrange for an appointment.

It is emphasized that these services are not confined to Legion members only. Any district veterans or any dependents of district veterans, in need of advice or assistance, are invited to phone for appointment.

Liberals Would Have Province Pay All Teachers

RICHMOND HILL, Ont. (CP)— Four main planks in the Ontario Liberal platform for the next provincial election were outlined by Miss Julia LeMarsh, president of the Ontario Woman's Liberal Association at the annual meeting of the York North Woman's Liberal Association Wednesday night.

Miss LeMarsh, who said she will have to bear the wrath of Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer who refused to keep the platform a secret, referred to the Liberal position on education, provincial aid to municipalities, liquor laws and a scheme for profit-sharing.

She said her party proposes that teachers be paid from the provincial treasury. "But though we will pay their salaries, teachers will remain employees of the local school boards and not become civil servants. We hope to eventually remove the burden of the entire cost of education from the municipality."

INCREASE AID

The Ontario Liberals plan to increase bursaries and loans "not only for university students but to all attending higher forms of education," she said.

"Our second goal, though not an immediate one, is to initiate profit-sharing on a province-wide basis. A greater share of Ontario's wealth will provide incentive for workers in mining and industry and in professions leading to a greater quality and higher level of productivity."

The third point is to make a clean sweep of the department of municipal affairs, said Miss LeMarsh. "Never in history has the department been in such a mess. It is geared to the province as it existed 100 years ago."

As a fourth plank, she said Liberals would allow the sale of beer in grocery stores, allow the sale of alcoholic beverages on trains and put an end to individual liquor permits.

Salvation Army Launches Rally At Citadel

Wednesday evening the Middle Ontario district of the Salvation Army held its launching ceremonies for the Fall to Spring evangelica campaign in this area. The rally held at the Salvation Army Belleville Corps building at 256 Pinnacle Street, was highlighted by the presence of Commissioner Wycliffe Booth, Commander of the Army in Canada and Bermuda. The mid-Ontario district, which includes that area between Whitby east to Gananoque and Picton north to Fenelon Falls, has as its theme for the campaign "Win Another". The theme is the inspiration of Salvation Army Brigadier M. Flannigan, who has charge of the Mid-Ontario district.

Another high point of the rally was the announcement by Commissioner Booth that Captain Jean Brown of Tweed was leaving for special training in England preparatory to her being posted to Missionary work in India. Captain Brown, who has been in charge of the Salvation Army work in Tweed, originally comes from Brantford.

Commissioner Booth also spoke about the new Juvenile Home for Boys which the Army will be opening on a 30-acre site at Cobourg near Toronto. It is expected that the home will open by the first of next year, although renovation of existing buildings is presently under way by the Army's personnel and some charges, and will eventually accommodate eighty boys assigned to the Army's care from the juvenile and magistrate's courts in Toronto. Commissioner Booth stated that Canada actually has more cases of juvenile delinquency than the United Kingdom despite the latter having a population almost four times that of Canada's. The Concord home is but a start of the Salvation Army's work to assist juvenile delinquents by providing wholesome surroundings.

The home will be exactly that. Boys living there will be able to attend local schools or continue to work their jobs; the purpose of the home being to provide a healthy environment with guidance and assistance to help the boys become useful citizens, rather than be merely a correctional institution.

Hopes of Early Settlement of Issue Collapse

TORONTO (CP)—Hopes of an early settlement in Toronto's $200,000 construction industry dispute collapsed Wednesday when the striking Cement Masons' Union rejected a "final offer" from the Toronto Builders' Exchange.

The masons said no new offer had been made on shift premiums—a major issue in their walkout, which began Sept. 1.

"We now call the latest offer was final," said the union.

Builders' Exchange negotiators offered no comment on the status of talks with the masons and bricklaying engineers.

Talks with the carpenters' union earlier ran into difficulties when the union accused the exchange of "deliberate perversion of the truth" in reporting that the union had settled non-monetary issues and would place a 25-cent - an - hour offer before its members.

"The carpenters arranged for Friday's meeting only to discuss the majority report of the conciliation board," Alfred Ward of the carpenters' union said. "The meeting was scheduled before we talked to the exchange yesterday."

He warned that construction unions may seriously discuss boycotting future talks until the exchange lifts its lockout which had made 20,000 workmen idle. The lockout began Sept. 26.

Nutting Suggests NATO Political High Command

MONTREAL (CP) — Rt. Hon. Anthony Nutting, former British foreign affairs minister, has warned that the Western powers in trying to preserve narrow national prejudices and alliances have adopted "do-nothing" foreign policies that could prove disastrous.

Addressing the Women's Canadian Club, he called for the formation of a "political and economic high command" within the framework of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to consolidate and direct western policy in the struggle against Russia's political and economic ambitions.

Mr. Nutting also predicted that within 20 years most of the western world including North America will enter a common market arrangement similar to the one being set up in Europe.

He said the West has been too much on the defensive in dealing with the Soviet peace campaign. "You don't win in diplomacy by staying at home and shouting that your adversary doesn't mean what he says in his letters, or even by sending the letters back."

The Russians, he said, are experts in exploiting the propaganda value of letters that are not nearly so skillful at the conference table.

"We should stop writing letters and pin the Russians down" at the conference table.

SECOND LUNAR BID

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The air force plans to make a second attempt to, launch a lunar rocket from Cape Canaveral, Fla. Some time after 4 a.m. EDT Saturday, the Los Angeles Times says in a story attributed to missile industry sources here. The initial moon shot failed after 77 seconds of flight Aug. 17.

High School Activities

The results of the Inter-School Rifle competition for 1958, conducted by the Royal Military College Club of Canada, have just been received. This competition is open to all school cadet corps throughout Canada. This year 201 schools entered the competition. The BCIVI Cadet Rifle Club entered two teams — the first team placed 9th; the second, 73rd.

Other schools in the Eastern Ontario Area that competed were Kingston, placing 22nd; Port Hope, 42; Cornwall, 101; Napanee, 106; and Peterborough, 145.

Two local plowmen are competing at the International Plowing match in Crysler this week. Following the plowing competition on the Mohawk reservation last Saturday Kenneth Clause of QSS and Clare Brant of BCIVS will compete in two competitions.

On Wednesday they will represent the High School District; on Thursday they will compete as the provincial Hastings representatives of the Belleville Fair Board.

Large Number Receive 'Shots' At Health Clinic

Belleville's first combined Well Baby Clinic and Immunization Centre was held yesterday afternoon in Bridge St. United Church and was very well attended by local residents and their children. Approximately fourteen children (have never tried to count children when they are bobbing up and down and dashing in and around a group of chairs?) and five parents, were already in attendance when Dr. Metcalfe, Health, arrived to begin administering the injections.

While Dr. Metcalfe was busy inoculating some thirty-six children and parents in all, Miss Joyce Chisholm, a staff nurse, was busy weighing babies and counselling nine mothers on their children's health. Miss Olga Roman, supervisor of nurses, assisted. All told Helen Herron, another staff nurse, prepared the necessary records and immunization cards and assisted Dr. Metcalfe in the preparation of syringes and vaccines.

The activities of the clinic ran along quite smoothly although a few of the younger set didn't like being touched. All told 27 persons received polio shots, the remainder being immunized against smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, or typhoid fever. The Department of Health staff was well pleased by the good turnout despite threatening weather conditions. It is hoped that future clinics will be as well attended. Of additional interest, Dr. Metcalfe mentioned that starting this evening the Belleville Rifle Association team were to be inoculated preparatory to their departure for Europe. Among other vaccines they will be receiving a special vaccine for several strains of influenza, including Asian flu.

U.K. Trade Commissioner Talks on British Industry

The United Kingdom Trade Commissioner to Ontario, G. Booth, addressed the Purchasing Agents' Association of Eastern Ontario at their monthly dinner meeting at the Quinte Inn here last night.

Mr. Booth, born and educated in Lancashire, England, spoke on British trade, nuclear production and all phases of the manufacturing field.

He outlined the great strides taken by Britain since the war in rebuilding her industry and of the difficulties she had in doing so.

Mr. Booth stressed the fact that the greatest problem after the war was rebuilding the peoples' minds. "The attitude of the British after the war was not a good one," he commented. He added that this problem had been overcome and in the last 10 years Britain had increased her output considerably.

Mr. Booth, who came to Canada as Trade Commissioner in 1955, spoke of Britain's railway problem and how the country had slackened in the last few years. He felt that a better railway system would increase the trade output.

He commented briefly on the roads in Britain and of some of the difficulties the visitor would run into if driving an American or Canadian car with the narrow roads which posed a problem.

FUEL SUPPLY DOWN

He explained that the fuel supply in Britain, although greatly increased in production since the war, is slowly diminishing. But that nuclear power stations production in the country were going great guns.

He told the agents of the large attendance when Dr. Metcalfe, head of the Department of Health, arrived to begin administering the injections.

While Dr. Metcalfe was busy inoculating some thirty-six children and parents in all, Miss Joyce Chisholm, a staff nurse, was busy weighing babies and counselling nine mothers on their children's health. Miss Olga Roman, supervisor of nurses, assisted. CITY HALL COST FIXED

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor Phillip Meadow said Toronto's new city hall will cost $18,000,000, "no more, no less." He said Villa Rotwell, the award-winning Finnish architect will be asked to modify the design to bring costs within the originally estimated figure. But, he said, Toronto is going to stick with the basic design.

REACH AGREEMENT

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Kensall Park school was erased from Teachers' Federation "blue list" Tuesday night when the school board and federation reached agreement on salaries. Teachers working for schools on the "blue list" do not receive federalist support. Under the new agreement teachers at Kensall Park will receive a minimum starting salary of $2,800.

GORDON BOOTH, who spoke to the Purchasing Agents Association for Eastern Ontario, Wednesday evening. Mr. Booth was born and educated in Lancashire, England. During the war he served in Western Europe with the 13th - 18th Royal Hussars and later as a staff officer in India. Entering the British Government Service, Mr. Booth worked on problems of labor deployment and distribution bf industry, later taking part in international tariff negotiations in Geneva. He came to Canada in 1955 as United Kingdom Trade Commissioner in Toronto, where he is concerned with the development of Britain's trade in capital equipment in the Province of Ontario.

HOW MUCH IS TOO MUCH?

Everyone is just so utterly satisfied that the bright boys of advertising are hard put to it to devise new ways of cajoling people into buying.

That's the way Professor John Kenneth Galbraith sees it. Everybody, just everybody, is just so rich that the appetite for consumer goods has become jaded. Nobody wants anything any more.

Well, Harvard economist Galbraith is entitled to his own views. Those views are set forth in his latest book, The Affluent Society. Having diagnosed what he imagines to be the trouble with the economies of prosperous countries like the United States and Canada, Professor Galbraith comes forward with a remedy. Since people no longer want anything, far better that the Government should take their surplus money from them in higher taxes and give them what the Government planners think is best - - whether it be more public parks, more beaches, more socialistic services of one kind and another.

There is nothing really new in the kind of "Papa knows Bestism" preached by economist Galbraith. Ever since the days of the Caesars, government planners have been busy trying to make high taxes more palatable. Prof. Galbraith's only claim to originality lies in his assertion that everyone has enough of everything and that all our wants have been satisfied.

Tell that to the better half who wants a new wardrobe! Tell it to the fellow whose 1952 model car is falling apart and who wants a new model! Tell it to the housewife whose throat chaps like Galbraith encouraging the planners to dip still deeper into everybody's pay envelope.

COOL MAN, COOL

As you have probably noticed, the days are getting shorter and the air is becoming cooler; sure signs that winter is approaching - - if you believe in sure signs. Of course there still exists the possibility of an Indian summer, but soon the average motorist will have to face the fact that his personal pride on the highway will be requiring a seasonal changeover.

The most fascinating preparation in our eyes is that of preparing the cooling system for sub-zero temperatures. There are many such concoctions on the market. They are available in a variety of prices, containers and colors. Blue, red and green appear to be the most popular, perhaps to match the most popular colors of the vehicles on the road or, perhaps, to match milady's new fall hat. We know of an instance where a $17,000 Rolls Royce was delivered to one Texas customer resplendent in a hue to compliment of his wife's accoutrements. Nevertheless, regardless of the color of the antifreeze, it is vital to the vehicle's well-being during the winter months to have it installed before the freezing temperatures arrive.

Now the process of utilizing this fluid is not one of merely draining one's radiator and topping up with the color of your choice. Indeed, one must ascertain through devious means the correct proportion for the particular breed and model of his choice. However, for those who lack this skill, the situation may be simply resolved by entrusting this chore to one's favorite service station attendant. So take heed; a word to the wise . . .

THIS MUST STOP

Ontario Provincial Police have stopped 430,000 of their drivers and have found that 4168 of these were driving while their licences were cancelled. Since the number stopped was approximately a quarter of the province's 1,800,000 licensed drivers, we are forced to conclude that there may be over 1,600 persons with cancelled licences who are still driving. We do not know what proportion of the total number of people who have had their licences cancelled these 1,600 lawbreakers would be, but surely the percentage would be extraordinarily, and dangerously, high.

Something should be done to make the cancellation of a licence stick. Police could spend their time in worse ways that checking on these drivers whose licences are suspended. A compulsory jail sentence, with no option of a fine, might make driving while a licence was under suspension less common.

THE NURSE

By EDGAR A. GUEST

She hides her care beneath a tender smile;
She tells long hours as though it were a joy.
No greater art than this can be developed.

To make a work of beauty well worth while
And hide, 'neath lovely touches, deft and true,
All signs of anxious, weary toil from view.

She wakes from sleep as one who has not slept
To smooth the pillow of her patient's bed;
Her voice conceals her secret thoughts of dread;
She only knows the vigil she has kept
Gives duty by her art is robed in grace,
And something lovely decks the commonplace.

She'd count it failure should her patient guess
That she is worried, overtired and faint
Or hear from her one whisper of complaint.
The true nurse must not show her own distress
In kindly ways and lovely she receives
The weariness her spirit often feels.

She tells as one who does not tell the pain
Does ugly service in a queenly way,
As one who asks but gratitude for pay.
She keeps her post but never seems to tire.
She loves her work, yet such is the art thereof
She makes of it a glorious work of love.

If This Be Sabotage - -

Christian Science Monitor Vice-President Nixon appears to have run a bit hasty in professing his "shock" at the release of certain information from a division of the State Department. The information was that approximately 80 per cent of some 5,000 letters received by the department regarding the Formosan issue objected on one ground or another to sending the islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

Mr. Nixon said Secretary Dulles are correct in saying that the "weight of mail" should not be the final factor in determining foreign policy. Yet it would hardly be in keeping with the traditions of representative government to say that the people have no weight or that the public is not entitled to know on what basis that weight is falling.

It may not always be possible at once to put before the people the whole case for a policy, although Americans heard a broadcast by the President and statements by the Secretary of State. One may feel, as some did after the Roosevelt "quarantine" address, that public response ought to be more forthcoming.

Yet where possibility of major war is involved, surely some significant part of the whole people who would have to fight and die should be kept well convinced of the soundness of the grounds on which it would have to be fought.

The Vice-President may have some reason to fear that certain persons even in the official household are less than enthusiastic about the course being laid down. Yet the information in question was not leaked, it volunteered, but came from an office which has been doing so during more than a decade for factual data on State Department policy.

Such information, the Washington report asserted in other connections, is the property not of an official but of the people. If sports on the trend of mail were given out today when this was favorable to the official point of view, the public might eventually come to suspect that similar such information was made public the reaction must be adverse.

Hoop Craze Aids Business

Baltimore Sun

A couple of months ago a bright young industry firm in California started to market a line of plastic hoops for spinning around the waist.

The inventors and a lot of the public who got into the act too, have sold about 20,000 of the hoops to date, according to the New York Times, have raked in about $1,000,600 commercially, this should mean that every child in this country has a hoop, so the factories are still turning them out at a rate of more than 20,000 a day. Hoop spinning is big business.

Mad fads are always sweeping the country, this is different from most of the juvenile crazes of recent years. Canasta, rope and Lone Ranger masks and so on were pretty static and besides, they were entirely juvenile.

There is evidence that not only children are hoop-spinning but their mothers, too, with the object of slimming.

The hooping business is more like the craze of pre-war days of World War I years, or the yo-yo panic of the 1930's. It may not travel that fast, since once you can spin a hoop, you can spin a hoop and that's about that.

Meanwhile it is contributing its mite to the recovery of the economy and keeping a lot of kids out of mischief.

U.S. Gives Up Sovereignty

Vancouver Sun

Sometimes it's enlightening to look at the grass roots instead of heeding the screaming in high places. It seems that way with the North American Air Defence command at Colorado Springs, U.S.

There has been a lot of sound and fury in Canada's Parliament over the signing of the NORAD pact in Ottawa. It represent a serious loss of Canadian sovereignty. The parliamentary debates have done little more than envelop the clouds around the issue in a bank of fog.

But an article in the current issue of Saturday Night throws a lot of light on the situation as it in fact exists.

It says that both countries and their air forces are always mentioned together. Canada invariably first. Considering the population of the U.S. that is quite something in itself, especially when the relative sizes of the two nations' contributions to NORAD are taken into account.

The article points out that U.S. Lt.-Gen. Earle E. Partridge, the commander, is absent from one-third to half the time. It repeats the theory that in his absence Canada's Air Marshal C. Roy Slemon is actually in charge. Then it caps the case with this quote from a U.S. officer who is aware of the Canadian uproar:

"I don't know as much as I should about Canada and her viewpoint out there. But the way I look at it, our General Partridge is away just about half the time. When he's away, your air marshal is the boss. If he says we're going to go.

"If anybody's going to lose sovereignty on this deal, the chances are fifty-fifty it's going to be us. And we aren't worried."

Now Canadians obviously must be more realistic about the threat to their sovereignty than the people of the U.S. Seemingly the U.S. need be about them, but the fact remains that at Colorado Springs it's a 50-50 deal.

Canada's government could have saved itself a lot of embarrassment if it had told Parliament what NORAD meant - - if it knew what NORAD meant. Maybe, one day, we do know and don't.

If your air marshal says go, we're going to go.

"It's a lovely little diamond - - - and isn't it nice to know you're not engaged to a spendthrift!"

Mrs. May of the city accompanied her. Mr. W. B. Walker is spending a week's run down the east. Mr. Sid Vanderwoort is home on a short visit. Mr. Fred Lingham will leave shortly for Delaware bay, leave shortly for Delagoa Bay, is spending a few holidays at his home in Bloomfield.

Tars Fined For Cursing

Cleveland Plain Dealer

Bosun's mates recruiting for Her Majesty's Navy will find the going slow if word gets around among prospective tars on what has happened aboard the mine sweeper Alert.

Somebody — and we know who it is — has been peddling to the language as well as the brass of the Queen's fleet. The reformers are Capt. Michael Lumby and Chaplain Caradoc Hughes of the Anglo, Fleet, and their hands to gether — we suspect it was the chaplain's idea to go to action and decided to make sea vernacular too expensive.

Now what's the point of being a sailor if you can't swear? It takes all the zest out of the business. And it's picturesque. We never did hold with that grammar who observed that swearing merely indicated a paucity of vocabulary. The dirty work — pardon, the unclean work — is done and now the mariners of the Apollo crew must speak the Queen's English or:

"You said a naughty word. You are sorry for what you have done, so you must pay."

"For mild and slizy swearwords — One penny.

"Outlandish words and words — Twopence.

"The kind that curdles milk — Sixpence."

So reads the sign by the collection box on the mess deck. The chaplain sees that fines are paid, too.

One of these bright salty days there is going to be a mutiny on board because of this — a real word bounty.

Grandad Had To Fun With Hoop

Windsor Star

The present hula hoop fad is healthy; it offers ample opportunity for kids to work off excess energy and the gyrations certainly help to develop coordinated exercise for their muscles.

The kids may think they are quite modern, and they are, as they go through their acrobatics. They probably are not know, however, that their grandparents also had fun with hoops.

The hoops then were of a more primitive sort, taken off a barrel. Lacking that, the tire of a car or buggy would suffice. And it was a great sport for the modern manner.

The game was to get the hoop rolling then, keep it going by tapping it with a stick. It was quite a trick to keep it upright, especially on a rough lane or a path in the park.

It is a queen thing but kids of any generation like to have fun and the simplest of contrivances. It's difficult to imagine any pastime more simple than a hula hoop — though we would not say it is, unless to keep it going revolving around the body.

Ministers Delay Trains

The Times of London

Indiscriminate holding up of trains by "passengers" in the cafe saloons attached in a particular position according to their whims is one of the Pakistan railways' major problems, which are being considered in conference of senior railway officials of Karachi.

According to the North-Western Railway's figures, in June practically all trains, mail and express trains were held up by Ministers who wished to take refreshments, and either at the middle or towards the end of the train. This resulted in loss of time.

Other problems which the conference will consider include: the indiscriminate pulling of alarm signal chains by passengers; and the various fines and penalties imposed on the increase; cause of accidents and measures to avert them; and indiscipline.

Good Guys' Immoral

Brandon Sun

Bernard Shaw once asked whether he considered Hollywood productions immoral. Said he: "Yes, very immoral. In fact Hollywood is leading us back to barbarism. The Hollywood hero is always righting wrongs, always helping the weak and persecuted. He never calls in the policeman or lets his disciple be satisfied to call in the law of law. The Hollywood hero regularly takes the law into his own hands. That is the method of savages. Civilized people go to law."

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

DENTIST SHOULD PROVIDE "CUSTOM JOB" ON PLATES

When questions come to me concerning the teeth, I get to feeling confused. I'm not a dentist. For example, I recently received a question about a dentist's upper plate — it made him gag.

For such problems, I say go back to your dentist. If you had the plate made by some outfit that works on a mass production basis, as all I can say s that mass production is fine for products which you want to conform quality — cars, soap, varnish, baseballs, electric light bulbs, wax. And others.

But if you want a custom job of fitting something, get a custom job. If the dentist isn't the sort to whom you can go back until the ill effects wear off, you started with the wrong dentist. (The same thing applies, of course, to any other profession from which you should expect a "custom" job, including mine: Medicine.)

So we will jump now from the upper plate to an inquiry which reads: "Dear Dr. Molner: I'm having persistent gumboils. I have had one and another forms again in a few days. My dentist medicated and drilled the tooth twice for me, but to no avail. What causes gum boils? And is there any link with rheumatism? — R. H."

In this case, too, I say go back to your dentist. By experience I know that a physician can't always hit on the right solution for an ailment. Neither can a dentist. Either the physician or the dentist hits the right solution, or he doesn't. But, in instances of doubt, and resorts to the most effective remedies when the simple ones fail.

LOCAL TREATMENT FIRST

A gum boil is an abscess, the result of an abscess at the root of a tooth, or a pyorrhea pocket in the gum. Treatment is directed at the root, or the gum, is the logical first step. If that fails, as I understand the problem, sometimes extraction of the bad tooth is necessary. But that is not the first step. First; you try the other measures first, because many times they are adequate.

The teeth and gums are the first part of the body. Nowhere else does a bony substance (like a tooth) come to the surface. A tooth can become "ill" and there are many troubles in the flesh (the gums) in a manner that occurs nowhere else.

That's why we have dentists to care for the teeth and gums with the specialized skill and understanding that are needed.

Gum boil is a sign that somewhere below the surface there is infected area, and the exact nature from that infection works itself to the surface. When gumboils recur, it is that the original abcess inside (at the tooth or the gum) has not drained completely.

So keep your dentist posted. If you don't know everything on the first try, he wouldn't be human. Just stick with him, and I have every confidence that he'll solve the difficulty. Believe me, there are plenty of times when I expect the first treatment to work, but it doesn't. Then I get second, added conclusions I can from the first; and the second, or subsequent step brings the desired results.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What do you think of taking a dose of salts for days to clean out the system? — J.E."

My opinion? I'll say it's a good idea, so long as assuming that your weight is normal, or nearly normal. Then it is a fine idea. It's a common idea — but makes about as much sense as to take aspirin every day or two ago, when bloodletting, or bleeding, or leeching, was considered a good idea every day we know all it does is weaken a person.

Note to Mrs. J.: Neither I nor anyone else can tell when a baby's urinary tract, including poor hearing, will "run out." Any such fault in the urinary tract generally runs in families, as possessors of the trait marry people who don't have it. But if "like marries like" the trait will become worse.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The other day I saw a crowd quickly gathered on the street, and I hurried over to see what the excitement was. I could hear chuckles and laughter coming from the centre, and when I got to some of the taller ones on the fringes of the crowd, saw that they were smiling delightedly. But before I could get anyone to tell me what was going on, the crowd broke up as suddenly as it had gathered, and everyone went on his happy way.

I never did find out what went on, but I overtook two or three and walked beside them, enquiring eagerly of them. But they just smiled and said:

"Aw, it was nothing."

Nothing!

Some years ago, the Packsack presented the aluminum industry with the idea that the world, with a free idea. Normally, they would have had to pay thousands of dollars and a bonus to whichever engineer in their employ came up with it, but I gave it away to them.

What the world needs is a little more pure foolishness, more of light, strong aluminum, and small and compact enough to fold up into the pocket of short mess.

Thus, when those things, dozens of which could carry, attract us short men, we can whip out our ladders, and no matter how tiny, due to our short legs, we arrive on the scene, we will be able to find out what is cooking.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GESTURES AND RESULTS

"He found that it was easy to make a bright speech, but difficult to abide by his results," wrote Mr. Somerset Maugham of Winston Churchill and Rumina Sforgi. "The man referred to is the central character and expresses views held up by Ministers who wished to make representations either at the middle or towards the end of the train. This resulted in loss of delay.

Other problems which the conference will consider include: the indiscriminate pulling of alarm signal chains by passengers; and the various fines and penalties imposed on the increase; cause of accidents and measures to avert them; and indiscipline.

But the gesture was yesterday and has come today, and perhaps last a thousand more to-morrows. We are not done with them. The gesture was grand and exciting, but how small and how dull and boring. We have committed ourselves to hard work, prolonged study, or grave responsibility. Now we have to do the job for which we have committed ourselves.

Here is where we have the real heroism of not in making heroic gestures, but in carrying out their results. Here is what may call the real courage and determination.

Pray for strength, not for the great moment, but for your everyday need.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

AN AIM IN LIFE

It is essential for each one of us in life to have an aim. Many of these aims may come to us by various influences and circumstances, or, from time to time, but the one outstanding aim is the one which all our desires and urges should centre. We should have in mind but one. It is better to have aimed and last than never to have aimed at all.

I love to quote from the writings of Robert Louis Stevenson for his thoughts are so buoyant and fresh, as though just touched by the morning dew! He said: "An aim in life is the only fortune worth the finding; and it is not to be found in foreign lands, but in the heart itself."

Here's a poem I came across fifty years ago, and committed to memory — Author Unknown:

I cast his net and drew it empty to the shore.

He took the diver's plunge into the Sea,

But thence within his hands no precious pearls he bore.

The arrow but missed his aim.

And slept at last beneath a solemn stone, with no achievement-record carved above his name.

He called it failure, but as for myself I dare not use the word.

Not "hast thou won, but only "hast thou strived."

The Aim is everything. If I keep it cold within our heart, and never waver, but keep pressing toward the mark before me, I'm not a failure.

Curling Club Women Meet To Plan Season

The executive of the Ladies' section of the Quinte Curling Club held its first meeting of the 1958-1959 curling season at the home of their president, Mrs. Mary Colling, on Monday afternoon. Plans were made to start the season with a Curling Stone Tea, sometime during November. Any woman in the Quinte district would be most welcome to attend and to tour the Curling Club rooms and see an actual game in progress which will be arranged for by the games committee.

Members of the Madoc Calf Club have eyes only for their calves with members being judged on their year's work. Separate competitions were held for showmanship, the judges as they are placed for showmanship ability and Inter-club competition determined teams to go in the Junior Farmer events staged at Madoc Fair. Junior events included competitions in dairy and beef to Ottawa Winter Fair.

show were Keith Thompson, Sandra Wood and Jack White, while in the Madoc Calf Club, Ralph Franks, Elizabeth Sager and Robert Sager placed in that order.

GIRL TOP SHOWMAN

Top showman in the Madoc club was Elizabeth Sager with brother Robert coming second. In the beef club Sandra Wood was top showman with Keith Thompson second.

The junior show also included an Inter - Club Calf club show, with four of the five teams competing winning the right to contest at the Ottawa Winter Fair.

Belleville Calf Club, comprised of Ron Hamilton, Grant Hancock and Bill Vermilyea, won the inter - club competition with Tweed, Madoc, Stirling and Marmora finishing in that order. The first four clubs will go on to Ottawa to compete at the big winter fair.

Also going to Ottawa will be the Beef club team of Keith Thompson, Ralph Detlor and Wayne Hatley.

Champion showman of the Inter - club competition was Robert Sager of the Madoc Calf Club with Bill Vermilyea being reserve champion. Robert wins the Wonnacott Trophy, emblematic of county honors in calf club showmanship.

The cheese entry at the fair was down from other years, but the space in the exhibit hall was taken up with junior farmer garden exhibits.

The big midway with its variety of rides, concessions and eating booths was the focal point for the attention of the younger generation and the ferris wheels and other rides did a land office business throughout the afternoon.

The agricultural building had its usual fine display of farm and garden products. Madoc district school children displayed their best classroom work and area housewives brought out the best samples of kitchen baking artistry.

Fine Exhibits, Variety Show And Judging Contests Help To Make Madoc Fair Success

Spasmodic showers dampened the ground at Madoc Fair yesterday afternoon but it failed to dampen the spirits of the, big fair - minded crowd, which attended the annual fall classic at the "Hub of Hastings county".

The occasional brief showers drove fairgoers to shelter, but with the passing of the rain they were back watching the grandstand show, the horse races, cattle judging and Junior Farmer events.

Fair officials said the crowd, while falling to break any records, was nearly up to par with the customary attendance.

Fair president Philo Harris welcomed people to the fair and introduced Hastings County Warden Lloyd Price, MLA for Hastings East, who officially opened the fair. Madoc township reeve Earl Sager extended greetings.

The official opening of the fair, followed by the playing of "O Canada" by the Madoc Municipal Band, signalled the commencement of the grandstand program which captured the attention of a big percentage of the fairgoers throughout the afternoon.

In keeping with the times, three young girls staged a hula hoop demonstration. Program committee chairman Will Forrester explained that it was a demonstration, not a contest. "Hula hoop contests take all afternoon and we haven't got the time," he said.

The usual variety program of ladies' nail driving, step dancing, old time fiddling and log sawing, was run off under the capable direction of Tommy Mason as master of ceremonies.

Professional entertainment was provided by a team of artists including Al Harvey of radio fame, tap dancer Miss Audrey Mitchell and magician Jack Bateman.

The livestock show at the Madoc fair was highlighted by the "Black and White Day" show with 59 head of Ayrshire cattle being exhibited by T. D. Creighton of Bath; Ontario School for the Deaf at Belleville; Elmer Wood, Crookston; Gladwin Clement of Bath; Ross Ketcheson, Moira, and M. A. Parks & Son, of Belleville.

The show was under the direction of the Central Ontario Ayrshire Breeders' Association.

There were also heavy entries of Holsteins and Jerseys in dairy cattle, while in beef breeds Polled Angus, Shorthorns and Herefords were shown.

The horse show at the fair was right up to its usual standard with heavy entries in both light and heavy horse classes. The horse judging took up most of the afternoon in the infield and was climaxed by the usual crowd attracting horse-drawing contest.

Mr., Mrs. Lott Mark 51st Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John Lott, 97 Donald St., observed their 51st wedding anniversary Wednesday.

They celebrated the occasion quietly at their home where friends dropped in to extend congratulations to the "bride and groom" of 51 years. A lovely dinner was also enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Lott received many lovely gifts, among them a beautiful plant of white mums from Mr. and Mrs. Art Brown, and numerous cards from friends and relatives.

Early Fall Settings For Many Pretty Weddings

Pictured here in a car immediately following their recent marriage in St. John's Church, Moneymore, are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Henry McCaffery. The bride is the former Eleanor June Coulter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coulter, Roslin, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William McCaffery of Corbyville.

McCAFFERY — COULTER

A lovely autumn wedding was solemnized September 27 in St. John's Church, Moneymore, when Miss Eleanor June Coulter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coulter, Roslin, Ont., became the bride of Arthur Henry McCaffery, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McCaffery, of Corbyville, Ont. Rev. Dalton Woodward, of Roslin, performed the ceremony.

Vases of white gladioli adorned the altar and baskets of autumn flowers decorated the chancel. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Wedding music was played by the church organist, Mrs. Earl Alexander, while the choir sang the hymn "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Little Helpers Hold Harvest Service Sunday

Christ Church, Belleville, was decorated with fruit, flowers and vegetables on Sunday afternoon when the harvest thanksgiving service of the Little Helpers.

Secretary Mrs. A. J. Swain and assistant, Mrs. C. Reid, welcomed the children, their parents and friends.

was opened by singing the hymn "Jesus Loves Me," and the reading of the Every-third Psalm. Rev. Everett Smith read the lesson from the Book of Deuteronomy 10, 13-16.

Archdeacon J. G. Creegan gave an interesting talk to the children on how the fruit and vegetables start from the ground that God gave people and how all should be grateful for them. Also he children then took their offering to the baskets at the chancel steps, assisted by the girls of the G.A.

The hymn, "All Things Bright and Beautiful" was sung during the offering.

Charles Churchill, Judy Sanford, Brenda Cope and Rodger Dale carried the baskets to the dedicatory. After the offering was taken it was dedicated for the service by Rev. G. Smith.

Following the singing of the hymn, "Loving Shepherd of Thy Sheep," Mr. Smith closed the service with the blessing.

On leaving the church each child was given a portrait picture of Jesus and the story of the origin of the Little Helpers. These were distributed by the ladies of the Evening Branch of the W.A.

Organ music was provided by Mr. Jonathan Withers and Mr. Orval Thomas ran the slides for the hymns.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP. . . INTRODUCTION HINT TO GIRLS

Girls, if you are engaged to the man you are introducing, have the courtesy and grace to speak of him as your "fiancee" — not as your "boy friend." For example: "Mrs. Robinson, this is my fiance, Bob Blake." If he is just a friend, mention his name only: "Mrs. Robinson, Tom Davidson." On no introduction-occasion should you use the term "boy friend."

WHEN SHE DRIVES WITH A COUPLE TO VISIT OUT-OF-TOWN COUPLE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been invited to spend a weekend out of town with a couple whom I know very well. I am driving up with a couple as I know this out-of-town couple very well. A few questions have arisen in my mind as to what is expected of me financially in regard to the couple I'm going up with.

(1) Since we three plan to stay at a hotel, should I be billed directly, or should I pay the fellow I'm going to be driving with?

(2) When driving back on Sunday afternoon, should I suggest having dinner at my expense?

(3) Is a thank-you letter enough to show my appreciation? Or is it proper for us to give the couple a gift? If so, should we bring it with us, or send it after our return home? — Reader

(1) When the hotel accommodations are reserved, make it clear that your accommodations are to be reserved in your name, and when you register ask the desk-clerk to have the bill for your accommodations made out in your name. This direct-billing is more practical.

(2) Since doubtless you will not be sharing the driving-costs, gas and so forth, it would, I think, be a gracious and generous gesture for you to say, "I'd very much like to be hostess at dinner when we decide we're hungry. Please make me happy by being my guests. Let's keep our eyes open to find an attractive place."

(3) You should each write a thank-you note to the couple, even if you didn't stay at their home: thank them for their hospitality in general, and mention special features of their entertainment, a luncheon or late-afternoon party or dinner given for you three, the delight of meeting some friends of theirs, their charming home, and so forth. If you wish to (and I think you should), either take them a gift, or send one when you return home.

BEST TO SEND INVITATIONS TO ALL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm to be married soon, and am planning to send out about 300 invitations to the church ceremony. The reception is to be a small one, will include only about 125 people — mainly due to the fact that most of my good friends live out of town and therefore will not be able to attend. Is it proper to send reception invitations to those you know won't be able to attend?

Many of my out of town friends do not know my present address. So if an invitation card to the reception, which would include my address, is not included in the wedding invitation, how would the friend know my address if he or she wished to send a wedding gift what do you suggest? — A.

I suggest that you send invitations to both the ceremony and the reception to your list of relatives and friends, whether they live in town or out of town. Today this is the customary procedure. The gracious idea of the invitation is that you and the groom would so very much like to have the person invited be with you on this important occasion, and that you hope this will be possible. You shouldn't omit sending the invitation just because the person lives out of town and therefore you take it for granted that he or she cannot come. On the reception card, most usefully for t h e guests' information, will be your new address.

EQUAL NUMBER OF BRIDESMAIDS AND USHERS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My friend "A" tells me I just must have the same number of bridesmaids as of ushers. My cousin "B" says this isn't a "must." Who is right? — H.

Your cousin "B" is right. Bridesmaids are simply decorative attendants, and you may have as few or as many as you wish. But ushers have a very important duty to perform, and there must be enough ushers to seat the guests promptly, smoothly, graciously. (At least one usher for every forty-five or fifty guests.) Occasionally a bride will have only a maid or matron of honor as her one attendant, no bridesmaids, and there may be eight or ten ushers.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. K. R. — She won't let me meet her friends.

Sybil R. — She would not approve of them.

Mrs. K. R. — My daughter Sybil left our home several years ago to live and work in the city. She is now 26 and is quite successful in her career. However, I think it is high time that she got married.

Whenever I try to discuss marriage with her Sybil gets very angry. I want very much to meet the young men she goes out with, but she doesn't introduce them to me when I visit her in the city. I have often asked her to invite one of her friends to our home when she comes on vacation, but she always says nobody would enjoy our quiet town.

It seems to me that Sybil must be ashamed of her parents or of her friends if she does not allow us to meet. In any case, I think it's just terrible for parents not to know their own children's friends.

Sybil R. — I am not ashamed of either my friends or my parents, but I am ashamed of my mother's attitude. When I used to date at home, she used to look every young man up and down and ask all kinds of questions about his family, his plans, his career, etc. When I protested we had a battle.

I do know definitely that Mother would not approve of the particular man I am now going out with. He is rather a peculiar person — very nervous and unsettled. Just the same I like him very much and I'm considering marrying him.

I do think that it is very unfair for Mother to constantly lecture me about getting married. After all, it is not something you can do to order. Sometimes I wish I had another self that would marry to please her.

The Council: It sounds as though Sybil could do with a little less pressure from the home front. If she is capable of making her way successfully in an unknown city, she is probably capable of working out her personal relationships.

It seems to us, however, t h a t Sybil has even less belief in her own ability in this sphere than her mother. She is torn between the desire to please her mother and the desire to flout her. Despite Sybil's assertion that she is not "ashamed" of her friends, she doesn't have the courage to stand up for her own choice.

It is quite possible that Sybil, who undoubtedly shares some of her parents' standards a n d values, does not really approve of her own friends. She may be using them as an empty gesture of rebellion against her parents.

Sybil needs to come to terms with her own values. If she thinks her parents' values are essentially wrong, she must find her own. If she thinks her parents are right she should take on their standards — no longer as a child, but as a responsible adult who accepts the way of living that is implicit in any given philosophy.

Probably Sybil will decide that her parents are right in some areas — wrong in others. When she is clear about her own beliefs she will be more willing to stand up for them. She will have no fear about bringing her friends and family together. They may like one another better than she suppose.

Thanksworthy Desserts

by Mary Moore

With all of my foremindedness I have no space left for salad choice for Thanksgiving dinner. I hope you have been tucking in the back of your mind the dozens of salad ideas given here this Fall or better still have some original ones. Just don't forget the salad.

With that little admonition, I can pass quickly on to my favorite topic: desserts!

PENNSYLVANIA PUMPKIN PIE:

Two cups cooked or canned pumpkin, 2 eggs separated, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon each grated nutmeg and ginger, ½ teaspoon each ground cloves and allspice, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 3 cups scalded milk. Add egg yolks to pumpkin along with sugar, salt, nutmeg, ginger, ground cloves, allspice and cinnamon and mix thoroughly. Add scalded milk, that has been cooled, and then gently fold in the egg whites. Pour into unbaked pastry shell and bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes and then 350 for 30 minutes or until set. This recipe makes two medium sized or 1 large and 1 small pie. To serve, place a mound of unsweetened whipped cream on each serving and in the centre of the whipped cream place a teaspoon honey. Serve at once.

NOTE:

Squash may be used instead of pumpkin in this pie.

Plum pudding is like a widower with four children. Improves with age! but here is a fruit pudding that you can make at the last minute.

PEACH AND APPLE COTTAGE PUDDING:

One quarter cup shortening, 3-3 cup sugar, 1 egg well beaten, 1 cup milk, 2½ cups allpurpose flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup each chopped fresh peaches and apples. Cream the shortening, add sugar and vanilla then well beaten egg. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt and add alternately with milk to first mixture. Fold fruits in and pour into greased cake pan. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes.

NOTE:

Mixture may be poured into individual greased moulds and steamed for 1 hour. Serve with

HARD SAUCE:

Cream 4-3 cup of butter until light and fluffy. Add slowly 1 cup icing sugar and 1 teaspoon vanilla mixing well after each addition. Chill well before serving.

APRICOT OR PEACH ICE:

One cup sugar, ½ cup light corn syrup, 2 cups water, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 cups apricot or

Christ Church WA Holds Monthly Meet

The monthly business meeting of the Evening Branch of the W.A. of Christ Church was held Monday evening in the Parish hall with 28 members in attendance.

The devotional service as found in the "Living Message" was conducted by the president with Scripture reading by Mrs. W. Lancaster.

Secretary and treasurer reports were read by Miss F. Reid and Mrs. W. Edwards. Mrs. B. Wells, sunshine secretary, reported six cards sent out. Mrs. A. Swain thanked the members who had assisted at the Little Helpers' Service last Sunday.

Mrs. E. Smith, social secretary, reported a favorable balance in this fund. Mrs. F. O'Connor asked that all subscription money for the W.A. magazine, "Living Message" be in by December 1st.

The secretary read a note of appreciation from Miss Eleanor Newman, now attending Anglican Women's Training College, thanking the branch for the interest taken in her in her new work and the generous gift she had received.

It was decided to send a bale consisting of sheets, pillowcases and towels to the Cowley Fathers' Home at Bracebridge, also to have a rummage sale in November.

Mrs. Bongard thanked all who had assisted recently in entertaining 20 ladies of the Hastings' County Home at her home.

Several planned on going by bus to the Deanery meeting on Tuesday in Picton.

Tea hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. H. Ingram and Miss L. Morton.

Sweater News

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

The sweater in many guises is very much a part of the fall picture. It is designed for every type of use — dressy, casual, daytime, evening. Black mink is the collar used on the luxurious black cashmere sweater with a low-placed satin belt and front buckle. Orlon in a bulky knit makes the chemise sweater. It has striped yellow and navy trim on the deep V and also for the shield inset and single pocket. In navy or white, it would be a nice top for a slim or pleated skirt, or with pants.

Bridge St. United W.M.S. Holds Lovely Birthday Tea

A delightful autumn birthday tea, sponsored by the Women's Missionary Society of Bridge St. United Church, was held in the church parlours Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Madeline Young and Miss Cora Clarke, treasurers, were in charge of admission. Overall tea convener was Mrs. Eric Denyes.

A home baking table, heavily laden with all kinds of delectable pastries such as mouth-watering lemon, banana cream and apple pies; white, chocolate, orange and chocolate chiffon cakes —various kinds of tarts, cookies, date nut and banana loaves, jellies, marmalades, chili sauces and homemade candy, was quick emptied as eager "customers" kept business "humming". Those in charge of this table were: Mrs. Twiddy, Mrs. Franklin, Mrs. Rollins, Mrs. Beer and Mrs. Tugnutt.

Homemade candy table, filled with cellophane bags of assorted candy such as chocolate fudge, maple cream, fondants and peanut brittle, all made by members of the C.G.I.T., was convened by Mrs. Freeman Burrows. This table was attractively decorated in the C.G.I.T. colors of blue and white, with white candles in blue glass holders, and a large bouquet of blue tinted 'mums.

Following the autumn theme, head tea table was centred with a four-branch silver candelabra set with deep bronze and yellow candles, and flanked by two lovely bouquets of bronze 'mums in silver holders. Individual tables were decorated with centre-pieces of bitter sweet and foliage. The lovely table decorations were arranged by Mrs. Dyble and Mrs. Gurnett.

Tea room hostesses were Mrs. C. L. Hyde, Mrs. C. W. Howie, Mrs. W. Dudley and Mrs. C. Clapp.

Those pouring tea were Miss Mabel Clasie, Mrs. E. Farnsworth, Mrs. H. W. Ackerman and Mrs. Fred Deacon.

Fashion Pirates Active In Major Salons of Paris

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — In the boutiques, lushly carpeted fashion salons of Paris, London and Rome, the world's top couturiers are muttering darkly these days about a most unfeminine topic—pirates.

To be precise, the talk is of fashion pirates. And is bear the couturiers tell it, there is far richer booty in sacks, trousseau and bridelines than any fyrd dreamed of by the buccaneers who roamed the Spanish Main. The main complaints about piracy are being voiced in Paris, fashion centre of the world.

So serious do some leading French designers regard the threat that they've appealed to Interpol, the international police organization, to track the culprits down. It is likely to prove a tough assignment.

FAST SMUGGLING

Last August, a replica of a high fashion creation by a famous Frenchman was on sale in a London shop before British buyers had had time to return from viewing the Paris collections.

How was the design smuggled out of Paris? No one knows.

A spokesman for the house of Dior said sketch sellers are their worst foes. American buyers, for example, are able to buy pirate sketches in New York within a week of a new collection. As a result, many buyers no longer bother to visit Paris. Instead, they make adaptations from the sketches.

A representative for Victor Stiebel, Princess Margaret's dressmaker, says: "A bit of piracy does go on in Britain, but it is impossible to stop. No amount of checking can help. Anyway, there's always a new collection on the way."

Hardy Amies, one of the Queens designers, says British houses aren't troubled since the English don't set fashions, they follow them. "Sometimes," says a spokesman, "there is a subtle link between all the designers, a kind of coherence of thought when all might use similar-type fabrics. It takes a keen eye, an excellent memory and a talent for drawing to be a fashion pirate."

2,000 CUSTOMERS

Some designers believe that sketches are flown out of France by an agent who sells them to waiting customers in the chief fashion centres. They say a pirate may have as many as 2,000 dress trade retailers, manufacturers and wholesalers in America, Britain and elsewhere as his regular, loyal customers. And each will have paid him a handsome fee.

By circulating sketches quickly, and if workrooms are well organized, replica-models can be on sale within 48 hours.

Another method thought to be practised is for several would-be fashion viewers to form a syndicate. Each member will go to a different show and later the group pool their knowledge. In this way, each gets detailed information on all the major shows for the price of entry to one.

No one knows the volume of profit made by the pirates—but there must be quite a few bandsmen who regard top couture prices as a form of piracy too.

AIDS PATIENTS

HAMILTON (CP) — Constance Fraser, formerly of the social service department of Kingston General Hospital, is the new executive secretary of the Samaritan Club here which provides social services for patients at Mountain Sanatorium.

Infant Surgery May Be Safer Through Study

VANCOUVER (CP) — Studies being made by scientists at the Children's Health Centre here may help to make infant surgery safer.

They are studying tiny pin-pricks of blood taken from the heels of infants a few hours after they are born in an effort to form a set of standards for normal behavior of body chemicals.

Dr. Sydney Segal, directing the research, said conditions which make infant surgery necessary often disturb the chemical balance of the child. Without specific knowledge of where the imbalance lies surgery is extremely hazardous.

"If we know in what direction the normal balance is out, we can treat the baby before it goes under surgery," he said. "Then after the surgery we must know how to manage it, what kind of food it can have and how often it can be fed.

"When we know the recipe, surgery will be a lot safer."

Dr. Segal said little is known about this field of medicine.

"With our present knowledge we can only treat infants as miniature adults and that's not good enough."

A syringe of blood can be taken without danger from an adult but a syringe of blood taken from an infant could be its whole supply, he said. Therefore, infinitesimal amounts of blood are taken from infants and studied.

MONTREAL (CP) — Fly-tying may be fun for anglers but it's work for the 80 girls at the University of Montreal's School of Rehabilitation.

They learn it so that they can teach it—and also to develop their own manual dexterity and co-ordination.

Among other skills in the occupational therapy field they have to master are: Dress-making, weaving, pottery, copper tooling, and silk printing. Their minds are kept as busy as their hands with courses in mental hygiene, child development, pre- and post-natal care, psychology, medicine and surgery.

The marriage rate is high among the school's graduates, says physiotherapist Marjorie Spence, but the girls often work after they are married and sometimes after their first children reach school age.

She and Josephine Forbes, occupational therapist, agree that aiding the sick and disabled brings the utmost in personal satisfaction and brings out the best in a women's character.

An interest in people is essential. Special and third-year students work part time in hospitals and private clinics and after graduation must intern for four months in recognized hospitals.

WELLINGTON

St. Andrew's WA Holds Monthly Meet

WELLINGTON — The WA of St. Andrew's Church, Wellington, met at the home of Mrs. Edgar Matthews on Tuesday evening with the president, Mrs. C. Upton presiding.

Mrs. Blower read the scripture and Mrs. A. Ogilvy and Mrs. R. Nash were appointed to order 50 calendars at the Deanery meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 7th, at St. Mary Magdelene Church, Picton.

The G.A. leader, Mrs. S. Tripp reported a membership of 12 in her group; also that their weekly meeting night is being changed to Mondays.

The J.A. leader, Mrs. Blower, reported that their meetings would be on the second and fourth Fridays of the month.

The corresponding secretary read the board letter and a discussion followed. Mrs. Davern was asked to look after the securing of slides for Oct. 19th, at St. Mary Magdelene Church, Picton.

The G.A. leader, Mrs. S. Tripp reported a membership of 12 in her group; also that their weekly meeting night is being changed to Mondays.

The J.A. leader, Mrs. Blower, reported that their meetings would be on the second and fourth Fridays of the month.

The corresponding secretary read the board letter and a discussion followed, Mrs. Davern was asked to look after the securing of slides for Oct. 19th, 20th, or Nov. 2, to be used to illustrate the new study book "He Cares", by Dr. Hatfield, Mr. and Mrs. McHenry and Mrs. George Guernsey.

The president thanked Mrs. Matthews for her hospitality and closed the meeting with prayer after which a social half hour was spent.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Burton Elliott, of Napanee, Ont., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Morton left by motor on Saturday last for Kisbey, Sask., where they are visiting Mr. Morton's mother, Mrs. Mary Bye, and other relatives in that district. They expect to return on the Thanksgiving weekend.

The annual Harvest Home Services of Christ Church, Thomasburg, took place on Sunday, September 28th, at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. The church was tastefully decorated with flowers, fruits and vegetables in keeping with the theme of the services.

Miss Verna Morton of Toronto, Ont., is visiting at the home of her brother, Mr. Lewis Morton, and Mrs. Morton.

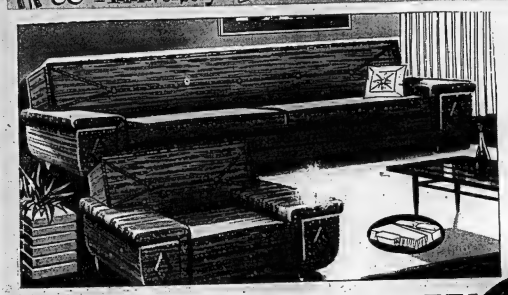
Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mogdon and Mr. Thomas Ball attended the anniversary services at St. Andrew's United Church, Gilead, on Sunday, September 28, and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Yorke and Mrs. J. E. Chappell of that neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Prindle and Richard motored to Toronto and the Niagara district last weekend.

Mrs. Keith Baldwin is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital at present and is under observation.

Mr. Mathew R. English is also a patient in Belleville General Hospital, having undergone major surgery last Monday.

Their many friends will be glad to know that they are both much improved in health.



The Guild of Christ Church, Thomasburg, sponsored a successful smorgasbord supper in the I.O.O.F. Hall last Wednesday evening. A good crowd was in attendance and the financial returns were most gratifying.

The heavy frost on Wednesday night killed most of the flowers and all but the hardiest of vegetables in gardens.

The anniversary services for Thomasburg United Church will take place on Sunday, October 12th, at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. Mr. George Dyson, pastor, will be in charge of both services. Special music will be provided by the choir for the occasion.

SPRINGBROOK

WA Holds Annual Fall Tea and Bazaar

SPRINGBROOK — The annual fall tea and bazaar, sponsored by the Woman's Association of Springbrook United Church was held on September 26 in the Orange Hall.

Ladies were present from St. Andrew's, Marmora; St. Mary's, Bonarlaw; Gospel Hall, Springbrook; St. Thomas, Ralston; Carmel, Rylstone; Bethel; Stanwood; Mount Pleasant; Wellman's Hoard's Station, and St. Paul's, Stirling.

Autumn colored maple leaves and baskets of gladiolis, asters, dahlias and zinias were used as attractive decoration for the occasion.

The tables laden with goods for sale were in the centre of the main floor with the seats arranged at each side. The guests were met at the door by the reception committee: Mrs. Carman Sine, president, Mrs. (Rev.) Beare, Mrs. Mellejohn, and Mrs. Clayton Burkitt, past president, while Mrs. Reg. McKeown and Mrs. Gerald Broadworth were in charge of the admission.

The president, Mrs. Sine, extended a welcome to all ladies and with Mrs. J. McKeown at the piano, the theme song was used as an opening number.

The devotion service was concluded by Mrs. Beare. Following the call to worship the hymn "For the Beauty of the Earth" was sung.

The Scripture taken from II Corinthians 9:6-15 was read by Mrs. Gordon Webb who, offered a prayer. Hymn "Come Ye Thankful People Come," was then sang. The devotional period closed with a prayer by Mrs. Beare.

The program for the afternoon consisted of one number contributed by each organization: reading, "Thanksgiving," by Miss E. Tanner of St. Thomas; reading, "Parabel of the Good Samaritan" at the Woman's Missionary Society," by Mrs. A. Twiddy, of Salem; reading, "The Master is Coming," by Mrs. Lansing of St. Paul's, Stirling; reading, "Tomorrow," by Mrs. W. Heath of Bethel; reading, "The Donkey and the Dog," by Miss A. Richards, of St. Andrew's, Marmora; duet, "The Lo Sweet to Trust in Jesus," by Mrs. M. Sharpe and Mrs. B. Sharpe, of Mt. Pleasant, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. Potts; reading, Mrs. E. McKnight of Stanwood; reading, "Let us Give Thanks," by Mrs. W. Hoard's Station; reading, "Fight the Good Fight," by Mrs. E. Heath, of St. Mark's, Bonarlaw; duet, "I Will Follow Jesus," by Mrs. L. Watson and Mrs. G. Watson, of Wellman's Corners, with Mrs. C. Potts accompanying at the piano.

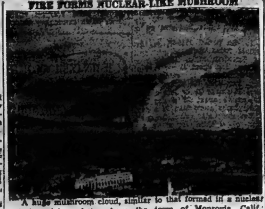
As it was the birthday of Mrs. George Watson, all joined in singing "Happy Birthday." This concluded the program.

Mrs. Clayton Burkitt capably introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. R. C. Redmond Madoc, president of the Woman's Association of Belleville Presbyterary.

Mrs. Jackson chose as her theme, "What is God Doing Everyday" and furthered by saying the success of a Woman's Association is not only in membership and financial aims but the spreading of the Christian spirit. She concluded by urging each and every one to be a fellow worker for God.

Rev. Beare extended thanks to Mrs. Jackson on behalf of the ladies present, and officially opened the bazaar. Those in charge of the various booths were: fancy work booth with its assortment of aprons, knitted goods, crocheting, novelties, and children's clothes, were: Mesdames B. Bateman, J. McKeown, K. Thompson, G. Webb, E. Huff, A. Reid, and M. Mason.

Home-cooking booth, laden with delicious pastries, cakes, buns, breads and cookies, were conveyed by Mesdames, E. Bateman, F. McKeown, I. Switzer, and Miss E. Peake.



Farmer's booth, displaying varieties of garden products, jams, jellies, eggs, and potted plants was conveyed by Mesdames, P. Mumby, H. Thompson, M. McMullen, C. Robbins, O. Barton and T. McKeown.

Candy booth, with its tempting assortment of home-made creams, fudge, and taffy, was conveyed by Mesdames, R. Wellman, H. Hastelt, and H. Mumby.

After the guests had made a tour of the booths and purchases selected, the seats were arranged and refreshments were served.

Tea was poured by Mrs. Chris Bateman and Mrs. W. McInroy.

The Springbrook ladies extend a sincere "thank-you" to their guests for the contributions to the program; also for making the afternoon a decided success.

FIRE FORMS NUCLEAR-LIKE MUSHROOM

A huge mushroom cloud, similar to that formed in a nuclear explosion, takes shape above the town of Monrovia, Calif., tarking the site of the 300-acre brush fire which has destroyed as many as 20 valuable homes and threatened scores of others. This view from the Los Angeles city hall, some 30 miles away, shows Los Angeles Union Terminal in the foreground.

Rawdon

RAWDON — Malcolm Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Reid, Mount Pleasant, Hawdon, joined the Air Force last week and last Monday he left for his posting at St. Johns, Quebec, where he will be engaged in an electronics course.

On Sunday, at the close of Sunday School, Bill Morgan presented Malcolm with a lovely wrist watch on behalf of the Mount Pleasant community. The recipient expressed appreciative thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hagerman attended the funeral of Mr. George Easton, Belleville.

Mrs. Thomas Burwash has returned to her home in Manitoba. She has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Pauley and other relatives for the past few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sharpe entertained on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Marvyn Scott, Stirling; also Mrs. Victor Graham and daughters, Elean and Freda, of Wellman's.

Rev. W. G. Fletcher and Mr. Ross Hoard represented Rawdon circuit at the Presbytery meeting held at Napanee.

Mrs. Harvey Couch and sons spent Thursday with her mother, Mrs. Alex Bush, in Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wellman attended River Valley W.I. meeting.

The Fifth anniversary of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church will be held on Sunday, November 2nd. Mr. Harold Stobbert, Ivanhoe, will be guest minister at both services.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoard left on Monday for a motor trip to the west coast.

Mrs. Ernest White, Mrs. Marguerite McMullen, and her brother, Mr. Harold White, visited Mr. and Mrs. Wendall Pond, Halloway, on Sunday.

On Sunday World-Wide Communion was observed on Rawdon circuit. At Mount Pleasant the pastor, Rev. W. G. Fletcher, was assisted by Messrs. Allen Reid, Ross Hoard, Lindsay McKeown and Frank Hutchinson.

Crofton

CROFTON — Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Munro and Keith called on Mr. and Mrs. Carman Burr and Gerry at Wellington on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hutson were guests of their daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Sharp, Mr. Sharp and Dennis at Roslin one day last week.

Mr. Douglas Allan of Welland, called on his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Allan on Monday. Mr. Theran Allan of Peterborough, was a caller also on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Salisbury and Janet, of Belleville, were dinner guests of their sister, Mrs. E. Crook on Saturday.

Mrs. B. Jones is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. E. Williams at Picton.

Possibility of commercial transports for under the polar ice has stimulated interest in the design of submarine tankers capable of competing with surface ships across the Atlantic. Here is the design of a 20,000-ton tanker being considered for the U.S. merchant marine. It would be nuclear powered, would be 500 to 600 feet long. Its design was made by the builders of the Nautilus, first U. S. nuclear submarine.

Studies Show Lung Cancer Occurs Five to 15 Times More Frequently Among Smokers

TORONTO (CP)—The National Cancer Institute of Canada reports 15 distinct studies show lung cancer occurs from five to 15 times more frequently among smokers than non-smokers.

Moreover, the institute said in summing up the first Canadian study of its kind, the risk of lung cancer increases with the amount smoked.

Similarly, the risk decreases when you quit smoking.

The Institute based its report, published in the Canadian Medical Association Journal Tuesday, on an assessment of most of the medical articles written about the association between lung cancer and cigaret smoking.

It says cigaret smoking has not been established as a cause of lung cancer nor can all cases of lung cancer be accounted for by smoking.

"Medical literature, however, contains the reports of at least 16 studies carried out over the past 18 years in several countries and in each of these a statistical association has been noted between lung cancer and smoking.

In summary these studies show that lung cancer occurs five to 15 times more frequently among cigaret smokers than among non-smokers."

The institute said the Canadian death rate from lung cancer has increased 4½ times in 30 years. In Canada one death in every six is caused by cancer of some sort and for every 10 deaths from other kinds of cancer, there is one from cancer of the lung. One is every 56 deaths can be attributed to this cause.

"Among men the greatest number of deaths from lung cancer occurs between 65 and 69. Among women the greatest number of deaths is between 70 and 74 years of age." However the lung cancer death rate for men is five times that for women.

The study also concerned itself with Canadian smoking habits and found that in 1935, the average number of cigarets smoked per person yearly was 460. By 1955, this figure had shot up to 1,500.

In the period 1956-57, the institute found about 55 per cent of Canadian males 18 or over smoked and about 35 per cent of the females in the same category. For each 100 cigaret smokers, 33 smoke 10 or less a day, 39 smoke, about 20 a day and nine smoke more than 20 a day.

The study also raised the question of a third factor in the smoking-cancer relationship, a point that has been the subject of speculation.

This theory suggests, it said, "whatever constitutional factors may be playing a part in making a person a smoker may, singly or collectively, be the factors responsible for the tendency to develop lung cancer, rather than the cigaret smoking itself."

HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR SINGING VOICE

Singing, say Donald Gramm and Didi Van Eyck, is a matter of muscle control, so a singer should be muscle conscious. Donald is a bass-baritone and Didi is a soprano on Broadway and several times a week they show up at a gymnasium and work out like a couple of weight lifters. By now, Didi's abdominal muscles are so strong that, though she only weighs 105, she can support his 200 pounds with little effort.

Nasser Names Committee for Arab Republic

CAIRO (Reuters) — President Nasser Tuesday night issued a decree appointing a 21-member central government for the United Arab Republic and executive councils for the Syria and Egyptian regions. Seven members of the central government are Syrians.

Three vice-presidents of the U.A.R.—Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, Akram Hourani and Abdel Latif Boghdadi — retained their posts. But Sabri El Asiali, the fourth vice-president, was dropped.

Asaali offered his resignation Monday after accusations during the Baghdad treason trials that he led a plot in 1954 to merge Syria with Iraq under the late King Faisal.

Asaali said he was resigning to enable a committee to investigate the documents "in order to reveal the truth."

Key ministers in the previous government who retained the same portfolios include Lt.-Col. Zakaria Mohieddin (interior), Dr. Mahmoud Fawzy (foreign affairs), Wing Cmdr. Aly Sabry (presidential affairs) and Dr. Abdul Moneim El Kaissouny. (economy).

BIG SURPRISE

HARTSVILLE, S.C. (AP)—Surprise and delight shone in a crippled boy's eyes Tuesday when a three-year-old elephant squeezed through his bedroom door. A clown and Louis Griffin's parents crowded in, too. And the 10-year-old got a taste of the Mills Brothers Circus, compliments of beaming parents and Shriners.

Take me to your Admiral dealer

...we hear that Admiral TV for '59 is out of this world

Take a look at Admiral TV for '59 and you'll be saying the same thing. It's like watching TV for the very first time . . . discovering that wonderful things have been happening since TV first came into your life. It's finding that Admiral gives you a picture so clear and bright and realistic that it's almost 3-dimensional . . . that Admiral sound is High Fidelity sound . . . that Admiral controls have done away with all the little irritations you've been putting up with for years. It's the enjoyment of having TV that's an attractive piece of modern furniture . . . as Admiral TV for '59 introduces "decorator approved" originals that are even slimmer than the first Admiral slimline models.

Take one look inside Admiral TV for '59, and you'll see some of the things that have made these advances possible. There's the 110° picture tube . . . the shorter tube that has banished the old-style "bustle" in the back that once marred the appearance of your TV. There's the horizontal chassis that reduces operating temperature, lengthens the effective life of components, helps to make possible that slimmer-than-ever cabinet. There's the power transformer that delivers more consistent power, steps-up voltage delivered to the picture tube.

There are so many new Admiral features in the '59 line. But they all add up to viewing that's away ahead of anything you've yet experienced. So if you want to get the most out of viewing, see your Admiral dealer . . . let him show you just what we mean. Then believe your eyes . . . if you can . . . and enter your own new world of TV entertainment with Admiral TV for '59.

GREAT NEW ECONOMY GAINS

Canada's most powerful 6-cylinder engine, the Strato-Six, boasts big new advances in gasoline economy. Through improved carburetion and a new advance-curve distributor, you can enjoy more power and save more money on fuel at the same time.

AIR-COOLED TRUE-CONTOUR BRAKES

Pontiac for '59 brings you a 27½ increase in brake lining area, plus better cooling for fast, sure, fade-free stops and greater safety for you and your family.

SEATS WIDER THAN A SOFA

At last, you can enjoy true living room comfort. Pontiac's new seats are wider, have higher backs and slant downward at the rear to give maximum support under the knees for more comfortable driving. You'll find there's plenty of head and legroom, too!

Look what's happened to Pontiac—the biggest change any car ever made in a single year! Pontiac's put your future on wheels with dramatic styling and engineering advances that defy comparison.

Yes, Pontiac's had a change of personality, starting with its glamorous Twin-Grille design and ending with the most smartly sculptured rear deck you've ever seen. Lean in look, this new Pontiac's longer, lower, too, for the surest, most stable roadability ever.

But there's still more to the new Pontiac to stamp it as the big change for '59: vista-lounge interiors with full 360-degree visibility . . . seats actually wider than a sofa . . . Air-Cooled True-Contour Brakes for smooth, easy, unvarying control, stop after stop after stop. For extra gasoline mileage, there's Pontiac's newly-refined Strato-Six engine available on Strato-Chief, Laurentian and Parisienne models. Then there is the industry's widest choice of V8's* reaching a new peak of performance in Pontiac's spectacular Astro-Flame V8—with sound and vibration reduced almost beyond belief.

There's lots, lots more to make your first inspection a truly revealing experience. Come in and see why no other car can possibly be so new as the new Pontiac.

Government May Be Forced To Reduce Support Price On Butter Early in Spring

OTTAWA (CP) — The government, faced with heavy surpluses, may be forced to reduce the support price on butter next spring.

Add it may consider abolishing carrying charges on its current stocks, selling them this winter at or near the price it paid for them—64 cents a pound wholesale, the support price at Montreal.

Normally, the administration starts offering its stocks to the country when seasonal production begins early in April and dealers start digging into storage supplies to feed the country through the winter months.

The federal floor price on butter has been boosted to 64 cents from 58 cents a pound last spring.

Trade indications are that the government may end the current butter surplus early with a surplus of between 50,000,000 and 60,000,000 pounds.

MARGARINE SWING

The surplus could be wiped out before more consumers may swing to margarine if unemployment increases during the winter. Government retail butter prices are between 67 and 70 cents a pound —margarine about 30.

The government has in the past absorbed storage costs, charging them to the treasury, but Finance Minister Fleming may refer to help reduce the butter-margarine price gap.

Meanwhile, senior federal officials are looking into the suggestion that the government artificially stimulate consumption.

The butter is not the only dairy product causing federal headaches. With over-all milk production estimated at 16,000,000,000 pounds this year to exceed 18,000,000,000 pounds next year, or 17

NUCLEAR SUB SETS UNDERWATER RECORD

Getting their first glimpse of sunshine in 60 days, crew members line the conning tower of the atomic submarine Seawolf after it surfaced at Block Island, R.I. The Seawolf, which began its record underwater stint August 7, travelled 15,700 nautical miles on its trip.

Iraqi Premier Smashes Revolt

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Premier Abdel Karim Kassem, the pro-Red strong man, has smashed a revolt by soldiers supporting his chief rival, Col. Abdel Salam Aref, it was reported Thursday.

A regiment was disarmed. Aref himself was placed under house arrest, according to reliable informants.

Kassem took over the government July 14 after a coup overthrowing King Faisal and premier Nuri Said, both slain.

The threat against Kassem arose last weekend. Kassem acted so swiftly that the civilian life of the capital was not disturbed.

Tight official secrecy has made it hard to get the facts. Informants placed the story together this way:

Kassem learned Saturday that a group of officers of Aref's regiment were planning to move against the regime. This clique was angered because Kassem had removed Aref from the post of deputy prime minister and planned to send him to West Germany as ambassador.

Sunday morning, heavily armed troops in battle helmets guarded all roads leading into Baghdad. Aref was put under house arrest. Officers in the regiment backing Aref were transferred to distant points or put under surveillance.

ONE-MAN SUB DESCENDS 230 FEET

Assuming the prone position, French undersea explorer and inventor Dmitri Rebikoff shows how easy it is to manoeuvre his latest invention—a pocket submarine. Electrically-powered, the miniature sub can go down beneath the sea as far as 330 feet. It can attain speeds of up to three knots for more than six nautical miles.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—A Soviet Embassy attache and the Bangkok correspondent of Tass news agency have been charged with subversion and ordered out of the country, the foreign ministry announced today. The diplomat, Khairulla M. Shalbharov, was told Tuesday to leave within seven days. Police accused him of acts dangerous to peace and security but did not elaborate.

HERE'S HOW TO PLAY LOBLAWS CHECK-OUT GAME!

You get a FREE "Check-Out" card every time you visit your neighbourhood Loblaws store.

Pictures of products on a card are to be matched against pictures of products in the triangles ONLY in this newspaper ad or reprints in LOBLAWS markets. Match the products appearing on the "Check-Out" card with the products appearing in this Loblaw weekly advertisement.

If you are able to check off five products in a row — down, across or diagonally on your card, you have a winning card. Turn the card over and see what you have won and mail the card as directed.

You make an X in pencil over the alphabet letters to the right of the picture on the card, if the same Picture or Product appears in the newspaper ad.

A new game will be published each week for 13 weeks.

All cards are playable in all 13 games. Save every card and every ad!

Japanese Farmers Study Canadian Methods

A program to bring Japanese farmers to Canada on an annual basis to study farming methods is meeting with widespread enthusiasm. The project was initiated 2 years ago and to date 8 Japanese farmers have been settled on farms in Ontario and Quebec where size and type of farms closely resemble those in Japan. Above, Norman Robinson of Osgoode, Ont., shows Kazitomo Suzuki how to operate harvesting machinery.

Mr. Suzuki, who studied agronomy in Japan, was employed by his government as an agricultural consultant. He is hopeful that when he returns to his country he can introduce many Canadian farm methods to the farmers in his district.

Kazitomo Suzuki, who is married and has 2 sons in Japan, has become a well-liked member of the Robinson family during his stay with them. Although he spoke little English when he arrived in April of this year, the Robinsons have little difficulty in conversing with him. Mr. Suzuki says he finds farm life in Canada very comfortable and he enjoys Canadian cooking.

The extensive use of machinery in Canada is the thing which has impressed Mr. Suzuki most. During the winter months he will study at the agricultural college in Guelph, Ont. National Film Board of Canada Photos by Ted Grant.

The varied activities of Canadian farms appeal to Mr. Suzuki. Two other Japanese farmers are currently studying in Canada, Mr. Akira Tokashima is at Bell's Corners, Ont.; Mr. Mitsuhiro Yasuda is on a farm at Shawville, Que.

In Toyama, where Mr. Suzuki comes from, all farmers produce rice and a few go-in for cattle raiting. He feels that many Canadian techniques could be employed in Japan if farm cooperstives were created.

The Robinson children are very fond of Kazitomo whom they call "Kozy". Mr. Suzuki, an eager and hard worker, spends his evenings writing up in his diary the many interesting things he has learned that day.

Mr. Kazitomo Suzuki is studying Canadian farming methods at the farm of Norman Robinson, Osgoode, Ontario.

In his own country, Suzuki was employed by the government as an agricultural consultant. He has studied agronomy and is a veterinarian by profession. He is married and has two young sons. His home is in Toyama, in Central Japan.

Suzuki has been sent to Canada by the Japanese Government to learn the farm methods employed by Canadian farmers and to know more about our way of life.

The Department of Agriculture of Canada, in co-operation with the Japanese embassy in Ottawa and the Quebec and Ontario Agricultural governments are taking part in this scheme.

The Japanese Government has been most anxious to have their own people trained in the Western methods of production.

The United States have been receiving Japanese farmers for a few years, but the idea started only two years ago in Canada. Two Japanese were sent to farms in Western Ontario last year and, in the winter, to Ridgetown Agricultural School.

Strike Benefits Not Available For 28 Days

SUDBURY (CP)—Mike Solski, president of Local 598, of International Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.), on strike against the International Nickel Company, says strike benefits will not be available to strikers until "28 days of strike have gone by."

Mr. Solski made the announcement in the first of a series of policy statements to be issued bi-weekly by the union.

He said financial support would be coming from other unions in Canada and the United States if the strike continued.

More than 14,000 union members here and in Port Colborne have been on strike since Sept. 24 after a breakdown in negotiations in Labor Minister Daley's office the previous day.

Mr. Solski added that the union is encouraging members to seek other employment while the strike continues. Those who find jobs will be asked to make voluntary donations to the strike fund.

When it becomes necessary strike benefits will be based on a system of vouchers redeemable by the union at intervals agreed upon with the merchant concerned.

The union president said there was no indication that finance companies and mortgage companies would exert "undue pressure" on their clients who are on strike. He said the union had spoken with finance and acceptance companies concerning instalment payments and were received "very cordially."

$9,000 Gamble Pays Off for Holstein Breeder

BEETON, Ont. (CP)—A $9,000 gamble has paid off for a Holstein breeder in this community 25 miles north of Toronto.

Experts shook their heads last May when H. J. Wilcox paid that amount for a 15-year-old former All-Canadian cow named Glenvue Nettie Jemima at the dispersal of the Rosafe herd of Dr. Hector L. Asenjo of Brampton, Ont., and Rosario, Argentina.

To friends who thought the cow was on her last legs he explained:

This week Glenvue Nettie Jemima gave birth to a bull calf sired by ABC Reflection Sovereign, a Rosafe bull considered the best of the Holstein breed during the last 30 years with three all-Canadian titles to his credit.

And Glenvue Nettie Jemima still is in good health for her 15 years, so Mr. Wilcox plans to breed her again to ABC Reflection Sovereign. The famed bull, bred by Armstrong Brothers of Brampton, died two years ago but is still available as a sire through artificial insemination.

Mr. Wicks plans to get back more than his original investment next month by entering his bull calf, named Rosafe Citation, in the sale of stars at Toronto's Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

Full brothers of Citation have already brought prices of $18,000 and $20,100 in the sale of stars.

Man, Woman Burned to Death At Blind River

BLIND RIVER (CP)—A man and a woman were burned to death Wednesday when fire swept through a house on the outskirts of this town 50 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie.

Dead are Grace Lafreniere, 38, and a male companion, not yet identified.

Police said Rene Rivers, the dead woman's brother, escaped through a window but suffered burns to the hands and face.

Cause of the blaze was not immediately known. Provincial police were investigating.

SYRUP CHAMPION

QUEBEC (CP)—Emile Plante, Stanford county farmer, was named grand champion for the third consecutive year in a maple syrup competition sponsored by the provincial agriculture department. Clarence Comeau of Victoriaville won the honey competition.

TROUBLE IN CYPRUS

Greek Cypriot youths, some with heads bandaged, stand outside a hospital in Cyprus, Saturday. They claim they received injuries when security forces began roundup operations after two British wives were shot Friday, killing one of the women. Some of the strictest security measures ever taken in Cyprus were imposed after the shootings, which were attributed to EOKA, the Greek terrorist organization. (AP Wirephoto).

SPRINGBROOK

United Church WA Holds Oct. Meet

SPRINGBROOK—The members of Springbrook United Church Woman's Association held their October meeting in the church on Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. Ralph Wellman as hostess, and the president, Mrs. Carman Silas, presiding.

The worship period was conducted by Mrs. Clinton Robbins, the theme "Thanksgiving." A hymn, "When All Thy Mercies, O My God," was sung, followed by Psalm 726 read in unison led by Mrs. Ralph Thompson. The Scriptures, taken from Luke 17:11-19, was read by Mrs. Charlie Gordanier. A prayer was given by Mrs. Burton Bateman for Miss Gould, missionary, followed by the theme thoughts read by Mrs. Percy Bateman. A prayer by Mrs. Gerald Broadworth and a hymn, "Sing to the Lord of Harvest" closed the worship service.

The members reported 51 cards sent and 15 calls made. The correspondence read consisted of an invitation from Salem W.A. to attend their meeting on November 13th.

Mrs. Percy Mumby reported nine calls made on the sick and shut-in, and newcomers.

The flower and fruit committee reported four cards sent, also flowers to an elderly lady who is ill.

In the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. Frank Coobey, the financial report was read by Mrs. Harry Haslett, showing a profit of $152.70 realized from the bazaar.

The visiting volunteers for October will be Mrs. Ralph Wellman and Mrs. Clinton Robbins.

The president dealt briefly with the fall rally to be held at Eggleton United Church on October 22nd.

Plans were discussed and a committee named of Mrs. Delbert Fleming, Mrs. Frank Coobey, Mrs. Percy Bateman, Mrs. George Williams, Mrs. Fred McKeown, Mrs. George Thompson and Mrs. Percy Smith, to arrange for the anniversary supper to be held in the Orange Hall on October 28th. Rev. Beare and Mrs. John McKeown will act as a committee to arrange for a program following the supper. It was agreed to have more Christmas cards ordered for sale.

Rev. Beare explained briefly the subscriptions to a Book on Bible Readings. This will be dealt with at a later date.

This concluded a lengthy business period and the following program was enjoyed. The topic on "Church Organization" was given by Mrs. Delbert Fleming, who followed up with a quiz on "Church Organization." Readings were given by Mrs. Andrew McInroy, Mrs. Sanford Micklejohn, Mrs. Percy Bateman and Mrs. Gordon Webb.

The meeting closed with a benediction by Rev. Beare.

Collection was $3.45.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

The November meeting will be held in the church basement, with Mrs. Kenneth Thompson and Mrs. Ralph Thompson as hostesses.

Braves pitcher Warren Spahn, right, turns to watch a course of 10th inning homer hit by Gil McDougald, Yanks, in series yesterday. The homer touched off Yanks' rally that led to 4-3 victory, leaving series tied at three games each. In this view from centre field, catcher is Del Crandall; ump is Charlie Berry, and second baseman of Braves is Red Schoendienst (4). (AP Wirephoto).

Braves' runner Hank Aaron, left, and Yanks' first baseman Moose Skowron (14) tumble after collision at first in third inning of series yesterday. Sequence show Skowron twisting as ball glances from Aaron's shoulder, then both Aaron and Skowron falling. Play started with Aaron bunting. Of two caps flying from Aaron's head, one is batting helmet. Associated Press photographer Harry Harris made this sequence. (AP Wirephoto).

Winless Raiders Close Season On Saturday

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Detroit Raiders will close out their first season in the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union when they meet the London Lords here Saturday night.

The Raiders, winless in five starts, all four-point games, will be going all out to record at least one victory before they hang up their cleats.

On the other hand the Lords need those four points in a bad way if they are to overhaul second place Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, to gain the home game for the sudden-death playoff between the second and third place clubs.

A London victory Saturday coupled with a Sarnia win over the Dutchmen would lift the Lords into a second place deadlock with Dutchmen.

Sarnia Golden Bees have all but clinched the league title. With a 7-0 mark and three games to go they would have to lose them all, twice against K-W and once to London.

Harness Racing

HILL, Que. (CP)—Lezeoff, the favorite, ran off with the feature mile invitation pace Wednesday night at Connaught Park, edging longshot Judill of Caledonia, Ont., and second - favorite Attorney's Boy of Durham, Ont.

Lezeoff, owned and driven by Dr. John Findley of Arnprior, paid only $3.10 after winning in 2:13 2-5.

In the fourth mile C pace Pocahontas Boy from Oshawa, driven by Clark Hilliard topped the field beating Dutch Ax and Black Mountain Boy.

MONTREAL (CP) — Baroness Atom, a six-year-old chestnut mare from Pembroke paced the mile in 2:06 at Richelieu Park Wednesday night, winning the $1,200 purse in the featured B pace.

Owned by D. E. Behan and driven by Curt Baker, Baroness Atom paid $7.10, 4.10 and $4.40.

Meadow Art, property of Wer Litt of Stratford, made it three straight by taking the fifth, a B, test for $1,200. Honey Hal, property of W. Archie Cumming of Atwood, Ont., was the winner of the second race.

Dunlops Edge Petes Juniors

PETERBOROUGH (CP) —Whitby Dunlops, 1958 world hockey champions, beat the junior Peterborough Petes 6-5 in an Ontario Hockey Association exhibition Wednesday night.

Peterborough scorers were Tom Thurdily, Gerry Darling, Larry Babcock, Pat Casey and Wayne Boddy.

Bisons, Indians Win Over Reds, Rochester

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The American Hockey League opened its new season Wednesday night with two games. Buffalo Bisons edged Rochester Americans 3-2 in overtime while Springfield Indians shut out Providence Reds 4-0.

Captain Ivan Irwin scored the winner for the Bisons at Buffalo after eight minutes of sudden-death overtime. The winners scored twice within 46 seconds in the third period with Bill Dineen and Billy Dea getting the markers.

Rudy Migay, sent to Rochester Wednesday after settling contract terms with the parent Toronto Maple Leafs, scored a goal for the Americans. Lahoose got the other.

Royals Crush Quebec Aces

QUEBEC (CP) — Montreal Royals crushed Quebec Aces 6-1 in the opening game of the 1958-59 Quebec Hockey League schedule Wednesday night.

Terry Gray led the visitors scoring two goals. Ken Moodell, Kelly Burnett, John Kowalchuk and Moe Mantha got one each. Newcomer Pete Panagabko got the lone Quebec tally.

CHOOSE MISS ALOUETTE

MONTREAL (CP)—Joan Van Buren, 17-year-old high school student, Wednesday night was chosen Miss Alouette. The pretty brunette, a majorette in the Montreal Alouettes organization, will attend the Grey Cup football game in Vancouver and compete for the Miss Grey Cup title before the game. She stands five feet, eight inches and tips the scales at 126 pounds. The choice was announced at a fund-raising dinner for floats for the Grey Cup parade.

LAST TO GO

EDMONTON (CP) — Halfback Steve Mendryk, last of the original post-war players with Edmonton Eskimos, has retired. Mendryk advised the Western Interprovincial Football Union team Wednesday that duties as physical education director at the University of Alberta have forced him to end his career.

Folley Opens New Campaign In Britain

NEW YORK (AP)—Zora Folley, the United States' leading heavyweight contender, headed for London by plane Wednesday night to open a fresh campaign for a title shot at champion Floyd Patterson.

"We want the crack at Patterson and we intend to smoke him out by beating off any pretenders," said Bill Swift, manager of the Chandler, Ariz., six-footer.

Folley will meet Henry Cooper, hard-hitting, but fragile - jawed Briton in London Oct. 14.

Through 1957, Cooper had a 144 record. He has scored 12 knockouts and been stopped four times.

Folley is ranked the No. 1 contender by the U.S. National Boxing Association with Sweden's undefeated European champion Ingemar Johansson ranked second. Folley's record is 40-2-2 including 25 knockouts.

The antler span of this moose is 59 inches. It was shot by Paul St. John near Kapuskasing, Ont., and weighed 1,800 pounds. In the truck is another moose, shot by Paul's brother, Arthur. It weighed 1,300 pounds.

CARDINALS

to accept a change the smoke will tell the story first.

CARDINALS REIGN

The cardinals, princes of the church while the pope lived, become' its reigning sovereigns on his death. They will continue to rule until they name the new pope.

In token of their temporary authority, the members of the Sacred College traditionally wear saffron instead of purple during the Interim.

Each also, in the congregations that handle church business and in the conclave itself, will have a silken canopy over his throne.

The canopies will be lowered after the election in token of obedience to the new pope.

A wing of the Vatican palace will be given over to the conclave. The wing will be divided to make small apartments for the cardinals and some 200 aides.

Here, in the four storeys of the section, centering around the San Damaso courtyard, the conclavists will remain under lock and key, virtual prisoners, until they have chosen the successor to Pius XII.

Set aside are the apartments regularly assigned to the papal major - dome, the rooms below the papal apartment, the rooms around the dural hall, the apartments along Raphael's Loggais, and those of the pontifical almoner.

AUSTERE LIFE

Each cardinal will have three or four small rooms in which to live with his conclave secretary and personal servant. Each apartment will be outfitted with beds, tables and chairs — little more. They will be assigned by lot.

At their sessions in the Sistine Chapel, the cardinals will sit along the walls, under the silken canopies, before one on which rest silver ink wells and quill pens.

The church's severest sanction, excommunication, may be visited upon any person who violate the holy secrecy imposed on the conclave.

A lengthy oath required of the cardinals and their aides seals their lips about its doings. Only the pope may open them.

The entrance, from the bronze gate at the right of the Bernini Colonnades in St. Peter's square to the courtyard of San Damaso, will be guarded by clerks of the apostolic chamber, apostolic prosecutors, bishops who assist at the pontifical throne, and other prelates.

For the cardinals, the monotony of their existence within the conclave walls will be broken mostly by the two (or four) ballots daily and visits back and forth in the evening.

They may receive letters, books and newspapers, but they are forbidden to send printed matter.

They may also receive visits but callers must have special permission from the senior conclave official and their conversation must take place through a small opening in a door with witnesses present to see the election is not discussed.

unfailing kindness to members of the Commonwealth forces in Italy during the war years."

EISENHOWER STATEMENT

Eisenhower issued the following statement:

"The world is poorer because of the death tonight of Pope Pius XII. His was a full life of devotion to God and service to his fellow man.

"An informed and articulate foe of tyranny, he was a sympathetic friend and benefactor to thoSe who were oppressed, and his helping hand was always quick to aid the unfortunate victims of war.

"Without fear or favor, he consistiently championed the cause of a just peace among the nations of the earth. A man of profound vision, he kept pace with a rapidly changing universe, yet never lost sight of mankind's eternal destiny.

"I was privileged to know him personally. With men of goodwill everywhere, I mourn his passing."

WESTERN LEADERS

Prime Minister Macmillan sent a message from Bonn, where he is meeting with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Macmillan sent a message to the British mission at the Holy See asking it to convey to the Vatican "an expression of the deep sorrow with which the prime minister has learned" of the death of His Holiness the Pope."

Adenauer, himself a Roman Catholic, said the Pope's death was a grave loss for the whole world and for the German people in particular.

French Premier de Gaulle described Pope Pius' reign as "grand and illustrious." His life inspired courage and hope when mankind had "undergone the most terrible tests," de Gaulle said.

Austria's Chancellor Julius Raab said in Vienna that "history will number Pope Pius XII as the most prominent Pope who ever sat on the throne of Peter."

IRELAND MOURNS

The Archbishop of Dublin, Dr. J. C. McQuaid, said in a statement: "We have had the grace of living under the guidance of a holy pontiff who devoted himself without reserve to the interests of the faith."

Ireland was in mourning, flags everywhere were flown at half staff. Many private houses had drawn blinds. Radio Eireann cancelled scheduled programs to play solemn music.

The staff of Rome, Dr. Ello Toaff, said Jews "will always remember what the Catholic church did for them by order of the Pope" during the war. "When the war was raging, Pius XII spoke out very often to condemn the hide race theory," he said.

In Australia, Prime Minister Robert Menzies said Pius XII was "a great Christian leader who . . . commanded deep respect."

Method Endorsed

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's method of convicting speeding motorists by use of radar traps has been endorsed by the Supreme Court of Canada, an attorney - general's department spokesman said Wednesday.

He said that at a session in Ottawa the Supreme Court upheld an Ontario Court of Appeal ruling that radar by itself is sufficient evidence to convict a speeder.

TINY WEAPON, BIG JOLT

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—A tiny nuclear test weapon shook a mountain Wednesday when it was exploded deep in a tunnel. An huge rock jolted from the barren floor of the Atomic Energy Commission's test site jiggled perceptibly. The device, designed to yield less than one kilotom of force, was one of the smallest ever tested here.

AT THE BELLE — Inseparable pals — after a series of exciting events, 13 year old David Ladd and King, his collie sheep dog, are happily reunited in this scene from "Proud Rebel", stirring outdoor drama, filmed in Technicolor. The production stars Alan Ladd, in the role of David's father (they are father and son in real life), and lovely Olivia De Havilland. "Proud Rebel", is not a Civil War story, nor a wild west feature, playing tonight, Friday and Saturday at the Belle, matinee daily.

Gene Tunney's 2nd Honeymoon Marred by Tito

LONDON (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Gene Tunney headed for Rome Wednesday on a second honeymoon marred by President Tito's iron grip on the Adriatic isle of Brioni.

"Thirty years ago," said Tunney, "my wife and I spent most of our honeymoon on Brioni. Now Tito won't let anyone within 100 miles of the place."

"No Roman emperor ever had it so good. I am sore, plenty sore."

Tunney flew via Brussels for Rome, where he married Mary Lauder Oct. 3, 1928, at the Hotel de Russie.

"But even that's a block of bureaucratic offices now," he complained.

Tunney retired undefeated as champion in 1928. Now 62, he weighs 215 pounds — just nine pounds more than his old fighting weight — and is a rich millionaire.

A director of The Globe and Mail, Tunney has been nominated for five printing at the Toronto paper's annual election in London. The first issue appeared Wednesday and ran to 31,000 copies.

Stars Amassing Millions, Don't Work on Straight Pay

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Millionaires are nothing new in Hollywood. Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, Harold Lloyd, William S. Hart and Douglas Fairbanks made fabulous money and paid little tax on it.

But their breed died out with silent films and the rise of the major studios. Then most stars were paid weekly salaries, and rising income taxes dug into their take. It wasn't unusual for high-salaried — and high-living — stars such as Errol Flynn and Orson Welles to end up in hock.

Now the movie power has shifted from the major studios to the stars, especially a scientifically male dozen. All 12 are either millionaires or well on their way. They are amassing their millions by not working on a straight salary.

Says Cary Grant: "I get dozens of offers to do pictures for $750,000. It's not difficult to get a million dollars for a picture. A fellow like Marlon Brando could probably make $5,000,000 in a year if he wanted to work that hard. But what good would it do him? He'd lose nearly all of it in taxes."

All the stars have come to that realization. They are not only actors but financial experts as well. They and their advisers have devised means of operation that are not tax evasions but perfectly legal ways of avoiding a salaried income. Here they are:

1. The Production company. This is a throwback to the days when Pickford, Chaplin, Fairbanks and D. W. Griffith formed United Artists. It has become popular recently both as a means of sarving and keeping more money and maintaining artistic control of production.

Most of the golden dozen stars have tried their own companies. The most successful is Burt Lancaster's firm, which hit 'i rieh with Marty and Trapeze.

2. The co - production deal. A studio or producer takes care of all the details. The star offers his advice and performance and receives a portion in the deal. This system was pioneered by James Stewart, who made millions with his half - interest in such films as Winchester .73 and The Glenn Miller Story.

Stewart's earnings are strictly income, but he also owns half the negative. With such films as Bear Window and Vertigo, he and Alfred Hitchcock will end up owning the entire negative.

Profit sharing can come from either:

3. The net OR 4. The gross. Producers prefer to share a percentage of the profits with the stars. But since a film must earn double its cost before it can show a profit, stars are beginning to prefer a percentage of the gross. By taking 10 per cent of every box office dollar for The Vikings and Kings Go Forth, Tony Curtis expects to earn $1,500,000. Some stars prefer to take such earnings with:

5. The spread. Contracts can be phrased to limit payments of film income to do much each year. The most famous is Holden's River Kwai deal which may pay him $50,000 annually for the next 50 years.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVEN, Sports Editor

The Lenser comet flashed a brief golden-sparked path across the Fembroke hockey sky — then faded away into nothingness.

The timber-are treeon from Golden Lake who reared into the puck-chasing spotlight with "I've got $30,000, it's my money and I'll spend it as I wish" slithered into oblivion and left hockey-loving Pembroke with a problem, and the Eastern Senior "A" league with the possibility of a five-team circuit.

Lenser was a remarkable, if unpredictable man. He made his debut into hockey's managerial-owner ranks mid a fanfare of golden trumpets, and the promise of an Allan Cup winner.

That he did not emerge with a national champion, was not his fault insofar as securing player talent was concerned. Reports from the three senior "A" leagues stated he dangled large gobs of golden bait neath the noses of prospective stars, backed up with a not-to-be-sneezed-at salary.

Before the eastern league was finalized he kept its moguls on tenterhooks with publicity announcements that he might enter the Lumber Kings in the NOHA.

When the Eastern League magnates at a loop meeting requested he deposit $1,000 as a guarantee of good faith, he reached in his pocket and produced a cheque for that amount.

When the news broke of the Ruslan tour, Lenser quickly got in touch with the CAHA's secretary-manager, George Dudley, and requested one of the games be played in Fembroke.

Dudley told Lenser he did not think Pembroke could be included in the Russian itinerary and besides, there would have to be a guarantee of some $4,000.

"When do you want the cheque," replied Lenser, "now, or later on."

Actually, Lenser had got himself quite a hockey club. If is hard to believe he handpicked the players himself, but, no doubt, the startling playing coach Gerry Plamondon had something to do with it.

Around the nucleus of the Giesebrecht brothers, a household hockey name up around Pembroke way, he built a team whose greatest claim to fame was three defeats of the powerful Allan Cup winners from Whitby, with another game resulting in a tie.

Perhaps not the most colorful team in the league, the Lumber Kings plugged away, battling the opposition all the way and eventually overcoming the Cornwall Chanties in the semi-finals. They bowed to the Mc-Farlands in the group finals losing four, winning one and tying one.

Prior to the last game Lenser decided to change coaches. Former player Bucky Buchanan who suffered an eye injury in a league game, replaced Gerry Plamondon but the switch failed to produce any results.

Whether Bucky had any premonition of things to come, he had announced he quit the coaching job a short time ago, saying there was no hockey future in Pembroke. Three days later he was back in the fold and a week later he quit for second time, reportedly taking a coaching job with the Washington team.

With all this, it was assumed the Lumber Kings would again enter the Eastern League. The six-team schedule was drawn up and released.

Word out of Pembroke said Lenser had applied to the town council for a grant of $2,000—which was approved.

Then this strange man did a strange thing. He cut off all public relations. The local press and radio were blacklisted. No one knew what was going on. Some news leaked through an Ottawa radio station. It was reported that Lenser dropped the curtain on his activities to pique the public interest as the fans would turn out to see what he had been doing and what players he had secured.

Apparently this did not meet with the approval of the town fathers. Out of a blue sky they announced that due to lack of knowledge of what was going on hockey-wise they had decided to rescind the grant.

That, it is stated, is what prompted Lenser to toss in the sponge. He notified OHA prexy Lorne Cook that he was finished as a hockey owner-manager.

In a last-minute desperation move to keep hockey alive in Pembroke, a group of business men have taken over the loose ends. They have asked for player help from other clubs. They were assured of getting as much assistance as possible.

The new management told a league meeting Tuesday night it would render a decision by today. At this writing nothing had been heard from the northern town.

Mr. Lenser? Ron Craig of the Pembroke Observer, said he had left for Toronto to purchase a new Cadillac, and planned leaving for an extended holiday in the United States with Mrs. Lenser.

Cocky Yankees Were 11-10 Favorites Before Game

Braves' Four Errors Offset Spahn's Brilliant Effort As Bombers Grab Sixth 4-3

By JOE REICHLER

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A seemingly tight, tense Milwaukee team faced a suddenly carefree, confident New York club last night in the seventh and final game of the world series.

Lew Burdette and Don Larsen, opposing moundsmen in the seventh game of last year's world series, were virtually certain to face each other again in the payoff game for the world championship. Burdette won last year 5-0.

Despite Burdette's four victories over New York in five meetings over a two-series span, and the fact that he was pitching on home ground, the Yankees were an 11-10 favorites to gain revenge.

Their spirits soaring because of their 4-3 triumph in 10 innings Wednesday, which gave them two straight and assured the series at 3-3, the Yankees felt they would win. A threat of rain failed to dim their optimism.

"GOT THEM ON RUN"

"We're finally playing like we should," said manager Casey Stengel. "The shoe is on the other foot now. We got them on the run. We won't let up now."

Casey's enthusiasm was shared by his players.

Stengel didn't say for sure that Larsen, who hurled seven shutout innings and was credited with the third game victory last Saturday, would pitch the decisive game. It was felt likely that Don Larsen will go tomorrow."

Then he added: "It might be Jacinto Vargas. You might consider Bob Turley also. And maybe Don Darcy will be in there again."

Darcy and Turley worked in Wednesday along with starter Whitey Ford and Art Ditmar. Darcy took over in the sixth with the score tied 2-2 and pitched four scoreless innings before a walk and hits by Hank Aaron and Joe Adcock produced a Milwaukee run and forced his exit. Turley came in to retire pinchhitter Frank Torre to end the game with the tying run on third, the potential winning run on first. The victory went to Darcy, who fanned eight.

BRAVES SHAKEN

Their composure badly shaken, the Braves were banking everything on Burdette just as they did last year. Fidgety Lew was making his third start in seven days and his second in three. He won the second game 15-5 but was shelled in a six-run sixth inning of the fifth game Monday, won by the Yankees 7-0.

The Braves were a crestfallen lot in the clubhouse after the game. For the first time in the series, they appeared nervous, tense, dull and dispirited.

Manager Fred Haney was the saddest figure.

"What's there for me to say? You all saw what happened. We had plenty of chances to score. What'd we leave on base—nine?

"We should have won it in regulation nine," he added. Hoolie Lasky (Warren Spahn) pitched a brilliant game. We should have won it for him."

FOUR BRAVE ERRORS

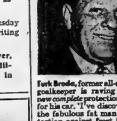
The Braves committed four errors, more than the combined total of both teams in the previous five games. Spahn, pitching with only two days rest, surrendered the first three but the fourth, a fumble by Billy Bruton, paved the way for New York's tying run.

The Braves led, 2-1 when Mickey Mantle and Elston Howard cracked back-to-back singles with none out in the sixth inning. Preston hobbled Howard's hit, his first of the series, and Mantle advanced to third. Mickey scored on Andy Carey's sacrifice fly.

The Braves got half of their 10 hits in the first two innings but scored only twice. Red Schoendienst's single, a sacrifice and Aaron's single furnished a run in the first inning. In the second, they peppered Ford for three hits and a walk but got only one run out of it.

Pinch Del Crandall struck out, Wes Covington, Andy Pafko and Spahn started the succeeding rally by 10 feet.

Two of New York's hits were home runs. Hank Bauer hit his fourth of the series in the first inning, tying a record held by Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Duke Snider. McDougald hit the other, snapping a 2-2 tie in the 10th. When Howard and Bauer singled with two outs, Don McMahon replaced the 39-year-old lefthander and gave up a run-scoring single to Bill Skowron before retiring the side.



Says Indians May Move From Cleveland

MILWAUKEE (AP) — William R. Daley, chairman of the board and director of the Cleveland Indians, said today the American League club may move out of Cleveland by next year.

Daley did not indicate where the 20-odd-million move, if it does, but there was a strong possibility the Indians might transfer to either Minneapolis or Houston, Tex.

Daley is known to be disappointed by attendance in Cleveland, which drew a major league record of 2,600,000 in 1948.

Pitching Spahn Right Move In Sixth Game Says Haney

By JOE MOOSHIL

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Manager Fred Haney of Milwaukee Braves paused for a moment, then answered:

"I would have to make the same decision again and go with Spahn."

That was Haney's answer when asked if he had to do it over would he again name Warren Spahn to pitch the sixth game of the world series with only two days rest.

"We Yankees won 4-3 in a game which turned out to be the second pennant," gulped.

No one loses harder than Spahn.

"You either win or you don't," he said in the Braves' almost deserted clubhouse after the game. "When you don't," he said, choosing his words carefully, "you're second rate, period. Anybody can wind up second."

Spahn wouldn't be Spahn if he didn't berate himself for losing a ball game, even though he battled the Yankees for 9 2-3 innings with only two days' rest.

The fact that he has pitched 28 2-3 innings and beaten the Yankees twice made little difference to the 37-year-old warrior. Had the series ended Wednesday, his total innings pitched would have gone down in the books as a new series record.

"What good is a record like that when we didn't win?" he said.

Spahn said none of Casey Stengel's crew impressed him, but "they get the job done."

"We haven't heard any of the power we're capable of," he continued. "Only a home runs in six games and one of them by Lew Burdette. Which all goes to show that the whole club would be uker ball for any manager."

Then, as the veteran pitcher made his way to the shower, he added:

"If we get beat, you'd have to say we didn't because we had a 3-1 edge in games."

SECOND THOUGHTS

Spahn did a brilliant job but how much better off would the Braves have been if they had gambled with another pitcher and had Spahn ready for today's finale with three days rest?

"He's a tremendous pitcher," said Yankee catcher Yogi Berra, "but he wasn't as good as he was Sunday when he beat us 3-0. He's tough pitching with two days rest. Look at our guy."

"Our guy" was Whitey Ford who also started with two days rest. Ford didn't last long. Manager Fred Haney figured would be manager Casey Stengel's choice. Wednesday relieved Ford and gave up only two hits —one a bunt single—in three and one-third innings.

Gump Again Hawks' Hump Tie Rangers 1-1 in Opener

By TIM CHANDLAN PRESS

Camille Henry, who scored 33 goals and won the Lady Byng Trophy last season, came through with the tying goal Wednesday night as New York Rangers managed a tie with Chicago Black Hawks in the opening game of the National Hockey League season.

The slight, 150-pound Ranger centre, whose finesse around the nets earned him the nickname "Ed," put the finishing touch to a Ranger power play at 16:56 of the second period after Pierre Pilote had given the Hawks a lead late in the first period.

Lorne Ferguson was sitting in the penalty box when Henry grabbed a rebound off the boards behind the Chicago net and beat goalie Glen Hall. Andy Bathgate and defenceman Bill Gadsby got assists.

Second game of the new schedule is tonight when Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens—last season's Stanley Cup finalists—meet at Montreal. All six league teams are to be in action during the weekend.

WORSLEY SOLID

Hawks outshot Rangers 34-30 but ran up against a solid obstacle in Gump Worsley in the New York nets.

Chicago opened the scoring late in the first period when defenceman Pilote angled a hard drive at Worsley from 30 feet out to cap a passing play by Bobby Hull and Lorne Ferguson.

After Henry tied it up, both clubs checked closely until Chicago staged a third-period surge and dominated play, outbooking Rangers 15-5.

Worsley robbed Chicago attackers on four occasions with lighting-fast moves. The most sensational came just as the final whistle blew, Worsley ended up flat on the ice clutching a pointblank drive off Ed Litzenberger's stick.

Chicago used only one of the two experienced players it picked up after last season. Tod Sloan, the former Toronto Maple Leaf centre, was used in a forward line but Harry Lumley, a defenceman picked up from Montreal Canadiens, didn't see action.

BUSY WEEKEND

This weekend the Black Hawks have a home-and-home series with Toronto, the club they nosed out for the fourth spot last season.

Rangers see weekend action against two clubs. Saturday they visit Boston Bruins, who finished fourth last year, and Sunday play host to Detroit Wings, who were third.

Saturday's other game will see Detroit at Montreal Canadiens, defending Stanley Cup champions. Sunday the Canadiens go to Boston.

The Red Wings wound up their exhibition schedule Wednesday night by beating he American Hockey League Cleveland Barons 4-0.

Zeidel Draws $200 Fine For Assault

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Larry Zeidel, 30-year-old defenceman for Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League, was fined $200 Wednesday on a charge of assaulting a police officer during a brawl at the Stamford Arena Oct. 2.

Zeidel, who lives in Montreal, also was given a suspended sentence on a charge of causing a disturbance by fighting.

Ellard (Ollie) O'Brien, 28, of St. Catharines, captain of the Hershey Club, was acquitted on a charge of obstructing a police officer in the execution of his duties.

Eddie Shack, 21, of Sudbury, rookie forward with New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, is to appear Oct. 21 on a charge of creating a disturbance by fighting. He is on $100 cash bail.

The charges stemmed from a brawl between Zeidel and Shack in the stands during an exhibition game. They had been thrown at of the game earlier after a stick-swinging duel in which Zeidel suffered two head cuts requiring 10 stitches.

WATHER CLOUDY

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The weatherman predicts a cloudy, rainy weather Wednesday night will change to partly cloudy conditions during the seventh and final game of the world series. The official forecast predicts: Mostly cloudy and fog, drizzle and possible showers during the night. Partly cloudy today, with showers likely tonight. Lowest overnight in mid-50s. High today near 70. Southerly to southwesterly winds, increasing to 15-25 miles an hour.

British Lead World Tourney By Six Strokes

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (CP) Britain carried a six-stroke lead into the second round of the world's first amateur golf championship today as teams from 39 countries battled each other, the elements and the cantankerous Old Course.

At stake in the 72-hole competition is the Eisenhower Trophy and the unofficial individual championship of the world.

The British team, led by Reid Jack with 73, posted a 27 Wednesday at winds gusting up to 50 miles an hour and blowing steadily at 25 miles an hour swept the 6,936 - yard course which lies along the Firth of Tay.

The Canadian team stood fifth with a commendable 340, made up of: Doug Bajus, Vancouver, 86-41—79; Bruce Castator, Toronto, 39-44—79; Eric Hansen, Toronto, 40-42—82; Bob Kidd, Vancouver, 45-38—83. The lowest three scores recorded for each of the four days of competition count for the team's aggregate total.

Par is 72.

The British team leads the favored United States team, which posted a 333. Argentina and New Zealand tied for third with 336. After Canada, came France with 4 and India, tied with Australia at 44.

Eighteen - year - old, 115- pound Francisco Reyes of the Philippines, who shot an 87, was blown bodily off of the 17th tee.

Raul Borges of Brazil, who posted a 99, exclaimed:

"Most of the time I was actually leaning backwards into the wind while I was putting."

Jose Barbosa of Brazil rent an approach two inches from the cup. A gust of wind blew it 30 feet away before he could push up with his putter.

If you re-fuel a power lawnmower when the motor is hot, remember that one gallon of gasoline blows up like 83 pounds of dynamite.

In The Dressing Rooms

By DION HENDERSON

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Until he met Andy Pafko lumbering home in the second inning Wednesday, Billy Herman was no oddson bet ever to become the centre of a world series controversy.

But then, with two out for Milwaukee Braves and the bases loaded and Elston Howard standing there in left field with Johnny Logan, fly ball in his glove, Herman told Pafko to go.

Pafko wouldn't have been out by much more if he'd waited but if he'd stayed put he might have changed the course of the game that went to New York Yankees 4-3.

"I wasn't going to send him in at first," Herman said. "Then at the last second I thought of that throw that Howard made in the second game, the one that went over Yogi Berra's head."

"It was a little surprised," Pafko said. "But I went. You have to take a chance on something like that. But Howard's throw was perfect."

Milwaukee manager Fred Haney took a grimly diplomatic point of view.

"That's what we've got coaches for," Haney said. "It was not in position to see the play."

BURDETTE RALLIES 'EM

The Braves' dressing room was far from dreary, with Lew Burdette in fine fettle. The big righthander, who whipped the Yankees four straight before they got to him in Monday's game, confessed to find a bright side to the defeat handed his roommate, Warren Spahn.

"Now I get another crack at them," he said.

Down the hall, the Yanks were full of praise for Spahn, who beat them in two previous 10-inning encounters—one last year, one last Wednesday—but finally met his disaster in the 13th Wednesday.

But manager Casey Stengel was dissatisfied about a number of things. For one there was that sinking liner Wes Covington hit to centre field. Second base umpire John Flaherty ruled it a trapped single.

"Sure I caught it," Mantle A. W. Abbot of Lexington, Ky. said. "But what's the use of arguing?"

"I went out and argued," Stengel said grimly, "because my fellows naturally just don't argue."

GRASS STAINS

He also called for the ball and bat rules to cover for grass stains—something reminiscent of the way Milwaukee's Nippy Jones used to rub mud under about on a ball to prove that Jones had been hit on the foot by a pitched grass stains, Casey said. But also, no change of mind by Flaherty, and the play led to a run and a temporary 3-1 lead for Milwaukee.

"There were three other calls I might have discussed, too," Casey said. "But I won't. We won, didn't we?"

New York's fireballing relief pitcher, Ryne Duren, said he didn't remember making any "choke - up" gestures to frighten viewers though they saw after plate umpire Charlie Berry called a fourth ball on Johnny Logan in the 10th.

SPORT IN BRIEF

GET NHL CUTS

KITCHENER (CP) — Defenceman Dick Mattiuzi from St. Michael's College Majors and Bill Saunders, a centre from Windsor, arrived here Wednesday to join Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association. Both were cut from Rochester Americans' camp. Don Smith, a goalie from Galt, and Ken Ellingwood, also joined the Dutchmen Wednesday. He is being sought by Washington of the U.S. Eastern League.

CHAMPION STUD

BRANTFORD (CP) — Blue Man, which topped America's three-year-olds in winnings in 1958 with $277,023, will be syndicated for stud duty in Canada. Blue Man, whose victories included the Preakness and the Kentucky Derby, was bought by Frank R. Ocrilla and has been stabled at Conklin Farms Limited near here. Blue Man has Man O' War on both sides of his pedigree. His previous owner was A. W. Abbot of Lexington, Ky.

Yogi Is Top Record-Breaker In World Series

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Eleven world series records have been broken or extended and seven tied through six games in the 1958 competition between Milwaukee Braves and New York Yankees.

Yankee catcher Yogi Berra has done most of the record-smashing. He has established new standards for most hits in total series (40), most total bases in the series (80) and most times at bat, total series (219). Yogi also tied a record for most series participated in, 10—a mark he shares with Babe Ruth and Joe Dimaggio.

Records broken:

Most games, total series — 60, Berra (extended own, record).

Most consecutive games, one or more total hits, total series—17, Hank Bauer, New York (extended own mark).

Most runs, short inning, one club—7, Milwaukee (old mark, 6 by New York NL, Oct. 15, 1913).

Records tied:

Most series played—10, Berra (also held by Babe Ruth, Boston and New York AL and DiMaggio)

Most home runs, series — 4, Bauer (also held by Lou Gehrig, New York AL; Ruth; and Duke Snider, Brooklyn NL).

Most runs, 6th inning, one club —6, New York, fifth game (also held by Boston AL, Oct. 7, 1903 and New York NL, Oct. 4, 1933).

Most home runs, inning, one club—2, New York, Bauer and Mantle, second game (also held by 14 other clubs).

Most double plays started, outfielder, series—2, Elston Howard, New York (also held by three other outfielders).

Most assists, pitcher, inning—3, Bob Rush, Milwaukee, third game (also held by three other pitchers).

Most series won, allowed, se- by six other pitchers).

SUSPEND FIGHTER

LONDON (AP)—Tonga Island heavyweight Kilione Lave was booked to meet showman Joss Burton in a barnstorming fight to the finish Sept. 12. The fight never came off after police objections. Barnstorming fights are barred by law. Now the British board of boxing control has suspended Lave for six months after his manager explained: "We were short of fights at the time." Lave knocked out Don Cockell shortly before the former British champion retired in 1956.

strong spiritual leadership in the days ahead."

FORCE FOR GOODNESS

Rev. P. P. W. Ziemann, secretary-treasurer of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec, said the Pope "was a force for goodness and right living in the world although we did not agree with the religion that he headed."

Rt. Rev. Ernest Reed, Anglican Bishop of Ottawa, said Pius XII "was respected and revered not only by those who came within his jurisdiction but by all the religious . . . We commend him to the mercy of God."

Similar tributes were issued by leaders of Jewish, Presbyterian, Lutheran and other denominations, and by government and community prominents. Radio and TV stations cancelled regular schedules to broadcast comments and appropriate music.

NEW REGULATIONS

Pius XII was responsible for such legislation as new regulations for the Eucharistic fast, reformed Easter vigil services and evening masses which made a deep impression on the lives of Canadian Catholics.

His many letters and addresses have been carefully studied in Canada, and some were specifically addressed to Canadians.

The late Pope since his elevation to the papacy created two new Canadian archdiocesan, at Sherbrooke and Rimouski in Quebec.

He created eight new dioceses, including one at Fort William.

During Pius's rule one Canadian — Marguerite Bourgeois, founder of the Congregation de Notre Dame, a nun's teaching order—was beatified. This means the French-born nun, who lived from 1620 to 1700, is one step from being declared a saint.

Quemoy, Matsu Not Needed to Defend Formosa

FOPT WILLIAM (CP)—The islands of Quemoy and Matsu are "not needed" in the defence of Formosa, says Liberal Leader Lester Pearson.

What is really needed is a cease-fire which will allow a United Nations force to take over the islands until the matter has been settled through diplomatic talks, he said.

The Nobel Peace Prize winner told a Canadian Club luncheon here Wednesday the Chinese Nationalist forces should be withdrawn and replaced by the UN force to prevent the Chinese Communists from the mainland taking over.

Canada should not accept a commitment which would get her involved in the Chinese civil war. It is not enough to say we have no commitment to fight in such a war. Canada should tell the United States she will not help defend the two tiny islands.

WAR ELEMENTS

The Liberal leader said all the elements of a third world war are involved in this Far East conflict and Canada must defend herself collectively with other nations.

The coalition of nations also must keep thel rmasslve retaliatory forces strong enough to act as a deterrent to Russia, said Mr. Pearson.

Earlier, Mr. Pearson told a press conference the bill of rights, to be introduced at Parliament's next session, will have little value.

It deals only with federal jurisdiction and the provinces still can do as they please, he said.

The BIGGEST Little Merchant In Town...

Your newspaperboy is a merchant in every sense of the word—

1. Like all independent businessmen, he buys his product at wholesale—and sells it at retail.
2. He learns that good service and punctual delivery are the best way to keep his customers happy—and improve his business.
3. Along with all other merchants, he makes collections, handles money and keeps financial records.
4. To increase his profits, he learns the art of salesmanship—and signs up new customers.

Today your Little Merchant newspaperboy is beginning to understand the problems of other businessmen—and is learning that time, work and "know-how" are all needed to run a successful business.

Tomorrow he will be among the most successful businessmen in this community.

If you think your son or some other youngster might profit by being a Newspaperboy on a part-time, city-wide or zoned route, come in and talk to us!

ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

Note to Subscribers: Please have your money ready when your Newspaperboy makes his collections. It will save him time and will also help him maintain his profits.

MELROSE

WI Meet Features Panel On Education

MELROSE — The Melrose W.I. held their regular monthly meeting at the home Mrs. J. McLaren with a large attendance.

Mrs. K. McMechan, 1st. vice-president, presided and conducted the business period during which delegates were appointed to attend the area convention to be held in Belleville later this month. A committee was appointed to make final arrangements for catering to the Farmers' Union banquet early in November.

Mrs. G. Stratton, convener of citizenship and education, took charge of the program and gave a reading entitled "Mistaken Values", after which Mrs. T. Howard read "A Report Card Tells All", which explained the true meaning of the teacher's remarks found on that important card. A humorous reading by Mrs. J. Sherman, "It Always Happens to Me", told of the situation a busy housewife encounters when the minister comes to call.

A most interesting panel discussion on "The Pros and Cons of Modern Education" was enjoyed by all. Mrs. C. Weese acted as moderator with Mrs. G. McLaren and Miss N. Scott re-cons. Mrs. M. Lazier recited a humorous poem, "If My Wife Thought School", and Mrs. Stratton conducted a paper contest, which was won by Mrs. E. Pascoe and Mrs. C. Long.

At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served.

Parents Interested In Child's Schoolwork

The parents show interest in the child's schoolwork; is homework necessary? Should a child have a regular bedtime? Should grade 8 students repeat the full year if marks are on the borderline? All the points were summarized and it was agreed that it takes parent and teacher working together to make a complete success.

Mrs. M. Lazier recited a humorous poem, "If My Wife Thought School", and Mrs. Stratton conducted a paper contest, which was won by Mrs. E. Pascoe and Mrs. C. Long.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, October 10

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — The ideal day to delve into labors that have to do with your garden, clothing, clearing out closets, storerooms, etc. Also fine for increasing harmony with fellow workers, being more efficient at job. P. M. lend a helping hand.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A. M. is ideal for attending to such things as study, children, apparel, perfecting hobbies, etc. P. M. be with those you most enjoy and have a delightful time. Be affectionate and you will be loved in return. Have fun!

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — A. M. is excellent for doing nice things for family ties that will endear you to them. Repair leaks, faucets, etc. Make house spick and span. Tonight relax or have guests in for a quiet and delightful evening's entertainment.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — Do all your errands and shop in the morning. Then confer with partners and get plans organized for coming week. P. M. is then open for all sorts of group affairs and business meetings if necessary. Make this a banner day.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Take inventory today of all your assets and liabilities and know exactly where you stand. Then set up a more efficient system. Dress, health habits, etc. P. M. to A. M. is ideal for having a long conference with wise advisor of long standing and proven worth.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — A. M. is excellent for following your emotions and your hobbies after you have impressed others with your good sense in fine for social affairs that are swanky and dignified. Meet interesting people.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Any secret or personal affairs that need your special attention should be handled today and you will have fine results. P. M. is excellent for romance, happiness. Be sure you serve others, too.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Cooperating sincerely with associates and friends in some joint venture will be productive of greater results than you anticipate. P. M. is ideal for relaxing with comrades and having an enjoyable evening.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Anything of a mundane nature is fine to concentrate your energies on today. But see to it that your prestige is increased, credit extended, job made more important. P. M. treat your employer to a nice dinner.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Your paper and other printed media hold the keys to many things for which you have long searched. Do not fear, to jump into modern things and to widen your vistas. P. M. become better acquainted with new friend.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — While helping others first, but fine data and ideas will result there from. P. M. take a little trip to some nice new spot and have an enjoyable and happy evening.

If your child is born today ... The fascinating little child born today is the kind who will be a stickler for cleanliness and neatness, order. No trouble with toys here! The chart is particularly good for professions such as dentistry, chemistry, nursing, religious healing, technician, etc. But it will be your duty to enlarge the scope and vistas here, or your progeny may be content with just a small, routine existence.

18 or 80 You May Feel Tired, Nervous, Rundown

Faulty Digestion, Headaches, Backache, Constipation Are Common Causes, That is Why Syniona Herbal Compound Has Helped Thousands.

How many times have you said you would give anything to be able to eat three good meals a day without getting that heavy bloated feeling, sour acid rising, heartburn, nervous headache and that dull, tired, dragging feeling.

For temporary relief from all this misery, Mr. Joseph Wright, 186 Springbank Drive, Leaside, Ontario, who said: "I have been troubled with constipation for the past seven years and my stomach would become upset and upset. I had little appetite and would feel tired all the time. I felt my sleep was restless. I often felt worse in the mornings than I did the night before.

Syniona has given me wonderful relief from all that trouble. Constipation and indigestion are relieved. I have a hearty appetite, sleep soundly and feel fine. Syniona is wonderful and I have regained my pep and ambition to do my work."

BEST CROP OF TOBACCO COUNTY

DEATH ENDS

ANNOUNCES DEATH

The Pope's death was announced by Rev. Francesco Pellegrino, a Jesuit priest who had broadcast the deathbed developments from an antechamber throughout Wednesday.

A heavy chain, placed between two concrete posts at the entrance of the palace, symbolically closed the residence pending the election of a new pope.

For one hour the bells tolled. Their sound echoed across the countryside, and down the Appian Way. The bells of Rome took up the toll, led by the boom of the Campanone, the master bell at St. Peter's.

In the Pope's last hours, expressions of hope for his recovery had come from around the world and from people of all creeds. These messages now turned to expressions of sorrow.

TASS CARRIES NEWS

The Soviet news agency Tass, which had not reported the Pope's illness, reported his death in a brief dispatch.

The death of Pius XII did not deprive the church of his guidance. He left behind scores of encyclicals, speeches and other documents that have become part of Roman Catholic heritage.

He literally worked himself to death, in the opinion of Vatican officials.

The last two months here were among the busiest of his reign, although Castel Gandolfo is supposed to be a place of rest. Almost daily during September he addressed large audiences.

As October started, he was clearly fatigued. Gastritis and hiccups, which had brought him close to death four years ago, returned last week. His doctors suggested he reduce his work load.

HAD STROKE MONDAY

Early Monday he was stricken by a cerebral circulatory attack — a stroke. He rallied slightly Tuesday. Early Wednesday there was a second stroke which left him in a coma and partially paralyzed.

In the afternoon he suffered a grave cardiac pulmonary collapse. A kidney block troubled him. His temperature rose to 107.6 degrees.

Cardinals and other high church prelates, gathered in his room, waited his labored breathing. His relatives and personal aides were there. In all about 30 persons were present.

MOURNING MASS

A rosary was in the pontiff's left hand, a crucifix on his chest. A mourning mass was said for the dying.

His doctors watched him closely. Then, when his time had come, they notified Cardinal Tisserant, who entered the plain white chamber with its brass bedstead and performed the traditional service of recognition of death.

The body was embalmed immediately and dressed in the pontifical robes.

Vatican dignitaries began a mournful pilgrimage to the bier, to kneel in prayer and to kiss his hand for the last time.

Thank You!

On behalf of the Tyendinaga Citizens' Committee, I wish to extend my sincere appreciation for the success in the plebiscite vote of Sept. 10 last, given to the negative side by the citizens of the township and the Indian reserve. My thanks for their vote, and their response to the financial appeal by the citizens of the township; for the support of the clergy of the township, the radio addresses by Mrs. J. A. Blackburn and Mr. Bram Humphreys of Belleville, and to my active workers again a hearty thanks.

Brooks Allen,
Campaign Manager.

Three Cardinals From Italy Head Papal Candidates

Mourners Crowd Roads As Pope Taken to Rome

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Three Italians among the 25 members of the Sacred College of Cardinals are considered by observers here to stand the best chance of being elected successor to Pope Pius XII.

Of the 27 non-Italian cardinals, six are French, Brazil, Spain and the United States have three each. Canada has two.

The best prospects are Cardinal Clongnani, prefect of the congregation of rites, Cardinal Lercaro, archbishop of Bologna, and Cardinal Siri, archbishop of Genoa.

Though the college of cardinals is today more international than ever in its history, the chance of a non-Italian being elected still is regarded as remote.

ITALIANS HEAVY

With the increasing international spread of Catholicism under Pius XII, Italian representation in the college fell to about one-third—18 out of the present 55—but the Pope also is primate of Italy and archbishop of Rome as well as sovereign of the Vatican State and the nomination of a non-Italian would raise complications.

The last non-Italian pope was Adrian VI of Utrecht, the only Dutch pontiff, who died in 1523.

Cardinal Lercaro, known as the "shipping cardinal," a small, ever-smiling dock-worker priest, is noted for his unorthodox methods of fighting Communism in Bologna, heart of "Red" Italy. He visits the poorest areas of his diocese, meeting and talking to workers on equal terms.

Cardinal Siri, elected a cardinal at 46, has a great reputation as a theologian and promoter of Catholic social doctrines.

AGE OPPOSES

Cardinal Clongnani, papal diplomat with all the training for the papacy, has age against him—he is 76.

If the next pope is not an Italian Vatican experts believe he almost certainly will be the bearded patriarch of the Armenians, Cardinal Agagnianian, reported to be one of the most scholarly figures of the church. The patriarch is one of the two cardinals representing the 9,000,000 Catholics of the Eastern (non-Roman) rite and the 15 bishops of Rome.

Other notable cardinals are: Pierre Gerlier, 78, archbishop of Lyon, France: regarded as the champion of the conservative "worker-priests" who took laborjng jobs to spread Christianity in the factories.

JOSEPH FRINGS

Francis Spellman, 60, archbishop of New York: a private with modest talents but a reputation for close personal friend of Pius XII.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:— Much cooler weather moved from southwestern Ontario this morning accompanied by showers and a few thunderstorms and a swift sweep eastward across the Great Lakes of the prairie provinces. A vigorous storm centre over Lake Superior is moving eastward causing rain in central Ontario and heavy snow over northern sections of the province.

Generally cloudy and cool weather with strong winds is expected over southern Ontario on Saturday and scattered showers are likely. In Northern Ontario cloudy and unsettled skies will prevail and light snowfalls are expected during the day.

ROME (AP) — The body of Pope Pius XII, clad in lowered robes, was brought today for the last time to the basilica of St. John Lateran to lie in state as Bishop of Rome.

The funeral cortege, which started from the pontiff's Castel Gandolfo summer residence where he died Thursday, arrived at the basilica at 3:25 p.m.

Hundreds of thousands of people were packed in the basilica and in the square and piazza adjoining it. Throughout Italy, millions more listened to or watched the funeral program on radio and television.

Other thousands had lined the 18-mile route, part of it along the Appian Way, as the procession passed.

The first time was in splendor to take possession of the basilica after his election as Bishop of Rome and head of the Roman Catholic Church March 3, 1939.

ENTERED AS PILGRIM

The second time was on Aug. 15, 1950 Holy Year, when, garbed as a simple priest, he entered the basilica as a pilgrim. He walked into the basilica.

The sun-blazed hot then, as it did today.

From the Cathedral of St. John Lateran, the ancient mother church of the basilica, the funeral procession led to Vatican City, the tiny state of which he had been supreme to take possession of the basilica after his election as Bishop of Rome and head of the Roman Catholic Church March 3, 1939.

CROWDS SILENT

Thousands of persons stood at attention. The huge crowd stood silent.

In Rome's Holy Year, its cannons knelt as pallbearers lifted the pontiff's coffin and carried it into the basilica.

The pontiff's chair bearers, who in life carried him, stood unemployed in his throne, carried the coffin. They moved slowly.

The chair bearers were noble guards of the pontifical court, in gold dress, and with plumed helmets.

FORMALLY CLAD

The body was clad in the most formal episcopal robes. Over a white silk cassock with a long train was draped his red, white silk, a full-length vestment reaching to the floor. He wore a red and gold dalmetic, another vestment, and a red chasuble, or sleeveless cloak. About his neck was the pallium, ade of lamb's wool.

On his head was a tall golden mitre. There were red gloves on his hands and red slippers on his feet. Those are the robes in which he is to be buried, wrapped in a red silk shroud.

The body was drawn on the solemn carriage route of the procession led to St. Peter's Basilica in Vatican City where the funeral will take place Sunday or Monday.

It's Moose Mating Season in North And as Usual Bulls in Mean Mood

CHAPLEAU (CP) — It's moose mating season in the north and, as usual, the bulls are in a mean mood. Two incidents in the past week bear out this point.

Lloyd Woods, a deputy chief forest ranger, was driving a truck near Lund Lake one night last week when a bull moose stepped into his head-light beam.

Assuming it would move off into the bush, Woods slowed the truck but didn't quite stop. The bull charged, slopped the vehicle in its tracks, smashed the right lead the bumper and tore a carrier off the roof.

Ranger Harry Kohls was working on a line-cutting project in a nearby township when he heard a car coming. Kohls looked back to find a huge bull moose behind him.

The ranger hurled his axe. It was the wrong move. The bull started after him and Kohls fled. He still had a lead when he reached a nearby road an was picked up by a passing truck.

NEW POPE MAY BE ONE OF THESE

Possible successor as Pope is Ernesto Cardinal Ruffini, 70, Archbishop of Palermo, Sicily. Known as a strong administrator and organizer.

Bearded Cardinal Tisserant, 76, dean of the College of Cardinals, may emerge as Pope when the cardinals convene to elect a successor.

Election of Gregory Peter Cardinal Agagianian, 63, would mean the first non-Italian in 400 years on Peter's throne. He is Russian-born.

U.S. AND BRITAIN REJECT RUSSIAN PARLEY PROPOSAL

Want Ambassadors To Talk at Geneva

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Britain are sticking to their idea that special ambassadors—not their foreign ministers — should seek to negotiate an agreement banning nuclear weapons tests.

The two governments have drafted a note to Moscow turning down a Soviet proposal that foreign ministers of the three powers meet at Geneva Oct. 31 for that purpose.

Diplomatic informants indicated however that the Western powers will leave the way open for a possible meeting of foreign ministers to ratify such an agreement if and when it has been worked out by East-West negotiators at a lower level.

Some diplomats said that in drafting the note the two governments sought to give a "yes but" reply to Russia's unexpected call for a conference of foreign ministers.

GIVE NO EXCUSE

Their purpose, it is said, is to avoid being placed in the completely negative position—a position the Soviet government might use as a reason for scuttling the projected Geneva meeting entirely.

The three powers had agreed earlier that they would meet at Geneva Oct. 31 to negotiate on the political problems of a test suspension agreement.

U.S. state department officials have estimated that these issues cannot be negotiated in less than five or six weeks.

State Secretary Dulles was represented as feeling that he could not commit himself exclusively to one issue for such a long period. Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd has been reported as holding the same view.

Nationalist and Red Planes Battle Over Formosa Strait

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Jet fighters of the Chinese Nationalists and Communists battled over the Formosa Strait today. The Nationalists said five Red planes were downed at a cost of one of theirs.

The Nationalist air force said its machine-gun fire from its F-86 Sabre jets shot down four MIG-17s. A Sabre jet collided with a fifth MIG, sending both crashing into the ocean and killing the Nationalist pilot, a spokesman said.

Peiping radio said Communist planes shot down two Nationalist Sabre jets and damaged a third. It said one Nationalist pilot "has been captured alive." There was no mention of Red losses.

The Nationalists also claim they have shot down 34 MIGs and damaged or possibly destroyed 11 more since the Communists bombarded the Quemoy islands Aug. 23, but the Communists say they have lost only four-plane in today's collision.

The Nationalist air force said its U.S.-supplied Sabre jets—which were not used in today's 30-min-ite butte battle. Machine-gun fire accounted for the victories, it reported.

News of the battle climaxed the observance on Formosa of the 47th anniversary of the revolution that overthrew the Manchu dynasty and led to establishment of the Chinese Republic.

President Chiang Kai-shek said in his annual address that the Nationalists had won the first round of the battle of Quemoy. He predicted they would win the "second round" and eventually would recover the mainland from the Chinese Communists.

The cease-fire around the Quemoys continued into its fifth day, and the Nationalists moved ahead supplies into the offshore islands.

There still is no clear indication whether the Communists intend to renew shelling of the Quemoy group, self - imposed cease-fire ends at midnight Sunday. American officials in Taipei generally believed the Reds will not start the bombardment again.

They were cocked Thursday, it was saw, where the U.S. and Communist Chinese ambassadors were to resume negotiations today.

Major Canadian Exports May Get Big Lift by Loans Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian exports may be given a big lift next year with government plans to move into the field of long-term loans, mainly to stimulate sales of factories, mills and other projects requiring huge supplies of capital goods.

Legislation say legislation involving large-scale revision of the 15-year-old Export Credits Insurance Corporation likely will be introduced at the next session of parliament.

Involved in the long-term lending scheme would be attempts by Canada in a small way to compete with the United States, Britain and West Germany for markets which cannot afford to buy supplies of goods on a cash basis.

The loans would be aimed at stimulating the flow of orders in Canadian factories faced with idle labor and machines.

TO INCLUDE WHEAT

Officials said as envisaged now, the loans scheme would cover some agricultural products, such as wheat, as well as industrial goods but would not likely include consumer goods.

The view is that the Crown-owned Export Credits Corporation would be given credit up to five years and this would be sufficient for such commodity products as refrigerators, washing machines, furniture and rugs.

The big problem is in the financing of multi-million - dollar projects, such as those of pulp and mills. Britain, U.S. and West Germany provide long - term credit, up to 25 years or more.

The Canadian government may not go that far, perhaps providing credit up to 10 years but the feeling among the experts is that this would be ample, since importers contemplating a project that may take some years to construct, would be able to borrow on each part progressively for the 10-year period.

Bell Telephone Given 5 Per Cent Rate Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—Bell Telephone Company today was authorized by the Board of Transport Commissioners to increase local and long distance rates within Ontario and Quebec by an average of about five per cent.

The rate changes, which vary widely in different localities by service, are calculated to yield the company around $17,000,000 a year.

They range between 10 and 40 cents a month for residence service.

The increase for business phones would be from $1.05 cents to $1.65 a month.

Increases in long distance tolls are relatively minor. There would be a general increase in person-to-person calls, and no discount on such calls for night and Sunday calls would be reduced, the amount of reduction depending on the distance.

Increases in person-to-person day rates for the initial three-minute speaking period range from five cents at the first mileage level to 25 cents and 35 miles to 45 cents at 700 miles, then down to a five-cent boost at 1,000 miles. From there on there are reductions.

Person-to-person night rates increase between five cents to $1.05 up to 700 miles. After that, the top increase is 55 cents.

The board decision authorizes the company to put the rate changes into effect on Nov. 1, as it sought. By and large, the board granted the company what it wanted. Hearings held here during the last month.

PROVINCES LOSE FIRST ROUND IN RATE FIGHT

Increase Application Will Go to Board

OTTAWA (CP)—Provinces trying to block a railway freight rate increase have lost out on the first round.

The eight governments missed Tuesday in a last-minute attempt to have cabinet order set the board of transport commissioners to throw out the companies' application for a 19-per-cent general increase amounting to about $60,000,000 a year.

However, they served notice they should be heard again and the increase, they will be back with their petition to the cabinet.

The provincial governments—all except Ontario and Quebec—presented their petition to the cabinet while the board was in the last stages of a five-day hearing on the rate case.

They asked that the ministers order the commissioners to "desist" from the hearings and throw out the railway case, on the ground the transport board lacks jurisdiction in this particular application.

But the board finished up the hearing Thursday in the day without getting any word from the cabinet. The petition is expected in about a fortnight.

So far as could be learned, the cabinet order in council immediate consideration by the federal cabinet.

Th eprovinces petitioned the cabinet on the claim the railways have no business going to the transport board for an increase per freight charges when they have not actually started paying the wage boosts the freight tolls are supposed to cover.

The railway have taken the unprecedented step of asking the board to authorize higher rates before they start paying the higher wages.

Lanky Ontario Cattle Farmer New Champion

CRYSLER, Ont. (CP)—A lanky Ontario cattle farmer is the new Canadian public speaking champion and a Prince Edward Island agriculture student has earned the right to team with him in the world competition.

Charlie Taylor, 21, of Princeton, Ont., knocking on the door of the event the last two years, topped the seven-speaker, three-man field Thursday by gulping his two-point lead to a total 147 points out of a possible 200.

Grant Wilson, 22, Stouffville high school graduate, was runner-up, as in the Ontario championships Wednesday, with 140.5 points. Third place headed Carl Willis, 20, of Cornwall, P.E.I., agriculture student at MacDonald College. Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., who scored 140.3.

Under the system Read pulls the honors, student Willis accompanies Taylor to the world match next October at Coleraine, Northern Ireland. The two representatives must be from two provinces.

Pope in His Last Will Asks Pardon Of All Whom I May Have Harmed'

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—"I humbly ask pardon of all whom I may have offended, harmed or scandalized by word or by deed," Pope Pius XII wrote in his last will an testament published today.

In the testament, published by order of the cardinals who have been over supreme power of the church, the pontiff declared:

"I name as my sole legatee the Holy Apostolic See from which I have had so much, as from a most living mother."

St. Pope speaks

"I pray those, whose affair it is, to bestow the most any monument to my memory except that it is that my poor mortal remains should be simply laid in a sacred place, the more obscure the better.

"I have no need to ask for prayers for my soul. I know how numerous are those souls in the bosom of the Apostolic See and the piety of the faithful cause to be offered for every pope who dies worthiness."

Gunman Pinned By Searchlights Fights 100 Men

$75 Holdup at Toronto Winds up in Wild Duel

TORONTO (CP) — A gunman pinned by searchlights in an apartment window shot at police Thursday night in a startling sequel to a $75 holdup which saw two fugitives and a constable killed.

The man, standing defiantly in the glare of lights with a gun in each hand, was seriously wounded as more than 100 police fired into the apartment with bullets. He and another suspect were taken to hospital.

A third suspect escaped when officers sought to question the last suspect of a five-day hunt and considered dangerous.

A description of the gunman was broadcast on police radios as every available officer converged on the area but was the biggest since that of notorious William Boyd gang in 1935.

Members of the homicide and holdup squads were armed with new tear gas and machine gun ammunition. About 125 men, carrying machine guns and heavy rifles, were hunting for the gunman.

Supplies of tear gas and heavy ammunition were put up last weekend at Camp Borden with members of the city's holdup squad were first to practice with their weapons.

CONSTABLE SHOT

Constable H. Mulrouge was shot in the stomach as he stood beneath the apartment window. He was in serious condition in hospital, the bullet still lodged in his body.

Police said William Vern Eagles, 26, and Frank Pelow, 34, were in hospital with bullet wounds.

Police Chief James Mackey identified Pelow as the man who fired from the second - storey apartment in east-end Toronto. As he shouted taunts at police firing from the safety shelter of doorways and parked cars.

"Come on you can do better than that," the suspect yelled as bullets splattered window frames walls and ceilings around him.

POLICEMAN RESCUED

Below, officers crawled on hands and knees against the wall of the building to rescue Mulrouge, who had been shot as he walk. They dragged him along the curb to a waiting ambulance amid flying bullets.

As police shot into the apartment from the street, other officers fired through the apartment door, smashed it down to find the suspect slumped on the floor. Blood was spattered on the window sill, bed and furniture.

HOLDUP STORE HOLDUP

The gun battle started after three men fled from Lazenby's Drug Store on Danforth Road just north of Queen Street. The trio went into a cafe near the drug store and robbed a customer and two constables who recognized

Official Mourning For His Holiness Begins Saturday

VATICAN CITY (AP) —The nine days of official mourning for Pope Pius XII will not begin until Saturday.

The entire service of mourning will take place in St. Peter's Basilica, without the usual final three days of services in the Sistine Chapel nearby.

Burial in the grottos beneath the basilica probably will not be on Monday, Oct. 13, four days after the pontiff's death.

All these are changes from the normal rites and procedures of the Roman Catholic church for the funeral and burial of its popes.

The changes decided upon by the conclave of the cardinals already in Rome, were caused by the unusual circumstances of Pope XII's death at the summer palace in Castel Gandolfo, 15 miles west by centuries since any pope has died outside Rome.

TO AID THE CROWDS

The modifications also see extended to make it easier for the hundreds of thousands of Romans and visitors to view the Pope's body and participate in the services.

In the past the bodies of popes have been taken from their death chambers in the Apostolic Palace to the Sistine Chapel for reposing. The body of Pius XII was to lie in state in the basilica itself.

BOOMS REOPEN SATURDAY

Instead the great doors of St. Peter's Basilica will be locked tonight when the Pope's body arrives. They will be unlocked and open again until Saturday morning, formally opening the nine days of services.

These will continue from Oct. 11 until Sunday, Oct. 19.

At first, the services in St. Peter's will be held at the high Altar of the Cathedral Choir. During the last days, the services will be before the Confessional of the Blessed Sacrament.

Again the reason is that this will make it easier for processions visiting the vast throngs expected daily.

Usually popes are buried on the third day after death. Pius XII will probably be buried Oct. 15, the third day of mourning but the fourth day after death.

Speakers Claim Local Centres To Rehabilitate Rheumatic, Arthritic Patients Needed

Enos David, president of the Quinte region of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, chaired that organization's annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte last evening. About 110 persons attended the dinner meeting to hear the guest speakers, Doctors H. Garfield Kelly and Bruce Young, both professors at Queen's University, Kingston. They were introduced by Dr. Jim Lovell.

The dual address was started by Dr. Kelly, who gave a synopsis of the nine - year - old history of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society. The original purpose of the Society, which was to stimulate research in the rheumatic diseases, has been well developed with numerous research projects being carried on in many universities across Canada. About sixty graduate medical students have been sent abroad for specialized research in rheumatic diseases and they either have or will be returning to Canada to further research here.

The major problem now facing the main purpose of the Society is that of providing adequate facilities for treatment and rehabilitation of patients on the local scenes. These problems of management, medical therapy and hospital treatment of advanced cases, and rehabilitations, are what the Society will have to cope with in the forthcoming years, according to Dr. Kelly. Community service appears to be the best answer to these problems. But this, in turn, raises other difficulties.

Training facilities are required to instruct physio-therapists, for which there is a shortage and the Society has to look outside of Canada, where such training centres in the community are needed so that staff physiotherapists can attend to patients at one point rather than spend time visiting patients travelling from one home to another. Community workers are also needed to visit shut-ins. These are the general overall problems which the Society will have to meet in the next decade states Dr. Kelly. He then turned the discussion over to Dr. Young.

MUST HAVE CENTRE

Dr. Young then launched into a description of the rehabilitation centre and explained as to why that work was probably the most important feature in the treatment of patients. He described rehabilitation as being like a bumble-bee. Where it is a scientific and aerodynamic fact that a bee cannot fly, the bee does it anyway; so too, where a person afflicted by a rheumatic disease may be unable to function as a normal citizen, he can fulfill his part as a member of our society. Through determination, persistence and patience a human being, who might be considered as invalid, can be rehabilitated.

A complete rehabilitation centre, explained Dr. Young, includes social workers, physiotherapists and trained psychologists, as well as the administrative staff, equipment and adequate space and funds. Through selecting together as a team these people can return their patients to a state of well-being by overcoming their physical handicaps and proving to the patients that they can be useful citizens. Dr. Young also described the Kingston rehabilitation centre with which he and Dr. Kelly is associated. The extent of treatment of more of these centres is a project with which the society's members "must and can go forward", said Dr. Young, in conclusion.

A short question-and-answer session followed. Among the questions asked was one to the effect as to the grounds for allowing a patient to enter a centre for constant care. It was stated that presently, in the Kingston centre, patients are admitted upon reference to the centre by their family physician. What is required for a small centre was another question. The answer: adequate space, enough for a reception room and treatment room, equipment in working water, and physiotherapy equipment such as hot wax bath, treatment plinths and infra-ray lamps.

TRY TO HELP OTHERS

Mr. John Pearson, Executive Director of the Canadian Arthritis division of the Society, stated that it had been found that rheumatic diseases attacks faster and more effective rehabilitation of patients can be the use of group therapy. When several patients are gathered together they usually forget about their own problems and try to help others with theirs. Perhaps the major obstacle, that of getting a patient to overcome his fears, can more easily be solved than when a patient is alone. Mr. Pearson also said realize others have the same or greater illness than himself.

Dr. Young's remarks were thanked by Dr. F. R. Ross.

Ernest G. Gurnett gave the annual secretary - treasurer's report, announcing that the last membership campaign netted $1,139. Mrs. Jessie David reported on the activities of the Ladies' Auxiliary which, amongst other things, had conducted two card parties for shut-in patients during the past year. Mr. Fred C. Adams gave the report of the nominating committee. The members present accepted the slate as proposed. The executive for the next fiscal year will be Mr. Enos David, president; Mr. Ian Gilchrist, secretary - treasurer; Mrs. Jessie David, head of the Ladies' Auxiliary; and Dr. Jim Loynes, chairman of the medical advisory board.

The resignation of the Quinte district's physio - therapist, Miss "Heli" Williams, was announced by Mr. D. Leighton. Miss Williams, who is originally a native Wales, was presented with a gift representative of her stay in Canada — a "new" home. The members of the board also collected enough sufficient to present Miss Williams with a set of matched luggage.

Visitors at the dinner meeting, which was opened with grace by Rev. Reverend J. Hooper, included Mr. John Pearson, Ontario division executive secretary, Mr. Leighton, Quinte district Mr. Beaupre, public relations officer for the Society, and the board members of the Kingston branch.

Belleville Man Loses Appeal In Damage Suit

TORONTO (CP)—A 39-year-old Belleville man, who sued a Toronto amusement company for $17,000 damages for injuries suffered when mauled by a lion, lost out for a second time Thursday before the Ontario Appeal Court.

Last May, Mr. Justice E. G. Thompson dismissed the suit, but Mr. Justice Roach ruled against the T. Green Amusement Company, ruling that it was liable for his own misfortune. The Appeal Court supported the ruling.

Evidence was that Young, a casual employee of the company had followed a travelling midway show, was injured near Quebec City in 1952. He was reaching for a sign—which warned the public against going close to the lion's cage—when the animal reached through the bars and injured his arm.

Mr. Justice Thompson ruled he was unable to find fault on the part of the company and therefore assumed the risk of injury.

Finalize Plans For Canvass

Division Chairman J. E. McArthur met with Group Chairmen and Captains from each of his Division to make final plans for the campaign which will get under the Canvassers' kits.

The Construction industry is headed by Mr. Ken Reid, assisted by Mr. Douglas Black as Group Chairman with the following captains assisting: Contractors and Architects, Mr. Morris Rollins; Electrical, Mr. Ken Reid; Plumbing and Heating, Mr. William R. Hall; Building Supplies, Lumber and Hardware, Mr. H. P. Wills; and Sub Contractors, Mr. J. E. Pirandi.

The large Financial section is being handled by Mr. Ian D. Jarrett as Group Chairman with the following team captains as follows: Banks, Mr. Lorne Greene Hume; Brokers and Investment, Mr. R. Reed; and Insurance Companies, Mr. W. J. McCormick; Real Estate, Mr. R. Freeman; and Mortgage Adjusters, Mr. Don Whalen.

The Industrial and Chemicals section is being covered by Mr. W. S. Wills as Group Chairman with Mr. Ralph Parliament as Captain for Paints. Mr. Gardner Huff for Pharmaceuticals, and Mr. Keith Day for Fuels.

Team Captains who were unable to attend the meeting as well as canvassers for this Division are now being contacted for a final instruction meeting at the Collegiate next Tuesday evening prior to the official opening of the Campaign.

Family History Of Ketchesons Out in November

At the Monday evening meeting of the publication committee it was unanimously decided to proceed with publication of the genealogical history of the Ketcheson and related families.

Present plans call for having the finished book in the mails to subscribers throughout the continent before the end of December.

Earlier publication had been hoped for but the task has proven to be a considerable quantity of data on some of the older branches of the family has been made available. For instance, until a fortnight ago the Ketcheson family born 1807) and Matthew Fraser (U.E.L. descendant branch escaped them but now it requires nearly six pages to cover the descendants. This is but one instance of the recent growth of family history details.

During the research period which will continue until October 25th the publication committee has decided it is expected to be received. This will increase the size of the publication, as well as its value, but not the price already set, which is turn will result in more copies being ordered to help meet the added cost, as this is a purely co-operative publication project.

Worker Crushed To Death at Uranium Mine

BANCROFT — Glenwood Demerchant, 28, a carpenter employed at mines near this community 55 miles northeast of Peterborough, was crushed to death Thursday in a shaft.

Demerchant was operating the cage near the 650-foot level when he apparently fell out the open door and was caught between the elevator compartment and shaft wall. His body fell 370 feet to the bottom of the shaft.

An inquest has been ordered.

H-S Assoc. Hears Civil Defence Talk

The first meeting of the Bayview Home and School Association for this term was held Tuesday evening in the school.

Mr. K. Harndon, new principal, was welcomed to the parents. He, in turn, introduced the members of the teaching staff.

Mrs. Theo Wheeler, chairman of citizenship and civil defence committee for Belleville and district Home and School Council, gave an interesting talk concerning the Civil Defence organization and radiation fallout. Refreshments were served by the mothers of Grade I.

United Appeal Residential Canvassers Meet

The residential division of the Belleville United Appeal met on Wednesday night at the home of chairman of Mrs. Jane Forrester, with Mrs. J. Mackenzie Lesage assistant. Canvassers' kits were distributed in readiness for the house-to-house canvass which will take place from October 27 to October 31, the end of the United Appeal campaign, which opens October 15.

The city has been divided into ten areas. Mrs. P. F. Halloran and the Civic Action Committee of the Belleville Women's League are in charge of one East Hill area, Oliver East Hill, Mrs. Ralph Bowers, Mrs. W. Gault, Mrs. Mac Smith and Mrs. Ken Reid. Oliver West Hill area chairmen are Mrs. A. C. Campbell, Mrs. C. D. Hagerman, Mrs. B. Leslie. Mrs. Gordon Priest and Mrs. Spence Wonacott.

Mrs. Archie Lewis, overall campaign chairman, gave a resume of the campaign and how it will cover business and industry prior to the residential canvass. She also outlined the meeting of the operation of the United Appeal office which will be manned during the campaign since Sept. 15th, with the help of the Civic Action committee and two part-time typists.

Many questions were asked and answered as the ten area chairmen and 48 team captains enthusiastically discussed the United Appeal and made final plans for contacting the canvassers of the vital part they play in contacting the individual citizens. Those "Fair Share" contributions will help the United Way to support the charitable, incidental and philanthropic agencies which make Belleville a better community in which to live. All canvassers, as well as interested citizens, are urged to attend the general meeting, or all campaign divisions of the United Appeal on Monday night at the Capitol Auditorium.

Residential division East Hill team captains are: Mrs. E. L. Horning, Mrs. Robert Little, Mrs. D. L. Cresswell, Mrs. Ralph Parmenter, Mrs. R. C. Cottrell, Mrs. J. Bernhardt, Mrs. J. M. Chrysal Creek Bridge Is Now Being Widened

Long a traffic bottle - neck on the Madoc county road north of Foxboro, Hegigson's Bridge, spanning Chrysal Creek, is in the process of being widened to full road-way width.

Contract for the bridge widening is being carried out by Hugh Murray Ltd. of Belleville, with the work now in final stages of completion.

The narrow bridge over Chrysal Creek has been a bottleneck for vehicular traffic since the motor car came into being. Only single line traffic was possible over the bridge which has been the scene of many accidents over the years.

Work is also progressing on the by-pass at Halloway where most of the cut through the hills to the east of the village has been completed, as has the final grading.

An official of the county roads engineering office said today that it was hoped to have the by-pass completed before winter.

Two Men Given Reformatory Terms for Theft

Appearing for sentence on multiple charges of breaking and entering with theft, two men were given reformatory terms by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in city magistrate's court this morning.

Robert Richard Mondeville, 25, was sentenced to two years less one day definite, and six months indeterminate, while James Clarence Young, 29, was sentenced to six months definite and six months indeterminate.

Mondeville had pleaded guilty to 13 charges of breaking and entering and theft, while Young pleaded guilty to three charges.

Mondeville's lengthy record was taken into consideration by Magistrate Wills in passing sentence.

"You have been out of confinement only for a short time," Magistrate Wills told Mondeville. "These are serious offences and it is necessary that an example be made."

"Will you make that two years straight?" asked Mondeville of Magistrate Wills. "They don't teach any trade at reformatory."

"I expected that request," returned the magistrate, noting that he had decided on the reformatory term instead of a penitentiary term with a view of preventing the accused "graduating" to the senior penal institution.

Magistrate Wills noted that Young's case was different in that he had no criminal record. However, he was the number and degree of breaking and entering and theft offences had been as great in the Belleville area that it would be a mistake to allow the accused to escape punishment.

The accused was sentenced to six months definite and six months indeterminate.

A third youth appearing for sentence on housebreaking and theft charges, John Page, was given nine months definite and three months indeterminate in the reformatory.

"I hope you will learn something in the reformatory," noted the magistrate.

A Trenton district motorist charged with driving while his car was under suspension was remanded for court appearance next week with bail set at $200.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Rising copper prices spurred the stock market ahead today in active morning trading.

Base metals were the leaders adding 5% points on index as their 1958 mark moved to 178.23. Industrials and golds were about even with one-quarter point gains while western oils were ahead several decimal points.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 1,341,809 shares, down slightly from Thursday's 1,820,000. However the trading pace has picked up considerably in the last 15 minutes as lower-priced copper issues began to move forward.

Noranda was the leader, ahead 2½ at 54¼ while International Nickel advanced 1⅛ at 80⅛. Colduction the Mines Limited stream was the most active issue on the board, trading 100,000 shares while gaining 10 cents at 93 cents.

Obituary

MRS. DONALD HALL

In ill health for the past eight months, Mrs. Sarah Lillian Hall, highly respected resident of the community for many years, died at her home in Plainfield, early this Friday morning.

She was born on the second concession of Sungerford township, 68 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Coulter. For the past 47 years she had resided in Plainfield and previous to that time resided at Moneymore. In both communities she was well known and highly regarded by a wide circle of friends. She took an active part in the work of St. Paul's Anglican Church at Roslin, when health permitted. She was active in the Women's Guild, the Auxiliary, and other work in the congregation.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Walter (Audrey) Boplin of Belleville, and one son, Garfield Hall at home, two sisters, Mrs. Harry (Ellen) Soan of Plainfield, Mrs. Harold (Margaret) Beatty of Fuzzhore and two brothers, Smiley Coulter and Robert Coulter of Roslin. Her husband, Donald Hall, died some years ago.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

U.S. Transport Crashes, Burns Killing 19 Men

PAYETTE, Idaho (AP) — A U.S. Air Force transport, apparently trying a wheels - down emergency landing, crashed and burned with 19 servicemen aboard Thursday night. All were killed.

Air force investigators began an inquiry today amid speculation the twin-engined C-123 may have run into a flock of geese.

Witnesses said the plane appeared to be gliding in for a landing just before it smashed and first into a brush-covered hillside on a mountain in this southwest Idaho community.

Officials from Idaho's Mountain Home air force base, who took charge at the crash scene, said the 19 passengers and crew all were air force personnel.

Sheriff Ray Stephens said some witnesses told him they saw a ball of geese aloft in the area at the time of the crash. He speculated the plane might have hit the geese.

FLIGHT RECORD

BITBURG, Germany (Reuters) — Two F-100 jets from the 36th United States Fighter Squadron stationed here set a transatlantic record by flying from the Azores to Newfoundland in three hours 20 minutes. The flight was made into strong head winds and generally unfavorable weather, the American's bureau said.

Escapee Taken Back to Hospital At Kingston

TRENTON — An escapee from the mental institution in Kingston was recaptured in Trenton recently before he could harm himself and was sent back to the hospital.

Shortly after the Trenton man had been missed from the hospital where he had been cutting the grass on the lawn the local police force was alerted. The following afternoon they received a report that he was at his home. He had apparently walked all night and morning, and all the way from Kingston, to get home.

Staff Sergeant Walter Youmans, Constables Bruce Westfall, Fred Nokes and Mark Houlden were sent to the man's home to bring him back.

On arrival they found that the patient had fled to the attic of the house when he saw them coming and at the attic was led to come out. The attic was reported to be very small and cluttered with household items.

The patient kept telling the police they would have to shoot him to get him to come out and twice crawled out of the attic window onto a lean-to roof and threatened to jump. He crawled back into the attic when he was told by the officer, Constable Fred Nokes, standing below.

Finally Constable Houlden came into the tiny attic, Staff Sergt. Youmans decided to try and talk the patient down. It was a half-hour later when the Staff Sergeant was told by the patient that he had made a pie and he wanted to eat it.

The policeman told him he could eat all the pie he wanted if he came down. This pleased the patient and he came out of the attic, ate his pie while the police waited and then returned to the police station with the officers.

He had escaped the hospital about two weeks after he was sent there. The incident at the patient's home occurred on October 3rd.

Two Admitted To Hospital After Accident

TRENTON — Two men were taken to the Trenton Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon following a bus, car accident in front of Freeman's Service Station on the No. 2 Highway a few miles west of the town limits.

The two injured men were the only passengers of the car and were Emanuel Constan, 41 of Toronto, who was driving the car, and suffered a broken lower left leg, lacerations of the face, multiple bruises and shock.

With him in the car was Joseph Stuart, 45 of Toronto who also suffered a broken lower left leg, bruises and shock. Both men were taken to the Trenton hospital by Weaver ambulance.

No one on the bus was reported injured and the driver was Earl Wright of Highland Creek. Damage to the bus was estimated at $700 and was reported to be about $2,000 to the car.

Details of the accident from police sources were not immediately available but it was reported the car had pulled out from the Glenburnie Motel to proceed towards Belleville and had come into collision with the Trenton-bound bus.

Passengers of the bus were given a fright when the collision occurred but none of them was reported injured. Another bus on the way to Trenton at the time of the mishap took them to town.

Winning Teams Increase Lead In Dart League

TRENTON—The second night of play for the Trenton Dart League saw most of the previous leaders increase their scores by another two points with games being played at the Trenton Armouries, Canadian Legion Hall and No. 6 Repair Depot.

Teams from Belleville, Glen Miller, the Wiuseo and the Soldbusters all increased their count to four points.

The Hastey-Pees, 6 RD Airmen, Williams and Williams' Comets, and the Bata Bombers remained with no score.

The Legion team increased their score by one point with a tie to give them a total of one point. The Sailors and Bata-One-Half H. A. and the Toppers, also played last night but their scores were not available.

Jane McMillan looks with pride to her brother, Robert Jeffrey McMillan, resipdentent in his Junior Fire Marshal's helmet. On the left is Susan Mary Daniels, who also received her helmet during the Fire Prevention Week campaign which the Belleville Fire Department held during this week. The latter two are both attending Prince Charles School, whilst young Janey expects to enter school next fall.

Town Briefs

TRENTON — Five new members have been named to the voluntary force of the Trenton Fire Department and it is expected a sixth will be named today. The five selected are: Paul Allen, Bernard McGaughey, Dick Deschenes, Bob Andrus and Clarence Whitney.

Several of the volunteers, who had resigned recently, have made application to be reinstated in the force. This afternoon it is expected the council will sit in special committee to make a decision on who will be the new Fire Chief for Trenton. It is understood they have eight applications remaining to be considered. Among the eight are two from Trenton.

BRIDGE REPAIRS

Repair on the town bridge is proceeding steadily and motorists using the bridge this morning were startled to note in one place a large section of the deck has been removed to expose the steel girders and the river water below. The date for the completion of the repair work has been set at December 10.

WINDSHIELD BROKEN

A stone thrown by the wheels of a heavy truck on the west side of a car from Frankford, it was reported by police yesterday, left a big hole in the car's roof, proceeding along Dufferin Street at Shuter when he met a red truck. He said the front wheels of the truck dropped into the ditch across the highway, which made by the gas pipe line and caused the stone from the truck's wheel, hitting the windshield of his car and shattering it. Damage to the windshield of Constable Jack Graham of the Trenton Police Force infletigated.

HIT FRAMEWORK

RCAF Station Ready to Start Hockey Wars

TRENTON — The regular season for RCAF Station Trenton hockey is scheduled to get underway on November 10th. It is, however, only a tentative date and was decided upon at a meeting of the hockey group on Wednesday.

The new president of the league is will be Flt/Lt. LaBuik, who played goal last year and he will be taking over from WO-1 "Chuck" Clark, who pilloted the league through hotly-contested games last year.

WO Clark was also manager of the Rockets, the winning team last season and his plans for this year, as far as managing a team is concerned are not known.

Vice-president of the league will be Sgt. LaFleur and secretary-treasurer in LAC Galley.

The league will be broken up into two sections, "A" and "B" standing. The group will be four teams. One from 4 OTU, one from hangars Six and Seven, which will be known as the Comets, one from South Station, which may be called Headquarters, and the Combines, which will be made up of airmen from Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 hangars.

League games will take place on Monday and Thursday nights, the same as last year, with the first game getting underway at 7.30.... The first practice will be held this Sunday when the Cobcets will take to the ice.

Many of the well-known players from last year's play will be missing. "Among them will be Sgt. Gordon Crowder, who was chosen the outstanding player of the year. He was top scorer and in assists and all during the season had not made one trip to the penalty box. His clean-fast playing was a driving force which led his team to victory in the league.

The hockey association will hold another meeting next Wednesday at which time they will discuss financial matters among these problems will be one which arose when the management of the Recreation Community Centre, where the teams play, announced that the nightly fee to the airmen will be increased-by $10.

The ruins has been at a standstill for several weeks and reports of plans for signs have been put on the building. Details concerning it are not available.

Weekend Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Slaughter cattle prices were unevenly steady on plane classes and as much as $1 a hundredweight lower on other classes this week at the Ontario public stockyard.

Heifers, particularly the lighter weights, were in brisk demand all week at steady prices and led yearlings sold actively first. Cow numbers were substantial with this class losing fully 50 cents to $1 a hundredweight. The medium and good grades suffered the heaviest price decline. Good heavy bologna bulls sold at steady prices with most of the lightweight plain bulls selling easier.

Veal calf prices were firm with fat heavy calves selling $3-3 lower. Hog, sheep and lamb prices were steady.

Cattle receipts were some 700 head more than last week and 1,300 read more than the same week in 1957. Receipts of replacement cattle 600 head as compared with 1,150 head last week. Shipments to eastern Canadian slaughterers totalled five carloads, an increase of one carload over last week and there were no exports to the United States.

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers $24-24.50; choice tops at $25; good $23.50-24; mediums $21.50-23; commons $18.50-21; a few choice heifers sold at $23; good $21.50 - 23.50; mediums $19-21; commons $17.50-19; choice fed yearlings $25-26 with a few outstanding choice calves at $26.50; good $23.50 - 24.50; good cows mostly $16 with sales to $16.50; mediums $15-16; commons $14-15; canners and cutters $13-14; good heavy bologna bulls $19.50-19.75 with sales to $20; common and mediums $16-18.

Stockers: Good stockers $25-26 with stock calves selling up to $28; common and mediums $18-24.

Hogs: Grade A $27.25; heavy sows $19; light sows $21; stags $16 a hundredweight on a dressed weight basis.

Sheep and lambs: Good lambs $22-23; medium and heavies $18-20; common and feeders $16-19 with a few at $20; sheep $4-9 according to quality.

PRODUCE MARKET

The egg market was reported steady with receipts adequate and a quiet demand.

Wholesale prices are quoted by the federal department of agriculture on graded eggs, delivered Toronto, in fire cases: A large 49; A medium 35; A small 25; B 34; C 28. Wholesale to retail: A large 54; A medium 40; A small 30; B 38-39; C 28.

Wholesale prices: Canada, first grade: Ontario tenderloin 64; non-tenderloins 63½ in extremely light trading.

DOLLA BRATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 3⅝ per cent in terms of Canadian funds in over noon today, Friday's noco rate was 97 1-32. Pound sterling $2.72, up 5-16.

Builders' Exchange Serves Ultimatum

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Builders' Exchange told four contractors unless they are prepared to accept its wage offers or force them to pay $100,000,000 building shutdown to continue indefinitely.

The ultimatum came after 13 hours of talks between the builders and unions. Officers of the exchange said agreements had been presented them to union representatives. They told union negotiators they wouldn't meet with them again until the agreements were signed.

Signatures of the four unions will put 90,000 men back to work. The shutdown, in its fourth week, has affected members of 34 trades unions. Only one, the cement masons, is on strike.

MARILYN MONROE SICK

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A virus infection and a temperature of 102 has caused Marilyn Monroe to interrupt work on Billy Wilder, directing the picture, said the studio today. Not involving her until she reports back.

THE HASTY PEES

This weekend members of one of Canada's proudest regiments, the Hasty Pees, will gather here for their annual reunion. Obviously this is an event of importance to Belleville and district, worthy of editorial comment. Equally obviously, we think, there are so many readers of The Ontario Intelligencer who have an intimate personal knowledge of the regiment and its history that only a person equally well informed could hope to pen an editorial which could hold their interest without at the same time provoking their criticism. When a relative newcomer to the district finds himself impaled on the horns of such a dilemma he can only pray for a miracle.

Our miracle arrived in the shape of the following article from the inspired typewriter of Frank Smith, a member of the editorial staff of the Hamilton Spectator and a former member of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Mr. Smith - - -

By strange coincidence some of Canada's greatest days in battle have fallen upon feast days or holidays holding special significance for the men involved. It has been said-that Canada's first real sense of nationhood found its birth in the grim Easter battles of Vimy Ridge in 1917. One of the First Division's finest hours in the Second World War was Christmas of 1943 when Westerners fought room by room for Ortona. And May 24, 1944, found the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment astride hard-won objectives in the Hitler Line, proud to be there and confident of a memorable part in the success of Alexander's great international team.

Many days throughout the year hold special meaning for the men who now form. A bright spring day may recall the lush Surrey countryside or the happy trek westward from the Adriatic coast. Midsummer heat lines and tans bring to others memories of Sicily's choking white dust. Fall nights in the Hastings highlands may recall long range patrolling in the Apennines. The list is endless.

Thanksgiving in Canada is traditionally a time for memories; with signs of the harvest all about, thoughts turn to the human efforts put forth to bring it about and to the forces which man cannot control. This Thanksgiving, again, a time for men of the Regiment to gather and recall old days, has special significance. The Regimental Color, now adorned with the battle honors of 1939-45, will be passed officially to the Militia Battalion. Thirty honors were won! The Color will bear ten.

Other days, names enshrined there are signposts on a rugged road between two worlds. The world of 1958 is so different from that of 1939 as to be hardly recognizable in some of its aspects. It is smaller and faster and its peoples are more closely involved in the affairs of other's fates than ever before. It is a world of great power and great pressures in which the pursuit of economic rivalries threatens sometimes to shove aside and crush the individual. But if it is to be a world worth saving it must be one in which the worth of the individual remains paramount.

In the years of that nations fought off the challenge of systems which would have placed the aims of a few men in supreme authority throughout the world. People were spared what could have been generations of blackness.

The men who fought to remove this threat had as their greatest resource the very thing that Nazism would have tried to kill; their individual initiative. And yet there was a greater consideration - - the one that makes names like the Moro live in a nation's story. Men saw that there were times when the individual must sacrifice everything for the Regiment.

In the days of peace and limited war the Regiment has continued to receive devoted support given in just that spirit. It has retained its identity and unique character, growing stronger as others have grown weaker. Men who know the price of free nationhood in terms of sacrifice and at the same time know the great joys and comradeship of service freely given are passing on the Regiment's traditions to younger men. They deserve the warm praise and full backing of every man who has ever worn the badge.

Scattered across continents and oceans many of those who made the Regiment have been unable in recent years to watch its continued progress. Thanksgiving Sunday will give an opportunity to all within travelling distance of Belleville to contribute personally to the strengthening of Regimental traditions as the Color is passed to eager young men's hands.

THE AUTUMN DAY
By EDGAR A. GUEST

The rain fell rushing through the trees
And pattering on window pane;
And now by one the autumn leaves
Drift slowly back to earth again.
And shot indoors, the children dance,
For all the earth is wrapped in gloom.
The yard where children loved to play
Is but tiny little pools and streams,

Swirling and rushing on their way;
Ending in chaos—like our dreams.
The little faces at the pane
Watch for the sun to shine again.

All through the day and through the night
The cold wind moans its solemn strain,
And with the coming of the light
The children look on field and lane
Where all is ruin and despair;
For all the trees are gaunt and bare.

Two Views On Signals

Brantford Expositor

A Manchester doctor has let fly a scorching verbal blast at motor car drivers who make what is termed excessive use of hand signals.

Now, at first glance, one might think Doctor Hill were simply obeying the law and, what's more, being courteous. But the Manchester doctor says this isn't so.

The majority of those who indulge in this irritating habit," he declares, "do so to announcing their perfectly gloomy intentions to the public, so much as ordering someone else to do likewise. These drivers are men who have failed to get promotion, men smarting under a reproof, from the boss, hen-pecked husbands, men with terrible inferiority complexes, unsociable and solitary and unable in their normal lives to command attention or attention."

Unquestionably the doctor himself was irritated but as to his qualifications in psychology there is room for question, if not downright doubt. Not even in the motoring world are things quite so elementary and simply explained.

If the Manchester medico would but look around him before, for instance, what would he say of those who slavishly nearly all traffic signs and signals (except when a policeman is waving them on) and judging by their driving habits, have never learned the first little handbook the Ontario Department of Highways kindly turns out for their instruction.

We also wonder what he would say about the "signals" made by those who only mean to be pointing to the windscreen, waving a friend, or flicking off a cigaret ash. Still more we would like to hear his opinion of the characters (including many women) who drive with the right hand on the steering wheel and the left hand stuck out the window and clamped over the top of the car, in contravention of ruling regulations and laws combined.

Five-Dollar Washer

Baltimore Sun

Our attics and antique shops are full of things which seem quaint and old-fashioned to us. But we forget that they are ages in advance of the days known to most of the world. Hand-turned churns, fluted-top flatiron cider-presses and biscuit-beetles are among the items most of mankind as a kitchen operated by a mechanical brain is from the possibility of housewife. Hence the proud flourish with which the International Co-operation Administration has unveiled its new model washing machine. It is a simple, flat-top plunger which can be made almost anywhere for about $5. Comically primitive it may look to us, but it would seem quite otherwise to the huge majority of the world's people, we were accustomed to pounding clothes in a stream or lake, or in a public tank such as is still used in many parts of France.

Aid to underveloped countries sometimes takes surprising forms, ranging from the building of huge dams to electric generators to just such pieces of thoughtful makeshift as the "peoples' well," which combines only drawback we may be that for every one that is installed a month's income. Technical aid experts have dreamed up ways of converting cast-off cooking stoves from oil-drums, and manufacturing eggbeaters with simple cultivators. The washing-machine is I.C.A.'s first official effort to meet the fundamental need of this kind, but we may be sure that it will be followed by lot more fruitful improvisation is going on along these lines.

More 'Moral Kindness'

Christian Science Monitor

Sir Charles P. Snow is a Briton who excels in both the science seemingly opposed realms of presenting clearly both sciences and the humanities. A physicist and novelist of international repute, he looks at mankind with both precision and sensitivity, and he sees signs of a development of something very rare in the world up to now, which one might call moral kindness.

The quotation comes from an article in The Rotarian, in which Sir Charles, better known to readers as C. P. Snow, l l i t s among those who have seen the Swedes and Danes are talking of their old and poor, the British controversy over capital punishment, the conviction in America that children have a special right to happiness. As social conditions in the rest of the world approach the standard of "the privileged Western enclave," he says, "a new level of moral kindness should go up in parallel."

Sir Charles writes with a full consciousness of the threat of H-bomb war. He knows that the world escape it, but even if it occurs he doubts that there will be "complete annihilation." It is his main fear. And he expects in the surviving populations which he describes would be "at least .two-thirds," a swift return to moral concern for the fate of neighbors.

"Within a bizarrely short interval, ... all power and all wealth will be concentrated in the H-bombs, men in countries unfortunate enough to be attacked will be hating capital punishment. It sounds mad, but it is the kind of madness which makes human beings as tough as they are, and responsible for nothing rather than they have so far behaved."

We extend to Sir Charles right or wrong. But, in the midst of today's extremes of hatred and violence, even a temperate word from someone who more than most can claim to know what he is talking about.

Flea Market Faces Doom

...New York Herald Tribune...

It will be staggering news to many a North American tourist — and many a Parisian, too — that the famous Flea Market of Paris is faced by par. ticularly disastrous. The great, open-air market which has sprawled along the ragpicker's the Port de Clignancourt since the days of Louis-Philippe, 100 years ago, occupies land that is well suited for apartment developments. And since Paris, like many another great city, is faced by a housing shortage, the days of the Flea Market may be numbered. The city planners propose to take over the site.

It was not a variety, no less than the size, of the Marche aux Puces that awed most of its visitors. You could buy there nearly everything from a thumbtack to a grand piano. The condition of these articles, of course, varied. So did their price. No one — least of all the proprietor — expected a customer to pay the price first asked. Haggling was the inevitable ritual.

According to legend, it was possible to pick up fantastic bargains at Clignancourt. But nowadays they are actually few so was of relatively small moment. For a foreigner, at least, the fun of excitement came less from purchasing the goods than from simply strolling and wandering among the sheds and stalls, from meeting occasionally to inspect a particularly interesting article and from coming again over it. And afterwards, there was always the possibility of a delightful freshment at a near-by cafe where one's purchase, if any, could be discussed at length and sure. Whatever may happen, and it is to be hoped that perhaps the Flea Market will continue to flourish as indestructibly as the Paris itself.

Genius Makes Poor Husband

Regina Leader-Post

Lady Cynthia Asquith, leader of London literary society, has recently published her memoirs. In it she came to the conclusion, after studying carefully hundreds of biographies and letters and records, that great men do not make good husbands. The genius, the intellect, she concludes, t h e smaller fry, are for the women to share their lives.

Indeed the lives of many great men of the past have proved only bear her theory out. Novelist Leo Tolstoi, for instance, made a reputation of being the unbearable genius type at its worst. Sofia, wife of Russia's best-known writer, bore him 13 children and was practically widowed by her colossal husband's cry, "Write faster, my dove, faster," as she copied out his great novels by hand, interlined handwriting. "War a n d Peace" was written and rewritten by this over-worked, long suffering woman, whose husband was at his stirac- baggage.

Lady Cynthia Asquith, herself a writer, has given us a book which is full of interest, but which, we suspect, will not be considered by posterity as a reliable guide to the lives of great men.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

In a new residential suburb of one of our fastest growing cities I was recently encountered an exciting novelty. Only every fifth or sixth street, either north-south or east-west, was a through street. All the others were one-block streets that began and ended in the middle of the adjoining blocks. Since these blocks were short, this meant that to get from whether the cars of the residents or delivery vans, could go hightalling through. To exit, you had to zig-zag your way to the through streets, which were thoroughly messed up with stop lights, stop signs and all the usual paraphernalia of traffic control. Paralysis, that is, from the point of view of the whizzers amongst us.

I asked one of the residents if this did not involve a lot of trouble and expense as regards the laying in of water, sewers and other utilities. But he thought not.

"This is a residential area," he said, "and in some way we have got to figure out how to preserve the proper quiet and peace of residential areas in spite of the mounting motorization of our age."

The only similar instance I can think of is a city in the southern states I passed through last year which, at every intersection of the residential sections, there are concrete humps in the concrete, which you have to bump over carefully in low gear, or else get thrown through the car roof.

ALWAYS SOMETHING BETTER

There is always something better in each one of us, and we should seek out the opportunity to find it, and make others aware of the fact.

We should live in an atmosphere of expectancy — always looking for the best that is to come. It is far better to hope and plan, even though you fail, than to have your counsels ahead anyway! I like those words of Browning's "Little I ask; my wants are few; my blessedness; for to travel hopefully is a better thing than to arrive; and the true success is to labor."

Belief is the one essential to all achievement. We cannot bring forth fruit things and a better way of life for ourselves and humanity unless we believe. We are in this world as one of God's agents and you will learn of true

MOST BOILS RESULT FROM THE "STAPH" GERM

Remember the old expression, "more as a boil?" It depends on where the boil is. Some areas, for reasons that I'll explain, become more sore and upset, but a boil is never pleasant. Remember Job and his boils? Anyway, here's a letter:

"Dear Dr. Molner: The past few months I have had a boil every so on, 14, have been breaking out with boils. What causes this? Mrs. H. P."

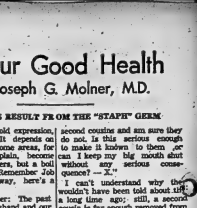
There may be different causes for boils, but we certainly know what causes most of them — the staphylococcus germ. Usually, the staph germs clgg down around the root of a hair, and sets up an infection. The body sends its resources (white blood cells) to the spot, and the white cells combine with the staph germs that have worked their way there.

The resulting congregation of conflicting tiny organisms (which is number in the millional causes of the inflamed swelling we call a "boil."

A good many of us, perhaps virtually all of us, carry these staph germs around with us most of the time, but there are different-varieties, some more virulent than others. Sometimes we have a boil yet know about the habits and behavior of germs, including the staph variety. What we do know is that sometimes they get started in the body, we are usually aware that is what a boil is — a staph infection.

That is why an attack of boils can spread through several members of a family. One child has a boil form in a close cluster, we have a "epidemic."

CAN BUILD UP PRESSURE



In many areas of the body, the swelling, while sore, is not extremely painful. But on your eyelid, or some parts of the head, the pressure of the pus causes the "stretch" so a boil builds up a lot of pressure and really hurts. Elsewhere, the pressure is not so great, but the tissues can expand to accommodate the pressure.

We must keep in mind that we are dealing with a bacterial infection. The staph germs are not the staph germs, especially when they are in a concentrated mass, to another hair-root, or another break in the skin, to set up a new infection.

Treat a boil as you would an infected finger. A boil is an infection. Keep a boil covered with a clean pad and gauze. Keep it painted with mercurochrome or iodine. Don't squeeze the boil, or you'll be spreading unduly large and inflamed.

Exactly why the staph germ can suddenly break out into a dangerous infection is something we don't fully understand. Keep a boil from spreading and presently you get a boil that comes to a head. It is a germ-caused disease, and you don't want the invisible germs to start new colonies, and new boils.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Some very dear friends of mine are going to be married this fall. I know they are

200 Workers at Deloro Plant Stage Strike Early Today

Early this morning Local 8375 of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CLC) went out on strike at the Deloro Mining and Smelting plant, four miles northeast of Marmora. Approximately 150 union members are presently picketing the Deloro plant, according to Charles Clemens, president of the local. Notice of the strike was given to the plant manager, Mr. J. N. Cram, at 6.30 this morning. Mr. Cram stated that the plant was being closed down and over 200 workers would be idle, although the company plans to keep on the office staff as long as it is feasible.

The union's contract expired last May and although negotiations have been going on since last February and issues have been presented before a conciliation board the local union has found no satisfaction in the results. The workers are striking for a union, or dues-paying, shop, one more stationary holiday, a fifteen-cent an hour wage increase. Mr. Clemens states that working conditions were very poor here.

The conciliation boards recommended essentially a renewal of the union's previous contract, which the Deloro company agreed to accept. Mr. Clemens advised this paper, in a telephone interview this morning that the conciliation board's suggestion was completely unsatisfactory and that the local union would "definitely stay out, unless it is a settlement which we'll take six months or a year." He also added that the Marmora storekeepers had advised the union that they would honor the union members' vouchers during the strike.

No arrangements have been made for further talks between the union and management. Mr. R. G. Walsh, manager of Deloro Smelts in Belleville, says that the Deloro firm is prepared to meet the conciliation board's proposal. The Belleville plant will be unaffected by the strike since there is a sufficient stockpile of cobalt for several months' operation.

When this quantity is used up there will be no local supply of cobalt on the market to ensure the continuance of production at the Belleville plant. Mr. Walsh stated that no arrangements have presently been made towards having further talks with the union. Presently the starting wage at the Deloro Mining and Smelting plant is $1.30 an hour basic.

Mrs. John P. Belleau of Bridge St., holds son, Rene Daniel, while receiving consul from staff nurse Dory Chisholm. Mrs. Belleau makes regular use of the weekly Well Baby Clinic for information and suggestions on the care of baby Rene Daniel.

PUC at Kingston Approves Lease To Lakeland Gas

KINGSTON (CP) — Kingston's Public Utilities Commission has approved a lease agreement with Lakeland Natural Gas Company Limited by a 3-2 margin and given first and second readings to a bylaw recognizing city council to submit to a vote a bylaw to authorize the contract.

Voting Thursday night in favor of the agreement were Commissioner Chairman J. R. Carter, Mayor Frank F. Boyce and Commissioner T. A. Andre. Commissioners H. Hay and E. L. Dunphin asked it be recorded they were opposed.

The decision brought an end to many months of negotiation and recent "midnight oil" special now give third reading to the bylaw—a task which will be carried out at a special meeting next Tuesday—and council must pass another bylaw to send the question of public ownership or lease to the private company to the voters in the forthcoming December elections.

Earlier Thursday night Commissioner May moved that the rental clause be written in the agreement under discussion, be rewritten and further figures introduced. Commissioner Dunphin seconded this motion, but it was defeated 3-2 when the other commissioners voted.

Phone Rate Under New Scale

Increase of 15 cents a month for two-party residence telephone service in Belleville and of 25 cents for one-party residence service become effective November 1st, following an order of the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada issued on October 10th, G. W. Procter, Bell Telephone manager here, declares.

	Present	New	Increase
RESIDENCE
1-Party line (service)	4.15	4.40	.25
2-Party line	3.20	3.45	.15
Extension Telephone	1.25	1.25
BUSINESS
1-Party line (flat rate)	8.40	9.10	.70
2-Party line (flat rate)	6.75	7.05	.30
P.B.X. Trunk	12.60	13.65	1.05
Extension Telephone	1.75	1.85	.10

The increase for one-party flat rate business service is 70 cents monthly, which would make the rate $9.10 a month.

There will also be slight changes in long distance rates in the provinces of Quebec and Ontario.

A comparison of the present and new rates for typical classes of service in Belleville follows:

Constable Brian Albright, kneeling behind his motorcycle with his gun aimed at the fire, bringing one of the men down. Chief Mackey identified him as Eagles.

The other two men continued running. One hopped into a taxi, jumped out and disappeared. The second raced away.

POLICE GET TIP

A half-hour later police surrounded an apartment building on Queen Street, about 10 blocks from the robbery scene. Chief Mackey said they received a tip that one of the men was in the building.

While scores of police crouched behind cars, and on fire escapes, Chief Mackey led a squad to check the apartments. They failed to get an answer at one door. After repeated knocking, a man called out: "Come in as you see coppers."

"We knew he had a gun," Chief Mackey said. "We could hear him turning the gun chamber."

Then came a couple of minutes. I want to write a letter," the man yelled.

He then smashed the apartment window and shot down Mulvoupe who was standing guard on Queen Street, a main east-west artery. SPECTATORS GOT IN WAY

Hundreds of spectators thronged into the street as officers opened up with rifles, and pistols. Some policemen carried submachine-guns but they were not used for fear of spraying bullets into adjacent buildings or hitting bystanders.

So many spectators were in the line of fire that police soundtruck blared: "Get back and take cover or you'll get a bullet in the head."

One detective said the gunman must "have thought he was Wyatt Earp. He had a gun in each hand. He leaned out his window shouting and shot at anything that moved."

Hamilton police said Eagles is wanted in connection with the assault and rape of a 20-year-old Hamilton widow on Aug. 20.

They said the woman was struck on the head by a metal pipe as she walked alone down an East Mountain street. She was lured into a car, driven to nearby Glanford Township and raped.

Acting-Detective Chief William Horner said Hamilton police issued the warrant for Eagles' arrest two days after the offence.

Windsor Trucker Needs 17 Stitches After Arms Slashed by Hitchhiker

WINDSOR (CP) — A 30-year-old Windsor truck driver fought it out Thursday with a hitchhiker-turned-bandit and suffered seven cuts about both arms from his attacker's switch knife.

The struggle occurred on a lonely farm road in Sandwich South Township about 10 miles south of Windsor.

A total of 17 stitches were required to close the arm cuts suffered by truck driver Peter Deschamps, 30.

Police are trying to locate the would-be robber, described as being about 21 years old with blonde uncombed hair and a "crossed" eye.

He drove out of the city and was on Highway 401 when he told the passenger the truck was almost out of gas.

Flashing the knife, the man told Deschamps to turn up a lonely concession road lined by dense bush. The truck stalled about a mile from the highway.

Police said Deschamps offered the man in the face twice and a third time slashed at Deschamps' staggered away with both arms bleeding profusely from three gashes, his assailant grabbed a hammer and broke the windshield.

He then ran up the road and disappeared. Deschamps walked to the provincial police Essex detachment, 1½ miles away.

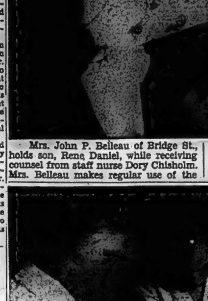
No money was taken by the robber although Deschamps said the man was after money.

PREPARE JOB PLANS

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost indicated Thursday the provincial government may reveal its plans this month to help municipalities fight winter unemployment. He said the unemployment problem becomes pressing around Dec. 1 and the government will have an aid program ready long before then.

'Dick' Passmore Has Been Moved To Pembroke

District Forester at Tweed since June 1956, R. C. "Dick" Passmore, has been transferred to Pembroke, in a similar capacity. James "Jim" Taylor, District Forester at Pembroke, has been appointed to succeed him.



Both appointments are effective November 1st.

A native of Arthur, Ontario, Mr. Passmore has been with the Forestry Department for several years, following service in the RCAF in the last war. He was assistant forester at Cochrane before coming to Tweed. Mrs. Passmore has been active in the activities of the Tweed Consolidated School Home and School Association, of which she is the present secretary, and has also been secretary of the Agricultural Society of the Tweed district. They have two sons and an infant daughter.

Mr. Taylor has been in Gerraldton for a number of years and during his service with the department was at one time a guide of a forestry plane in Algonquin Park. The Taylors have a school-age daughter.

New Embalming Process Used On Pope Faulty

CASTEL GANDOLFO (Reuters)—Hundreds of mourners were turned away this morning when a sudden defect developed in a new embalming process used on the body of Pope Pius XII. The embalmers gave the body additional injections and the crowd later was allowed into the palace, where the Pope died.

Vatican officials were preparing to open the villa to allow thousands of mourners to file past the body later when the defect was detected in the embalming procedure, designed to leave the body completely intact.

When the defect was detected, Vatican officials went out into the square and explained that the pontiff's body would not be exposed. After embalmers gave the body additional injections, Vatican officials reversed their decision and threw open the door again.

MOURNERS

The motor hearse carrying the pontiff had glass walls but the coffin was covered by red silk and the body was not visible.

On top of the hearse was a huge golden tri-regnum, symbol of the papal office. On each corner of the hearse was a golden angel.

Along the route men, women and children stood hushed. Some wept. Priests and nuns said their rosaries as they waited and watched the hearse go by.

A motorcycle escort of Italian police preceded the hearse. Ahead of it was an open car carrying Magr. Federico Calloro di Vignali, the Pope's court chamberlain and Magr. Camillo van Lierde, the Pope's sacristan and vicar general for Vatican City.

In a second car was Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, French-born dean of the College of Cardinals.

Before the procession started, there were two periods for viewing the body at Castel Gandolfo. Originally only three hours of lying in state had been planned there. But even though 15,000 persons filed past the bier Thursday night, thousands remained and the doors were opened again this morning.

The body was borne out the front gate of the summer papal palace—a gate the Pope never used during his pontificate — for his final trip to the Vatican.

The main gate was chosen, a high Vatican official said, because Pius used it on his first visit to Castel Gandolfo, when he was Eugene Cardinal Pacelli, secretary of state to Pope Pius XI.

Beginning Saturday morning, the body will lie in state in the vast basilica of St. Peter for the thousands of faithful to file by in last tribute. The body will remain in state until the burial, probably Monday, in the resting place Pius XII chose for himself in the crypt below.

At the burial a symbolic coffin will be placed in the basilica. It will remain the centre of mourning rites that will continue through Sunday, Oct. 19 — nine days of mourning since the pontiff officially does not begin until Saturday.

Traditionally the last three days of services are held in the smaller Sixtine Chapel nearby. But the cardinals arranging the rites decided more space was needed for the crowds of mourners expected on all of the nine days.

Christ Church Contact Club Holds Meeting

A meeting of Christ Church Contact Club was held Monday evening with vice-president, Mary Fletcher presiding, and a good turnout of members for this study group evening.

It was announced the next get-together will be on October 20th and Betty Yates told the club of plans for the work meeting when knitting and other handicrafts will be begun for the Mission parcels.

The business over, Mary turned over to study group leader Alice Wonnacott, who introduced the guest of the evening, Mrs. C. D. Fuzzen, president of the Parish Altar Guild.

From her long experience in this special service, Mrs. Fuzzen gave the members an insight into the careful and dedicated work which goes into the care and beautification of the altar and sanctuary in the Anglican church. Members were able to see the fine and beautifully appointed linens and the Communion vessels and were much interested to learn of their origin and history and the details of their care.

Mary Fletcher expressed the thanks of the members to Mrs. Fuzzen for her most informative talk, and hostesses Catherine Allison, Barbara Berrim and Irene Weatherstone served refreshments.

Local Art Assoc. Holds Discussion

On Sunday evening the first in a series of seminars on "art appreciation" was given at the home of Robert Brown, Bridge Street East. Under the sponsorship of the Belleville Art Association the meeting was well attended and a portfolio prepared by the Metropolitan Museum was received with great interest as it was read.

The subject for the evening, "What is a Painting," provoked considerable discussion and it was made clear the world of art is not a place of mysteries although relatively unfamiliar territory to many people. The man in the street, it was said, he likes and to translate his impressions into good judgments is one of the aspects of the course as well as to provide members with information that will enable them to develop and fortify their own opinions. What people get and enjoy in a painting is a highly personal experience and the better they understand the factors that influence their judgment the more strongly they will insist upon this personal element in appreciation.

Nevertheless there are many factors beyond personal preference that influence any fair opinion of a painting and these fundamental factors were outlined in a detailed and orderly sequence. Twelve paintings were presented to the group and it was generally agreed that "every painting enjoyed through clear understanding will increase our enjoyment and understanding of all other paintings."

The average person never doubts that his enjoyment of Whistler's Arrangement in Grey and Black is derived from the painting's appealing likeness of his mother and from sentimental association with old age, filial piety and the like, but the real subject is the mood, compounded of gentleness, dignity, reflection and resignation. A painting is "a projection of the personality of the man who painted it and a statement of the philosophy of the age that produced it." This is revealed in Mona Lisa, Leonardo da Vinci was expressing woman's enigmatic quality. This approach is compared to that of Goya in The Woman with Chrysanthemums.

The basic contrast between the romantic and the classic points of view were demonstrated in the imaginary Landscape and Cezanne's Mont Sainte-Victoire. The peaceable Kingdom of Edward Hicks does not rise to great expressive heights but it does reflect the person's experience by admitting him to a world of order and faith.

Some pictures carry their message in eloquence and the fact that as a person stands before Rembrandt's portrait of Giovanni and His Wife he is a witness at a marriage ceremony, almost. The paintings of the most intriguing pictures are those of the impressionistic pictures in the world. Painted more than two hundred years ago Watteau's The Embarkation for Cythera is considered to be coincidental. The seminar concluded with a discussion of good art, bad art and modern art. Two paintings as representative combatants in the pitched battle between modernism and traditional academic painting were compared, Pierre Bonnard's "The Store," once enormously popular, now dropped to the rank of a tail enders and Oskar Kokoschka's "The Tempest."

Realism in the world around us as it has been reflected in different ways by painters of different times was given in the light of their times will be dealt with at the next meeting.

Classes will be conducted on the first Sunday evening of each month and it is hoped anyone interested in art appreciation will attend. Information regarding the program may be secured from Mrs. R. Williamson, Selina Ave., or Mrs. H. Dawson, Foster Ave. It was decided to hold the next meeting at the home of Mrs. R. Williamson.

Kay Ambrose To Speak to Ballet Guild

The Belleville Branch of the National Ballet Guild is fortunate to have as its speaker at the first meeting, Tuesday, October 14th, at Queen Elizabeth School, Miss Kay Ambrose, artistic adviser to the National Ballet of Canada.

Miss Ambrose is an internationally recognized authority on world ballet and theatre and has contributed light books on the dance which have been translated into 18 languages and sold many hundreds of thousands of copies. Originally attracted to Canada from London to collaborate on one of her popular books with Celia France, Miss Ambrose decided to stay.

She has an encyclopedic background on ballet in many countries, and designs costumes and decor for a number of ballets and is adviser on all artistic aspects of the production. She is also in constant demand as a speaker on radio, television and other platforms and has travelled throughout Canada and the United States.

In research she is indefatigable, and goes to considerable lengths to assure the authenticity of her designs in costume and decor, both in the classic ballet and in contemporary work. A fond wife always permits, is to write and illustrate a book on Canada, when its vast size, its vitality and vigor and her affection for the country.

Miss Ambrose illustrates her talk with a wide selection of blackboard. As this is an open meeting, everyone is welcome and will find it a most fascinating and charming speaker.

HANTHORN — DOXTATOR

A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized on Saturday, September 27th, at 2 p.m., in the Redneersville United Church, Redneersville, Ontario, when Marilyn Kathleen Reg. N., of R. R. 1, Carrying Place, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Doxtator, was united in marriage to Robert Joseph Hanthorn, of Carrying Place, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hanthorn. Rev. Harold Kippen, of Redneersville, performed the double-ring ceremony before a background of salmon pink and white gladioli and yellow daisies.

Mrs. Earl McKay, of R. R. 1, Carrying Place, rendered the traditional wedding music and accompanied Mr. Ivan Bird, of Joe McRadden, of Toronto, who sang "I Love You Truly," before the ceremony and "Because" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charmingly gowned in a floor length white nylon tulle over nylon net and chantilly lace over white satin, fashioned on princess lines with fitted bodice and Peter Pan collar trimmed with iridescent sequins and tiny seed pearls and long sleeves ending in lily points over the wrists. The floor length skirt was of nylon tulle over nylon net and lace over satin featuring a band of iridescent sequins caught up with clusters of tiny seed pearls. She wore a matching lace headpiece with tiny pearls and iridescent sequins with fingertip veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and lily-of-the-valley and trailing ivy.

Mrs. Doug. Mason, sister of the bride, was matron-of-honor, dressed in blue chiffon crystalette with fitted bodice and "V" front and back neckline. The dress itself was fashioned on princess lines and was of waltz length.

Miss Ellen Hanthorn, sister of the groom, was a bridesmaid, wearing rose charm chyatelette gown fashioned on the same lines as that of the matron-of-honor.

Misses Nancy and Beverley Doxtator, sisters of the bride, were junior bridesmaids, wearing identically styled dresses of gold charm crystalette.

All wore picture hats to match their dresses, and long white gloves. They carried bouquets of yellow Shasta daisies to complete their ensembles.

Miss Laurie Doxtator, little sister of the bride, was flower girl, wearing a floor-length gown of soft pink nylon over taffeta with fitted bodice and ruffles of white lace at the neckline. The full skirt was held out by hoops. She wore matching bonnet and carried a tiny basket of white Shasta dalaies.

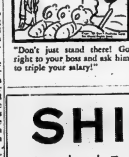
The ushers were Mr. Jim McVey, of Glen Miller; Mr. Wallace Doxtator, of R. R. 7, Belleville, and Mr. Everett Doxtator, of R. R. 1, Carrying Place, both brothers of the bride.

The reception was held in the church parlors where the Redneersville WA. catered.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing a dusty rose lace and crepe street-length dress with white velour hat, white and black accessories, and a corsage of deep yellow roses.

She was assisted by the groom's mother, wearing a navy blue lace over taffeta sheath style street-length dress with a pink hat and navy accessories. She wore a corsage of deep pink roses.

The church parlors were tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers, white wedding bells, gladioli and yellow dahlias.



The bride's table, with its white damask linen cloth, was centred by a three-tiered white wedding cake trimmed with tiny, rose-buds and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Tall white candles in silver holders, and bridal bouquets completed the lovely table arrangement.

For the wedding trip through the Adirondacks and around the lake, the bride changed to a fitted suit with a beige hat and cocoa brown accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanthorn will reside in Carrying Place.

Guests were present from Toronto, Picton, Brighton, Carrying Place, Belleville and Ajax.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was tendered a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Doug. Mason.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham MacDonald Lowes are shown signing the register following their recent marriage in Eastminster United Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Shirley Frances Rennie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Rennie, of Belleville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Lowes, R.R. 2, Ida, Ont. (Photo by Riley's Studio.)

LOWES — RENNIE

Standards of ferns and baskets of pink gladioli and snapdragons formed the setting in Eastminster United Church, Belleville, on October 4, for the wedding of Miss Shirley Frances Rennie, of Peterborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Rennie, of Belleville, to Graham MacDonald Lowes son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Lowes, R. R. 2, Ida, Ontario. Rev. Alexander McDowell, of Belleville, officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown of embroidered Shipley tulle, with princess style waist embroidered with sequins, and Sabrina neckline. Her hooped skirt featured a short train. Her veil of nylon tulle with sequin border also formed a train, and was held by a coronet headdress of pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and baby's breath, tied with white satin ribbon.

The bride was attended by Mrs. R. S. Rennie, of Agincourt, aunt of the bride, as matron-of-honor, and Mrs. D. Woodard, of Peterborough, and Miss Carole Quirk, of Bowmanville, as bridesmaids. All wore identically styled gown of sapphire blue brocade with matching shoes. Their headdresses were of sapphire blue tulle with veils worn over the face, and they carried bouquets of white carnations and ferns on white fur muffs.

Miss Susan Sisson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sisson, of Belleville, was a demure flower girl in a gown of blue crystal organza with wide sash of sapphire blue brocade. She wore a tulle headdress similar to the bridesmaids, and carried a basket gay of white and blue baby mums.

The groomsman was Mr. Mark Lowes, of Peterborough, and the ushers were Don Woodard and Mr. Ross Jamieson, both of Peterborough.

A reception and luncheon were held at Eastminster church parlors, where the bride's table was decorated with pink and white carnations, ferns, and baby's breath, and white candles.

The bride's mother received the guests, wearing a dress of dusky rose brocade with red accessories, and a corsage of deep red Sweetheart roses.

For a wedding trip to Detroit, Mich., the bride wore a blouson-type red wool dress with matching feathered hat, black accessories, and a corsage of white baby 'mums.

Guests were present from Detroit, Stratford, Toronto, Port Hope, Cobourg, Whitby, Peterborough, Deloro, Marmora, and Mount Pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowes will reside at R. R. 2, Ida.

Mrs. Dovey Gives Talk At WA Meet

The members of College Hill WA met in the church for their regular October meeting.

Mrs. J. Thomson presided and opened the meeting. Several items of business were discussed, including plans for the annual bazaar.

The devotional was conducted by Mrs. (Rev.) Dovey, the theme being, "Thankfulness". After singing a hymn she based her remarks, found in Luke, Chapter 17, verses 11-19, "Jesus went to Jerusalem and as he passed through the midst of Samaria and Galilee, there met Him ten men, that were lepers. They cried for mercy and cleansing and the healed the ten. Only one returned to give thanks and he was a Samaritan."

We today receive so much and take for granted all the common things of life, often forgetting to give the rightful gratitude to God," she stated.

"We should be thankful for winter chills, as well as summer sunshine and be willing to share our bounties with others less fortunate. Thanks to God is essential to Christian life," Mrs. Dovey concluded.

Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Queen Victoria H-S Assoc. Holds 'New Mothers' Tea

Large baskets of gay colored flowers decorated the auditorium of Queen Victoria School for the Home and School Association's annual "New Mothers" tea last Friday.

The ladies were greeted at the door by the convener, Mrs. J. Smith, and presented to the president of the association, Mrs. E. Beatty.

Mrs. Beatty welcomed the new mothers and Mr. Frisk introduced the teaching staff, half of whom are newcomers. He also introduced Mr. J. M. Cousins, B.A. supervising principal who gave an interesting address, pointing out the necessity of closer relationship between parents and teachers. Of the four stages in a child's life kindergarten ranks the greatest and most important. He said it is the duty of parents and teachers alike to cooperate to the fullest extent to help them adjust to this period for the future as well as the present.

Mrs. Beatty thanked Mr. Cousins and turned the program over to Mrs. L. Andrews who conducted a "get acquainted" game won by Mrs. Broad.

The tea table beautifully appointed by a white Madeira tablecloth was centred with a centrepiece of pale mauve mums, surrounded by white and deep purple alyssum flanked by crystal candelabra with tall white tapers. A crystal basket of mauve mums also adorned the piano. Two large containers of mixed fall flowers decorated the stage adding glowing color to the auditorium.

Presiding at the two silver tea services were Mrs. Frisk, wife of the principal of the school, and Mrs. Jones, president of centre council.

Mrs. R. Hamilton and Mrs. A. Lepore assisted at the tea table with Mesdames C. Andrews, A. McCreary, A. Rota, T. Hutson, R. Knox and H. Brown served.

Replenishing the table were Mesdames C. Leckie and H. Sullivan while Mrs. R. Bratley was in charge of the tea cup table, attractive with its white cloth centred by a bouquet of mixed asters. Silver trays centred with fresh flower nosegays contained fruit bread and dainty confections arranged by Mrs. E. Young and Mrs. R. Chapman. Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Savage were in charge of the tea.

Many Local Delegates Attend National Veterans Convention

A Belleville woman, Mrs. Elizabeth Lundberg, was elected treasurer at the Dominion Command convention of the Army, Navy, and Air Force Veterans in Canada and the Ladies' Auxiliaries, held recently in Vancouver.

Other officers of the Ladies' Auxiliary elected during the convention, held September 29 to October 2 are: president, Mrs. K. Warren, of Hamilton, and secretary, Mrs. East, of Toronto. This is the first time officers have been elected from Ontario.

The convention was highly successful and many resolutions were worked out and officially accepted.

After the meetings the delegates were taken on bus tours of Vancouver, with a boat trip to Victoria Island.

Belleville was well represented at the convention. Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lundberg, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lundberg, Fairmel Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Drury, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Smith, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Galbraith, Mr. and Mrs. J. Toscan and Mr. T. York.

Official delegates of the Ladies' Auxiliary were: Mrs. Lundberg, Mrs. Fairmel Clark, Mrs. Treasa Stewart and Mrs. Elizabeth Lundberg. Fraternal delegates were: Mrs. A. Browning, Mrs. Agnes Hurst, Mrs. Blanche Smith, Mrs. A. McKeen, Mrs. Drury and Mrs. Mary Ford.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

WHITE BIBLE NEEDS NO FLOWER OR MARKER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman: —

Last Easter, at an Easter present to me, my fiance gave me a very beautiful white Bible, the most precious, instead of a bouquet. I am going to carry this at my wedding. I've never seen a Bible or a Prayer book being carried by a bride without a ribbon marker, of some kind or a flower, generally a white orchid, attached on the top. This I don't want to do; I want to carry my Bible in simply its white beauty. Would this be correct? — Ruth M.

Yes, my dear Bride-to-be. And I completely agree with your idea that your beautiful white Bible needs no decoration of flower or marker. Carry it as is, with joy and pride.

DISAPPOINTED AT NOT BEING ASKED TO BE MATRON OF HONOR.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a problem, and I need your help. I was married about three years ago, and I invited my sister-in-law to be my matron of honor. Now my sister-in-law is to be married quite soon, she has no sisters, and is having her prospective husband's brother a male wife to be best man and matron of honor. I am deeply hurt about this. I'm sure she wouldn't choose her matron of honor, thought she should choose husband and wife as attendants. In that case she should have chosen my husband and me. We live near them, we see each other constantly, and the other couple live at quite a distance. Also I chantilevered them around as they were making all the arrangements for their wedding.

On one of these trips I had taken the prospective bride and groom to the church and her husband's brother and his wife were with us. When the priest who is to perform the ceremony asked who was to be the best man and who was to be the bride's attendant — that is when and how I learned the truth. You can imagine, I'm sure, how much this hurt me.

My husband sides with his family, saying I should have told the bride-to-be that I wanted to be matron of honor. Now that would not have been proper either, would it? I guess the asked is that they consider me good enough to run errands, but not good enough to be matron of honor. It can't be a question of age, as the bride is 23 and I am 25 . . . and I doubt if it's a question of looks, for I've been told I'm good-looking. Now do you think that I, rather than a comparative stranger, should have been asked to be matron of honor? In any case, I about it — either to your husband would like to show your reply to or his family.

My husband and his family, so we can all stop inviting, and this family feud. — Reader

This you must learn: it's not at all good taste to resent some of the actions of some relatives and some of the actions of some in-laws! From what you've explained to me, I should think you had every right to think that you would be invited to be your sister-in-law's matron of honor. You had invited her to be your maid of honor, and as might take for granted a return honor, since she had no sister . . . you and your husband were such close companions, friends . . . and you gave them such devoted and generous service.

I agree with you that the bride-to-be should have been sensitive to the fact that you might be expecting to be asked to be matron of honor, might have explained her plans to you in a kindly way, and certainly she should not have taken the thoughtless and unkind way she did take to have her plans revealed to you. And of course I don't at all agree with your husband that you should have told the bride-to-be you expected to be her matron of honor . . . this would be against propriety and good taste.

However, no matter who is right and who is wrong, I beg you, I implore you, I throw this arguing, this family "feud," into the discard. At once. Please! Be wise and as grown-up that you'll valiantly forget the disappointment. Don't keep thinking about it, don't keep talking about it, don't keep talking about it — either to your husband or to his family.

Student Helps Build Road in African Jungle

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Gertrude Kearns, 22, a student at the University of Western Ontario has helped build a road in the African jungle.

She has just returned home after a year abroad where she worked as a secretary in the international headquarters in Switzerland of Pax Romana, an international movement for Roman Catholic students and graduates; attended a university at Berne, and took part in student seminars.

At one of these, she worked with 32 other students from university centres in Europe and Africa, cutting pick and shovel to make a road of a jungle track at Kwaso in northern Ghana.

The idea behind the students' work was to spread the gospel of progress and international understanding in Africa.

Kwaso villagers were surprised at the students' arrival, Miss Kearns, "but they gave us a welcome as formal and presented gifts of food—a penetrating white goat fattened for the kill, a number of bunches of bananas and oranges and a huge bundle of spinach."

FRIDAY

MRS. MERRYWEATHER'S PEPPER RELISH:

(Contributed by Gladys Q.) Six each green and red sweet peppers, 1 lemon cut up (and removed be-fore bottling), 2 each pears and peaches, 1 apple, salt to taste. Remove seeds from peppers and cores from fruit and chop fine. Cover with vinegar and let stand 1 day (or overnight). Measure and add 1 cup sugar (¾ cup if desired), to each cup pulp. Boil until thick. Bottle. Keeps well, even when opened. Use as sandwich spread alone or with cheese. Delicious with cold meat.

ANSWER:

Thanks Gladys. That is so good I wanted all of our readers to share it. Let me know whenever I may help you.

QUESTION:

We have an abundance of apples this year, so kindly give me a recipe for Apple Butter? . . . E.W.

ANSWER:

Your whole letter was delightful. Thanks for the encouragement.

APPLE BUTTER:

Three quarts fresh sweet cider, 2 generous quarts peeled and quartered tart apples, 2 cups granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves and ginger (shallow amount of spices if desired). Boil the cider down until it measures 8 cups. Add prepared apples and cook until very tender. Force through coarse sieve or colander. Add sugar and spices and cook slowly until thick, stirring almost constantly towards the finish, lest you scorch it. Jars and seal. Turns pink. To use up more apples has Mincemeat recipe below.

QUESTION:

Back again for help, this time I would like a recipe for mincemeat using suet, relishes, currants, peel, apples and the meat . . . when recent is not warm enough to raise yeast dough home (that is you put dough to light bulb? Is it covered with towel and lid? . . . Dorothy E. S.

ANSWER:

MINCEMEAT (without meat):

Twelve each medium-large apples and green tomatoes (or omit tomatoes and use 8 tart medium-large apples), ½ cup each seedless and seeded raisins, 2 tablespoons cinnamon, ¼ cup each fruit juice, cider vinegar and chopped citron, 1¼ cups sugar, ½ cup grated orange rind, 1 teaspoons each salt and cloves, 1 teaspoon each allspice, ginger and nutmeg. Chop finely or put through coarsest knife of food chopper the tomatoes and apples. Add all remaining ingredients. One-half to 1 lb. finely chopped suet may be added if desired. Cook until thick — about 1 hour, stirring very frequently to prevent sticking. Pour into sterile jars and seal.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs.-M. H. — I would like to marry again.

Emily K. — We'll take care of her.

Mrs. M. H. — I was widowed a few months ago and I am so lonely I just feel like dying. My son and daughter, who are both married, keep telling me that I am acting like a fool — that I have them and there is no reason to be lonely. But I can't help myself. I am sick of looking at the four walls.

Another widow in the neighborhood has been coming in to see me a lot, but my daughter chases her right away. She says we are no good for each other because we just keep crying and talking about our troubles.

It may sound silly, but even though I'm past 65 I would like to get married again. Just to have a companion all your own and not have to depend on your children for everything means a lot. My daughter thinks I am insane when I talk like that.

Emily H. — My brother and I have done our best to take good care of Mother since Dad died. We visit her at least once a day. I often stop in a couple of times to see how she is getting along. She has a nice home and garden to take care of and she could be content if she didn't keep brooding all the time or making up crazy dreams about getting married.

Mother doesn't seem to realize that she would bring all kinds of trouble on herself if she got married. No man is going to marry her for her beauty at her age. As far as companionship is concerned, men manage to find it without marriage. The only reason anyone would marry Mom is for her money and her good cooking.

With the two of us to look after her, Mom doesn't have to worry about anything.

The Council: From both accounts it appears to us that Mrs. M. H. is being kept a prisoner by her son and daughter.

Emily has her mother's situation all wrapped up. She knows exactly what her mother should and shouldn't do. Even more, she knows what her mother should and shouldn't feel. She is taking such "good care" of her mother that she has decided to hold the keys to the woman's mind and heart.

Mrs. M. H. now feels very helpless because of the shock of her recent loss. She has, therefore, allowed her children to take her over lock, stock and barrel. She'll have to make an effort to free herself from them if she wishes to make a reasonably pleasant life for herself in the future.

It is natural for Mrs. M. to think in terms of marriage as a way out of her loneliness, but marriages made for this sole reason are seldom successful. Good marriages, even among elderly persons, usually come about as a result of happy and active living.

We would suggest that Mrs. M. H. try to get active in her community and church. She will feel like having a good cry with a widow friend, she should do it. But there are other social relationships that she would enjoy discovering. If she thinks of this phase of her life as a brand new period of long voyage, she'll look forward to each day as a new adventure and will waste no time looking at the four walls.

Group of Nuns Helps Eskimos In School Work

MONTREAL (CP)—A group of nuns from the Montreal suburb of Lachine is helping the Eskimos of Alaska become useful citizens of the United States.

The nuns are from the Roman Catholic Congregation of Ste. Anne, who with a group of Jesuit priests and some lay volunteers and teachers work in the 74,000-square-mile parish around Glenallen, 200 miles southeast of Fairbanks, Alaska.

Rev. Mother Mary Liliane, superior of the Lachine mother house, and Mother Mary Jean Casiet, recently visited the congregation's outpost boarding school in the Copper Valley, near Glenallen, for the first time. They now are visiting other nuns in Juneau, Skagway and Nulato.

The Copper Valley school was opened two years after the nuns were transferred from the Holy Cross Mission on the Yukon River. It is a boarding school for grade and high school students and is intended to prepare students for college.

The sisters say they hope it will eventually produce the doctors, lawyers, engineers, nurses and other professional men for the 49th state.

The school started with an enrolment of 40 Indian and Eskimo children and last school season there were 110.

Fashionable Knitwear

Maritime Power Boom

The power potential of the Maritime Provinces is rapidly being harnessed to play a vital part in a boom for economic energy ahead.

During the last year no power resources have been tapped and made available for use.

The New Brunswick round the clock in the northern part of the province proposes to regulate that power, and it has been provided. A $225 million expansion plan to provide 700,000 kw is on the drawing boards.

New Thermal Plant

By 1961 a further 50,000 kw should be available from a new thermal plant to be built in Saint John.

Seaway Nears Completion

Queen to Open Huge Project in 1959

Canada spent over $375 million more than the United States on the Seaway because Canada's part of the project was more difficult. There will be 15 locks in the Seaway between Montreal and Lake Erie. Three thousand ships can use the Seaway each year. Canada's share of its cost will be recovered from tolls charged to users.

RAWDON

Mission Band Observes Thanksgiving

RAWDON—Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Sunbeam Mission Band convened in the church hall on Sunday morning under the leadership of Mrs. Harry McAdam with an attendance of 25.

The vice-president, Ralph Reid, presided.

Howard Jeffs gave his report.

A special Thanksgiving Worship Service was conducted by Fred McAdam, which stated that "our lovely land, our good foods, our friends, home and family were all gifts from God."

Mary Ellen David read Psalm 100, and Judy Cooney read in part the message "When leaves are gay above our heads, when fruits and vegetables are gathered in from fields and gardens, we know that the Lord is good."

The offering was gathered by Jim and Randy Scott and Sally McAdam gave the dedicatory prayer, "which gave thanks for the bountiful harvest of field and garden, for the cup of milk, and for warmth, love and laughter that is ours in abundance."

The leader outlined two study chapters which dealt first with a Christian minister in Gifu, Japan, and told how the Japanese Christian Relief Committee provided hospital care for "Hana." The second "How Kenji recognized Shiro." Hana improved with good care and the church made plans for her to attend school.

The program committee for November will be Jim Summers and Kenny Smith.

The thankoffering envelopes were distributed and they will be gathered at the church service on Thanksgiving Sunday in the afternoon, or they can be handed in at a later date.

The program consisted of readings by Jean Sharpe and Kalvin Sharp. A piano duet was rendered by Diane and Betty McAdam. Mary Ellen David read "The Story of October," by Viola Pratt. "Over two thousand years ago, October was given its name and to many people it is the most beautiful month of all. Maple leaves become fairylands of scarlet and gold and the hillsides are aflame with crimson sumac.

The service closed with a hymn of prayer.

Labor Congress Rejects PM's Suggestion That Management Labor Hold Key to Prosperity

SARNIA (CP)—Stanley Knowles, speaking from his executive position in the 1,000,000-member Canadian Labor Congress, Thursday night rejected Prime Minister Diefenbaker's suggestion that labor and management hold the most vital key to Canada's immediate prosperity.

He said inflation, like civil war, can only be prevented or stopped by the federal government through fiscal, monetary and, if necessary, physical controls in the economy.

It was apparent that Mr. Knowles made his statements with the Monday night television speech of the prime minister in mind, although he did not refer directly to Mr. Diefenbaker.

At one point, the CLC executive vice-president, speaking at Sarnia luncheon of the Engineering Institute of Canada, said:

"Neither labor nor management, nor the two together, can prevent or control inflation."

WHAT PM SAID

In his Monday TV speech, Mr. Diefenbaker said Canada must keep its prices competitive on world markets, and also fight inflation at home.

"To a very great extent, labor and management can accomplish it together, but they can never do it apart," he said. "It will take patience, and cooperation, even perhaps some sacrifices on both sides."

Mr. Knowles said "the attempt to shove the task of public control off on to management and unions is an exercise in pallosophical anarchism."

Instead of trying to get labor and management to adopt a wage policy "that never was on sea or land," the way to halt inflation is to get down to the economic basics in which the traditional wage policy would operate to the maximum public advantage.

MUST ASK FOR MORE

Mr. Knowles said it is the public duty of unions to ask for all the wage increases industry can afford, especially at a time of recession.

"Everyone seems to agree that one way of getting out of a recession is for consumers to spend more," Mr. Knowles said. "But if they are to spend more they must get more."

Mr. Knowles said the motion of some persons that wage increases are the cause of higher prices "is in my submission a fallacy."

Figures in the Gordon economic commission report showed that from 1946, the latest year for which figures were available, wage increases had been only a couple of percentage points above increases in productivity.

If wages were able to succeed in making wage increases unilaterally the secretary of the economy, he continued, wages would be prevented from fully performing their economic function.

GET SHARE OF FOLDUP

"You bargain for all you can get, for your full share, or go under."

Mr. Knowles said exhortations to labor leaders and businessmen to practise wisdom, responsibility and restraint are "fair words" and breath and of no force to stop the economic drift.

Labor could help get the country out of a recession by asking for and business by granting wage increases "to the full extent that industry can afford to pay."

He had no fear that such a labor policy would set off fresh rounds of inflation.

Three-Way Deal Will Develop Mine and Town

MONTREAL (CP) — A three-way deal among Labrador Mines, American and German steel interests will likely lead to the development of a new mine and the birth of a new town of more than 2,000 on the treeless, rugged Ungava region of northern Quebec.

Informants say final agreement is near on plans to exploit the huge, low-grade iron ore deposits in Ungava—300 miles from the Arctic Circle and 1,000 miles north of Montreal.

Only a few financial and marketing details remain to be ironed out before the green light is given the $200,000,000 program to ship ultimately 5,000,000 tons of ore a year from the region. If this agreement is reached soon, the first shipments could be made by 1962.

GROUP-NATION VENTURE

Key figures in the project are American industrialist Cyrus Eaton, Nova Scotia, and German steel magnate Alfried Krupp, each with 50-per-cent interests in the prospective company.

Talks now are under way to work out arrangements on costs. The chief problem is to find a way of getting the ore out to market economically.

The ore body is part of the Labrador Trough — a 600-mile-long belt that stretches southward to the Quebec-Labrador border and west to Lake Mistassini, roughly 150 miles from the St. Lawrence River.

Reserves in this mineralized area are estimated at more than 3,000,000,000 tons — 60 times the present annual consumption of all of Europe's steel mills.

Ungava is the only iron deposits in the Ungava region were obtained by Hollinger Eaton Interests seven years ago, Ungava Iron Ores Company Limited was formed to develop the deposits.

The plans to graft a community around the harvest of the destruction of a 25-mile railroad, a concentrating plant, a pelletizing plant, a dock big enough to handle ocean freighters, a complete new rail and highway.

Mining and concentrating the ore will be done underground. But the Ungava Bay harbor is ice-free only about four months a year.

To overcome this transportation handicap, Eaton interests have signed an agreement with the Danish government to establish the port on the ice - free harbor on the coast of Greenland, roughly 600 miles away. Freighters will then be able to move the pellets to market every month of the year.

Electrical Firms' Output Over a Billion

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The Canadian electrical manufacturing industry last year produced more than a billion dollars worth of goods for the third year in a row.

The figures were given today by W. J. Turner, general manager of the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers' Association, and re-elected president W.-J. Turner of Toronto. He succeeds T. J. Bell, also of Toronto.

Text of Mr. Turner's speech was made available to the press in advance of delivery.

He said 1957 domestic production reached a $1,222,000,000 and "barring some unforeseen problem" this year's volume should prove to be as good."

The 1956 figure was $1,129,994,475 and in 1955, $1,094,100,000 worth...g goods were turned out.

DIRECTORS ELECTED

Eight directors were elected to the 24-member board. They are: R. L. Cliff, Vancouver; T. Drummondson, J. W. Kerr, L. W. Preston, A. L. Ross, and D. J. Young, all of Toronto; J. G. Little, Montreal, and T. A. Lindsay, Brockville.

In his final address, Mr. Bell said Canadian manufacturers are doing a remarkable job of competing against American industry.

However, he did, this success has been against great odds—"pressure from foreign - dominated labor unions to bring Canadian wages into line with those paid in the United States" and competition from imported manufactured goods.

"Nobody should expect a nation of 17,000,000 people like Canada to compete in price with a nation of 174,000,000 like the United States," he said. "Canada's secondary manufacturers are doing it with comparatively great success."

But he said, the efforts has produced a low average profit margin.

Conservatives Will Approve Foreign Policy

BLACKPOOL, England (Reuters)—The Conservative party annual conference prepared today to give Prime Minister Macmillan's government a "vote of confidence" on Anglo-American military action in Jordan and Lebanon.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd prepared to wind up the debate.

This described the Jordan and Lebanon troop landings in July as contributions to the stability of the Middle East and as a tangible expression of the renewed identity of Anglo-American policy in an area vital to the free world.

MACMILLAN CITED

It applauded the "personal initiative" of Macmillan in attempting a settlement of the Cyprus problem and supported all efforts by the government to secure a negotiated settlement with Communist countries based on diplomatic preparation and in consultation with the Commonwealth and NATO allies.

A defence debate scheduled today resulted from a resolution applauding the government's "foresight" in developing nuclear weapons manufacture.

It urged the government not to waver in its determination to pursue a powerful defence policy and to ignore sectional demands for unilateral disarmament.

In a vigorous conference session on Thursday, Home Secretary R. A. Butler rejected demands for the restoration of flogging as a punishment for crimes of violence.

Jupiter Rocket Blown Apart After Launching

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Jupiter missile was blown apart in a blazing display of missile fireworks over Cape Canaveral on Thursday night.

It was the third ballistic weapon to be destroyed deliberately after launching in the last month.

The Jupiter—the 1,500-mile missile that also will provide the big punch for the U.S. Army's moon rocket — was destroyed deliberately after it developed trouble out of control several thousand feet high.

One huge chunk crashed back on the cape with a roar; other debris splashed into the ocean nearby. No one was injured and no property damage was reported.

In the last month systems similar to fire an Atlas the full intercontinental range for the first time failed when the missile blew up 80 seconds after launching. On Sept. 24 a Polaris test rocket of the U.S. Navy's 1,500-mile solid-fuel missile that eventually may be launched from nuclear submarines—exploded high in the sky. The rained debris back on the

Nasser Ready for New Phase Of His Pan-Arab Campaign

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

New York (AP)—The Middle East indicates that President Abdel Gamal Nasser is putting his house in order—and perhaps dropping a few broad housekeeping hints to his neighbors as well.

Nasser as been comparatively quiet since world attention shifted from the Middle East to the Formosa straits. But renewed blasts of vilification from the United Arab Republic's government-controlled radio may mean that the dictator is ready for a new phase of his pan-Arab campaign.

He has consolidated his domestic position by appointing a "iron cabinet to rule the U.A.R., just over eight months after it was formed by the union of Egypt and Syria.

In doing so, he gained tighter control over the Syrian region and pointedly dropped one of his closest supporters, Sabri El-Assali, who was premier of Syria when before the merger. Fifteen of the new cabinet members are Egyptian and six Syrian, roughly proportional to the populations of the two areas.

Nasser knocked on the head any lingering ideas that Cairo and Damascus would be twin capitals with the seat of the Cairo since would be the heart of the republic.

Developments in the new republic of Iraq, meanwhile, indicate that Nasser-backed forces are active there.

The former Abdul Karem El-Kasem has found it necessary to arrest his comrade-in-arms and co-revolutionary, Col. Abdul Salam Arif, who was deputy premier in the new Iraqi regime until recently.

The premier moved in quickly when he heard that army supporters of the hot-headed colonel in Baghdad made no secret of their affection for Nasser—were plotting to rise on his behalf. Kasem Arif had been far from satisfied with the premier's plan to send him to Bonn as ambassador to West Germany.

In the middle of all this, Nasser-controlled newspapers and radio stepped up their campaign against British influence in the area. United States troops in Lebanon, and "foreign imperialists" in general, especially the U.S.

Radio broadcasts are especially effective in the ears of the 1,000,000 Arab refugees in the Middle East and in the continuing atmosphere of danger in Jordan, where refugees make up nearly half the population.

The "hate campaign" took an especially virulent turn in a broadcast on President Eisenhower by clandestine Jordanian People's Radio, which apparently is based in Damascus and headed by Jordanian exiles.

Referring to Eisenhower's illnesses, the radio said: ". . . And as many patches on Eisenhower's body will eventually end him up on the city dump, so will the imperialist struggle definitely fall into the abyss."

Western Allies Want Permanent Nuclear Test Ban

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) —The United States and its Western Allies won the United Nations disarmament debate today with a plan aimed at suspension of nuclear weapons tests for all time.

The paper, the American - led proposal is merely an offer to suspend such atomic and hydrogen explosions until a permanent arrangement is worked out at the forthcoming Big Three Geneva conference. In actuality, it is an attempt at making agreement possible at Geneva on a permanent cessation.

This was the most optimistic view taken at the UN as the General Assembly's political committee entered full-scale debate today on the disarmament issue. The American resolution was interpreted in Western quarters as a major move to ensure success of the Big Three discussions outside the UN by putting the world organization on record — perhaps unanimously—in favor of the tripartite talks.

OCT. 31 MEETING

On Oct. 31 the ambassadors of the U.S., Britain and the Soviet Union are scheduled to meet in Geneva and try to work out a mutually acceptable formula for putting an end to the weapons tryouts that have caused grave fears of worldwide radioactive contamination.

The American position here is understood to be that a short and divisive debate at the UN might imperil the chances of success among the three powers most directly concerned.

In advance of tabling today the U.S. disarmament resolution, American Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the assembly's political committee that "we are setting our hopes high about Geneva."

Besides its partner atomic power, Britain, the U.S. hoped for co-sponsorship at its move by Canada, Australia, Japan, Norway and a number of other members heavily representative geographically in the UN. All 81 member countries participate in the political committee debates which determine the major issues to come before the assembly itself later.

Metal Trades Showing Better Times Returning

NEW YORK (AP)—Solid evidence that better times are returning is turned today by the metal trades.

Producers of steel, copper, aluminum, lead and zinc all say demand is on the upswing. This has enabled all of them to raise prices since Sunb, Lead, zinc and copper have gone up again just this week and producers and smelters say customers haven't balked at the higher costs.

Steel, copper and aluminum producers are stepping up output, lengthening work weeks or reactivating facilities to meet the new demand.

Lead and zinc producers are supply disposing of some of the big stocks of these metals above ground.

Strikes in the copper mines of Northern Rhodesia and Canada have cut into world supplies and helped firm prices recently on the London market.

QUOTA RAISES PRICE

Lead and zinc producers received a big assist from the International Lead Zinc Study Group. States of import quotas on these metals. With part of this foreign competition cut off, domestic producers have been able to raise prices together by steps.

But the general recovery of the economy has been helping the metals.

Steel output now is back to 71 per cent of capacity, the highest rate since last November.

Farm equipment makers also report improved sales, reflecting the higher level of farm incomes this year.

Increasing demand for aluminum by several industries has led both to the building of new Arvida and Reynolds Metals to step up output. Alcoa is reactivating a pollne at Point Comfort, Tex., and starting a new one at Massena, N.Y.

Arkansas and Virginia, Two Old South States, Hold Line On White Race Supremacy

WASHINGTON (CP) — Arkansas and Virginia, two old southern states that still cling to the classical Confederate tradition of white race supremacy, are holding the line this year in the South's battle against school integration.

Both have about the same proportion of Negroes in their populations—approximately 35 per cent—and both have closed public school classrooms rather than obey Supreme Court orders to permit Negro students to attend school with white children.

Arkansas has closed all the four high schools in the capital city of Little Rock. Virginia has shut six schools in Norfolk, two in Charlottesville and one in the town of Front Royal.

TENSION DIFFERENCE

In Arkansas the resistance to integration has been marked by demagoguery and threats of violence. In Virginia, where the schools are closed just as tightly as in Arkansas, the process has been ordered and undemonstrative.

The difference lies in state leadership and politics — mostly politics.

In Arkansas, the racial problem is under the heavy hand of Governor Orval Faubus, a backwoods product who never saw a Negro until he came out of the Ozarks to the state capital.

Virginia's resistance movement is guided by Governor Lindsay Almond, Jr., who came off a farm, worked his way through law school and made the proper connections with the political organization headed by Democratic Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia.

In Virginia, politics are dominated by the smoothly functioning Byrd machine, otherwise described as a sort of "benevolent despotism." Its supporters follow the conservative philosophies of the senator.

Arkansas has no such organization. Its senators exercise little or no influence in state politics and the state Democratic party, of which Faubus is the leader, is split into several factions, each fighting for control.

Faubus, to overcome state tradition against a third two - year term as governor, seized the volatile race issue last fall and rode it to further his political ambitions. He threw his state militia around Little Rock's Central High School to bar Negro students from entering it and forced President Eisenhower to call out troops to ensure them safe conduct.

The gamble paid off this year. Faubus won the Democratic nomination for governor which, in traditionally Democratic Arkansas, is tantamount to election. The state votes in November.

Virginia has used a set of subtactics. By skille law, he is limited to one four-year term as governor but his political future, especially as a U.S. senator, seems to be his sights rushing in the Byrd organization.

TWO POLICIES

Faubus, leading heavily on demagoguery, has isolated himself from the moderates in his state. He has fought with the Little Rock School Board and hampered its efforts to meet federal court integration orders and bring about integration in the city's schools with a minimum of social friction.

Almond, on the other hand, has worked closely with the state's school boards where they have tried to put integration orders into effect.

Developments in both states are being watched by other southern states that have school closing laws on their statute books. The success or failure of the integration fight in Virginia and Arkansas may set a pattern for resistance elsewhere.

Radio Engineers Told About New Plane Controls

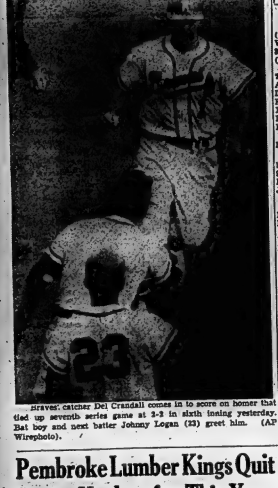
TORONTO (CP) — Electronic navigation of aircraft and the search in Canada for an outer astronomy site were described today at the Canadian convention of the Institute of Radio Engineers.

Military aircraft equipped with new electronic devices soon may rely entirely on automatic navigation to find targets and return to bases, a paper presented by F. J. K. Goulding, project engineer of Ferranti - Packard Electric Limited, Toronto, indicated.

HE SAID, a few military land reader will be able electronically to provide the memory for an airplane's computer before takeoff. Information fed into the computer will include data on wind velocity, drift, weather conditions and other essentials.

This information, recorded on a magnetic storage drum, is "read" by the computer's "memory" when needed and then controls the aircraft accordingly, Mr. Goulding said.

C. R. Patterson and N. W. Broten of the National Research Council's radio engineering division, outlined an extensive search which resulted in location of sites for studies in radio astronomy.



Requirements they said were: freedom from radio noise, a level area of at least a square mile, latitude not higher than 51 degrees north, freedom from heavy prevailing winds, heavy snowfall, extremes of temperature and humidity, atmosphere, easy accessibility, reasonability of cost for purchase and improvement of the site.

YANKS BATTERY MARKS UPHILL SERIES VICTORY

Quinte Saints Extend Win String As Juniors Also Win Over Picton

By ROGER WALTERS

Quinte Secondary School grid squads swept a twin bill from Prince Edward Collegiate of Picton, in COSSA Junior and Senior "A" football action at Q.S.S. yesterday. A much improved Quinte Junior team romped to a 22-6 victory after which the Seniors bounced their rival farmers 40-0. It was the Senior's third win in as many starts and the Juniors' initial triumph.

At the two minute mark of the senior tilt, Quinte's deceptive halfback, Harold Fitzpatrick, scampered 22 yards to give the Saints a lead they never relinquished. Picton fought back gamely, but despite the hard running of John Storms and Charles Vincent, failed to cross their opponents goal line.

Fitzpatrick scored again as the second quarter opened when he broke through Picton's defence and sprited 62 yards for the TD. With less than a minute left in the half, a pass by Ron McBride to Fitzpatrick put Quinte on Picton's 15 yard line. Rickey Locke, who played a tremendous offensive game, drove across giving Quinte a 20 point lead at the half.

Although Picton's Howard Prowse and Aylmer Guernsey turned in a fine defensive effort, they couldn't hold back Quinte's "big three," Locke, Fitzpatrick and Ron Hull who clinched the game in the second half.

At the four minute mark Ron Hull fought his way across the line from nine yards out and minutes later Rickey Locke, after working one first down after another tallied to increase his team's lead to 34 points. Then on the last play of the game Jack Stewart received a pass behind Picton's goal-posts to complete the scoring at 40-0.

Quinte's Ladoucier, Nappsidis and Kennedy were defensive standouts throughout the contest.

JUNIORS HIT STRIDE

Quinte's juniors, finally hitting their stride, revenged last week's 14-0 defeat at the hands of the Picton juniors, by walloping the visitors 22-6. Steve Wilson, Quinte's top backfield-er turned in his usual fine running performance as he scored a pair of TD's, one being a run of 104 yards.

End Bill Latchford accounted for Quinte's other touchdown as he pulled down one of Bob Follwell's passes from the Quinte 30. Picton's Tony Stewart sparked his team to their lone touchdown on a quarter-back sneak in the third quarter. The visitors couldn't make any headway, however, against Quinte's defending stalwarts, Bernie Laduocier, McMillan and Davis. McVaughton and Gorman were tops defensively for Picton.

Pembroke Lumber Kings Quit Senior Hockey for This Year

PEMBROKE (CP)—Pembroke Lumber Kings will withdraw from competition in the eastern division of the Ontario Senior Hockey Association this season but will be a senior "B" club in the regional loop.

At a special town meeting Thursday night fans failed to contribute enough funds to warrant entering Lumber Kings in the Eastern OHA Senior League, club officials decided.

However, Kings will play in the newly-formed Interprovincial League which comprises teams from Ottawa, Hull, Quebec, Smiths Falls, Ont.; and Brockville.

Long a powerful and colorful club in senior circles, the Lumber Kings entered the Eastern OHA Senior League in 1954 after playing in the northern division of the league for three years.

The players with this year's entry will not be paid salaries but will share the gate receipts at each game, officials said.

In The Dressing Rooms

By CHUCK CAPALDO

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Yankees were expected to live it up after they won the world series. They did.

These were the expected and unexpected dressing room scenes hard on the heels of New York's remarkable triumph Thursday.

The Yankees, who grabbed the world championship right from under the muted bats of the Braves with a 6-2 victory, ordinarily don't show emotions. This time they did. For them, they were noisy, almost boisterous.

The Braves, deprived of baseball's biggest prize after seemingly having an unshakable grip on their second straight championship, were not glum.

NOT MAD AT SELVES

And, they certainly weren't angry — at themselves.

The Braves' apparent willingness to accept their fate was without comparison in recent years. They acted as though a great weight had been lifted off their backs.

"They acted as though they expected it to be," one clubhouse visitor said. Another insisted, "They died like true champs, with no excuses."

The answer probably lies somewhere in between.

Manager Casey Stengel, who engineered the Yankees' great comeback, couldn't resist a jibe at Milwaukee's Lew Burdette, his opposite number tomorrow. Burdette beat the Bombers three times last year, but fell before them twice this time while winning only once.

"Now we look like we could play in the National League," said a grinning Stengel.

Fred Stengel referred, of course, to Burdette's crack after winning the second series game. "I'd like to see the Yankees in the National League," said Lew. "They're no tougher than two or three teams in our league."

FRAMES YANKEES

Casey had praise for all of his warriors, but reserved special kudos for Bob Turley, who pitched 9 2-3 innings of brilliant relief for his second series victory; Elston Howard, whose high-flying single through the mid-dle drove in the deciding run with two out in the eighth; and Moose Skowron, whose three-run homer squelched the Braves and Burdette for good in the same inning.

Stengel's opposite number, Fred Haney, refused to grasp at deafened alibis.

"Instead of moaning, let's talk about how good their pitchers were," he said at one point. "Let's not talk about our batting slump, let's talk about their pitching," he said at another.

BATS LOST PUNCH

He did, however, point out the painful fact that his Braves scored 17 runs in the first two series games and only seven in the last five.

"The turning point was in our bats," he said.

Red Schoendienst offered an explanation for his teammates' apparent indifference. Amid the wisecracks, shower room pranks and general levity that marked the Braves' clubhouse, he said:

"I think I can speak for them. They figure they did their best so why cry about it. I know I did my best."

MYSTERY RUNNER

TORONTO (CP)—The case of a mystery runner who came from nowhere, won the half-mile run in Wednesday's University of Toronto interfaculty track and field meet, then disappeared, still hasn't been found. Said Johnny McManus, in charge of the meet: "He finished in just a little more than two minutes—about 25 seconds better than the second-place man. But as soon as the race was over he disappeared . . . he must have been somebody who was in the stadium for a workout, just spotted the race ready to start and jumped in with them."

Majority of Famous Stars From Heartland of America

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What do the result is usually a failure. But manliness is not enough. "The main thing we do is give people an emotional experience," explains James Stewart. "If we don't get it into a picture, it's usually a flop. If we do get it, the picture has a chance of being really great."

manner of men are the 12 famous stars who are the kingpins of the movie world?

The majority come from the heartland of America. They were born in such places as Winterset, Iowa (John Wayne), O'Fallon, Ill. (William Holden) and Indiana, Pa., (James Stewart). Only one came from a metropolis — New Yorkers Burt Lancaster and Tony Curtis.

Just one was born outside the U.S. — Cary Grant, born Archibald Leach in Bristol, England.

Most came from humble beginnings. Gregory Peck's and Wayne's fathers were druggists, Curtis's was a barber, Frank Sinatra's a boxer and Clark Gable's an oil field worker.

UP THE HARD WAY

All came up the hard way. Before they clicked as actors, Lancaster was an acrobat, Grant a stiltwalker, Gable a lumberjack and Kirk Douglas a bellhop.

It may surprise you to learn that the average age of the dozen most successful film stars is 47.

Only Marlon Brando (46) and Curtis (43) are under 45. Three of the dozen are over 50: Grant (54), Gable and Gary Cooper (both 57).

They are not necessarily the highest paid actors in films. Only half of them have won acting awards.

HALF MARRIED ONCE

Their records would seem to belie the claim that Hollywood is a shaky place for marriage. Half of the famous dozen have been married only once.

But beyond the statistics, what are the qualities that have made them kings of the film world?

Basically, they are thoroughly masculine types. They seldom play weak characters; when they

Quebec Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals, off to a quick start in the new Quebec Hockey League season, Thursday night collected their second lopsided victory in as many games.

Royals beat Chicoutimi Saguenays 7-1 in the first game of the season which opened Wednesday night when Royals trounced Quebec Aces 6-1 at Quebec City.

Trois-Rivieres Lions fared well in their season-starter Thursday night, taking a 3-1 home-ice victory from the league Quebec Aces.

Bill Sutherland and Ken Mosdell scored for Royals in the first period at Chicoutimi. Alain Caron counted for Chicoutimi early in the second, but the Royals rejoiced two-to-one with markers by Moe Mantha and Lulu Denis.

Fern Perreault finished up the scoring in the third period.

Trois-Rivieres Lions beat Quebec Aces on the strength of two goals by Norm Corcoran, both set up by Ed Hoekstra and Matt Kerfich.

After a scoreless first period, Pete Panagabko tallied for Aces midway through the second.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Macs' defencemen Fiori-Geogan is looking for a furnished apartment, with two bedrooms. Anyone knowing of such, get in touch with Jerry Deegan, or Jack Capstaff . . . A "Meet the Macs" ball has been planned for October 22nd at the ANAF auditorium, Front Street. The players and their wives will be on hand to meet the fans and dance. The ball is being sponsored by the Macs' Booster Club, and members only will be admitted . . . Gerry Chambers, Adams' Distillery representative, here, said that his company is donating a silver trophy to each and every McFarland who scores the hat-trick on home ice in schedule play this season . . . Pete Payette, brother of Jean Paul, who has given the best of his hockey-playing years in this hometown Cornwall Cheviks, has hung up the hockey gear for good. Pete was one of the better centres of the Eastern League, and with Paul, comes from a well-known eastern hockey family.

This is a red-letter year for the McFarlands when they hope to add the world hockey championship to their hardwon national title. Booster Club president Armand Duffy wants to rally his forces behind the Macs and urges every fan to join the club. Membership tickets are on sale everywhere, so why not get in the swim, and behind the team . . . Lou Saurke, the Macs' new right winger is one of the best starboard patrolmen seen here in some time. Lou was born in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, thirty years ago, and has played for Chicoutimi for the past seven years. His record last season was 24 goals and 44 assists, with 39 minutes in the hosegow. He should take a lot of pressure off that old right-wing toiler, Ike Hildebrand. The other night after practice Lou remarked to "Wiener" Brown, "What's wrong, you look all in." "No wonder," came back the 'Wiener,' I've been trying to hit you for three practices, and you won't stand still long enough" . . . The OHA referees' committee meets tonight. There is a strong possibility "Red" Doran may be named eastern supervisor of referees. They couldn't get a better guy.

Chief Tabby Bob Temple of the Belleville Bobcats, feted his softball people the other night in appreciation of a successful season, albeit the boys did not bring home a championship . . . Charlie Burns, ex-Whitby star, has made the grade with the Detroit Red Wings . . . Rene St. Hilaire is a member of the Clinton Comets of the American International League. When Hull-Ottawa's Sammy Pollock told Whitby's Wren Blair at the league meeting the other night that he would give Blair a pro for Clinton if he would send an amateur to Pembroke, St. Hilaire's name was mentioned in the deal. Blair can use reinstated pros on his Clinton team . . . Joe Lepine has purchased a gas station near Ottawa. The Pembroke boys say Joe has hung up the gear . . . Moe Benoit has sold his Front Street coffee bar . . . The first lush cat a dozen or so years ago arrested by the Macs the other night. The boys got their smallpox vacs with Doctor Metcalfe, MOH, on the pitching end.

The junior "A" Petes tossed a scare into Wren Blair's world champion Dunnies the other night. Long John, Attersley and company were all-out before they shook out a 5-5 win. Don't forget, you can get tickets for the Dunlops-Macs game at Trenton next week at Bill Cook's "Tobacco Shop" . . . Ray Cullen, who will be seen in action with the St. Catharines Teepees here tonight, is a younger brother of Toronto Maple Leafs' Barry and Brian. . . Harry Watson of Maple Leaf fame, is coaching the Teepees, assisted by Bob Wilson (remember?), chief scout of the Chicago Black Hawks . . . Bob Wilson, Jr., who played junior "B" here, is now a member of the Three Rivers' club of the Quebec Senior "A".

Cornwall Cheviks got a jolt yesterday. Dirk Mattusi and Bill Saunders who figured largely in Manager Ray Miron's plans, have joined the Kitchener Dutchmen training camp . . . The OHA is holding a referees' clinic on Thursday, October 31, and all officials of the district are invited. Referee-in-chief Pat Patterson, will be on hand. 'Place, city hall. Time, eight o'clock.

The Hasty Pees Trumpet Band will play before and between periods in the arena tonight. A nice program . . . Lou Secord slowed down Lou Senrke last night . . . Rex Sutners, "The Voice of the Miami of Ontario," recalled the first hockey game broadcast in Belleville. Rex aired the Belleville Nedmen-Thorold final back in 1936-37 . . . Try as he might "Wiener" just could not miss that net last night.

Yankees Win Series With Comeback Three-In-Row

Climax Hard Uphill Battle With Smashing 6-2 Victory; Turley Was Outstanding Star

MILWAUKEE (CP) — The trusty New York Yankees are back on the baseball throne today, still somewhat shaky after their seven-game world series duels with Milwaukee Braves.

The American League champions climaxed a desperate uphill battle with a 6-2 victory Thursday to capture their 18th world title in the last 38 years, their eighth in the last 12.

It was a close call for Casey Stengel's crew. Not the best Yankee team to ever enter a series, the New Yorkers had to struggle back from a 3-1 game deficit to take the title.

They needed powerful pitching to offset mediocre hitting and some all-out help from Milwaukee in the form of poor baserunning, shoddy fielding and errant throwing.

RARE FEAT

Stengel trained his athletes to the task after their final victory, their third in succession and their fourth in the last five games. It was no time for censure. His boys had accomplished a feat only two other world series clubs achieved.

But it is safe to assume Stengel has not forgotten the promise he made a week ago after the Yankees were beaten 13-9 by the Braves.

"I'm going to make some changes on this club," he said then, "There are several men on this club who don't deserve to be on it. They won't be here next spring."

Pitching won the pennant for New York. It also won the series. The team batted was only .211 despite 10 home runs. Only Hank Bauer and Gil McDougald hit better than .300 among the Yankees.

WON IN EIGHTH

The Yanks managed to come from behind to win Milwaukee by the grace of a couple of wild throws by first baseman Frank Torre and failure of the Braves to hit in the clutch. They scored two unearned runs against Burdette without the aid of a hit in the second inning to take a 2-1 lead.

FAIL IN CLUTCH

The Braves had two good shots at starter Don Larsen and winner Bob Turley. They muffed both. Even the 36,207 Milwaukee fans crossed they had had it despite a game-tying home run by catcher Del Crandall in the sixth inning. The game Crandall had been up twice with the bases full and twice failed to come through.

Crandall struck out in the first inning after his team had taken a 1-0 lead against Larsen and filled the bases on three walks in the third Turley retired Wes Covington on a run - scoring grounder, purposely walked Eddie Mathews to fill the bases and disposed of Crandall on another grounder.

The Braves left eight runners stranded to increase their total to 37 for the seven games. The Yankees left only 40 on base. Milwaukee hit only three home runs.

Turley was superb Thursday, just as he was Monday when he shut out the Braves on five hits and Wednesday when he came in to relieve the last batter on three pitches to preserve Ryne Duren's 4-3 triumph. He gave up only two hits in the final 6 2-3 innings for his second victory in two days and was voted a hero over as the series' outstanding player.

BRAVES HAVE FLAWS

The series brought out several Braves' flaws. It showed them to be a slow-running, mediocre-fielding, ordinary-hitting club. If worst for the magnificent work of their two great pitchers, Warren Spahn and Burdette, they probably would not have won more than one game. They allowed 17 of their 25 runs in the first two games and were shaky out twice in the last five.

The last time a team won the series after being down 3-1 in games was in 1925 when Pittsburgh Pirates did it. The 1903 Boston Red Sox also came from behind the big count, in the first world series. That was in the days of the best-of-nine series.

Kelowna Played Five Games In Moscow

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP) — Kelowna Packers, Allan Cup finalists last spring, will play five exhibition hockey games in Moscow in November, says George Dudley, secretary - manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. The team will also play three games in Sweden.

Dudley said the games in Moscow have been scheduled for Nov. 16, 18, 19, 21 and 23 following matches with Stockholm Nov. 9, 11 and 12. The team will leave Vancouver by plane, Nov. 7 and leave Moscow for home by air Nov. 24.

The Packers, beaten by Belleville McFarlands in the Allan Cup series, were chosen by the CAHA to make the Russian tour —first Canadian hockey team to visit Russia — as top amateurs in May.

Games in Sweden and Russia will be played under International Ice Hockey Federation rules.

The CAHA will pay transportation costs to Moscow and the Russians will look after the team and officials during their nine-day stopover in Moscow. Transportation costs back to Vancouver, the CAHA made the same deal to the Russians last November when they toured Eastern Canada.

"We figure it will cost about $17,000 to get the Packers to Moscow," Dudley said. "The transportation alone is close to $12,000, excess baggage both ways might be as high as $4,000 and we are figuring about $1,000 for equipment such as sweaters, socks and other incidentals."

Yogi Berra World Series Record Breaker

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Yogi Berra of New York Yankees set six records, extended four he already held and tied three others in the 1958 world series.

In all, 18 marks were shattered and 15 tied by the Yanks and Milwaukee Braves.

The records broken:

Most games, total series — 61, Berra, (extended own record).

Most games played, outfielder, total series—Bauer, (previous record, 51 by DiMaggio).

Most strikeouts, one series—11, Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee (previous record, 10 by Bill Abstein, Pittsburgh NL, 1009 and George Kelly, New York NL, 1921).

Most strikeouts, one series, club — 56, Milwaukee (previous record, 50 by Chicago NL, 1929).

Most runs, first inning, club—seven, Milwaukee (previous record, six by New York NL, Oct. 15, 1913).

Most games won, manager, total series — 24, Casey Stengel, New York (extended own record).

The pride of the Yankees again, Casey Stengel is chaired after guiding the Bombers to their eighth world championship since he joined New York in 1949.

'Wiener' Scores Five Goals In McFarlands 7-3 Victory Over St. Catharines Teepees

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

ST. CATHARINES — A former St. Catharines forward returned to the scene of his juvenile and junior "A" triumphs here last night and showed a handful of Garden City fans that maturity has not spoiled his goal-getting ability.

Wayne "Wiener" Brown, once the darling of St. Kitts' fandom, skated and blasted his way to five goals in the Belleville McFarlands 7-3 victory over the current edition of the junior "A" Teepees.

Frank Bathgate provided the other two markers in an exhibition tilt that saw the Allan Cup champions take a first-period 3-1 lead. Both teams scored in the second frame with the Macs tripping home four unanswered goals in the third after the Teepees had tied the score.

The teams meet in a return game in Belleville tonight, starting nine o'clock with the Teepees going on to Kingston tomorrow night and meeting the Cornwall Cherries on Sunday.

Andy Milne, Fred Fayette, Ike Hildebrand and Bart Bradley each had two assists for the Macs. Mikita, Wright and Cullen scored the Teepees goals.

Outside the arena the temperature was 72 degrees. Inside a heavy fog lay boards high until a few minutes before game-time. The ice was slow and heavy and as Doc Hildebrand termed it "a fine conditioning surface."

Hildebrand said he was satisfied with the Macs performance last night. "We are not in condition yet, but a few more games like that under our belt and the team should be in fairly good shape."

The youthful Teepees proved a fast-skating hard close checking team that was not daunted by the national champion reputation of the opposition. They hit hard, and were hit just as hard, and for the exception of the third period had their share of the play.

The Macs drew ten of the 17 minor penalties handed out, six of them coming in the second period. The Macs defence and Gordie Bell looked especially good in this frame with the Teepees with man-power advantage putting on the pressure. Denis Landry the referee called off the Teeps pinged in the five performance the two periods he worked.

Brown blasted home Andy Milne's right-wing pass early in first period to open the scoring—but Stan Mikita on a pretty clean-in effort tied the count six minutes later. Paul Fayette set up Frank Bathgate neatly to give the Macs a 2-1 period lead.

Wright got that one back mid-way in the penalty-studded second heat. Milne slipped Brown the puck from a face-off and Wiener's slap-shot blast hit the goalie, dropped and rolled into the net to give the Macs a 3-2 lead.

Cullen worked in close opening the third frame and slithered the puck under Gordie Bell to again tie the score.

After that the Macs took over. They patterned their familiar blueline passing play and Wiener got ed his third goal home from close in. Four minutes later Brown Bradley and Hildebrand weaved in close with Brown notching goal number four.

The line-ups:

Belleville — Goal, Bell; defence, Dewsbury, Crawford, Gorgan, Prizeski, Benoit; forwards, Bradley, Brown, Hildebrand, McLellan, Senrke, Marineau, Fayette, Menard, Bathgate and Milne.

St. Catharines — Goal, DeJordy and Smith; defence, Hillman, Stapleton, McGuire, Hayward, Sheffield, Longarini; forwards, Maki, Mikita, Mongeon, Grosso, Wennechuk, Chico Maki, Wright, Corupe, Robinson, Haddefield, Cullen.

Argos on Well-Known Spot, Stamps, Eskys Need 2 Wins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The chips are down for Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four football league this weekend.

Argos play a home-and-home series against Hamilton Tiger-Cats and will have to shoot the works to stay in contention for one of the three playoff berths. They're in last place with one win in eight games. Ticats, gunning to climb the league title, have seven wins and a tie and lead the league with 15 points.

It's also a doubleheader weekend for Montreal Alouettes and Ottawa Rough Riders whose battle for second place may help decide Argos' fate. Rough Riders have eight points for a one-point lead on Alouettes.

Ticat clinched its Hamilton Saturday and Toronto Monday would put Argos on the brink of elimination.

LAST CHANCES ...

The Montreal - Ottawa series, opening at Ottawa Saturday, will be the last regular league meeting of the two clubs.

Rough Rider coach Frank Clair says his club has been doing double workouts this week preparing for the Montreal games. Don Quilliam's injured left knee will keep him out of Ottawa's lineup and Clair has switched Dave Thelen from half to Quilliam's fullback slot. Ron Stewart will go in at half.

Alouettes' star end Hal Patterson and fullback Pat Abbruzzi have missed the last two games and will be out for two more weeks, doctors say. Import centre Tom Hugo and centre Bob MacLellan are also on the injured list.

CURCILLO RETURNS

Hamilton will have Tony Curcillo back in a linebacking spot after an injury.

The Ticats' chief worry will be stopping the passing attack of Argos' Ronnie Knox, who turned in a brilliant quarterbacking game against Montreal in a 14-10 loss last Saturday.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Top Tourn, owned by the McMacken stable of Toronto, ran 6¼ furlongs in the sparkling time of 1.17 to win the feature race at New Woodbine Thursday — and then was disqualified by the stewards.

Top Tourn, ridden by Charles Bradford, was only one second behind Hartney's Canadian record for the distance as he won by more than three lengths while Tad was second, Count Teddy third and Henry C. Good fourth.

After the race, Jockey Alex Wick, who rode Henry C. Good, lodged a claim of foul against Count Teddy. No one lodged any foul claims against the winner.

However, when the stewards examined movies they detected that Top Tourn had caused all the trouble by cutting across the field two furlongs after they left the starting gate. Top Tourn was disqualified and placed last.

Mathematically, Saskatchewan, Edmonton and Calgary will remain in the running for the last two playoff berths in the Western Interprovincial Football Union no matter what the outcome in the four-game Thanksgiving weekend.

But for Calgary Stampeders and Edmonton Eskimos, only a double victory will give either any sense of security in the chase for the three playoff berths in the five-team circuit.

The two clubs meet in Edmonton Saturday night, then in Calgary Monday afternoon.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers, in first place with a seven - point margin over Saskatchewan and meeting the last - place British Columbia Lions Saturday in Winnipeg in their only weekend game already have been conceded first place and the bye into the league finals.

Riders, with a two-point margin over Eskimos and three points over Stampeders, play the Lions in Regina Monday afternoon and are heavily favored to add two more points to their present 12.

Coach Sam Lyle of Eskimos moaning under weight of injuries that will sideline lineman Gino Fracas and may keep defensive halfback Rollie Miles out of play, says if one team wins both weekend games, the other will lose all hope of gaining the playoffs.

Stampeder coach Jack Nobby Wirkowski is laid up with a bad back which hasn't improved this week. This means halfback Ron Clinkscale will move into the quarterback job for the weekend action.

With the Wolves starting to howl that coach Otis Douglas should get Stampeder manager Jim Finks says that if the players don't come through this weekend, there "may be drastic changes in the offing."

JOB FOR WOIT

SPOKANE (AP) — Benny Woit, a defenceman for eight years in the National Hockey League, has been appointed assistant coach of Spokane Flyers in the Western Hockey League.

Canadiens Shade Bruins 3-2 In Another Bruising Battle

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

They played the second game of the 1958-59 National Hockey League schedule Thursday night and at the rate they're going, there won't be anyone in condition to skate by Nov. 1.

Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens went at each other in the opener Tuesday night and principals in a blood feud. Bruins lost the game 3-2 but the Habs got most of the wounds; it took 12 stitches to close them.

The 10-penalty encounter was only 16 minutes old when Boston forward Bronco Horvath was bounced from the game, saddled with a misconduct penalty and a game misconduct. He drew the second for airing his views on the first and among other things will pay a $75 fine. His case will be reviewed by NHL President Clarence S. Campbell.

PENALTY-STREWN GAMES

There were nine penalties in the first period of the season, Wednesday night's 1-1 tie between New York Rangers and Black Hawks at Chicago.

Thursday night, there were eight minors made and three misconducts, including the two to Horvath. Bruin Don McKenney got the third for objecting to the penalizing of Bob Armstrong.

Canadiens' first single goals in each period—Dickie Moore, Andy Hebenton and Doug Harvey were the scorers — and Jacques Plante held on for less six minutes from a shutout when Jerry Toppazzini and Vic Stasiuk beat him.

It was a bad night for Plante. They sewed up his chin with 12 stitches after the first period when his face got in the way of a blistering backhand shot by Stasiuk.

The first was the wildest period. Toppazzini and Boston's iron-ribbed Fern Flaman mixed it up and when they were levered apart Flaman had a gash over his eye that required five stitches.

Canadiens and Boston each got a bench penalty. Joe Blake sent on and recalled his lines as many times in one interval that Montreal was penalized for holding up the game.

Boston got its team penalty in the third period when the officials found too many Bruins on the ice.

HOW THEY STAND

H a b s, the defending NHL champions, go into weekend play with two points and first place. Chicago and New York have one point apiece by virtue of their Wednesday night deadlock.

Als Put Three On Waivers

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes have announced that Charlie Horton, Henry Hair and Johnny Faroff have been placed on waivers.

It also announced that import Ed Bernet has been traded to Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union but terms of the deal so far as the Alouettes' end is concerned were not made known.

Horton has been with the Als since the start of this season. He is an import halfback. Hair, an import end, was picked up only recently when dropped by Toronto Argonauts. Fedeseff, veteran defensive halfback formerly with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, recently returned to action after an injury.

Bernet is an end obtained a couple of weeks ago from Pittsburgh Steelers.

Alouettes now have 18 imports on hand, including several on the injury list. Twelve imports must be declared by the club by midnight next Tuesday.

Two Ladds Join Junior Fire Marshals

Screen star Alan Ladd helps son David inspect the basement of their Hollywood home for hazards in observance of National Fire Prevention Week (Oct. 5-11). David, who is 10 and a rising actor in his own right, is one of four million youngsters who will qualify as Junior Fire Marshals in the year-round public service program, sponsored by the Hartford Fire Insurance Company. To qualify as Junior Fire Marshals, children check hazards listed on a "home inspection report" in the fall issue of the Junior Fire Marshal magazine. Finding paint cans with loose tops, young Ladd shows dad how to make them less likely to become fire hazards by pounding them shut with a hammer. This and other fire prevention tips are part of the Hartford Fire's program to make boys and girls more safety conscious.

Gerry James announces plans for winter

Versatile Winnipeg Blue Bomber Gerry James was released his plans for the winter season. "No change," said Gerry, "I'm relying on "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze just as I did last year. I know I can depend on "Prestone" Anti-Freeze to protect me from freezeups, rust, clogging and corrosion in my car's cooling system."

You can depend on "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze, too. Its magnetic film coats every rubber and metal part of your car's cooling system and protects it against the worst that winter can do! Insist on "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze and you'll get it. Look for the Green "Tag on your radiator that ensures you of complete winter protection—"Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze protection. P-15-19

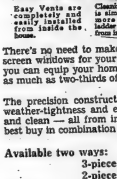
Mr. Byron F. Fines of Kitchener, has taken over his duties as personnel manager. All wish him every success in his new job.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. W. Picard on their 17th wedding anniversary on Wednesday.

A dinner conference was held in Batawa Recreational Hall on Monday evening to discuss plans for the winter months. Guest speaker of the evening was C. W. Sloan of Quinte Secondary School teaching staff. Keen interest was displayed in the well attended function with Mr. A. Cekota presiding over various discussions.

Mr. John Hora from The Bata Shoe plant in Batawa, Maryland, is consulting with the engineering division.

Congratulations and best wishes are extended to Miss Zozefa Petrus and Frank Zemny who were married on Saturday in Sacred Heart Church, Batawa.



MORTGAGE LOANS — NOTICE

To those contemplating building or re-financing we suggest getting applications in as early as possible. We do our own inspections and estimations and can therefore give immediate action. Advisory service free. Money advanced as building progresses.

don't pay exorbitant commission to a door-to-door window salesman — buy Nicholson EASY VENTS, the all-weather wood storm and screen combination for all season protection and convenience.

Easy Vents are completely and easily installed from inside the house.

For summer protection, wet unit of rustproof screening replaces lower storm unit.

There's no need to make yourself poor buying combination storm and screen windows for your home. Now, through your local lumber dealer, you can equip your home with Nicholson Easy Vents and save yourself as much as two-thirds of the cost of other combinations.

The precision construction of Nicholson Easy Vents ensures positive weather-tightness and easy operation. They're easy to install, remove and clean—all from inside the house. See Houston's now for today's best buy in combination storm and screen windows.

Available two ways:
3-piece Easy Vents include screen
2-piece Easy Vents—storms only
Nothing extra to buy — all hardware and fittings included.

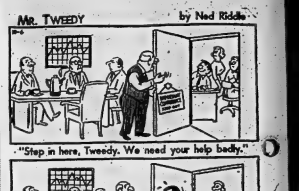
RYLSTONE



Mrs. C. Reid Hostess for WI Meet

RYLSTONE — On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Carl Reid was hostess to 14 members of the Rylstone Women's Institute, three visitors and two children. Mrs. Stanley Kerr, president, was in charge of the business part of the meeting.

Invitations were read from Seymour East Women's Institute to attend an afternoon tea in Burnbree Church, and a short course in Springbrook, on Oct. 3. Mrs. Fred Barnum was chosen voting delegate to the area convention to be held in Belleville, on October, 22rd and 24th. A report on the historical workshop for Tweedsmuir history books, was given by Mrs. Ernest Irwin, who attended the meeting recently. It was decided to enter the Rylstone Tweedsmuir history book in the competition.

Mrs. Jim Gray was convener for the balance of the program as follows: Topic, "Thanksgiving", prepared by Mrs. Don Kerr and read by Mrs. Jack Watson; exhibit and demonstration on making rubber bands and wood fibre flowers, given by Mrs. Albert Tinney and Mrs. Jack Watson; readings were given by Mrs. Minnie Petherick, "It Always Happens 'Ti Me"; and "Rural Route Letter", by Mrs. Charles Stewart.

At conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess and the refreshment committee, Mrs. Rose Mumby, Mrs. Jack Watson and Mrs. Gerald Petherick.

WAS HOCKEY STAR

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Willard Box, former amateur hockey star and long-time Toronto dentist died Wednesday at 69.

Nicknamed the Calebogie Express after his hometown near Renfrew, he was a member of the dental club team which won the Allan Cup in 1917. In 1940 Dr. Box contested the federal riding of Toronto Spadina for the Progressive Conservatives, losing to Liberal David Croll. He served with the Canadian Dental Corps in the Second World War.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, October 11

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Get in touch today with as many fascinating people as possible with whom you wish to be allied in any way. Go to some lively spot and come to meeting of minds. Co-operation and admiration are the keynotes for the day.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — The perfect day for gardening, looking after clothing, accessories, files, etc. Repairs where necessary and add efficiencies throughout. Keep actively engaged all day, evening. Tonight, rest and look after your health.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — If attuned properly astrologically, you arise feeling just now and can have a tiptop day. First, be sure to get your inventive, creative ideas before the right people. Then dress up, go to fine social functions and have fun!

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — Try to spend most of your time at abode today getting it in fine shape and order. Make sure utilities are working nicely. P. M. is then excellent for entertaining at home in a spirit of good will and sincere hospitality.

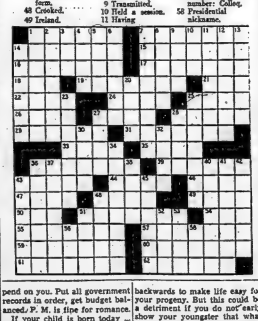
Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Get your usual Saturday tasks taken care of quickly today. Give a merited word of praise to those about. Early P. M. join with kinfolk, friends, neighbors in some mutually enjoyable hobbies. Have fun and be gay.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — An ideal day for scrutinizing your real estate, other property or holdings, and making improvements or additions that increase both value and beauty thereof, and comfort. P. M. look after your things.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — A lucky Saturday when you can do as you please, see the people you like. Dress in fine style, then go about socially or seeing those business ties who can make it possible for you to have greater security in life.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — It always pleases you to find out what it is that makes people tick, to analyze the causes behind the effects. Hence, today you can ride this hobby to the hilt and so realize greater success in life and more harmony with fellow man.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Good pals are with you today. Think how you can join in some mutually beneficial enterprises and cement relations with them. Later, have fine times at social gatherings, functions of an uplifted nature. Be smart.



Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) — Here is your opportunity to be with a truly intelligent and progressive individual of great influence. He or she will support you if you are specific about your ambitions and plans. Take advantage of this opportunity.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Delve right into your paper, other printed matter today for the data you require. Then see new financial advisors, experts. Prepare yourself thoroughly for some very remunerative venture in the near future. Be alert.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Follow your intuition about how to spend this fine day so that you will learn much and be able to help those who depend on you. Put all government records in order, get budget balanced. P. M. is fine for romance.

If your child is born today he lucky child born today is possessed of an elusive quality that endears him or her to everyone about, and all will lean over backwards to make life easy for your progeny. But this could be a detriment if you do not early show your youngster that what is earned by the sweat of the brow is what one most appreciates and keeps in life. This can be a very successful chart otherwise.

Sunday School Lesson

What Can One Man Do?

By ROY L. SMITH

The world in which we live is so completely at the mercy of mobs and majorities that the plain person can be forgiven for asking, on occasion, "What can one man do?"

One of the finest things any man can do is to furnish a market for the best in music, the most wholesome in literature, the decent in entertainment, and the most inhospitable for gossip.

One man can buy tickets to really good entertainment and educational lectures. He can provide an audience for a thoughtful sermon. He can be a good listener at any unprejudiced discussion of political issues. He can dress in good taste, and stand on the side lines and cheer the honest office holder.

CAN CHERISH A HOPE

The old proverb to the effect that "where there is life there is hope," could very well be inverted to say, "where there is hope there is life," and then one man could serve as a dispenser of hope.

This was the function served by dear old Simeon in this week's Sunday School lesson. It seems to have been one of the aged members of the community, and he must have been one of those who seldom made the headlines on the front page. He had continued his life to the ending of the banner of [illegible] and when the time came he went on [illegible] Lord's Christ [illegible] the promised would [illegible] when the redemption of Israel might start.

MAINTAIN FAITH

All around our world the [illegible] men in goodness and justice seems to be going into an eclipse. Two world wars within one generation, the spread of communism over half the earth, and the agonies through which government after government is passing are enough to try men's souls.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for October 12: "The Promise Fulfilled," Luke 2:1-40.

The man who helps to maintain faith is of as much worth to a land as that one is who helps to maintain economic security.

Among all classes there is a minister fear which assures men that their fathers were deceived when they believed anything. In the name of "realism" everything holy and splendid is being denied, and in many a town the cause of hope is dying because not one person arises to say "I have faith."

One person might save the faith of a town. At least one person could try.

HE CAN BELIEVE

There was nothing sophisticated or skeptical about this man Simeon. He had the gracious ability to believe. There are those among us who seem to think it is the mark of a simpleton to believe anything. The man who has convictions is very urgently a lonely figure. It is so much easier to believe nothing, and then have nothing to defend.

It was to one who believed—an old man of faith and hope—to whom the vision of the coming Messiah was first granted.

Incidentally it was in church, and not out in the wide and open spaces, that the sight of the Child was granted to him. Suppose he had stayed home that day because he had a headache!

Hula Hoops Hit North America

(ADVT.)

A fad likely to rival the extinct yo-yo in popularity has come to North America, via Australia. Ingredients are: a plastic hoop 35 inches in diameter, a supple body and a dazed expression. Place the hoop around the body and gyrate. Some kids can keep it up for hours. But it's not only for kids. There's a sneaking suspicion that hula-hooping is good for the waistline, so Mom and Dad can use the kids' hoops when they have discarded them. Show-offs have been known to gyrate as many as five hoops around their bodies at once. For reports of the fads and fancies of the world, for all kinds of human interest items, read the Toronto Star. 12-10

U.S. ROCKET IS IN SPACE, MOON-BOUND

Official Mourning Starts, Pope Will Be Buried Monday

Thousands Circle Past Catafalque in Basilica

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A hushed, endless river of humanity flowed today through St. Peter's Basilica and around the body of Pope Pius XII, his face austere and peaceful in death.

The pontiff, clad in the robes in which he will be buried on Monday, lay directly under the great cupola and above the tomb of St. Peter.

The side doors of the basilica opened at dawn. The long procession began. Men, women and children entered doors at the right and moved across slowly, shoulder to shoulder, held within barriers for their journey.

They moved with sounds of shuffling and whispered words.

CANDLES CAST GLOW

Twenty-four candles cast a golden glow on the pope, slightly inclined on a six-foot high catafalque so that the calm face was clearly visible.

By noon, hundreds of thousands of persons had filed past the solid stream, had passed by the pope's body.

The pope's body was brought here Friday night from the papal summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, 15 miles away in the Alban hills, where he died at 3:52 a.m. (9:52 p.m. EDT) Thursday.

Meeting in Vatican quarters in St. Peter's Square, a group of 76 cardinals made further arrangements for the public funeral of Pope Pius and the choice of his successor.

The Vatican announced these decisions:

The Roman Catholic church's 261st pontiff will be buried between the basilica in formal services starting at 4 p.m. (11 a.m. EDT) Monday, Oct. 13. The services will last about 1½ hours.

CONCLAVE BEGINS OCT. 25

The secret conclave of the College of Cardinals to elect the new pope will begin at 4 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 25. Only the eligible 53 cardinals are expected to attend.

The election will be held in the Vatican's Sistine Chapel. The cardinals must choose the new pontiff from among their own numbers, or perhaps select a prelate who is not a prince of the church. Only when two-thirds of the cardinals make the choice is made by at least two-thirds plus one of the 53 cardinals.

The opening of the basilica's doors today signalled the beginning of a solemn nine-day period of mourning and daily Requiem Masses.

The first o the masses was celebrated by Archbishop Ferdinando Bishop of Pofiverse, Peter Canisius van Lierde of Liege, Belgium.

The rising sun glinted through the basilica's huge, golden dome, adding to the illumination provided by 1,000 candles surrounding the catafalque.

Nuns and priests of the Vatican filed through the night behind the massive doors.

During the night the body was removed from its coffin and placed atop the six - foot catafalque.

It was dressed in the pope's formal episcopal robes, the same ones in which he is to be buried.

The catafalque is under the basilica's dome, next to the baldachin, a canopied altar with spiraled bronze pillars.

Toronto Police Continue Hunt For Gunman

TORONTO (CP) — Police watched holiday crowds at train, bus and air terminals today as the hunt for a desperate gunman entered its second day.

Detectives ran down dozens of tips and pressed raids on known haunts of the suspect. He vanished after three men held up a drugstore Thursday night of $75.

Police said they had a warrant for armed robbery against Albert Stoutley, 40.

Two other men, Dean Pelton, 31, of Eastview, Vernon Holcolme, 38, of Hamilton were arrested. Eagles was shot in the shoulder as police sought to question three men on a street shortly after the holdup.

Pelton was cut down by police bullets in a blazing gun battle at an apartment building not far from the robbery scene. He is not expected to live.

HAS EVEN CHANCE

Rookie policeman Harold Mulvogue, 25, is in hospital with a bullet wound in the stomach. He has been given a 50-50 chance of survival.

Pelton was charged with attempted murder in connection with the constable's shooting. Eagles faces charges of shooting with intent.

Chief Engineer British Trawler Said Beaten

GRIMSBY, England (Reuters) —The chief engineer of the British trawler Paynter claims he was beaten with lengths of rubber hose by a Russian skipper from an Icelandic gunboat while off fishing off the coast of Iceland.

The Paynter, just returned to Grimsby from the disputed fishing grounds, was boarded while its escorting frigate Diana was transporting a crew member ashore for treatment in Iceland.

The chief engineer, Percy Cowling, 61, told reporters:

"Two big chaps, six - footers came down into the engine room and pushed me aside and tried to start the engines.

"I had everything locked up and when I refused to start the engines they started hitting me with the hoses."

Today's Chuckle

An explorer says an Eskimo woman is old at 40. An American woman is not so old at 40. In fact, "it's not even old."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:

Blustery westerly winds and cloudy skies kept overnight temperatures in the 40s in Southern Ontario. In the north frequent showers and snow squalls were reported, while temperatures dropped to the low 30s.

Mainly cloudy skies are expected in all areas today with scattered showers or wet snow flurries near the lakes and in Northern and Eastern Ontario. Southern Ontario should clear tonight and near freezing temperatures are expected over most areas by early Sunday morning.

A fair Sunday is expected over southern parts of the provinces with somewhat milder afternoon temperatures. In the north Sunday will be mainly cloudy with a few scattered wet snowflurries.

NO INDICATION OF SUSPENDING NUCLEAR TESTS

Predict Dark Future For Big 3 Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The fate first round of a UN arms debate showed the United States and Russia as sharply split that diplomats saw little hope today of agreement on suspension of nuclear weapons tests.

So opposed were the two big powers that observers predicted a dark future for the Big Three negotiations that are to begin in Geneva Oct. 31 on a test ban.

The United States, in the debate Friday, declared it would suspend tests indefinitely, provided there is reasonable year-to-year progress in other fields of disarmament.

NEW DISARMAMENT BAN

Russia insisted it would agree to halt the tests only if the United States and Britain accepted an immediate ban for "all time."

The United States followed up its position by introducing its disarmament plan, based on suspension of tests during the Geneva talks.

The resolution would have the assembly urge that Britain, the United States and United States make every effort to reach agreement on cessation of nuclear tests at Geneva.

It would have the three nuclear powers undertake no further tests while the negotiations are in progress.

The resolution also: 1. Encourages the Big Three negotiators to seek ways to prevent surprise attack, to begin in Geneva Nov. 10. 2. Expresses determination to bring about controlled worldwide disarmament. 3. Asks Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to advise and assist in the forthcoming negotiations.

RIVAL RESOLUTIONS

India and the Soviet Union submitted rival resolutions a week ago, calling for immediate cessation of nuclear tests without limitations.

The assembly's political committee, now debating disarmament, must choose among the three resolutions.

Russia wound up the opening debate by accusing the West of trying to block agreement on ending test shots. The United States in turn threatened to call off its announced one-year test ban if Russia resumed testing after the Geneva talks begin.

Russian envoys have resumed their shots and made known that they feel free to continue until they reach decisions expected by the United States and Britain.

The U.S. maintains that a permanent end to nuclear tests can come only "with progress toward lessening the nuclear threat; reducing the high level of non-nuclear armaments and reducing the danger of surprise attack."

Polish Writer Overstays Leave To Visit Actress

WARSAW (Reuters)—Love for a beautiful young German film actress caused Marek Hlasko, Poland's brilliant young writer, to overstay his visit in West Berlin, his friends say.

(Reliable sources in West Germany said Hlasko, who has been in continual hot water with Communist authorities, has applied for political asylum in West Berlin after being refused an extension of his visa.)

First Two 'Mermaid' Dugongs Ever Captured Alive Doing Well

MOMBASA, Kenya (Reuters) — The first two "mermaid" dugongs ever captured alive splashed happily in a hotel swimming pool today after being netted off Malinda, 70 miles north of here, in the last 24 hours.

The rare mammals have breasts and human - like faces along with big tails. They were given tranquillizers to help them settle down and to help photographers take pictures.

The first dugong was caught in a shark net Thursday. It measured five feet in length.

The U.S. Army launched a moon-missile early this morning. It will be known in two and one-half days whether this rocket, called the Pioneer, will orbit around our moon. The above is a drawing of approximate distances from earth to moon during mid-October. The drawing was prepared by the American Museum Hayden Planetarium in New York. October 13th is date on which moon is closest to earth. Dotted line indicates orbit a rocket might travel, if there were no disturbing influences of sun and moon. With a rocket fired today, for example, with the moon more than two days away, gravitational attraction of the moon could deflect it into orbit, indicated by solid line. (AP Wirephoto Chart.)

Thanksgiving Day Observed For 80th Consecutive Time

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thanksgiving Day will be observed Monday for the 80th consecutive time as a Canadian holiday. The festival is the modern version of a celebration goes back to ancient times.

Services will be held in many churches and across Canada families will gather for turkey dinners. In some favored areas the day will mark the last opportunity of the year for trips to rustic cottages and for enjoyment of the splendors of autumn before the onset of winter.

Established as a first holiday—the second Monday in October—the Thanksgiving remains an occasion for giving thanks for harvests and the year's blessings.

Thanksgiving was proclaimed first in this country in 1872, with thanks for the restoration of health to the Prince of Wales who later became Edward VII.

Seven years later it was started as an annual event. Sir John A. Macdonald proclaimed Thursday, Nov. 6, 1879, as a day of thanksgiving for an abundant harvest.

Since then it has been a harvest celebration with few exceptions. It was fixed as the fourth Monday in November.

Gas, Bus, Phone, Beer Store Public Ownership Advocated

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario CCF leader Donald MacDonald has opened his party's annual convention today with a call for extended public ownership and an attack on Progressive Conservatives and Liberals.

He ticketed natural gas lines, bus transport, telephone systems and retail brewery stores for government operation if the CCF is elected to power in 1959.

He said: "No intelligent socialist today considers that private enterprise hasn't a role to play in an economy of the mixed variety. On the other hand acknowledging this doesn't minimize the continuing need for extending the role of public enterprise where private enterprise refuses to do the job or charges an exorbitant price."

Mr. MacDonald accused Premier Frost's Conservative government of being "smug and arrogant with an excessive power that has corrupted."

The government was guilty of gerrymandering political boundaries, political patronage, letting campaign contributions influence policy and refusing to modernize administrative procedures.

"But beyond this, more dramatic and symptomatic, is the periodic revival of evidence that corruption has crept close to the heart of the government."

Mr. MacDonald said the Liberals are in a dreadful mess with its promised program kept under wraps by provincial leader John Whitemeyer.

"The Liberal party is so divided on the prospect of premature announcement — before the discipline of an election campaign is available to hold the party together — would produce even greater dissension in the ranks."

POLIO DEATHS TOTAL 19

DETROIT (AP) — Two more deaths were attributed to the Detroit area polio epidemic Friday, bringing the total for the year to 19.

Air Force Launches Pioneer Which Achieves Free Flight, Due At Moon In 2½ Days

Press Conference Told Acceptance of Speed Not Possible

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The U.S. Air Force this morning launched a moon rocket which became the first man-made object known to have achieved free flight.

At 8 a.m. EDT the air force said the rocket had escaped into space. Assuming all goes well from now on, the rocket will take 2½ days to reach the vicinity of the moon.

The air force also announced the christening of the rocket with the name Pioneer.

ON COURSE

The announcement said that after the first 80 minutes of flight into outer space signals from the instrumented payload indicated Pioneer was proceeding on course at approximately the planned velocity.

"Interpretation of data received is proceeding on schedule," the air force said in a statement.

"However, it must be emphasized that there exist many difficulties and time lags in its analysis."

Pioneer thus joins the other U.S. space vehicles, Explorer I, Satellite I and II launched by the army and the navy-launched Vanguard.

The missile thundered aloft at 4:42 a.m. EDT, exactly on schedule.

The first-stage engine, pouring out 150,000 pounds of thrust, burned brilliantly through a starshell burst for 2½ minutes.

EASY TO OBSERVE

The progress of the 88-foot three - stage missile could be plainly followed.

Watchers from the missile test centre here tracked its course through the clear sky and saw the flare of the second stage.

The radio - beeping light could be followed only a few seconds longer.

By the time the third stage ignited, the lunar probe was far beyond the reach of the human eye.

But instruments aboard the vehicle reported back by radio.

Some time Tuesday the probe will reach a point 50,000 miles out of the moon and start around it to scan the far side.

Project scientists did not expect to hit the moon, some 238,000 miles away. About the best they hoped for was to get the payload within 10,000 miles of the moon, and possibly into orbit around it.

An earlier moon rocket, fired Aug. 17, blew up a little more than a minute after it left the launching pad at this missile test centre.

SIGNALS RECEIVED

Shortly after today's moon rocket roared into a starry sky, there were reports that signals were being picked up.

In Southampton, N.Y., engineers at International Telephone reported hearing six signals indicating the rocket was on course. Moon watchers in Texas was no immediate indication of what significance (this might have.

Another report was that a tracking station at Jodrell Bank, Manchester, England, had picked up a signal from the vehicle as it left.

Ten minutes after launching, the first - stage engine and the stages of the rocket had fired successfully.

SPECTACULAR FLASHES WORD

A simultaneous announcement from the defence department in Washington said:

"The launching of the experimental lunar probe vehicle now has been accomplished."

This meant only that the rocket had been launched.

Despite favorable indications it remained to be seen whether it would attain the speed of 24,000 to 25,000 miles an hour that would be necessary for it to escape the earth's gravitational pull.

The launching vehicle, which weighs more than 100,000 pounds, was the eager Thor-Able combination that has failed — to send a "lunar probe" into space Aug. 17.

The first moon rocket exploded 77 seconds after launching. This was attributed to a failure in the propulsion system of the Thor intermediate-range ballistic missile that was the rocket's first stage. Thor is the U.S. Air Force's 1,700-mile ballistic missile.

Specialists checked over the new rocket's Thor stage inch by inch before approving it for firing.

AIMED WELL AHEAD

Since the moon is about 221,000 miles out in space, and is orbiting along at an average speed of 2,287 miles an hour, it was necessary to aim the rocket at a point 67,000 miles ahead of the moon's course.

The aim is to get the lunar probe and the moon reasonably near each other after 2½ days of rocket flight.

If all went well, tracking stations in Hilo, Hawaii, would send back pictures which should show the lunar probe, said there were some indications that the rocket's speeds had been slightly lower than were scheduled.

He said the first stage ap-

Nothing Ever as Bad as Expected Sudbury Finds as Inco on Strike

SUDBURY (CP) — This Northern Ontario city of 48,000 has met its long - feared economic nightmare and found truth in the adage: "Nothing is as bad as you think it will be."

Sudbury's economy is built on the International Nickel Company of Canada, the world's biggest nickel producer and Canada's largest mining operation. For 20 years the city has thrived on Inco and built up one of the highest living standards in the country.

But the nagging fear of a strike by Inco workers lurked behind the prosperity. Last month it happened.

On Sept. 24 the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers struck Inco. Its 13,000 members out of Inco's mines and smelter plants stayed out of work pute. Within days there were reports by outside sources of panic migrations and predictions of economic collapse.

Today the first signs of panic have vanished. Sudbury appears to be taking the strike in its stride and a survey of business places shows growing confidence in the city's ability to weather the blow.

C.A.R.S. MEETING HEARS SOLO BY MINISTER

Those in attendance at the annual meeting of the Quinte branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society on Thursday evening were favored with a solo by the Rev. Keith Daniel, of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church. His accompanist was Mrs. J. Guthridge. The selection was warmly received by those present and Mr. Enos David, president of the local branch of the Society, thanked both Mr. Daniel and Mrs. Guthridge for having appeared on such short notice as was occasioned by the scheduled singer taking sick the day previous.

TRAINING SHIP TO VISIT CITY

The 75-foot brigantine "St. Lawrence," training ship for the Kingston Sea Cadets will slip anchor in the Bay harbor shortly before sundown o'clock this Saturday evening. The boat was built for the Kingston Sea Cadets and is used by that Corps as a training ship. Wherever possible she is driven under sail but it has a large engine for auxiliary power.

Charles Keeble of this city, who is a sail maker, has two light weather sail near to be fitted on the brigantine, when she arrives and will be tried on Sunday morning before the ship leaves for a cruise through the Murray Canal and Bridgewater. The ship will likely take to the lake and return through the western gap into Kingston.

OVERHEATED STOVE CAUSES ALARM

Friday night firemen were called to 103 Front Street where an overheated stove was reported. No damage resulted.

Society Members Salute Stirling On Centennial

Approximately forty members and friends of the Hastings County Historical Society were present on Monday night at Stirling to salute that village on its Centennial.

Guests from the Stirling and Belleville area, as well as from Tweed, Cloyne and other points as far distant as Montreal, to fill the Stirling council chambers.

Chairman for the evening was Gerald Boyce, president of the society. Mr. Boyce explained the aims, achievements and objects of the society, and then introduced Donald Rodgers, reeve of Stirling and Stirling Centennial committee.

Mr. Rodgers extended a welcome to the visitors and gave an interesting account of the August Centennial celebrations, which he described as "successful in every way."

Guest speaker was Mrs. Roy Bush of Stirling.

Her topic was "Searching the Records."

Mrs. Bush began by stressing the importance of history. She then related several experiences she had had in searching for historical information, and discussed the principal sources of such information.

She urged that all haste be made to preserve this county's history, and recommended historical research as an entertaining and valuable hobby. Research into such topics as the development of local roads and transportation should be encouraged, Mrs. Bush noted.

At the conclusion of her talk, which was recorded by CJBQ for broadcast at a later date, she showed a number of interesting books and photostat copies of early documents pertaining to this area.

Mrs. Bush was introduced by John Chard of Stirling, and an appreciation of her informative and entertaining talk was given by John Haig of Belleville.

Musical entertainment for the evening was provided by an early Edison cylinder gramophone, courtesy of Tom Ramsay of Belleville.

Cool Weather Does Not Keep Buyers Away

The cool weather had no effect on the Saturday market as the sellers were offering a goodly amount of produce to the early morning shoppers.

A few flowers were still on display with nice looking bunches selling for a few stanzas.

Apple cider was priced at $1 a gallon while honey ranged from 50c for a small carton to $1 for the larger size. Combs sold at a standard 50c each.

Apples were selling in small-er numbers but at a steady price of $2.25 a hamper for Mac and $3.00 for the Wolfe Rivers in the bushel.

There were still a few tomatoes that were selling slightly higher than last week at 25c a basket. Corn of good looking quality was retailing at 6 cents a dozen.

Onions in the basket were priced from 75c to 85c. While eggs sold for 60c, extra large; 55c, large, and 50c for the medium.

Chickens sold $1.25 to $1.50, according to sizes. Peaches and pears were priced at 25c a small box.

Summer savory sold in some stands at 10c a bunch, while dill and watermelons both ranged in price all over the market. Cabbage sold at 10c to 15c each; melons from 20c to 50c.

Carrots in the basket were selling at a few stands at $2.50 or 3 bunches for 25c.

Hand crocheted and hardy looking floor mats were selling in the market square also.

Double Garage Razed by Fire At Cannifton

Children playing with matches are believed responsible for a fire which yesterday noon burned a double garage at Cannifton and nearly scorched the woodshed and part of the adjoining residence.

The property, which is in course of being sold, was said owned by Mr. Blakely.

Belleville firemen who were called to the scene reported the double garage was already nearly burned to the ground when they arrived. They concentrated their efforts in quenching the flames which had leaped to the woodshed from the burning garage.

The fact that the wind was blowing in the opposite direction made the task of firemen easier in saving the house.

CARS Now Part Of United Appeal In Coming Drive

A 28-year-old Belleville mother, who contracted arthritis 11 years ago, is now leading a normal, happy life, thanks to the rehabilitation given the Quinte Branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society.

Mrs. Greta De Vries, who contracted the disease at Deseronto at the age of 17 in her native Holland, believed she would be permanently crippled if not for the publicity given the local CARS branch.

When she and her husband emigrated to Canada, she had gross deformities on her hands, hips, knees, feet and shoulders. Her elbows were stiff and almost movable, and she walked with her whole body bent forward from the hips.

She suffered for six years during which many alleged "cures" were tried unsuccessfully, before the work of the Belleville Mobile Unit was brought to her attention.

Mrs. De Vries got in touch with her own doctor who arranged for the Unit to call on her. She was started on wax therapy and exercises for the hands and feet. She was also given night resting splints to prevent deformity, and general exercises to improve posture and muscle tone of hip muscles were started. In addition, mobilizing exercises were given for her shoulders.

Within four months there has been marked improvement. She now walks with a good upright posture. Her knees have become mobile, the swelling in her feet has decreased and she walks with the aid of specially designed shoes. Her shoulders also have increased mobility.

She now goes out a little with her family and can even drive the family car.

Although treatment is still being continued, Mrs. De Vries' general outlook on life has improved. Since she is now conscious there are others in the same state and that something is being done for them, she no longer feels alone.

CARS is a participating agency in the Belleville United Appeal.

Child Has Close Call When Hit By Motor Car

TRENTON — Christeen Rhodes, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rhodes, 94 Marmora Street, had a close call from serious injury yesterday afternoon when she ran in front of the path of a car and was knocked down.

The car, which struck the tot on Front Street driven by Arlene O. Burleigh, of 1 Louis St., Trenton, and was taken to the office of Dr. W. W. Weaver by the same car where, the tot was treated for a bruised and scraped right ankle.

According to the police report on the mishap the child had run out from behind a car driven by Dave Davis, which had dropped in the line of traffic going south on Marmora St. Mrs. Rhodes car was proceeding north in the opposite lane when the tot ran in front of it and was struck by the left front fender. It was reported the child had just run across the street with her hula-hoop and was running back to the other side of the road.

The mishap was investigated by Constable Sid Vickers of the Trenton police force.

Earlier in the week young Larry Webb of 13 Boodhead Ave., had a narrow escape with a tractor-trailer truck when riding his bicycle on Dundas St. The front wheel of his bike hit a pile of earth, excavated when workmen dug the gas pipe line and threw him off his bike, just as the huge truck was passing.

The child fell towards the trench and away from the path of the truck.

The driver, Harry Warner of Colborne, saw the child fall through his rear view mirror and immediately stopped the truck and rushed to hire a fire chief for the town of Trenton.

The council went into session shortly after 3 p.m., but were unable to reach a decision by 5.45 p.m. However, Deputy Reeve Councillor Lloyd Worrall, chairman of the powwow, in between sons and property committee, told the press they will be sending out for recommendations from some of the men interviewed and their decision will be made following the return of these.

The names and addresses of the applicants for the post of fire chief were not made available to the committee but it is understood two of the applicants are from Belleville.

Two applicants from Trenton are also in the running. One is the present acting fire chief, Cecil Ellis, who made an outstanding showing of the fire fighting ability only last week when he and his crew were summoned out a fire in the Boston Cafe block, a blaze which could have turned into Trenton's major fire of the year.

The second local applicant is Al'Lieut. Cord Coughlin who has been with the Trenton fire department for many years, and has a complete knowledge of fire fighting and the trucks.

It is not known when council will meet again to further consider the fire chief issue but it is not expected all the letters have been read by the present weekend.

All councillors were present at the special session with the exception of Councillor Vagn Lange who was out of town on business. The press or public were not permitted to sit in.

The council did take time to give permission to the Ontario Marine and Dredging Company to dump fill, recovered from the bottom of the Bay of Quinte on the bay shore property which is owned by the town and will be developed into a recreation area.

Legion Prepares For Nominations

TRENTON — The regular monthly meeting of Legion Branch, No. 110, executive committee was held in the branch council treasurer W. J. B. McLaren recently.

President A. C. Farrell was in the chair.

Comrades L. C. "Harry" Desormeaux and Carl Taylor were appointed to act as a nominating committee. The additional members will be selected at the next regular branch meeting scheduled for Monday evening, October 20th.

Comrade Jack Clark was appointed to head the committee responsible for the annual children's Christmas party, to be held on Saturday morning, December 13th.

Committees empowered to make purchases on behalf of the branch were instructed to make all purchases, whenever possible, locally.

It was decided to give every child attending local schools a party this year. No collections will be made at the schools.

Members were reminded of the Zone F-2 rally at Campbellford on Wednesday evening, October 15th.

Council Fails To Hire Chief In Long Session

TRENTON — A special meeting of the town council yesterday afternoon failed to hire a fire chief for the town of Trenton.

The council went into session shortly after 3 p.m., interviewing applicants but were unable to reach a decision by 5.45 p.m.

HE PREACHES TO THE DEAF

Rev. Bob Rumball, a former Big Four League football player, now is pastor of the Evangelical Church to the Deaf in Toronto. Shown here teaching some of the children, girls, the former Ottawa and Toronto player was ordained in the United Church of Canada but preaches to all denominations of the deaf. Neither he nor his wife, who works with him, are deaf or otherwise handicapped. (CP Photo).

it: "Business is not good, but it's not as bad as we thought it was going to be."

It's still too early to determine what effects the strike is having on miners and their families. The men have had a back - time cheque and have walked out less than have missed only one pay-day.

Moving companies say there has been no noticeable increase in outgoing business. They blamed reports of a panic exodus on the departure of a few single men from other northern mining areas, principally the Elliot Lake uranium field 150 miles west.

Sales of furniture, electrical appliances and luxury goods are down, merchants report, and the more expensive lines of clothing have been hit by a slump, partly due to recent bad weather. Yet a survey shows little signs of gloom.

"We're working harder for business now," a salesman said. "We're not getting as much as we like but it's keeping the wolf from the door."

The strike has affected car dealers hardest.

There are no strike activities in the city. Inco's smelter and refinery are several miles away. There has been no violence on the lightly-manned picket lines and several hundred non-strikers are agreeing and leaving the property on a weekly rotation schedule to keep machinery in condition.

whether the terminal rocket fired.

This terminal or satellite stage was the one thoroughly sterilized for 34 hours before the firing, on the very remote chance it might hit the moon.

FEAR CONTAMINATION

The action was taken at the urging of scientists who feared contamination of the moon's surface before man can explore it.

The sterilization was done at a laboratory at the missile test centre here. The terminal stage was bathed thoroughly in germ-killing ultraviolet radiation. Then it was reassembled by workers in surgical gowns.

Information from this lunar probe and the one additional air force and two additional army moon rockets that have been authorized will be fed to a centre in Los Angeles.

An electronic digital computer will calculate with lightning speed the position of the rocket at a given moment in relation to the earth and the moon.

Minister Enjoys Serving Deaf People in Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP) — The congregation was silent even for the hymn, but the service probably was one of the most stirring and successful ever held.

It was the first of three services held during September in the Young Centre for the deaf.

The minister was a hefty, former Big Four football player who decided a few years ago that he wanted to say his message to those who couldn't hear it in the ordinary way.

ENJOY WORK

"We know now this is where we belong," says Rev. Bob Rumball, pastor of the Evangelical Church of the Deaf in Toronto. "We prefer the deaf—we wouldn't leave them for ye hearing people."

Neither he nor his wife, Mary Jean, is deaf or handicapped in any way. But their life now consists of acting as interpreter-lawyer and intermediary for the deaf wherever any contact with the hearing world is needed.

Mr. Rumball preaches to all denominations of the deaf although a member of the United Church of Canada. He was ordained in January, 1957, the year after he finished his football career with the Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders.

The Rumballs visited Winnipeg after the city's deaf asked them to come for a visit in October.

During the service he formed his words not only with his mouth—for lip-readers—but also with his hands.

LOVE VOICE I HEARD

When the hymn was called for, the only voice to be heard was that of the minister. The congregation had a different kind of music, moving their hands in unison in a language of signs.

Mr. Rumball perhaps is the only full - time non - denominational minister of the deaf in Canada, although there are clergymen of specified affiliation who have spent time on problems of the deaf.

He is trying to encourage men to get into the ministry of the deaf.

"Only a few individuals are aware of the deaf. But here is a large group of people that has needs—jump shoulders with them all the time."

In Ontario "the deaf are more blessed than they are anywhere else in the world. Nobody does anything for them. They run everything themselves.

"The deaf don't consider themselves handicapped. They almost form an ethnic group, at least I think they do. They have a way of life. They are different. They have a loyalty to each other that is wonderful to see."

National Ballet To Visit City

Much interest has been aroused by the announcement in Toronto that The National Ballet Company of Canada will open its touring season this month. Ballet lovers in this district are fortunate that Belleville is included in the itinerary, although it is the smallest city to be visited. The company will give one performance here on the evening of October 29, in the Collegiate auditorium. After performances in Ottawa; Montreal and cities in Quebec, five cities in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick will be visited. In January the troupe will leave to begin its American tour, returning to Toronto for a four-week engagement in February.

During the eight-month season which ended last June more than one-quarter of a million persons paid to see National Ballet performances. In Canada the company was seen by 92,000 people, in the United States by 92,000 and in Mexico, during a three-week season by 70,000.

FOUNDED IN 1951

Founded in 1951, the young company has had phenomenal success. Its artistic director, Celia Franca, of London, England, has consistently striven for the highest standard of performance while at the same time offering talented young Canadian dancers the opportunity for a ballet career in Canada. In 1955 the company played New York for the first time and received critical acclaim and recognition. A historic eight-month season, embracing three countries, and the most ambitious ever undertaken by a Canadian theatrical organization, saw the National Ballet tour Canada, the United States and Mexico in 1957-58, visiting 24 cities in Canada, 25 in the United States and Mexico City, bringing new acclaim and attention to the young Canadian company.

There has been a good many years since we have been visited by a company of this calibre . . . brilliant success . . . wrote the theatre critic of the Mexico City Excelsior.

peared to have "programmed"—started curving on its trajectory to the northeast—higher than it should have.

However, the launching was considered a great success because the stages all fired in proper sequence at full thrust and the payload of instruments in the nose soared into space.

If all goes well, the missile should approach within 50,000 miles of the moon some time Monday afternoon.

The instrument - packed nose cone was described by the department as the most sophisticated man-made fact-finding device ever thrust into the heavens."

Within the fibre-glass shell are 30 pounds of instruments designed to:

1. Collect and relay information on the magnetic fields of the earth and the moon.

2. Record the number of micrometeorites it encounters.

3. Measure radiation intensity during flight from the earth to the moon.

4. Determine temperature inside the satellite during flight.

5. Obtain a crude electronic picture of the surface of the moon.

It carried too, television scanning equipment to gather data on the hidden far side of the moon.

PICTURE IN FIVE DAYS

Dr. Robert Bennett, director of electronics for the program, said that if the lunar probe does circle around or near the moon it may take about five days to gather sufficient scanning data to provide a crude picture of the moon.

Scientists also disclosed that their calculations are right the moon will pass directly above Hawaii 2½ days after launching, so that a powerful radio station there could send the signals to ignite a small terminal rocket that could put the probe into an orbit around the moon.

However, they said, if he moon is more nearly over Florida at that particular time, the terminal stage rocket will be fired from Cape Canaveral.

Bennett said they expect to know within a day which of the two stations will be called upon to give the probe its final shot.

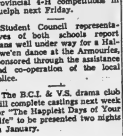
'Fairfield House' Near Bath Historic Home in District

This Saturday afternoon, ceremonies were held in connection with the unveiling of a historical plaque to commemorate "The White House". Sometimes known as the "Fairfield House", this historic building is situated on Collin's Bay on the north side of Highway No. 33 about ten miles west of Kingston.



This plaque is one of a series being erected throughout the provinces by the Archaeological and Historic Sites Board of Ontario which functions under the jurisdiction of the Department of Travel and Publicity. This afternoon's ceremony was sponsored by the Lennox and Addington Historical Society whose president, Judge Gerald F. Smith, acted as chairman. Mr. David J. Rankin, M.P.P. (Frontenac-Addington) represented the government of Ontario; Prof. G. F. G. Stanley spoke on behalf of the Historic Sites Board and Reeve F. E. Huff on behalf of Ernestown township. The plaque was unveiled by Miss Louise Fairfield and dedicated by the Rev. H. Swayze, rector of St. Mark's Church in Barriefield.

The region in which the White House is situated was one of the first to be settled by United Empire Loyalists at the end of the American Revolution. Moving westward from Kingston, they took up land in the townships of Ernestown, Fredericksburg and Adolphustown.

Among them were William Fairfield and his wife, Abigail Baker, of Pawlet, Vermont. Sons of his ancestors had, in 1777, taken an active part in support of General Burgoyne, whose British army passed down Lake Champlain during the unsuccessful campaign which ended in his surrender of Saratoga on October 17, 1777. In 1778 William Fairfield and his family came to Canada. The commodious home which they built in Ernestown township in 1793 would indicate that William Fairfield had successfully established himself in Upper Canada by that date. It is certainly one of the finest remaining examples of a 18th century home still in existence in what is now Ontario. A white, two-storied building, its timbers were hewn from the great trees of the virgin forest. Oak beams support the ceilings. There are old fashioned deep fireplaces in the living-room and in the kitchen. Through the centre of the house runs a wide hall, waxed oak floor of broad planks. At the end of the hall is a winding staircase with wide treads and a banister of black walnut.

Two of William Fairfield's sons, William Jr., and Benjamin, played prominent parts in the life of the district. William Jr. was a member of the legislative assembly of Upper Canada 1799-1800, a roads commissioner and a justice of the peace. William took up land in what is now the village of Bath where he built a fine home which still stands. This house is now owned and occupied by his great granddaughter Mrs. Mabel Gutzeit, who purchased it in 1938. He was also a member of the legislative assembly 1817-20 and a magistrate. Among his other business enterprises, he was extensively engaged in the shipping industry. During the War of 1812 one of his vessels was destroyed by an American gunboat.

The White House has remained up to the present time in the possession of the same family providing a link with the early days of British settlement in our province.

OFFICIAL

The main brooms doors of Christianity's largest church remained closed after the side doors were opened. A long corridor of low wooden barriers has been set up from the centre of St. Peter's Square to the main doors A Vatican official said the corridor and the main doors would be reserved for dignitaries.

When the dignitaries are inside the basilica they will march in solemn procession along another barrier-flanked corridor leading directly to the catafalque.

Other mourners, entering on the right, walk along the outside of the barrier, circle the catafalque and go slowly out through the other side door.

By mid - morning thousands had circled the catafalque.

The solemn tribute at the red and gold catafalque, on which the coffin rested, ends with the burial Monday in the grottos beneath the basilica.

An empty symbolic coffin will remain in St. Peter's through three special requiems next Friday, Saturday and Sunday which close the mourning period.

Requiem masses will be celebrated Sunday by Archbishop Otto Spork of Utrecht, the Netherlands Wednesday.

Final rites will begin with the members of the Sacred College of Cardinals and other church dignitaries taking a last look at the face of their spiritual leader for the last 19 years.

The body, still in the pontifical vestments in which it lay in state, is placed red silk and placed in a traditional triple casket.

A red velvet pouch containing one of each type of medal and coin struck during his reign will be placed at the Pope's feet along with a parchment scroll listing the major achievements of his pontificate.

A commission of cardinals, yet to be named, then will sign and seal documents of burial and permit the closing of the coffin.

A requiem will precede the lowering of the coffin into a marble sarcophagus in the grotto. There it will lie under the Altar of Confession, just beside the tomb of Pope Pius X, whom the late Pope proclaimed a saint and near the tomb of Pius XI, his predecessor.

No monument will be erected in memory of Pius XII. This wish was contained in his will.

STATISTICS AND CONCLUSIONS

We all know that figures do not lie but that liars figure.

If liars were the only hazards with which we had to contend, the interpretation of statistics would be much easier than it is.

It is relatively simple to detect a liar figuring; it is nowhere near as easy to spot a well-meaning and reasonably intelligent individual drawing a faulty conclusion from an unwarranted assumption.

Something of this nature, we think, occurred when the Fort Erie Letter-Review discovered that average weekly wages in Windsor, Ont., are 12.4 per cent higher in June of this year than in the same month in 1957, while employment in Windsor in June was 21.2 per cent below the level for June of 1957. Statistics like these cast considerable doubt on "Big Labor's claim that wage boosts create new purchasing power and stimulate employment opportunities," but Windsor is such a specialized case, so dependent on the automotive industry which, in turn, is so dependent on purchasing power throughout the country that we doubt whether these statistics are as much as the Letter-Review thinks it says they "seem to demolish" organized Labor's theory.

The Letter-Review, though, did not stop there. It found that Bureau of Statistics figures show that in each of Canada's twenty-one major cities average weekly wages were up in June of this year, over the figure for June of 1957, but in nineteen of these communities employment was down. Now these added facts might indeed "seem to demolish" the theory about the effects of increased purchasing power, but even this conclusion is made somewhat questionable by an additional fact cited by Letter-Review — consumption prices in the same period rose sharply in ten of the major cities listed." So, until we get more details, we do not know whether purchasing power, as distinct from average wages, rose at all, or if it did rise how much it rose.

The Letter-Review, though was not content to consider these figures as casting doubt on the theory of the effects of increased purchasing power. It reached a much more sweeping conclusion:

> "Higher wages, higher prices, fewer jobs - that's the simple equation for wage inflation."

Now there is only one thing wrong with that conclusion - it does not seem to fit with memory of recent economic events. There was a time, was there not, when wages were rising, prices were rising - - and more and more Canadians were finding employment? It is true that that has changed today, but we would have just as much reason to say that "higher wages, higher prices, more jobs are the simple equation of inflation" as to make the Letter-Review's conclusion were it not for one qualifying word in the latter. That is the word "wage" before "inflation." Perhaps the inflation we had in prosperous times was not "wage" inflation - - we seem to remember economists calling it "capital goods" inflation or an "investment" inflation.

If all this leaves the reader somewhat confused and reluctant to draw any type of conclusion from the statistics quoted, then we have achieved the purpose of the editorial. For the plain truth seems to be that there are so many factors involved in making a nation prosperous or in creating a recession, that even the experts have difficulty reaching conclusions which will stand up in the face of developments. Certainly if higher wages, higher prices, fewer jobs are the simple equation of wage inflation, then fewer wages, lower prices and more jobs ought to be the equally simple equation of wage deflation, but it just did not work that way during the depression years. As wages went down and prices dropped, jobs became fewer and fewer. It is probably the memory of this experience that led leaders of organized Labor to conclude that higher wages, by increasing purchasing power, were the best tool to fight a recession. This doesn't seem to be working either. We do not know, though, whether unemployment has dropped because of, or in spite of, higher wages - - just as we cannot be sure whether cutting wages caused the depression to be bad or prevented it from being worse. Every man's wage and every man's profit is another man's cost and the fact that almost any statistic on economics effects different groups in opposite ways ought to teach us to hesitate before putting two and two together and coming up with sixteen.

THE HUMAN TOUCH

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Smiles light up a thousand roads.
Where'er you choose to tread
You'll hear men singing 'neath their loads
The while they trudge ahead.

It matters not what way you go
The sound of laughter's there
And soon or late your heart will know
The joy that friendship brings.

You cannot, while you live on earth
Where mortal men abide,
Escape the signs of honest mirth—
The glow on every side.

Wherever men have dared to dare,
However far the miles,
They've carried joy and friendship there
And lit the way with smiles.

Letters To The Editor

Expresses Gratitude For Many Courtesies

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

May I take this opportunity of thanking some wonderful friends and neighbors of my son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Allen D. Bocking of Shannonville, during the sudden loss of our dearly loved Ronnie.

The kind offers, and deeds of help, I shall never forget. Also to the fellow workers from the Bell Telephone, Co. of Belleville and district; the clergy and members of the Deseronto United Church, and many others who I do not know by name, my gratitude.

Although only new-comers to this district, my son and his family have been shown true neighborliness in their time of trouble, and on future visits to Shannonville, I shall no longer feel a stranger, for on every side there is a kindly word and friendly hand.

I would like to thank Mr. Bill Ellis and the staff associates for their help and understanding, that during the siding the bereaved is in their line of business, the extra attention and courtesies shown, and the display of flowers and comfort for visitors, are not surpassed in any major city that I have visited.

Shannonville may be a village, and Belleville a small city by some standards, but they have a wealth of having some wonderful citizens.

Thank you one and all.

Canada Imports Much U.S. Farm Produce

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

I was mighty interested in that map of Ontario in the news, intimating that the people at the control panels at Parliament Hill were increasingly concerned about the tendency for business executives to move to the South. Looks Line to, so to speak, 'take Canada and Canadians for granted'.

The above pattern looked very curious to me, because whatever it is to be said on the political leadership of our good friends to the south, or of our individual or collective cultural attainments, I thought that their status as businessmen was beyond question!

My understanding is that our 17 million people rate as the No. 1 customer for the U.S. in 1,001 goods and services; also, that the U.S. Congress continues to back Canuck's top customer? If so, I confess it is pretty hard for me to see the simple equation of inflation as to make The Letter-Review's conclusion were it not for one qualifying word in the latter. That is the word "wage" before "inflation." Perhaps the inflation we had in prosperous times was not "wage" inflation - - we seem to remember economists calling it "capital goods" inflation or an "investment" inflation.

My trusty scrapbook holds two paragraphic pictures along this same theme, which may be considered newsworthy and significant: (1) — One of Western Canada's topflight farm leaders reminded a farm gathering at Chicago: "Canada imports a wide range of agricultural products from the United States. In the case of fresh vegetables, Canada provided a market for 76% of your export market . . . Imports of low cost Italian manufactured cotton goods, we expected well over a million pairs in Canada during last year . . . " (From an address to the American Farm Bureau Federation by W. J. Parker, Winnipeg); and (2) — "Canadians are incomparably better fed, consume more and more American goods and services than all the countries of Continental Europe put together." (Wall Street Journal).

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LOOK TO GOD

One of the most inspiring statements in the New Testament is this one: "Let Not Your Heart Be Troubled." In Christ's ministry He was constantly trying to have those who followed Him increase their faith, and to put that faith in God. Whenever He thought that His followers were losing that faith, Jesus tried to bolster it up. And that is probably the source for this beautiful statement, "Let not your heart be troubled."

Whenever I think of that imperative, I think of my mother and her love for all who ever came in contact with her. If a tiny hurt came, or some imagined sorrow to me when but a few years of age, she would say, "Never mind. It's almost well right now." Endless times I have repeated that line that has brought such comfort to humanity — "Let not your heart be troubled." Many a time that line has brought a new light into my heart.

What a wave of faith would sweep over the earth if everyone took as his or her motto this inspiring saying of Jesus. "Let not your heart be troubled." Instead of religious publications is there such a thing as a religious publication that has for its motto, "Let not your heart be troubled." Instead of publishing so much about sickness in the Sermon on the Mount, we have compiled one of the most beautiful things in the New Testament. Each Beatitude is wonderful in itself with each reading. To read them all is to look to God.

Artists Hide Techniques

Montreal Gazette

There was a bell-ringer who tried to keep a secret. He had the bells muffled to produce the effects from the bell-tower, with rather limited equipment. But the secret, sounding now and then produced by a means he did not care to have known.

In the bell-tower he kept a baseball bat. When the bells rang he struck into the note, he would swing the bat against the bell. The result was satisfactory, but he always felt it would detract from the pleasure of those who listened, if they ever knew or what rough and ready means this noble note was sounded.

No doubt, however all artists have employed this machinery and the beauty of the result may be produced in disturbingly practical ways. Such, however, by means are best concealed; and such concealment is the art of the artis. The careless artist may make only too plain to an observer that his technique are in some measure a business, making his craft a trade.

George Bernard Shaw never quite recovered from loathing for his sera cut off by the great French sculptor, Rodin. He had been sitting to Rodin, who was making his bust. Shaw's sera were of an unfortunate length and he worked at them carefully. But the result was disastrous to factory.

In telling the story of what happened, Shaw would say: "When Rodin was doing my bust he would come and look at me and in spite of his meticulous measuring with a plumb-line cut off just like that" — and Shaw would sweep his hands down in front of his chest as if to cut off his beard. At such a moment Rodin would put new sera on without sentiment.

Turner has his own private method of achieving the effect of sunlight in his pictures by the tone of his water-colors. This is a secret he never revealed to a visitor to his studio. Turner pinned a sheet of paper to a wooden board. At the back of the board was a convicted handle.

At the right point in the process of drawing, he would seize the handle and dump the whole sketch into a bucket of water. The visitor thought the method quaint, but when he looked into the waterbucket was an unexpected way of achieving such delicate effects.

The experience of seeing the method behind the art may lead to a daily disillusionment but to cynicism.

Thomas Hardy wrote a poem on the gifted preacher, whose sermons moved his congregations to the nuclear heights. But one day the vestry-door happened to swing open, giving him a full view of the pulpit. In it, when his sermon was over. The preacher had left

. . . stand with a satisfied smile
And re-enact at the vestry-glass
Each pulpit gesture in deft dumb-show
That had moved the congregation so.

In the theatre, of course, is a make-believe to all who take part. The prop, the mirror, the poster-like scenery — all illusion and are not what they appear to the audience, removed beyond the footlights. All is real, however, the falseness of the stage machinery is known before hand.

Writer Richard Sickert, the painter, had been an actor in his earlier life. And he could never forget the mechanical devices of the stage. He had appeared at Sadler's Wells Ballet Company in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and remembered only too well the boards under the weight of the fairies—"Oh, those fairies, how heavy!"

Those who give their life to the stage may still have an unconscious delight in the mechanical devices. Many Kemble, one of the famous family of actors in the early 19th century, in a moment of theatrical disgust, could say:

"What a mess, of wretched rags and tatters, of staring eyes, of pasteboard and paint, for the thick breathing crowds of pit and gallery to gaze at! Silk and gilded parchment, for the solemn splendors of the court! Rush matting, ox platforms and canvas curtains for the solid marble halls of princes! Gaudy draperies of Juliet's sleeping chamber, that could produce better effects in his own Lyceum Theatre, for the representation of Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree's pretty little bedroom in Shakespeare in the minds of his friends, on the day in 1917 when they took possession of Beerbohm's Golder's Green. As his friend and biographer, Hesketh Pearson, writes:

"An air-raid began while the funeral procession was on its way . . . and the journeys was made in pandemonium, with bursting bombs and booming guns. Tree could have enjoyed the drama of his final exit, while reflecting that with a few more bombs, a couple of pounds of tin and a couple of large drums, he could have produced a more striking effect at His Majesty's Theatre."

Good Soil Tossed Away

Owes Sound Sun-Times

The next few weeks will see one of Nature's greatest soil restorers in action. Tons of leaves will come tumbling from the trees throughout the country. Most of them will be wasted. But a small portion will be allowed to turn back into soil, where these leaves will be put to splendid use to replenish the drained soil lands.

Each year harbors along the Great Lakes are dredged. The good earth which has been tumbled down into them by rivers and streams is taken out. These parts, there to be buried for all time. At the same time there are great areas of shallow land, the soil gouged out in the glacier age, having remembered "valley" which could very easily be filled with this soil. Fertile fields would be the result.

How long the country can stand such a system is a matter for speculation. There is no doubt but that the vast fallow land could once a fertile area. China has paid tremendous price for the recklessness of past generations in the matter of conservation. Canada pays lip service to conservation programs, yet such programs, when carried out, mean little more than shifting things. True, large sums of money are spent in the form of grants to farmers and rivers, intensive study being made, but the soil loses in the areas. But it is a pathetic thing when compared with the huge sums which could be easily checked.

Take, for instance, a matter of great perplexity who, when sewage disposal presents itself as a problem of costly problem, while at the same time such a tremendous source of new replenishment is being lost, modern science has not come up with an answer solution. A system of quick decomposition, by chemicals, electricals would be a financial return would solve one of the biggest headaches the average city and town is faced with today.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

FIRST SEE YOUR FAMILY DOCTOR FOR ADVICE

Apparently I inadvertently trod upon the toe of a chiropodist because I advised a reader to "go see your family doctor for advice."

The chiropodist who takes issue with me accuses me of being "unaware of what a foot doctor is, a well trained, specialized individual who is a specialist on foot conditions." He also says that my advice was, in his opinion, "poor professional etiquette".

Well, he's entitled to his opinion, and the last I heard, I was entitled to mine, and my opinion is that I'd like this chiropodist better if he had signed his name instead of writing anonymously, but even at that, I do see there are any others who also feel hurt, I'm going to explain my views a little more.

If I violated "professional etiquette", I am sorry and hereby apologize, but I think we all agree that doing our best for the patient is even more important.

And by and large, I can't think of anything that will do more good for more people than to eliminate the idea of having a family doctor. This doesn't mean that the family doctor is trying to treat every condition that a patient encounters. He'll treat only those that do not require the help of a specialist, but if some specialized skill that he doesn't possess, he will see that when specialized care is needed, and where to get it.

This applies to feet as well as to any other part of the body. The things that can happen to feet are numerous. They range from diabetic gangrene to warts. Some troubles, in fact most of them, will be limited to the feet but there are many that appear to be in the feet but don't originate there. Diabetic gangrene is one. There can be skin diseases or infections, or troubles arising because of some deformity of hip, leg or spine.

The knowledge that occasionally "foot trouble" is more than that, makes me urge everyone to have a family doctor and not go to him first. Get his advice first as to which troubles may really be big ones, and which (the great majority) are trivial and easily corrected.

Furthermore, there isn't any reason why the average person should know, offhand, which specialist is best under certain circumstances. There are specialists among specialists in any field. A man may have a particular studies of some aspects of that work.

Your family doctor, I say again, is responsible for more than just treating you. He is there to advise you, and I see no substitute for advice from a physician who really knows you, inside and out.

In regard to my nod on the chiropodist's toe, but if the bruise was serious, perhaps he revealed the above he'll relieve my reasons.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have gained about 20 pounds in a year. I have had several dental operations and have been told they make you gain weight. Mrs. H.F."

No, that isn't what caused the gain, but I will, after such an operation you aren't as active as you used to be. Besides that you certainly will at the age at which you are slowing down a little children's diseases up, and you don't stay up all night dancing or partying. You've reached the age at which you don't need as much food for energy and your body's habits don't change automatically. So you take on weight. It is a problem familiar when you haven't had any female operations! It happens to most people. Look for an abstruse reason when the simple reason is the real one.

Want to lose weight? I can be done if you follow the advice given in my pamphlet "The Lost Secret of Reducing." For a copy, write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and be in coin to cover handling.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Canadians have been so reckless, for so long, in their dealings with their forests that the slow growth of a tree, more than a man has received much notice. The pioneers, of course, simply destroyed the forests before with fire, in order to clear a the land, they first stripped what they might need or could sell or trade to neighbors for buffalo or fur. But to them the forest was a barrier to be surmounted. In its outer regions more than a century ago, the lumbering industry was a pretty high-handed and dynamic process in Canada's expansion: exploring, opening up rivers, building dams, building villages and towns, building roads, revealing the land and all its possibilities to young lumberjack and travelling man alike.

Today, science and the professions have moved into our forests. Regeneration is the watch-word. I watched a team of foresters working with a team of lumbermen, laying out a tract of forest, for what is called strip cutting. Instead of slaughtering the whole forest, the lumbermen will cut in strips of a mile of more wide, leaving equal strips untouched in order to provide the seed for the regeneration.

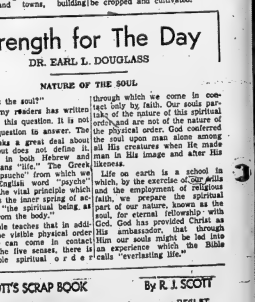
Our forests are not to be "mined" any more. They are to be cropped and cultivated.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

NATURE OF THE SOUL

"What is the soul?"



One of my readers has written asking the question. It is not an easy question to answer. The Bible speaks a great deal about the soul but does not define it. All the soul in both Hebrew and Greek means "breath." The word "psyche" from which we get the English word "psychic" means the vital principle which constitutes the inner spring of action." or "the spiritual being as distinct from the body."

The Bible teaches that in addition to the visible physical body which we can come in contact through the five senses, there is an invisible spiritual organism through which we come in contact by spiritual eyes, by faith. Our souls partake of the nature of this spiritual body and are not of the nature of the physical order. God conferred the soul upon man when He created all His creatures when He made man in His image and after His likeness.

Life on earth is a school in which, by the exercise of free will, by the development of religious faith, we prepare the spiritual part of our nature, known as the soul, for eternal fellowship with God. God has provided Christ as an ambassador, that through Him our souls might be led into an experience with the Father that calls "everlasting life."

STORIES of FAMOUS HYMNS

By HORACE B. POWELL

This is a very popular hymn, both for church processionals and for congregational singing.

It was written in 1907 by Dr. Henry van Dyke, revered American churchman and man of letters. Dr. van Dyke was visiting at the time at Williams College where he had been invited for a preaching mission. According to a story told by his son, he came down to breakfast one morning, placed a manuscript on the table before the president of the college and said:

"Here is a hymn for you. Your mountains were my inspiration. It must be sung to the music of Beethoven's 'Hymn To Joy'".

The "Hymn To Joy" tune, taken from Ludwig van Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, was arranged as a hymn tune many years earlier by an English musician, Edward Hodges. Mr. Hodges, a native of Bristol, England, came to America and to New York in 1839 to serve for more than 20 years as a distinguished organist first at St. John's Episcopal Chapel and then at Trinity Church.

Dr. van Dyke was a statesman and a church leader as well as a writer. He was graduated from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1877 and was ordained to the ministry in 1879. Almost immediately, he began a pastorate at the United Congregational Church in Newport, Rhode Island. Four years later, in 1883, he accepted a call from the famous Brick Presbyterian Church in New York City. The years that followed, he became widely known for his sermons. He was moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the USA in 1902 and in 1913 he was appointed by President Woodrow Wilson to serve as United States minister to the Netherlands and Luxemburg. He wrote many books along the way including the popular "Little Rivers".

"JOYFUL, JOYFUL, WE ADORE THEE"

Joyful, joyful, we adore Thee,
God of glory, Lord of love;
Hearts unfold like flowers before Thee,
Opening to the sun above.
Melt the clouds of sin and sadness;
Drive the dark of doubt away;
Giver of immortal gladness,
Fill us with the light of day.

Thou art giving and forgiving,
Ever blessing, ever blest,
Well-spring of the joy of living,
Ocean depth of happy rest!
Thou our Father, Christ our Brother,
All who live in love are Thine;
Teach us how to love each other,
Lift us to the Joy divine.

All Thy works with joy surround Thee,
Earth and heaven reflect Thy rays,
Stars and angels sing around Thee,
Center of unbroken praise.
Field and forest, vale and mountain,
Flowery meadow, flashing sea,
Chanting bird and flowing fountain,
Call us to rejoice in Thee.

Mortals, join the happy chorus
Which the morning stars began;
Father love is reigning o'er us,
Brother love binds man to man.
Ever-singing, march we onward,
Victors in the midst of strife,
Joyful music leads us Sunward
In the triumph song of life.

Days and Customs of All Faiths

Christian Laymen and Church

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday, Oct. 12, and the week. Christian laymen everywhere are beginning to realize that they, not just the clergy, are the church and that they have a ministry much larger in scope than that of the ordained clergy. The World Council of Churches says the layman's ministry is to be the world as he meets it every day outside the church, while the clergyman's ministry is mainly to his own congregation. Someone else has vividly put it that "the laymen are the players; the clergy are the coaches."

It is in recognition of this newly understood position of the layman that the National Council of Churches each year sponsors Churchmen's Week, which begins today and continues through next Sunday. Today is Men and Missions Sunday; next Sunday will be Laymen's Sunday. All through the week between these two peak days there will be in most communities "Fellowship Rallies" — meetings of local Christian laymen without regard to denominational lines.

These rallies take one of two forms. Either the men come together in one large community dinner, followed by a devotional program and an address, or they have dinner in separate groups at their own churches and then adjourn to an assembly hall for a mass meeting.

The point of such a united demonstration is obvious. In a time when many people outside the churches are bewildered by all the varieties of denominational expression, these rallies are a powerful argument for basic unity that underlies the differences. They show that the lines that exist among Christians are far stronger than the divisions.

One practical feature of Churchmen's Week is the United Service Project. Laymen are asked to help Church World Service find ten million pounds of good used clothing to be sent abroad.

Monday, Oct. 13 — To know what this day is about you have to know what a Confessor is and what a Minster is, for this is Edward the Confessor's day in the church calendar, and he was the man who built — or rebuilt — Westminster Abbey.

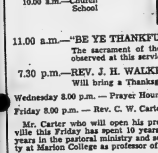
A Confessor is any male saint who was not a martyr. A Minster is the church of a monastery. All right, on with the story.

Good King Edward of England was next to the last of the Anglo-Saxon kings, just before the Normans invaded in 1066. He came to the throne in 1042, when he was 40 years old. He was of a family that had been dogged by b a d luck for years, and at one time he made a pious vow that if the family's misfortune should be brought to an end he would go on a pilgrimage to St. Peter's tomb in Rome.

When Edward became king and the troubles seemed all pretty well straightened out, he did not forget his promise but set about preparing for the long trip. His advisers, however, had misgivings. They felt that if the king should go out of the country everything would be left wide open and vulnerable to both internal quarrels and outside enemies. So the matter was referred to the Pope, who at that time was Leo IX.

The Pope's answer was that Edward could be released from his obligation on two conditions: one, that he give to the poor the amount of money he would have spent on the trip to Rome, a n d two, that he build (or repair) and endow a monastery in honor of St. Peter. Edward chose to repair one, an abbey standing near London — somewhat to the west. Because of its direction from the king it came to be known as West Minster, as distinguished from St. Paul's which was on the east side. Few people know that Westminster Abbey is, and could properly be called, St. Peter's church. But it is. The present building is not the one Edward built, however. It one goes back only to the 13th century.

Edward died on Jan. 5, 1066, and was buried in the church he had rebuilt and beautified. A century later, in 1161, he was declared a saint, and on Oct. 13 in the next year his body was moved to a special shrine in the choir of Westminster. It is still there, rather than Edward's death that is commemorated today.



Edward was the first king to practice a custom that later became immensely popular and has not entirely died out of folklore even today. It is called "touching for the king's evil," which meant that people believed that the touch of the king's hand was able to cure certain diseases, such as scrofula. For centuries thereafter kings held special healing sessions to exert this supposed power.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bush, R.R. 2 Frankford, announce the engagement of their elder daughter, Gweneyth Elaine, to Gordon Sheddon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coulter, R.R. 2 Frankford. Marriage to take place Saturday, Nov. 1, in Frankford United Church, at twelve o'clock noon.

Mrs. Frank McKay has returned home after visiting relatives, after attending the McQuaid-Boyle wedding.

Mr. Roy Clarke of Redners-ville, has returned home from Banff, Alberta, where he attended the wedding of his grandson's daughter, Miss Barbara Boyle to Mr. Mark McQuaid. On his return he spent a few days in Winnipeg visiting his grandson, Mr. Don Boyle and family.

Wedding

GRIFFIN — BIRD

St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, was the setting for a pretty autumn wedding on Friday, October 3rd, when Dianne Anne Bird, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bird, of Marmora township, became the bride of Raymond William Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Griffin of Stanhope Township, Hallburton.

The church was decorated with chrysanthemums, gladioli and asters in shades of gold and rust, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. J. L. Glover.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Alex Fraser and Mr. John Cash and soloist was "Those Lovely Things" and the "Wedding Prayer".

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a waltz-length white nylon net and lace over taffeta, fashioned with a fitted bodice and lily-point sleeves. The finger-tip veil was held by a headdress of tiny white pearls and pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white baby mums and red rose buds.

Miss Marjorie Bird, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor, and wore a pink waltz-length bridesmaid dress, and a pink matching brocaded leaves trimmed with crystals formed her headpiece.

The junior bridesmaid was another sister, Miss Barbara Bird, who was gowned similarly in pink brocaded taffeta and head dress to match. They carried bouquets of pink and blue button mums.

The groom was attended by Mr. Val Ingram, and the usher was Mr. Morley Chard.

The reception was held in St. Andrew's Church Hall, where the bride's table was centred with the wedding cake and floral decorations were of snapdragons.

Mrs. Bird received the guests wearing a floor length dress of feta with beige accessories. She had a corsage of white baby mums and red rose buds.

For a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, Buffalo and Rochester the bride wore a dark brown velvet dress with beige accessories. Her corsage was of bronze button mums and red rose buds. On returning they will reside at Marmora.

Prior to her marriage, classmates in the 1958 nurses' graduating class at the Civic Hospital, Peterborough, presented her with a pair of crystal vases.

White Shrine of Jerusalem Holds Delightful Fall Tea

Rainy weather during the early part of the afternoon of Friday discourage the crowds of men and women who attended the delightful autumn tea and bazaar sponsored by the White Shrine of Jerusalem, No. 11, on Friday afternoon.

The bazaar was held in the Odd Fellows' Hall, Front Street, which was attractively decorated with bouquets of autumn flowers, yellow and white mums, mauve and pink snapdragons, orange nasturtiums, all lighted white cross on the far wall and a large bouquet of mauve gladioli set underneath behind the home cooking table, were eye-catching.

Bazaar tables, heaped with lovely examples of needlework and delectable results of culinary talents, were covered with white crepe paper and decorated with looped brown and yellow streamers with a bow in the centre of each table.

Guests entered the tea room through a gay archway of tan, brown and yellow, decorated with yellow artificial flowers, with a cut-work tablecloth over a dark green cloth, it was centred by a low arrangement of bronze and yellow baby 'mums in a yellow bowl set in a fourpointed silver candelabrum, holding deep bronze and yellow tapers. Two copper servitors, tan and yellow, brown and green serviettes completed the table arrangements.

Individual quartet tables were covered with yellow cloths and tablecloths and centred with small bouquets of bronze and yellow 'mums.

Those pouring the tea were: Mesdames Ethel Sine, Edna Elvidge, Maude Elliott, Hazel Saragar, Alice Moon, Emily Hardman, Ida Delong, Velena Darvell, Coral Adams and Ruby Hamilton all pay Worthy High Priestesses.

Servers were: Mesdames Dorothy Tupper, Ida Hendrick, Gertrude Smale, Nora MacDonald, Grace Finch, Gertha Black, Neta Booth, Mabel Lloyd and Teresa Kilpatrick, and Miss Pearl Hardy.

Replenishing the plates were: Mesdames Eleanor Alexander, Elsie Humphrey, Janet Williamson, Vera Post and Margaret Vickers, and tea was made by Beatrice Smith.

Bazaar convener was Mrs. Mary Hearne and the co-convener was Mrs. Eva Hick. Bazaar decorator was Mrs. Mabel Adams.

The apron table, featuring all kinds of gay print aprons, and fancy organdy and nylon trimmed cocktail aprons, was convened by Mrs. Jean Green, with Mrs. Minnie Niblock as co-convener. Assistants were: Mesdames Margaret Gill, Mary Baker, Elizabeth Hall, May Black and May Celegan.

Candy table, featuring chocolate fudge, maple cream, candied popcorn and fancy fondant, was convened by Mrs. Martha Armstrong, with Mrs. Lula Longhurst as co-convener. Assistants were Mesdames Margaret Newton, Rose Smith, Sadie Fraser and Lillian Hall.

The home cooking table, laden with tempting fruit, lemon and pumpkin pies, fancy iced cupcakes, plain and fancy cookies, buns and chocolate, Angel food and Devil's Delight cakes and jars of pickles, relishes, jams and jellies was convened by Mrs. Anne Chapman, with Mrs. Pearl Kerr as co-convener. Assistants were Mesdames Minnie Carmichael, Mary Anna Weller, Ada Baker, Elizabeth Evans and Henrietta Archer.

The fancy work table, featuring colorfully embroidered luncheon sets, doilies and pot-holders and dainty smocked baby's dresses and pinafores, was convened by Mrs. Blanche O'Neill with Mrs. Edna Broad as co-convener. Assistants were Mesdames Dorcus Westover, Blanche Kerr, Winnifred Hollinger, Edna Reid and Gladys McFaul.

Those selling tickets at the door were: Mesdames Minnie Moorman, Ida Clapp, Grace Hendrick and Elizabeth Taylor.

Mrs. Margaret Drummond was in charge of selling tickets on a hamper of apples, which was won by Mr. Ben Bleecker.

Mrs. Jean Green's food cake was won by Mr. Percy Kerr and a pretty crocheted apron was won by Miss Margaret Bamford.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Although the official opening date for the residential canvass for the Belleville United Appeal is October 27th and the closing date is October 31st, the work of public relations and volunteer spear-heading the appeal has been going on for many months. It is a concerted effort to consolidate and improve the separate and sometimes frustrating appeals of nine different agencies. This appeal is aptly named United because in union there is strength. Instead of nine individual appeals being made at nine different times by nine scattered groups it is hoped to replace it by organized duplication with unified efficiency. Aside from the logic of the United Appeal, there is the argument of convenience and expediency. The public thus through this United appeal eliminate the inconvenience and sometimes discouraging repetition of repeated solicitation.

Whether your contribution is made through the payroll deduction scheme or at the time of the residential canvass, you may be assured that it is voluntary. And if the United Appeal exceeds success in this United Appeal, each in its own way, makes a great contribution to the welfare of Canadian society in the local, provincial and national field. It is interesting and noteworthy to realize the challenge the permanent staff of the Belleville United Appeal has taken up. In previous years the Executive Secretary Chest has never reached its objective in spite of the unsparing labours and efforts of those who devoted themselves to this work. This year they hope that their objective will be passed through the generous support of the public. T. & T. wishes them well in their worthwhile endeavour, organization and voluntary efforts.

Around and around it goes and where it will stop who knows? The hula-hoop has taken on like mad and now you would have to see children whirling their hula hoops around and around. Thursday morning driving to work, we couldn't believe our eyes. A child, a little girl, was walking nonchalantly along the street with her houla hoop twirling held aloft in both hands, and a hula hoop was whirling wildly around and around on both elbows ala swoops. It was a graceful and lovely picture. Time was scarce or we would have stopped to watch this young artist who wasn't the slightest bit self-conscious. She didn't know she was a lovely thing to see. Perhaps she did it will be a marvel to think about. Anyhow, we aren't going overboard. This child was walking quite naturally, unhurriedly and with dignity, and the hoop hooks held high out of the way. Her hips did not seem to be swaying unduly and her body was not twisting, yet she kept her hoop twirling at great speed. Oh to be young again and, oh that all the worry of humanics as the hula hoop. We have heard on good authority that the hula hoop fad discouriages hips that are neither young nor slim. The child is unconcerned about who may be watching, but T & T wonders how many hula hoops are being used for slimming in the secrecy of the attic or cellar or empty garage.

We wonder, if, in the classroom at home, parents and teachers are overwhelmed with hula hoops that took an alternative on a little girl walking gracefully to school quite unaware she had an audience.

The girl and her hula hoop made us think of Jeannie for a light if fantastic thought for the weekend:

"I dream of Jeannie with the light brown hair,
Borne like a vapor on the summer air;

see her tripping where the bright streams play,
Happy as the daisies that nod in her way."

Thursday's autumn air was as balmy as summer and the colors of maple leaves under which our girl dances, a hula hoop bright streams through which she wended her way to school.

Mrs. Lorna Locke, president, opened the meeting and welcomed all present. Mrs. Locke then introduced Mr. MacKinnon, principal, who introduced her teaching staff

Miss Judy McIlquham entertained with a tap dancing selection, and Miss Betty Jean Hubbard and Ruth Ann Locke pupils of Prince of Wales School.

Mr. Nelles introduced the guest speaker, Mr. D.J. MacKinnon, principal of Tweed High School, who gave an interesting talk on his work in this area.

Refreshments were served by those in charge, at the conclusion of the meeting.

A tea for the new mothers was held recently in Prince of Wales School, Tweed, convened by Mrs. Cooke, and president, Mrs. L. Locke, assisted for the afternoon with members of executive serving.

Mrs. D. Slack, school principal, gave a few remarks and introduced Miss Lorna Brown, kindergarten teacher, who spoke briefly. Mrs. Sproule school nurse spoke on her work in the schools. This closed a pleasant afternoon.

KITCHEN ACCIDENT

SECHELT, B.C. (CP) — Mrs. Clarence Joe, wife of the secretary of the Sechelt Indian band near here, came home recently after two years in hospital at Sardis, B.C. Two weeks later she was back in hospital, with injuries suffered when a pressure cooker exploded in her kitchen.

Pros Greatly Outnumber Cons When It Comes to Sports Cars

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

About a year ago we took typewriter in hand to set down the pros and cons of owning and travelling in a small foreign automobile. Surprisingly our fears and qualms were decided to take the plunge and buy one for a second car.

Since we have a Dri-veiter for family transportation we chose a sports car, a popular English make. At $2,300 it is the lowest priced true sports car that compares with full-sized cars in top speed.

A sports car is distinguished from the little foreign sedans you see around town in that it has pickier styling, more power, and seats only two. This latter factor is obviously limits it for family haulage.

But for single people, second-car owners, or childless couples it can report after a full year of testing that, with certain qualifications, it is eminently satisfying piece of transportation for both town and country.

The qualifications are limited luggage space and a cocked up feeling on the driver's seat (for some suffer (we don't!) Happily, some of the most comfortable cars have bucket seats with the top low.

Some drivers have an understandable fear of not being seen and consequently run down by big cars and trucks. But this is a failing drivers become accustomed to this problem and adjusts his driving accordingly.

THE LAST LAUGH

You become used to such things as small boys shooting at you in the street: "Hey, where's the rear view mirror?" and "Is there anything on the sidewalk where it belongs!" And many big car drivers take a real, if arrogant pleasure in outrunning you or cutting you off at intersections.

But we'll get the last laugh. Sports cars do not depreciate in proportion to age but to condition. After a year we can sell our well cared for car for $2,000, probably $1,800 or $1,900 after two years and $1,700 after three. That's a low depreciation of less than a third over a period during which the average American car has dropped in value by one-half to two-thirds.

And at 31 miles to the gallon we can afford to try all the way to the next gas station.

Artist Gives Talk to Albert College Guild

The first fall meeting of the Albert College Women's Guild was held at the Manor on Thursday with the president, Mrs. C. L. Hyde, in the chair.

The meeting opened with a hymn after which the president welcomed the new members who introduced themselves and told their affiliation.

The annual report and treasurer gave their reports.

Mrs. Brown read a poem on "Thanksgiving" which was followed by the Scripture reading by Mrs. Cooper, on "Thankfulness" for the theme.

Mrs. C. Templer, accompanied by Mrs. Hilliard, delighted the Guild with her vocal solo, "Because of The Great Bounty".

The guest speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. Emily Cain, local artist who has had paintings exhibited in London, Hamilton and Kingston, was introduced by Mrs. Brown.

Mrs. Cain had some of her paintings with her and translated her impressions to the group listening this meeting. She referred to the quality of paintings as a comparison of quality in music or material. She said a painting should arouse emotion of feeling to appreciate it. Pictures should not be a copy rather an expression of one's feelings. Mrs. Cain said there were many good books on art available at the Corby Public Library. Her feeling was that children should not be exposed to art at an early age. There are also excellent books for children at the library.

Mrs. W. Pinkle expressed the thanks of the Guild to Mrs. Cain and Mrs. Templer for their part in the meeting.

Mrs. Hyde reminded the members the Convention at Albert College would be held on October 17th and extended a cordial invitation to all.

Tea was served and a social hour enjoyed.

Crafts Expert To Address Arts-Crafts

Henry Longstaff, craft adviser for Community Programs Branch, Department of Education, will be guest speaker when the first general meeting of the new season of the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club.

Mr. Longstaff who has been with Community Programs Branch for a number of years, is a specialist in weaving, ceramics, leather, metalcraft, and jewellery making. Topic of his discussion, and demonstration will be "Development of Design in Crafts".

The meeting is scheduled for the King George School Auditorium, Wednesday October 15 at 8.00 p.m., and is open to all interested persons.

Doctor Charlotte Whitton To Address Canadian Club

The Women's Canadian Club and citizens and district guests at their lecture season on Friday evening in the Sir Winston Churchill School with an address by Dr. Charlotte Whitton, of Ottawa.

Miss Whitton, C.B.E., M.A., D.C.L., LL.D., received her early education in Renfrew, Ontario, and entered Queen's University as scholarship. She graduated in 1917 with an M.A. degree in English and History. During these years she displayed leadership in sports and in student government, as well as an interest in the first woman editor of the Queen's "Journal."

Entering the Social Service Council of Canada, in 1918, she continued in welfare work until 1922 when she was appointed Secretary of the Ministry of Trade and Commerce. From 1925 until 1942 Miss Whitton founded and served as director of the present Canadian Welfare Council.

During the war she acted as consultant on war and civilian services; dependants' allowances; overseas care of British children and the organization of the women's section, Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Dr. Whitton spent much of her time writing and lecturing on the allied war effort and social conditions, topics and surveys. During these years she was honored by five universities in the United States and Canada: Queen's, King's, Acadia, Toronto and N.Y.U.

Since her retirement from civic office, she has appeared frequently on radio and has contributed to many Canadian publications, as well as writing a tri-weekly newspaper column on municipal affairs.

Known for her enthusiasm and forthright opinions, Charlotte Whitton is a competent and witty speaker.

The Canadian Club anticipates an excellent program for its first meeting of this season.

CNR Chef Gives Tips On Making of Pie Crust

TORONTO — Canadian National dining car and dietitian chiefs throughout Ontario will be serving passengers with the traditional Thanksgiving dinner next weekend and they estimate that more than 200 birds, 800 pumpkin and 400 mince pies will be made ready for the annual autumn holiday. These will provide some 4,000 dinners.

The pie crust, an important element of all good pies, is being prepared according to a traditional recipe of Joseph Nellis, CNR chef instructor.

"A dash or bit of sugar can make a great deal of difference to a pie crust," Mr. Nellis declares. "It adds to the crispiness of the cooked crust and makes for a flaky consistency in appearance and digestibility."

Mr. Nellis, whose 35 years service in cooking has taken him into the kitchens of diners, steamships, hotels and restaurants of the CNR, also claims that "working" the shortening into the flour doesn't mean "pounding" it in. "It should be done at room temperature," he says, "and done lightly by hand. Then add a little cold water and pat the dough into the refrigerator to rest before rolling it out for the pie plate."

"This practice of cooling the pie crust is another important factor often overlooked in the busy housewife," says Mr. Nellis, "but it means a great deal to the taste of the finished product. In fact, it's just about as important as the filling for the pie itself."

For the preparation of the traditional pumpkin pie, Mr. Nellis recommends the following recipe to make two standard size pies:

2 cups pumpkin, 5 cups 1½ per cent milk, 1 pound brown sugar, 2 tablespoonfuls melted butter, ½ tablespoonful ginger, ½ teaspoonful cinnamon, ½ teaspoonful nutmeg, ½ teaspoonful salt.

Beat the eggs and then mix with the pumpkin, milk, melted butter, sugar and spices.

The pie crust recipe for two standard-sized pies is:

¾ pound flour, 7 oz. shortening, ½ cup cold water, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ teaspoonful salt.

Work the shortening into the flour lightly by hand and add the salt and sugar. Then add cold water and knead, put dough into the refrigerator for about 15 minutes. Remove and roll out ¼ inch thick. Add pumpkin ingredients and cook 30 to 45 minutes in an oven 350 to 375 degrees.

A Lift for Living

The Mystery of Goodness

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

A wise and devout man once said that when a person finishes school the important question is what he loves rather than what he knows. A little reflection reinforces that observation. A student may pass his final examination in a subject with a high grade, but if he treats that final examination as a farewell salute to subject for which he has no love, he is not likely to go much further in that field. Whereas a student who receives a much lower grade in the examination may have acquired such a love for the subject that he goes on to pursue it. Some 80 years ago out in Ohio a boy seemed so unpromising a student that his teacher advised his mother to take him out of school. But the lad had fallen in love with scientific experimentation and he followed his affection until he became the wizard of science known to all the world as Thomas A. Edison. Yes, the test of an education is not the volume of facts which we master but the value of the loves which master us, for what we love determines the direction of our further travel.

Hence in our attitude toward God, the simple question is: Do we know Him? Such are the questions that keep coming, during spring a friend of mine, a minister, was driving with his wife through Virginia. Around the curve came a truck. Just as it reached them a tire blew out, the truck got out of control, crushed my friend's wife to death and left him horribly mangled. Why did this disaster happen at that particular moment and to a godly couple?

Such events are beyond explanation. But great as is the mystery of evil, even greater is the mystery of goodness. It is easier for me to explain a tornado as wind twisted into destructive force than I am to explain the life-giving power of kindness. It is easier for me to understand hatred as love turned bitter than to understand a Christ going to the cross to save even his His enemies.

Four hundred and sixty-six years ago this weekend, Columbus discovered this American continent. What led Columbus to sail west in order to find a way to India? It was the calamitous troubles with the Turks which closed the eastern route to India. Thus the discovery of America was indirectly due to what was called a disaster.

Yes, great is the mystery of goodness.

birds. And that response is a form of love toward God.

We look about us in our homes. There are children that have come out of the nowhere into the mystery of life but which has blessedness. The mystery of love warms our hearts as we see that though the world may turn against us one dear one will stand by us. Love leaps the longest spaces and their spirits will hover around us, and something in our hearts melts with love toward the Creator who gives us families and friends.

ANOTHER SIDE

Oh, I know that there is another side to the picture. I know that in contrast to the lovely autumn colors there are hurricanes and floods. I know that along with loving children and friends there are bombs and brutality. But in the face and scum of things there is always something stars. And the impressive fact is that those who have suffered the worst are the ones who most firmly believe in the goodness of God.

"Why do the good suffer?" "Why did this awful calamity come to me?" Such are the questions that keep coming. Interspring a friend of mine, a minister, was driving with his wife through Virginia. Around the curve came a truck. Just as it reached them a tire blew out, the truck got out of control, crushed my friend's wife to death and left him horribly mangled. Why did this disaster happen at that particular moment and to a godly couple?

Such events are beyond explanation. But great as is the mystery of evil, even greater is the mystery of goodness. It is easier for me to explain a tornado as wind twisted into destructive force than I am to explain the life-giving power of kindness. It is easier for me to understand hatred as love turned bitter than to understand a Christ going to the cross to save even his His enemies.

PROPER TO SEND WEDDING INVITATIONS TO THOSE IN MOURNING?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We have three or four relatives and intimate friends who are in mourning, following recent deaths in their families. I am to be married in December, and am wondering if we should send invitations to these people in mourning? Of course we would like to show the proper honor to them, but also we don't want to do anything that would offend. Would it perhaps be best to send them invitations to the church ceremony but not the the reception? — Bride-to-be

It is entirely proper, quite customary, to send wedding invitations to those in mourning, both invitations to the church ceremony and to the reception. This makes the gracious and thoughtful gesture to them, and gives them the privilege to accept or regret the invitation. Very often they like to accompany them in invitation to the church ceremony and attend it as they might attend any other religious ceremony or service. But generally they prefer not to attend such a social occasion as a wedding reception, although sometimes they do go to the reception for a few minutes, if only to greet the bride and groom and the other members of the receiving-line.

ACOLYTE SHOULD WRITE "THANK-YOU NOTE"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son was an acolyte in a recent wedding. The bride sent him a gift. Is it proper for him to write her a thank-you note?

— Interested

Certainly your son should write a thank-you note to the bride for her kind thought of him and for the gift she so generously gave him. You must talk over with him the hasn't received word from that her gift had arrived and that he appreciated her thought! This was a very fine gesture she made to him.

Woman School Bus Driver in Love With Job

BOWDEN, Alta. (CP) — Mrs. Nellie Dirvel did suct. a good job of parking school buses in a small space at her husband's garage that when the company needed a new driver it picked her.

"It's all in a day's work—and I simply love it," she said about her five routes in driving pupils from Bowden to the Grandview consolidated school in central Alberta.

Her bus-driving chore requires one hour in the morning and one hour in the afternoon. In addition to her family duties she assists her husband, Bob Dirvel, in his garage business.

The Buffalo Creek run, one of the five routes in the school division, covers eight miles and Mrs. Dirvel drives 44 children of all ages to and from school.

Mrs. Dirvel reports she has encountered no trouble with her young charges but claims that when the pupils get up until they see the bus coming. She always waits for them.

On the first day of school this fall, she had a problem. There were five pupils on her hands as some mothers didn't realize they had to accompany them to school the first time. Nettie became their foster mother.

Mrs. Dirvel's driving hazards is speeding cars. Cars are supposed to stop for a school bus but stopped but Mrs. Dirvel say that not all do.

Mrs. Dirvel is a member of several women's groups but she says she won't trade any of her jobs or social activities for the pleasure she gets driving the children to school.

The Bible Today

On October 6th, 1954, a communique issued in Geneva by the Bible Society in Germany by the Bible Societies. Its function is the provision by interpreting individuals and groups who are in physical or spiritual need today, as the result of what they have suffered.

The service of Bible distribution is primarily directed towards exiles and refugees in Western Germany, and in West Berlin. This Twentieth Century has been called "the century of the refugee." In October, August, 1945, 18 million Germans have lost their homeland. By June, 1958, every fifth inhabitant of Western Germany was an exile or refugee. Since 1957, 263,000 people from Eastern Germany fled to Western Germany, most of them carrying only a cardboard box with a few sandwiches and some pieces of underwear. Anything else would make them suspect in the eyes of the police where they cross the frontier. For most of these their future is absolutely unknown.

These people begin to ask about the meaning of their life and their relationship to God. Many find the answer in the Bible given them: since 1954, the Bible Mission has provided over 307,000 Scriptures.

Suggested readings for next week: Sunday — Oct. 12, Jer: 3; Monday — Oct. 13, Jer. 9; Tuesday — Oct. 14, Jer. 12; Wednesday — Oct. 15, Jer. 31:15-34; Thursday — Oct. 16, Jer. 33:1-16; Friday — Oct. 17, Lam. 5; Saturday — Oct. 18, Ezr. 34; 1-31.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each week it will discuss a current case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Betty R. — But I love him.

Laura S. — I am trying to help out my friend who has gotten into a lot of trouble, partly because of me.

I introduced Betty to Ed. I was sure she would like him and she did — a little too much. She was swept off her feet and got involved in an affair with him almost at once. This has been going on for several months and she says she wants to marry him. He appears to care for her a lot, but is very vague about marriage.

I say that she should break off the relationship entirely as he has proven that he is not a man to be counted on. He is the sort of a person who would make a good husband. But Betty insists she'll never love anyone else.

Betty R. — I don't think Ed is as bad as Laura says. I recognize that what has happened was not least half my fault. If I had resisted Ed I think he would have respected me wishes and still be kept me as a friend.

Ed has many qualities that I would like to find in a husband. He is interesting and has a good sense of humor and he is very attractive to me. At times he can be very sweet. I really love him very much and don't want to break off.

The trouble is that he claims up at any mention of marriage. He is stubborn, I don't hear from him for weeks on end. By the time he calls again I am so glad to hear from him and so eager for contact with him that I take the easiest course.

The Council: Betty has indeed gotten herself into a peck of trouble. From the looks of things, she has gambled away any possibility of happiness she could have had with this man.

Unfortunately, Betty has also invested a good deal of herself in Ed. Her friends consider it a great extent of her awareness of all that she has given to and hoped for from this relationship.

It will be hard for Betty to swallow the fact that her emotional investment up to this point will not yield no return. She'll probably have to step out with a loss. The more she puts into the relationship, the more she will have to lose under the present terms.

If Betty sincerely loves Ed she will not be able to go on accepting the physical gratifiers of love without the underlying content. If she still wants affection and tenderness from him, and she still has some hope of marriage to him, she must give up the relationship as it now exists. She should make clear to him what she really does want. If he is not willing to give this, he is of no use to her anyway. It is just possible that a firm and clear-cut decision on her part will force him to sit up and take a new view of her and their relationship.

Betty should realize that her business to gain a better understanding of her emotional needs as a

EMEEN'S 1858 WHOLE WHEAT BREAD (corrected):

Makes 3 loaves or 2 loaves and 1 pan of buns. Two medium-large potatoes boiled in jackets, ¾ cup potato water from boiling potatoes, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 package granular yeast, ½ cup warm water, 2 eggs — break them into an 8-oz. measuring cup and fill it to top with milk, ½ cup each shortening or butter and brown sugar, 2½ teaspoons salt, 6 cups unsifted whole wheat flour (or 3 cups each whole wheat flour and unsifted white flour), ½ cup fresh wheat germ. Wash the potatoes clean and boil in 2 cups water until tender. Measure ¾ cup boiling liquid into large mixing bowl. Peel potatoes and mash them until there are no lumps in the liquid. Meanwhile measure the 1 teaspoon sugar into measuring cup, add ½ cup warm water, stir to dissolve sugar, and when lukewarm sprinkle yeast on top. Do not stir. Let stand 10 minutes.

To the potato mixture add the shortening, brown sugar, and salt and beat until shortening melts. Add yeast mixture, the wheat germ, half the flour, the egg-milk mixture and beat with wooden spoon until mixed. Add remaining flour, mix, then turn out on wheat-flour sprinkled board and knead for at least 5 minutes. The longer the better. Return to bowl, butter and cover top and let rise until at least doubled or overnight in cold refrigerator. Punch down and knead 1 minutes. Shape into 3 loaves or 2 loaves and 1 pan buns and let rise covered in greased pan until well above rims. Bake at 400 deg. F. for 20 minutes then reduce heat to 350 deg. for about 25 to 30 minutes. Turn out of pans to cool. This baked bread freezes excellently.

QUESTION:

Could you help me . . . is there such a thing as Tomato Sauce . . . the kind you use for Spaghetti and Meat? . . . Mrs. R. M.

ANSWER:

Yes Mam there is.

TOMATO PUREE:

Three quarts plus 1 cup (16 cups well-packed), unpeeled but well washed tomatoes, 1 small onion sliced, 1 stalk celery including leaves, 1 bay leaf, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons sugar. Combine all ingredients and cook until vegetables are very tender then force through strong sieve. Boil the pulp until it is reduced to half the original volume. Pour into sterile jars and seal. This amount makes a little more than 3 pints.

Jock Mahoney Strikes Gold in Yancy Derringer Series

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The new TV season has brought forth countless westerns and one southern, that of Yancy Derringer.

This Derringer is a cool character of post bellum New Orleans who carries three Derringer guns bearing his own name. Except for a mustache and a vaguely mysterious nature, you might take him for another TV idol named Big Range Rider. Or he might pass for Jock Mahoney, star of Universal - International movies.

All are the same guy, a towering, muscular former stunt man who now is embarking on his fourth career in films. And this one seems to be the most promising to date.

Jock graduated from falling off cliffs and horses to make 78 Range Rider half-hours. Then he did 11 features for U-I.

"I returned from Germany after doing a small but meaty part in A Time to Love and A Time to Die and found out that the bottom had dropped out of the studio," he said. "They didn't know when they'd be in business again and suggested I consider TV offers."

One was to do Revue's Cimarron City. He was offered $70,000 a year on a flat salary. Jock said he would work for $40,000 if he could share in the profits to avoid paying much of his income to taxes. No deal. Then U-I asked if he would like to have his freedom. Jock impulsively said yes.

"There I was owning only my house and having no income," he said. "It happened so suddenly that I didn't have time to line up another job."

But his action had the endorsement of the family council — his wife Margaret and three children. Their confidence was justified. The offers started coming in, most of them for western series. He shied away, not wishing to climb back into the Range Rider's saddle.

One day he encountered Richard and Mary Sale, veteran film writing team. They chatted most of the day and into the evening. Out of the meeting of minds came Yancy Derringer.

"About 135 TV pilot films went cast for consideration this year," Jock said. "Some 99 or 18 came back winners. By a stroke of fortune, ours was one of them."

TV NOTEBOOK

by John Wettlaufer

This fall season television is taking a long step toward maturity in one phase that has heretofore been but slightly explored — education. Some 100,000 school children in the San Francisco area will get some school work this year by television.

The open circuit experiment will utilize top quality teachers and the subjects telecast to selected classes ranging from elementary to high school students, will range from art and languages to physics. It is intended that the TV showings will be a supplement, not a substitute, for the classroom teacher.

With the increasing emphasis on education, this is a golden opportunity for you to get that defunct TV set of yours in smooth working order. When CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 368 Colman St. W., tackles the job you can be sure of fast but thorough work at the lowest possible cost. Phone WO 8-6781; in Trenton, phone Zenith 6-3800.

Heat Valve Pinch Hits For Engine

Engine heat is needed for several reasons. One is to aid fuel vaporization and improve distribution to the cylinders. But with cold starting in the morning, for example, heat must be supplied from another source until the engine is warmed up enough to take over.

Then manifold heat control valve — also called a heat riser or exhaust damper — accomplishes this. Thermostatically controlled, it bypasses exhaust heat when the engine is cold, directing it around the intake manifold, then allows these gases to pass directly out the exhaust when the engine warms up.

Sticking or freezing is a common story when the heat valve won't operate properly. It is caused by carbon, dirt or rust accumulation around the shaft. Gas is less effective because it was mistakenly lubricated with oil. Powdered graphite mixed thinly with alcohol or kerosene is the correct lubricant.

R. Y. asks: "How does a bent or clogged muffler hurt engine operation, as you claim?"

(A) It prevents the engine from breathing properly. When combustion gases cannot pass freely through the exhaust, they tend to back up. This blocks the escape of additional gases coming from the combustion chambers.

* * *

J. M. writes: "Since I must use my car all winter, I am outfitting it with snow tires. For maximum traction, should I put them on all four wheels?"

(A) Unless your car has four wheel drive, there's little to be gained in putting snow tires on the front wheels.

From J. T.: "There is a noticeable vibration in my car when it hits a speed of 45 mph. Before I get it checked, can you advise what trouble causes this?"

"Canada's exclusive fine car in the low price field" is the way the manufacturer describes the all new 1959 Meteor. Soon in make its appearance, the Meteor will be available in four individual series with thirteen models to choose from. Here is the Rideau 500 four-door hardtop which may be obtained with either standard six or V-8 engine, redesigned to permit the use of regular fuel at savings to the owner. Greater visibility is achieved through 12 per cent more glass area.

(A) The list of possibilities is much too long. You might narrow it down considerably by determining whether the vibration always occurs when the engine is running or only when the car is in motion.

W. L. asks: "When I switch from a low to a high octane gas, how does it change firing in the cylinders? Faster or slower?"

(A) With high octane gas, combustion occurs at a slower rate.

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Waits the withdrawal of the Pembroke Lumber Kings from the Eastern Senior Hockey League is to be regretted, it is better, far better, for it is happen now than a month or so after the circuit schedule got under way.

While the managerial brains of the Eastern League at the recent Gananoque meeting when informed of Wally Stanowski's quit action, had more or less hoped for a miracle, it was the consensus that nothing short of one would bring the Kings back into the fold.

They offered player help, but it was generally felt that even with this more or less manna from hockey heaven, the Kings could not come up to the calibre of other seasons.

While executives of the league on hearing the news of the Kings' withdrawal generally agreed it was well that it happened now instead of later, Manager Wally Brabin of the Kingston Merchants termed it "too bad." "At this time of the year," he said, "it makes it difficult. A month ago Pembroke fans probably could have rallied enough support to continue."

The Pembroke withdrawal has had one effect on the league. It means now that there are only two big battle for playoff berths since there are four teams left and all will be eligible for the post-schedule eliminat'on series.

Whitby, Cornwall, Kingston and Hull-Ottawa will go to the playoffs mat since the McFarlands will be overseas, and will not take part in the series.

However, the remaining five clubs have taken the Pembroke incident in their stride and have moved quickly to close the gap. A meeting will be held in Kingston Monday afternoon to draw up a new schedule. This means that the Maco will play 54 games instead of the previous 56.

Little interest has been shown in the remaining Pembroke players by other clubs of the circuit, although Kingston indicated it might be interested in defenceman Jack Douglas.

Manager Drury Denyes of the Maco, felt it was better the Kings folded now than later in the season. "I don't think it will affect us too much. The Kings did not draw heavily and I think our gate will show an increase with Whitby, Kingston, Cornwall and Hull appearing once more."

Manager Wren Blair of the Whitby Dunlops, said it was unfortunate that Pembroke was forced to withdraw but it does not affect the league in a "desperate" situation.

"The calibre of hockey in Pembroke was a doubtful factor this year," he said, "and I personally would prefer to see five strong teams than a sixth weaker ove."

ENDORSEMENT

As is their usual custom, the Belleville McFarlands are publishing a seasonal program. This year's edition will be an exceptional one since it will be the souvenir issue, honoring the Macs' march to the Allan Cup, and their quest for the world hockey championship.

Manager Drury Denyes secured the services of Mr. Elmer Bowder of Trenton, to supervise the gathering of advertising for the program. Mr. Bowder in turn engaged other people.

There apparently has been some misunderstanding in the presentation of sales talk. Potential advertisers are under the impression they are being asked to subscribe to the program with the profits to go to the Belleville McFarlands Booster Club's Overseas Fund.

This is definitely not the case.

The Booster Club has nothing whatever to do with the program, nor the solicitation of its advertising.

Manager Denyes made this perfectly clear this morning.

"The program has been arranged for outright by the management of the hockey club," he said, "and all proceeds from the sale of advertising will go to the club's coffers. The Booster Club is doing an outstanding job in its own right. It has nothing to do with the program, in any sense or form."

Will Team With Ed Chadwick In New Two-Goalie System; Success Stories Worry Blake

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Professional hockey's most-reliable goaltender returns to the National Hockey League this weekend for another crack at the big time.

Johnny Bower, 33 in four weeks, has been named by Toronto Maple Leafs to open their 1958 schedule tonight in a home stand against Chicago Black Hawks.

It's 13 years since Bower made his pro debut with Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League but it hasn't reduced his effectiveness. Last season he posted a 2.19 goals-per-game average with Cleveland, best of his career, and was named the AHL's best goalie.

TOO TOUGH!

Bower will team with Ed Chadwick, fulltime goalie last season, in an attempt to prove coach Billy Reay's notion that the NHL schedule is too tough for one netminder and a two-man system can give better results.

It's his fourth promotion to the big league. Bower played the full 70-game season with New York Rangers in 1953-54 and was brought back for brief periods in the 1954-55 and 1955-57 seasons.

Six games are on tap in the NHL this weekend with Toronto and Detroit Red Wings set to make their first showing.

Canadiens, ultists and Stanley Cup champions last year, start in their familiar first-place position. They play host to Detroit Red Wings in the first move to Boston Sunday for a second meeting with the Leafs.

Toronto goes to Chicago Sunday to repay the Hawks' visit tonight. New York goes on Boston tonight and Detroit Sunday.

HABS HOME

Canadien coach Toe Blake says his biggest worry is over the almost unanimous predictions that his Montrealers are going to wind up on top of the heap again this season.

Blake, apparently ignoring the fact that he has last season's two top scorers and Vezina Trophy netminder, claims he's highly concerned about Boston and Detroit.

Detroit has collected a new flock of young prospects this year to back up old stars such as Gordie Howe who's expected to match his 33 goals of last season.

Leafs will make their debut with three new, newly-bought veterans in addition to Bower. Bert Olmstead, from Canadiens, Dave Creighton, former Ranger, and Steve Kraftcheck, up from Cleveland, will be in the lineup.

L.A. Coach Signed Before Season End

NEW YORK (AP) — Los Angeles, the graveyard of football coaches, appears to be mellowing.

The unbelievable happened Friday when Sid Gillman, named by Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, was signed in a new contract with 10 games still remaining in this season.

And the pact, terms and duration of which were not announced, is effective in 1959.

Back in 1943, Adam Walsh coached Cleveland Rams to the NFL title. The team then moved to Los Angeles and Walsh lasted one season:

Bob Snyder had a like tenure in 1957. Clark Shaughnessy was good for two years, Joe Stydahar one and Hamp Pool three.

Pool, now coach of Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four football circuit, holds the record until the coming of Gillman in 1955.

Gillman won an division title that year, but finished fifth in 1956 and fourth last year when he was hanged in effigy.

Rams dropped their opener this season. Gillman's last of a four-year contract, but followed up that three-point loss to Cleveland Browns with a 33-3 decision over rival San Francisco 49ers. Rams announced Friday they were completely satisfied with Gillman.

Six Canadians Listed in Empire Ratings

LONDON (CP)—Six Canadians appear in listings issued by the Commonwealth championship committee of the British Boxing Board of Control, including Yvon Durelle of Bale Ste. Anne, N.B., who holds the Commonwealth light heavyweight title.

George Chuvalo of Toronto is named as the outstanding contender for the heavyweight crown held by Britain's Brian London. Lloyd Gordon of Saint John, N.B., is the only contender listed for the flyweight championship held by Dai Dower of South Africa.

Richie (Kid) Howard of Halifax is ranked third in the lightweight division behind champion Willie Towell of South Africa and Dave Charnley of Britain. Gerry Simpson of Sydney Cip is fifth in the featherweight class and Pat Supple of Montreal is third among the lightweights.

No Canadians are ranked in the middle and welterweight divisions.

Harness Racing

HULL, Que. (CP)—Just Van, an outsider in the betting, won the feature invitation pace event at Connaught Park, paying $18.60 to win Friday night.

The Haliburton, Ont., entry owned by Ross Curran, paced the mile in 2:18 4-5 over a slow track. Hewitzer Hanover, driven by Marie driven by Neil Curran, was second, and Divorce, of Buckingham, third.

Habs' Boss Now a Sophomore Likes His Job, Club, Players

MONTREAL (CP) — Senator Hartland Molson looked back on his first year as president of a National Hockey League club and found himself enthusiastic about it.

"Most things in life are largely dependent upon people and associations," the senator said. "I have been involved in my first season," Senator Molson said in an interview with The Canadian Press.

He is happy over the success of the famous Montreal Canadiens and over the smooth way the executive set up to direct the huge organization.

Especially he has enjoyed his association with the players.

"I try to meet them personally as often as I can. But I don't interfere with the running of the club. I like to have personal chats with the players, to talk generalities, to visit the dressing room occasionally. I feel we are very fortunate in the type of players we have on our club."

CAGEY SENSATION

Little more than a year ago there was something of a sensation in hockey and business generally when it was announced Senator Molson, who also heads the brewery organization bearing his name, had bought controlling interest in the Canadiens organization from Senator Donat Raymond.

Senator Molson, now 51, is a former athlete. He played on a Dominion intermediate championship football team and on a hockey team in the Memorial Cup days.

Senator Molson feels Canadiens are a local institution, not only in Montreal but in the province.

"We have a high proportion of French-speaking boys and we want to try to keep it that way."

So far as the NHL is concerned, Senator Molson has a well-balanced league is desirable.

NO HARM BEING FIRST

He was quick to add, with a sly smile: "But we don't think there is any harm in one team being out in front. We don't want to alter that if we can help it. At the same time we don't want a couple of teams way down in the hole."

He was asked about the players-owners council, set up last winter.

"I think there should be a suitable arrangement through which there is no difficulty in players bringing their problems to the club in form of a union, as we were threatened with.

"In hockey everything is individual. Players are individuals. A contract is individual.

"I feel any problem can be solved by talking things over. Any player on our club can talk to Frank Selke. I'm ready to help myself.

"But I don't want to deal through a lawyer."

CHANGE DATE

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Baseball officials from six minor leagues will gather in Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 5-6 to discuss possible franchise changes. The meeting originally scheduled for Oct. 21 but minor league president George M. Trautman moved the date back after learning some officials couldn't make the earlier meeting.

Canadian Team Doing Well In World Golf

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (CP) —Toronto's Bruce Castator, Canada's amateur golf champion, followed victorious Friday, played a "dog-leg" shot into the "valley of wits" and wound up with a commendable 76 over the Old Course.

It was the second-best score so far for the Canadian team in the 29-country world amateur golf championship here which has drawn 114 golfers from all over the globe.

Bob Kidd of Vancouver sledded down Ashbot a 75 to go with his earlier 82 and 82 for the best score by a Canadian up to the four-day tournament.

Reid Jack, the ex-community golf champion, is the overall low scorer—he has put together a surprising 79-77-74-78 in the difficult rain and wind conditions.

NEW ZEALAND LEADING

New Zealand is leading the team standing so far with a 54-hole aggregate of 667, and the United States is second with 680. Australia edged into a third-place tie with Britain at 681.

Canada, with a best-of-three total of 228 Friday—has a three-day total of 709 for sixth spot behind South Africa.

Doug Sabo of Vancouver shot 78-80-77—236; Castator 79-84-76—239; Eric Hamilton of Toronto 86-78-79—243; and Kidd 82-85-75—240. Only the low three scores are considered for the team.

Castator's strange performance came on the 18th hole. He asked his caddy for a line to the fade-away green and the caddy replied:

"Aim for the dog lying out there in the sun."

Castator did. His shot caromed off the dog's rump, sending the yipping animal one way and the ball the other, onto a macadam road.

Castator played a difficult second shot from the green which fades away into what is known locally as "the valley of wits," then sank a 75-foot putt for his second consecutive birdie three of the day.

Yankee Brass, Stengel Feud 'Plain Rubbish', Says Casey

"Plain rubbish," said the 68-year-old skipper, still enjoying the thrill of beating Milwaukee Braves in the final game of the world series Thursday after being down 3-1 in games. "There's too much work to be done for me to think about quitting."

Stengel's two-year contract expires this year. Talk of his quitting was revived Friday by a story in New York Post that Stengel and general manager George Weiss are feuding.

"Unless the breach is healed, according to people close to the situation, there is a 50-60 chance Stengel will never put on a Yankee uniform again," wrote Jimmy Cannon of The Post.

Retorted Weiss: "This is a harefaced lie and you can make it as strong as you like. There is absolutely no semblance of a feud between us. . . I expect him to be with us again. He has been a great manager."

MEET FRIDAY, TUESDAY

The club has called a press conference for Tuesday. Stengel said he will be present to discuss plans for the 1959 season.

"I'm also meeting Weiss on Wednesday to discuss a few other things," Casey added, leaving his listeners to make their own conclusion.

He is well off financially and doesn't need the job, but would like to become the manager with the most pennants and series won.

Since he became Yankee manager in 1949 Stengel has won nine American League pennants and seven world series.

Boyd Verdicts Jimmy Beecham

CHICAGO (AP) — Bobby Boyd won a unanimous decision from Jimmy Beecham of Miami Friday night in an action packed 10-round bout at Chicago Stadium. Boyd, weighed 160, Beecham 156½.

Boyd piled up an early lead and managed to hold on in the later rounds when Beecham began scoring with an effective left hook that actually floored the latter.

Beecham appeared to be out of the running in the fifth round. But he came on and appeared the stronger of the two in the final rounds. In the sixth he had Boyd with a hard right to the jaw. Beecham seemed to be the stronger of the two in the later rounds.

All three officials gave Boyd an edge of two or more points in the televised bout.

Bobby Layne Traded to End Internal Feud
DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Times says Detroit Lions traded star quarterback Bobby Layne to Pittsburgh Steelers to end a growing rift between players and coaches of the National Football League club.
The Times said a "smouldering feud" between coach George Wilson and Layne was beginning to break into the open. It said Layne objected to Wilson's practice of sending in plays from the bench.
The Lions denied reports of dissension when the trade was announced suddenly last Monday following a 13-13 tie at Green Bay against the Packers.
The club's official explanation that Wilson found it too difficult to run the club with two first string quarterbacks — Layne and Tobin Rote.
He kept Rote and obtained Earl Morrall from the Steelers in the trade.

Haney, 3 Players on Way Out If You Like Fresh Rumors
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Rumors that sprouted from the debris of the Milwaukee Braves world series defeat have three players perched on the trading block and manager Fred Haney ready to resign.
The marked men are shortstop Johnny Logan and right-handed pitchers Bob Rush and Gene Conley and possibly Bob Trowbridge.
The report that Haney would retire has been growing since rumors placed former Cincinnati Reds boss Birdie Tebbetts in line for an executive post with the Braves. Tebbetts has been mentioned as the possible choice as an aide for club president Joseph Cronin who recently was named an official of a Florida development group and a director of the Braves' owner Lou Perini.
The 60-year-old Haney denied he would retire saying, "as long as they keep paying me, I'll be around."
He has guided Braves to two straight National League titles and one world championship.
TO DISCUSS TERMS
Haney is expected to discuss terms with general manager John Quinn before leaving for his west coast home early next week.
Shortstop Logan is convinced Haney doesn't care for him, the report said. The infielder had a bad season and poor series, during the regular campaign he hit only .237. His average was .320 in the series and he was charged with a pair of errors in games they did not contribute to any scoring.
Rush missed a good portion of the season because of arm trouble. Late in the year he and Haney hardly spoke. The fast-ball specialist was never considered for a series appearance. He was 5-2 this year.
Conley was used mostly in relief, working 72 innings and winding up with a record of six defeats and no victories.
Trowbridge pitched 55 innings, compiling a 1-3 record.

DUPAS TRAINS
MONTREAL (CP) — Ralph Dupas, rated No. 6 in the welterweight division, began training in Montreal Friday for his meeting next Wednesday with Carmen Basilio at New Orleans. Earlier this year he lost on an eighth-round technical knockout to world champion Joe Brown.

Macs Crush St. Catharines In Penalty-Riddled Pastime

The Belleville McFarlands crushed the St. Catharines Teepees 10-1 in a penalty-riddled exhibition game here last night. It was the Macs second victory in as many nights over the Junior "A" squad from the Niagara district.

Johnny McLellan paced the Macs offensive with three goals with Frank Battagale again racking up a pair. Notching single goals were Hildebrand, Dewsbury, Bradley, Raglan and Smrke. Doug Robinson scored the lone St. Catharines goal.

Referee Vern Goyer assessed 27 penalties in the rugged wide-open game with the Teepees drawing 15 including two misconducts, and the McFarlands 12 minors.

Two or three scuffles marked the game with the Teepees Stan Mikita drawing two minors and two misconducts after one blow-up.

Playing coach Hildebrand rested Moe Benoit, Floyd Crawford, Paul Payerle and Eddie Marineau who played the night before and sent out "Rags" Raglan, Keith MacDonald and Dary Jones. Gordie Bell and Turk Barclay shared the goaltending chore, the "Turk" taking over midway in the second period.

The Macs with their offensive plays clicking much better than in St. Kitts the night previous scored six goals in a row in the first period Johnny McLellan racking home two in the first two minutes.

McLellan scored the only goal of the second period. Robinson scored the Teepees goal early in the third frame with the Macs coming back with three despite the fact they shared the twelve penalties incurred in the frame.

Lou Smrke and Flori Goegan each had three assists with MacDonald and Menard having two each. Singles went to Battagale, Jones, Bailey, Dewsbury, McLellan and Bart Bradley.

The Macs defensive work sparked by big Al Dewsbury and Flori Goegan caught the eye of the fans while the bob-whit checking of the forest lines broke up many a play of the fleet attackers of the Teepees.

Thanks to Lieut. Col. Augustus Duffy, the Hastings and Prince Edward regimental band was in attendance its sprightly music was much appreciated by the fans.

Bilts Edge Marlboros 5-4

GUELPH (CP) — Guelph Biltmores edged Toronto Marlboros 5-4 Friday night in a hard-hitting Ontario Hockey Association junior A exhibition.

Guelph drew 12 of 24 penalties in the free-wheeling match.

Jack Martin, Alan Orcheson, Jack Pappin scored for Marlboros. Jim Cannon gave up one goal and Jacques Caron and John Miller each let two go by in the Toronto nets.

Don Rich let one goal by and Gaston Madeau three for Guelph. The teams open the league schedule here next Friday.

Bisons Defeat Providence 6-1

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo's Bisons are away winging in the American Hockey League.

Billy Dea got the Bisons in front early Friday night and they coasted to their second consecutive victory, a 6-1 victory over Providence Reds. Buffalo opened its season with a 3-2 overtime triumph over Rochester.

Danny Pollistai scored the only Providence goal while Dick Gamble, Orlando Kurtenbach, Bill Sweeney, Ed Kachur and Larry Wilson picked up the tallies for Buffalo.

Defending champion Hershey opens its season tonight topping a full schedule. The Bears will be host to Providence.

In other games, Rochester is at Cleveland and Buffalo plays at Springfield.

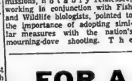
More News About Dove Hunting



Last month, you who read this column may remember that we had quite a bit to say about the dove-shooting regulations. Since then we have done a bit of investigation and some startling things have come to light.

The whole blooming situation which now confronts the dove-shedding dove shooter has been brought about by our, and one only, definite cause — the appalling and incredible ferocity of the decline in sportsmanship on the part of the gunning public.

Think back and you may recall the unprecedented pheasant shooting that maintained in the Dakotas in the nineteen forties. Both North and South Dakota had more pheasants than economically all sound for the farmers and the crops of those states. Newsreels, advertising and publicity, sponsored by the Dakotas, begged the sportsmen of the nation to come and shoot pheasants.

Never will I forget that first pheasant season spent in South Dakota. It was not uncommon to see from 30 to 200 ringneck pheasants driven from a single cornfield. Each gunner was allowed five roosters and three hens per day and he could bring home 40 birds when he left the state.

The gunners of the nation responded to the invitation and they came to the Dakotas. Incredible as it may sound, within two or three years the pheasant shooting declined to such a degree that half-day shooting was adopted in order to lend some semblance of control of the slaughter. Later, even more stringent measures were adopted, but the half-day shooting served its purpose.

Certain state conservation commissions, notably Tennessee, working in conjunction with Fish and Wildlife biologists, pointed to the importance of adopting similar measures with the nation's mourning-dove shooting. The national dove population was being so radically reduced by overshooting that something surely had to be done.

DISREGARD FOR LAWS

To understand what brought about the decline, there are two things that should be explained. First, all too many dove shooters paid little or no attention to game laws. They killed what they could and took their chances on apprehension by the authorities.

So long as there weren't too many dove shooters, this lawlessness did only slight damage. Then the second phase made itself felt. Interest in upland gunning on the part of the general public increased by leaps and bounds. Where there was one dove gunner 36 or 40 years ago, today there are 50.

While the dove hunters were allowed all-day shooting — until sunset — so many unscrupulous gunners made it a practice to shoot a limit at blasts in the morning, then go out and shoot a limit of birds in the afternoon. Those who lived near state borders often managed to pick up three limits a day — two in one state and a third in the adjoining state.

Compounding this was the tendency of otherwise responsible citizens to have half-day shooting. We don't like it, but we have it as a matter of necessity.

Fortunately, the dove population is responding to the new regulations. It is one of the two resurgent game crops that we have today, the other being the woodcock. Half-day shooting has paid off.

But it does seem too bad that those law-abiding shooters, who enjoy the morning shooting, must be penalized because of the lawless few. I suppose, however, that such things must be expected so long as people are people.

Western League Opens Action

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Western Hockey League opened action on three fronts Friday night. At Winnipeg, Saskatoon Quakers downed the Warriors 6-1; at Edmonton, the hometown Flyers stopped Calgary Stampeders 3-0 and at Vancouver, the Canucks edged the visiting Victoria Cougars 5-2.

Defenseman Garry Claire scored three goals against his former Winnipeg mates. Bob Kabel, Bill Bucyk and Elliot Chorney were the other Quaker scorers. Rookie Don Johns was Winnipeg's marksman.

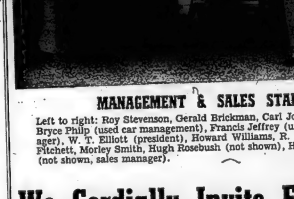
Team captain Phil Maloney, Walt Peacosh and Ron Hutchinson scored for Vancouver as George Ford got both Victoria goals.

Yankees May Buy Richmond

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Yankees are talking of buying Richmond, and the Deep South is raising no objections.



The Yankees are the world baseball champions, and they've almost closed a deal to buy the Richmond Virginians of the class AAA International League.

"We ought to have a terrific team here next year," says E. Claiborne Robins, chairman of the board of directors of the Richmond club.

The Yankees, who have had a working agreement with Richmond since 1956, said Friday night they have taken an option to buy the team. No price was mentioned.

Up to now the Yanks have distributed their best minor league talent between Richmond and Denver of the American Association. The Denver working agreement has been dissolved.

THE BELLEVILLE AND DISTRICT LABOR COUNCIL

We have representation on the Board of Directors of the Belleville United Appeal, and we urge the support of all the laboring men and women in this regard.

Donald G. Burshaw, President.
Daisy LaRue, Corresponding Secty.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF LOCOMOTIVE FIREMEN AND ENGINEMEN

Has always supported civic projects of this character and we are happy to lend our support in promoting the enterprise now going forward in the good city of Belleville.

Ray Scott,
General Secty. and Treas.

INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD OF ELECTRICAL WORKERS

We will soon be sending out an appeal to all our members, through their respective Local Unions, asking their continued support to the United Community Campaign by joining with their neighbors as volunteers and by giving generously through the United Appeals drive in their local communities. We sincerely endorse this most worthy cause.

Joseph D. Keenan,
International Secretary.

CANADIAN BROTHERHOOD OF RAILWAY EMPLOYEES AND OTHER TRANSPORT WORKERS

It has always been the practice of our Brotherhood to participate in community work of the nature contemplated and I am happy to lend my endorsation to this current drive, urging our locals in the Belleville area to do the same.

Wm. J. Smith,
National President.

UNITED STEEL WORKERS OF AMERICA

We and our locals have generously supported worthy community programs. We also agree that all citizens should do their part. The United Appeal program has been most effective in encouraging wide participation on the part of all the people.

I. W. Abel,
Secretary-Treasurer.

CANADIAN LABOR CONGRESS

We recognize our responsibility to support the work of voluntary health and welfare services. Giving the United Way helps to eliminate waste caused by numerous fund raising campaigns. United action ensures sound budgeting of the health and welfare dollar.

Thomas B. Ward, Director,
Dept. of Prov. Federations & Labor Councils,
Canadian Labor Congress.

STATEMENT BY CLAUDE JODOIN, PRESIDENT CANADIAN LABOR CONGRESS

"The Canadian Labor Congress strongly supports the United Appeal. Co-operation of individuals and organizations toward a common goal is a principle of the United Appeal, just as it is a principle of organized labor. The Belleville and District Labor Council is to be congratulated on its activities in support of the appeal."

UNITED RUBBER, CORK, LINOLEUM AND PLASTIC WORKERS OF AMERICA

Union members are carrying out, in an effective way, their roles as responsible citizens in actively participating in campaigns such as the Belleville United Appeal. Labor has learned through experience the important role that voluntary health and welfare agencies play in the community and the nation. We know the good work that United Appeal organizations have done in helping the sick, the handicapped and the youth.

Desmond Walker,
General Secretary-Treasurer.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, October 12

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — This is the day to be with the person whom you most admire and respect and have a true meeting of minds on every point. You are not usually very demonstrative. Now is the time to show real affection and warmth.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Utilize a part of this day figuring out how you can do appreciative, kind things for regular partners. Then do them, and be blessed. Later, get coming week planned properly so that you accomplish the maximum in minimum time.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Resolve early that you will put out of your mind whatever is unpleasant and dwell only on happy thoughts, things. Then have a glorious day. Go to services of your choice, have fine dinner, be with inspiring people. Be a child of God.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — This can be a most enjoyable day for you if after church services you decide to stay at home with family and do your best to entertain and please them. Then is a good time to plan even greater harmony and happiness there for the future.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Be sure to contact the most divinely guided advisor you know today. Pay great attention to the ideas and suggestions given, for they will successfully guide you toward the right path in life that will bring you happiness and abundance.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — The principles under which you were raised, together with accumulated experiences of your life thus far are what will see you through successfully right now. Live according to highest ideals. P. M. study methods that will bring real gain.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Concentrate on your real ambitions today. Trust assistance will be from others if you do your part in helping them gain theirs also. Great day for cementing ties, furthering harmony.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Whatever problematical affairs seem impossible to solve right now can be adjusted readily by deep concentration and prayer. Then impress others with your true spirit of co-operation and unselfish service.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Your goals can be reached more quickly than you realize if you think and work toward them more earnestly. Don't be too proud to accept the aid of those who truly love and admire you. P. M. sociability reigns.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Through study of philosophical matters, or at services, you know just how to deal with persons of means and power to achieve what has not been possible in the past. Show others your good intentions. Think big.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — A splendid day to listen attentively to fine spiritual advisor who shows you the way to finer living through application of the Golden Rule, and by example of a life well spent. Follow advice given to the letter.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Get into the so - called Silence today and let the fine, inspirational hunches come through. Then govern your life accordingly with others, in a spirit of Truth and Love and calm, philosophical joy. This can be a lovely day.

If your child is born today ... The extraordinary child born today is the kind who will quickly grasp the most modern trends and ideas, particularly in fields that have to do with large groups of individuals, the public in general. There is exactitude in the mind and the special quality that is invaluable in the field of entertainment, design, modern art. Give the most comprehensive education possible to your talent-loaded youngster.

Monday, October 13

Aries, Mutual (March 21 to April 19) — This is the ideal day to have serious talks with associates and iron out any differences. Incorporate new systems that will increase profits. Tonight is fine for romance with person nearest your heart. Be affectionate.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — There is no better time than now to decide on matters of policy with associates and put them in operation. Let your talks be edifying, on a most high level. Tonight then is good for a delightful evening out with loved one or friend.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Delve right into the work awaiting at office, home, especially in connection with helpless, fellow workers. Write important letters, put wardrobe in order, and make whatever treatments you need that will tone up your system.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — Spend early morning doing the important work that needs immediate attention, or getting your talents before the right people. Then dress nicely and off to the recreations or sports that really delight. Have a marvelous time!

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A day to come to grips with any home obligations to the letter. And if you must be away from home, see that your mind is focused on family ties. P.M. bring home some sweets, other little presents. Then have a charming evening with clan.

Here Is a Salute and a Plea For Single Women at Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

This is going to be about those women who are now moving toward the retirement years, and who have never married.

It seems possible that they are the most misunderstood and most unappreciated people of our time.

If such women fit into your mind as old maids or spinsters, or somebody's maiden aunt, don't move on yet. Because you and almost everybody else can do something if you will listen to the story of these dolls of World War I . . . these first women to go out in large numbers in 1918 and get jobs, and the first big wave to get them to be speaking now against retirement.

Since society seems to attach a stigma to the fact that they were never married, they would like for you to understand that part of the story first. Why didn't they?

1. Because they hadn't an obligation to look after somebody, usually a mother and sometimes a father, during those few marriageable years they had. They believed a husband would stand between them and what looked to be their duty. And many a husband would have.

2. Because they could not compromise. Possibly on sex, religious belief, convention, obedience to parents, a point of view. Possibly on something unimportant. But it involved what I h e y thought was a principle. And to them it was more important than a husband.

3. Because nobody ever asked them. But the evidence indicated that remarkably few women — if they had legs and wore perfume — were never asked for by somebody.

4. Because they didn't want to. And one of the greatest of man's conceits is his idea that every woman does.

The second part of the story concerns the appreciation the older, unmarried women don't get:

THEY VISIT SICK

1. These women are the people who visit the sick. If you think they don't visit the sick more than anybody else does, ask t h e head nurse in some hospital, or the shut-ins down the street you haven't seen in several weeks.

2. They are the people who keep the family records. M a n y wives of 52 or so today would hardly know who Grandpa was if it hadn't been for unmarried sisters down the line who wrote things down, harbored the old photographs and clung to the family Bible.

3. They are the people who, with work, time and worrisome details, keep pumping life into everything the good DAR, the Red Cross, and a very large percentage of the good organizations in between. And many of them we wouldn't have, if they didn't.

4. They are the people who visit the cemetery to see that the graves are kept up. Do you?

5. With their presence and attention, they are the ones who are keeping Mama from resigning herself to an old folks home or running to the doctors.

6. They are the people who restore the washstands that washed the West, who collect the buttons and make the needlepoint.

7. They are the people who uphold, perhaps more effectively than anybody and certainly more than many of their preoccupied married sisters do, our concept of womanhood. They are fastidious. They are dignified. And they hold firmly to the perfume of being offended by a suggestive joke.

ANOTHER CHAPTER

And there is a third part to their story . . . the retirement part that they are now involved in.

And society has them backed into an embarrassing corner. Their employers can help themselves out of it.

Many of these women, though not all, have spent their adult years minimizing their age. At 30 a lot of them pass for 50. Now they are coming up to compulsory retirement, and everybody in the office or school knows the retirement age is 65. So if Miss Susie is retiring Miss Susie is 65.

Could the boss fix it so M i s s Susie is "resigning" instead of retiring?

Could he suggest, maybe in an office memo, that all women employees who made the girlhood mistake of falsifying their ages can come to the front office confidentially and straighten things out before they get in trouble with Social Security?

Could he raise the retirement age of all women to 65?

DESERONTO

Council Will Extend Sewer For Residents

DESERONTO — At the regular meeting of the town council held on Monday night all appointed members were present. There was no new business introduced but council took considerable time to deal with the correspondence . No committee reports were given.

J. W. Waterbury requested a deed to the property he purchased early in the year. Council approved that a by-law be prepared so that a deed may be given Mr. Waterbury.

A resident of Prince St., S. Embury thanked Council for repairing the side-walk in front of his property on that street.

A resident of Prince St.-S. Emgo for the extension of the storm sewer on Center St. evoked considerable discussion. Mr. McGregor explained the sewer extended sixty feet so that the home he is building could be connected to the same. The Chairman of the Street Committee seemed to feel that it should be extended 250 feet to include some other properties on that street. Mr. Weaver, one of the property owners concerned, objected because, as he said, he bought the lot on speculation and now was stuck with it. He wanted no further expense in connection with the lot because he did not intend to build on it and was having trouble disposing of it. On motion of Councilor Howard it was settled that the sewer be extended to accommodate Mr. McGregor.

CAN HOLD TAG DAY

As requested, the Canadian Legion was granted permission to hold its Poppy Tag Day on November 8th.

A number of local tradesmen requested a By-Law governing transient tradesmen and contractors and asked that a licence fee of $50 be charged such tradesmen. Council filed the letter for investigation.

A letter from the Chamber of Commerce regarding the Building By-Law was discussed at some length. It was revealed that there were three by-laws regarding building, the building inspector and fees for the inspector.

In reply to a question the inspector stated that he had received no fees and had done no work in that regard. The letter was filed for a report to be made at the next meeting of Council.

The Chamber of Commerce also asked that a committee be appointed to meet with their committee to discuss the installation of sewers in the town and see if the work could be done. Councillor Marks moved that the matter be referred back to the Chamber and they be asked to do some further investigating and report their findings to Council at a latter date.

A quotation was received from J. D. Dawson for the new tractor Council plans on purchasing. This was turned over to the Street Committee who are to bring in a recommendation at the next meeting.

A petition from the residents of Brant Street for the construction of a sidewalk from Thomas St. south to the woodyard was filed on motion of the Chairman of the Street.

Two By-Laws were passed. The first appointed the F. R. A. McFadden Co. as town auditors and the second authorized the completion of the agreement between the town and Donald C. Hubble.

ORDER AMALGAMATION

WINDSOR (CP) — The Ontario municipal board ruled Thursday that the town of LaSalle be annexed with Sandwich West Township, effective Jan. 1. The merger will boost the township's acreage by 2,900, its assessment by $18,740 and its population by 2,830. Any appeal against the board's ruling would have to be made in the next 28 days.

Surgeon Charged In Vancouver After Episode

VANCOUVER (CP)—A middle-aged Vancouver surgeon was remanded without plea Monday on a charge of operating a vessel while impaired following a bizarre episode in which would-be rescuers approaching a stranded yacht were fired on.

The accused, Dr. C. E. Battle, was remanded to Oct. 22 when he appeared in North Vancouver police court and released on his own recognizance. He was taken from his grounded yacht off Garrow Bay after being fired on by four armed RCMP officers.

RCAF air-sea rescue officials here said they began receiving distress calls from the yacht Fun Lee at 9:30 p.m. Sunday. A "drunken" voice said the yacht was on a reef in center harbor of Gambier Island, 30 miles northwest of Vancouver in Howe Sound, and was in danger of overturning. A water taxi located the yacht, but the crew left when they approached the Farnsaw they were greeted with shouts and curses. A gun then began shooting at the water taxi, crew members re-

Makarios Ready For Provisional Cyprus Govt.

ATHENS (Reuters) — Exiled Archbishop Makarios says he is ready to accept a provisional method of "genuine self-government" for Cyprus before independence.

The Greek Orthodox church and Greek Cypriot leader outlined a statement of "concession" and said there is no margin for other concessions. Makarios was exiled 2½ years ago for alleged complicity in terrorism in the Greek island.

He told a press conference: "If Britain would accept a period of seven years of genuine self-government before independence statute.

"If we agree on a final solution, intricate arrangements become of secondary importance and therefore I feel we should have any difficulty in reaching agreement. As I see it there should be genuine and democratic self-government with foreign affairs and defence left to British hands."

BRITISH PLAN UNWORKABLE

He said the British seven-year partnership political plan, which started yesterday in Nicosia this month, was unworkable — "particularly because it is not even conceivable."

Greece, Makarios and the Greek Cypriots have refused to take part in the British plan. Turkey, Greece and the Turkish Cypriots have accepted it.

Chiang's Regime Will Not Reduce Isles' Garrisons

Nationalists' Spokesman Gives Reply to Rumors

TAIPEI (AP)—Vice-President Chen Cheng said today the Chinese Nationalists will not reduce the strength of their garrisons on the offshore islands.

Chen told the newspaper Ta Hua (Great China) Evening News the Communist buildup in areas facing the islands is for purposes of offence. For this reason, he said, the Nationalist garrisons could not be cut.

Chen's statement came amid reports from Washington that the United States will press Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek to reduce the offshore islands garrisons.

The Nationalist, it is reported, will not consider any sizeable withdrawal unless the United States gives unequivocal promise of military intervention if the Reds attack the weakened outposts.

The United States has not been willing to do this as long as Chiang's supposed idea is to give Chinese forces more firepower so that they can attack the mainland and defend the islands with fewer troops.

ANNOUNCE IDEA

This presumably was urged by U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in two conferences with the Nationalist president Monday. Dulles flew to Taipei last night on a semi-official organized, continuous visit to the Far East and the offshore garrisons.

Nationalist officials continues to insist that the Communist will resume bootlilies when it suits them. They contend that the U.S. extended their cease-fire for two weeks because they had lost the battle of Quemoy, and that any reduction of the islands' garrisons would invert a Communist military defeat into a political victory.

Eight Convicted Of Slaying 43 Arab Villagers

JERUSALEM (Reuters)—Eight officers and men of Israel's frontier force have been convicted of first-degree murder for their parts in the massacre of 43 Arab villagers two years ago.

Seven have yet to be formally sentenced., but conviction on the charge carries a penalty of life imprisonment. The death punishment has been abolished in Israel.

They were accused of shooting down 43 men, women and children in Kafr Kassim, an Arab village close to the Jordanian border.

On Oct. 29, 1956, the day Israeli forces crossed into Sinai on the invasion of Egypt, a small number of men belonging to the frontier force arrived at Kafr Kassim to enforce a curfew on the Arabs. They were told to round up all the western approaches to the village and within an hour 43 men, women and children, returning to their homes unaware of the curfew.

Among those convicted was the officer in charge of the unit, Major Shmuel Malinki, 36, a veteran of the British Army and father of seven children.

Malinki, who was not present when the massacre was accused of issuing an illegal order to carry out the murders.

GOVTS. CONSIDER NEW SPLIT ON RESPONSIBILITY

Penal Changes Under Discussion at Parley

OTTAWA (CP)—Provincial and federal authorities responsible for law enforcement in Canada today consider details involved in a major revision of responsibility for a prison population of about 21,000.

As a two-day conference on penal changes opened Monday, the possibility of bringing more uniformity to sentences by Canadian courts also was considered.

Justice Minister Fulton told reporters.

Some thought was devoted as well to the length of sentences meted out by Canadian courts.

The attorneys-general or their representatives from all provinces are meeting with federal officials under Mr. Fulton to consider reforms in Canada's correctional system.

DISCUSS METHODS

Among items discussed at Monday's sessions were methods of bringing volunteer organizations provide care for prisoners after their release from prison.

A suggestion also was discussed for calling a conference of university representatives to study establishing university training for workers in the correctional field —many more of which will be required, if all the changes being considered are to be implemented.

Mr. Fulton said if general conference approval is obtained on reforms respecting Canada's correctional system, a committee will be established to work out implementation of the plans.

The conference accepted in principle a recommendation that the 1956 report of a committee on Canada's penal system, headed by Mr. Justice Ronald Fauteux of the Supreme Court of Canada, be published provided requested modifies for prisoners be revised.

DIVIDING LINE

The committee suggested that all persons sentenced to more than six months be brought under federal responsibility. Only prisoners in for two years or more now go to federal penitentiaries.

Mr. Fulton said the six-months dividing line could not be set exactly but that there was general agreement some change in this responsibility is necessary.

About 5,900 prisoners are in federal institutions and about 15,000 in provincial jails, about 1,500 of which would move into federal institutions if the responsibility were divided at six-months sentences.

If all the major recommendations in the Fauteux report are adopted, federal government has virtually accepted in full and which provincial authorities understood pretty generally to support—were implemented, Mr. Fulton said, that the cost over the next few years would run as high as $40,000,000 for the changes involved.

Predict Man Will Set Foot On Moon in Twelve Years

WASHINGTON (CP) — A prediction that man will set foot on the moon in 12 years and has opened the plunge to disintegration of a lunar-bound rocket that exploded apart at 40,000 miles' speed.

Maj.-Gen. John B. Medaris, U.S. Army missile chief, made the prediction Monday at a news conference at the national electronics conference in Chicago.

After calling the U.S. Air Force moon rocket a spectacular success, Medaris said the army is on schedule with a moon shot of its own. He said chances it will succeed are "pretty good" to get into the area of the moon.

He added that chances are 50-50 that the rocket, using a Jupiter ballistic missile for the first stage, will hit the moon itself.

Failure of the air force Pioneer missile, which disintegrated over the southwest Pacific South Pacific Monday after soaring to a record 79,130 miles, has been attributed to a three-degree error in trajectory.

Word from the Cape Canaveral, Fla., launching site of the Pioneer is that another moon rocket try will be made between Nov. 1 and Nov. 11, when the moon is closest to the earth—some 222,000 miles. Unofficial word is that the army may make its bid in December or January.

Greatest achievement of the Pioneer, Medaris thought, was its complete penetration of the shell of radiation surrounding the earth. Early reports indicate, he said, that most intense radiation was met at 10,000 miles; with successively decreasing radiation till after 70,000 miles.

A successful moon rocket will have to speed aloft a bit faster than Pioneer's formidable speed.

A leading U.S. astronomer, Dr. H. Levitt, said Monday 25 per cent of at a speed of 34,400 feet a second. This was 250 feet per second short of the velocity needed to shoot it out of earth's main gravitational pull.

Other scientists said the missile's speed was reduced because it was launched at a slightly steeper than the planned one.

CCF Suggests Conniving Between Diefenbaker, Bell

TORONTO (CP)—Two Ontario CCF leaders have suggested they may have been "conniving" between Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the Bell Telephone Company to permit a telephone rate increase.

Provincial leader Donald MacDonald and Thomas D. Thomas, member of the legislature from Ajax for Oshawa, made the suggestion Monday at the close of the party's provincial convention.

About 300 delegates unanimously approved a resolution condemning Ontario's Progressive Conservative government for its condemned eight other provinces in opposing the $17,000,000-a-year rate increase for Ontario and Quebec, awarded to Bell last Friday by the board of transport commissioners.

Mr. Thomas said last Friday's $18,000,000 "a year award" was disallowed by the federal government "because it was too embarrassing" before an election.

"Was there conniving between John Diefenbaker and Bell Telephone that the increase be held until after the election?" asked Mr. Thomas.

Provincial leader MacDonald added: "It will be interesting to see if the Bell rate increase is turned down this time."

Mr. MacDonal, a 34-year-old former teacher, was re-elected party leader by acclamation to the post he has held since 1951.

National CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell, honored as a guest speaker Saturday night, called for a Com-

Name Madagascar a Republic To Stay in French Community

TANANARIVE, Madagascar (AP) — The local assemblies of this French island possessions off Africa today proclaimed Madagascar a republic but decided that it will remain a member of the French community.

The decision was met in congress here in the capital.

The decision means that Madagascar becomes hereafter as the Malgache Republic—will be self-governing for internal affairs.

The supervising body to be formed by France will consist principally will control foreign relations, defence, finance and certain political, educational and cultural matters.

The decision was no surprise. It came in the framework of President Charles de Gaulle's plan for the French colonial empire.

It was the second change in France's overseas possessions since the Gaullist government took office. Guinea, on the west coast of Africa, voted overwhelmingly against the new French constitution and became an independent state.

Besides, Madagascar did not go that far, the proclamation of the Malgache Republic ended an autonomous first step toward eventual complete independence granted by de Gaulle during his trip through France's African possessions last August.

Madagasca the fourth island in the world at 228,000 square miles, lies 240 miles off southeast Africa in the Indian Ocean. The French established a protectorate over the island in 1896 and declared it a colony in 1896. In 1947 the French army

Blast Blows Open Elevator Doors On Five Floors

KINGSTON (CP)—An explosion in an elevator shaft at the Hotel Dieu Hospital Sunday night blew open the elevator doors on all five floors and shattered glass in the doors.

No one was injured. No one was using the main lobby floor at the time.

Hospital officials said the explosion appeared to be a one-inch diameter gas pipe that runs up the elevator shaft.

Former Cabinet Minister Dies

MONTREAL (CP) — Hon. Ernest Bertrand, 69, wartime federal minister of fisheries and former Quebec provincial general, died Saturday night.

He had been puisne Justice in the Appeal Court of Quebec from 1949 until he retired in 1955 for reasons of health.

He was first elected to the House of Commons as Liberal member for Montreal-Laurier in the general election of 1940 and was re-elected in 1940, 1945 and 1949. In 1945 his majority was the greatest in Canada.

Liberals Name New Leader

FREDERICTON (CP) — Louis J. Robichaud, 35-year-old Richibucto lawyer, Saturday was elected leader of the New Brunswick Liberal party on the third ballot.

The final ballot pitted Mr. Robichaud against A. Wesley Stuart of St. Andrews, former Charlotte County commons member, whose surprise entry at the last minute brought to seven the number of candidates.

MORE CARDINALS ARRIVE IN ROME TO ELECT POPE

Late Pontiff Buried In Crypt of Basilica

VATICAN CITY (CP) — Requiem services for Pope Pius XII continued today before a symbolic coffin in "Peter's Basilica as more cardinals arrived to elect his successor.

The late pontiff the Roman Catholic Church was buried Monday in the grottos beneath St. Peter's. An empty coffin was placed in the church for mourning masses that continue through Sunday.

The titular bishop of Adana, Msgr. Diego Venini, stepped before the coffin in the Chapel of the Thorns and celebrated the day's mass.

Only the Sistine Chapel choir, members of the personnel of the basilica and a small number of priests were allowed in the chapel for the mass.

Outside the chapel gate, in the main portion of the basilica, were only a few hundred visitors, in contrast to the millions who had filled through since last Saturday to see the pontiff's body and to join in requiem services.

Most of those today were groups of pilgrims and tourists from abroad.

DIPLOMATS RECEIVED

Earlier in the morning the entire diplomatic corps accredited to the Holy See was received in private audience of Cardinals in the Vatican's Consistory Hall.

The envoys presented formal uniforms with black mourning bands. Their spokesman, the papal nuncio Ambassador Joseph Kripp, expressed the mourning of the entire colony to Cardinal Tisserant, the dean of the College of Cardinals, replied.

Also to the Cardinal Tisserant, dean of the College of Cardinals, replied.

MISSING

All but two of the 56 cardinals presently will be here for the beginning of Oct. 23 to elect a new pope. The two who will not be here are Cardinal Stepinac of Yugoslavia and Josef Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary.

The Vatican newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano, urged prudence restraint and caution in discussing the next conclave. Comment and speculation about who might be elected in turning the meeting of the College electoral assembly, the paper complained.

There is no clear favorite as of present.

The dead pontiff was laid to rest in a humble crypt of the basilica only a few feet from the tomb of the first Pope—the apostle Peter.

FINAL RITES

Crimson-coated cardinals, prelates in robes of black and white, courtiers and three score diplomats gave the rich renaissance uniforms performed the final solemn rites.

Dead silence fell on the vast church as the body, clad in white vestments brought from sight into the crypt to lie with the remains of Pius' predecessors. The Vatican band was not open to the public.

The lead outer coffin bore the Latin inscription: "The body of Pope Pius XII. He lived 82 years, seven months and seven days. He ruled over the universal church for 19 years, seven months and seven days. He died on Oct. 9, 1958."

Among the 22 cardinals present was Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal.

Jewish Temples in Peoria, Illinois, And Atlanta, Georgia, Are Bombed

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—A crude bomb exploded early today in a Jewish temple early today following an outside explosion that pocked a shattered several windows in the three-storey structure.

Damage to the rear annex of the Anshai Emeth Temple was "very small" by Rabbi Joseph Glasberg, who serves the 300-member congregation. No one was in the temple or annex at the time and there were no injuries.

"Nothing like this has ever happened here before and I'm sure with the community has always been very good."

Robert Briscoe, former Jewish lord mayor of Dublin, is scheduled to address gathering of the Agudas Achim Synagogue in Peoria tonight, but Rabbi Glasberg said he did not see any connection between the Briscoe appearance and the bombing.

However, police immediately guarded around the synagogue, which was dedicated last June.

Today's bombing was the fifth such incident in the United States since mid-March.

A large dynamite explosion in Atlanta on Sunday caused an estimated $200,000 damage to the Temple, home of the Hebrew Benevolent Congregation.

Temple Beth El in Miami, Fla., and the Nashville, Tenn., Jewish Community Centre were damaged by dynamite blasts on March 16. A Jacksonville, Fla., synagogue and a Negro school were dynamited on April 26 and an attempt was made to blow up Birmingham, Ala., temple. That attempt failed when a fuse went out.

None of the bombings has been solved.

Bitter Algerian Officers Obey De Gaulle Order

Quit 'Safety' Groups As Free Vote Pledged

ALGIERS (AP) — French army officers today reluctantly and in some cases bitterly obeyed Premier Charles de Gaulle's orders to get out of politics in Algeria, forever.

The orders came down through the Algerian commander, Gen. Raoul Salan, who was himself a leading figure in the rightwing army coup of May 13 in Algeria, which brought de Gaulle to power.

Maj.-Gen. Jacques Allard, acting on Algeria commissar of public safety walked out this morning after explaining de Gaulle's orders to the civilian members.

De Gaulle's orders spread consternation among the committees which has held wide powers over areas of army participation. The premier's order was designed to insure impartial parliamentary elections in Algeria without army interference in politics.

De Gaulle ordered the army to stop playing politics in the rebellious ten-born North Africa area. The army has supported European settlers who dominate political life there with their opposition to Algerian independence.

The premier's order appeared aimed at thwarting hopes of European extremists of military army help in the campaigning, for the referendum next month. The referendum were believed planning to put up pliable Moslems as candidates.

NEW PROGRAM

In presenting a program to improve Algeria economically, de Gaulle promised Oct. 3 that Algerian Moslems would get 45 of Algeria's 66 seats in the new French national assembly. About 10 per cent of the Algerian population is Moslem.

The premier said in a letter Monday to Gen. Raoul Salan, French commander in Algeria, that the Algerian people must demand an election with "absolute freedom and sincerity and that lists representative of all tendencies of a say and participate in it allowed concurrently and equally to solicit the suffrage of the electorate."

The premier's instructions were in sharp contrast to army conduct in the referendum last month on the constitution of the Fifth French Republic. The army had barred all campaigning against the constitution by Algerian politicians who dominate political life here with their opposition to Algerian independence.

IGNORED BY DE GAULLE

The committee and smaller local ones rose to effective control of Algeria in the May 13 uprising that resulted in de Gaulle's return to power. He has ignored them ever since, letting them wither on the vine.

The big central committee for Algeria and the Sahara met in a special meeting to study the premier's order and to set up a new committee to replace the military members. They left 15 minutes after it started.

A joint chairman of the group was Brig.-Gen. Jacques Faure, a paratrooper. He and a group of colonels who also served on the committee worked closely with the Lachard stillers.

BIG IMPACT EXPECTED

The formation of the withdrawal of the officers from the committees was bound to be a severe blow to the backbone of the committees in all parts of the country.

"We don't want to make political careers," said one officer. "All we want is to ensure French continuation in Algeria." That was in accord with reason for the uprising last May. Many of the officers were members of de Gaulle's government, Algeria would be lost under pressure of the Algerian rebellion.

POLIO DEATHS DOWN

LONDON (Reuters)—Only half as many Britons died from acute polio in the first quarter of 1958 than in the same periods of 1956 and 1957, a government report showed today. There were 82 in the quarter totalled 12 compared with 28 and 26 in 1956 and 1957 respectively.

$250,000 Fire At Belle River

BELLE RIVER, Ont. (CP)—Fire raged out of control in the town 20 miles east of Windsor and caused damage estimated at $250,000.

Firemen fought the fire for more than two hours before the elevator and two adjoining warehouses burned to the ground.

One fireman was slightly burned when he was hit in the face by melted tar from a roof.

The elevator and warehouses were filled with corn and soybeans. A grain dryer and a seed corn dryer were also lost.

DONALD TROUPE
Tweswater

Stricken with a heart seizure while in his sleep, Donald Troupe, son of Mrs. Eleanor Weiss of Tweswater, and the late Alfred Troupe, died suddenly Monday at the Ontario School for the Deaf.

He had been a student at the school for the past seven years and had apparently been in his usual health prior to going to bed Sunday evening. He was found dead in his bed when he came home before going to school.

Born at Tweswater 18 years ago he is survived by four brothers, Joseph, Carl, Alfred and Douglas, and one sister Doris.

RODERICK McLEAN MITCHELL

Suffering a heart attack in his sleep, Roderick McLean Mitchell, 105 Bridge St. East, died suddenly at his home early this (Tuesday) morning.

He was born at Bowmanville, 75 years ago, being the son of the late John D. and Sarah Ann Mitchell, and has resided in this city for the past 50 years. He received his early education in Bowmanville and entered the College of Pharmacy from which he graduated as a druggist. In 1903 he opened a drug store in his native town and conducted the same until 1934. While operating a drug store Mr. Mitchell studied optometry and after selling his business he moved to this city and for a number of years conducted an Optometry business on Bridge Street East.

Mr. Mitchell was well known and highly respected among his fellow merchants in the city and by a wide circle of personal and intimate friends. He was a member of Bridge Street United Church and also was the senior of the congregation.

Surviving are his wife, the former Agnes Lyle and one son, Murray Mitchell of Toronto. Another son, Roy, died in 1942.

Resting at the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home, 60 Victoria Avenue, Church St. S. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MISS LENORA SIMONDS

Miss Lenora Simonds, 13 Queen Street, Belleville, died suddenly at Belleville General Hospital, this Tuesday morning. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Allen Simonds and resided in Belleville for some time, previously having lived in Brockville.

A member of Bridge Street United Church, Miss Simonds was quite active in her church. She is survived by two nieces, Mrs. A. G. Lange of Chicago, Illinois, and Mrs. E. R. Dalrymple of Belleville.

Resting at Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Chapel, 38 Everett St. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

MRS. JAMES FRANKLIN YOUNG

Mrs. Adeline M. Young, of 27 Forin street, Belleville, died suddenly at her home Sunday evening last. Born in Colborne, Ontario the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Scott, she was predeceased by her husband James Frank-lin Young. She was a resident of Belleville the past twenty-five years, previously living in Deseronto.

A member of Bridge Street United Church she was an active life member of Women's Missionary Society, and was a great worker in her church. She was also a member of the Women's Auxiliary of the Deseronto United Church.

She is survived by two daughters, Frances (Fay) and Daisy, both at home; four sisters, Mrs. R. H. (Bertha) Turner of Burlington, Mrs. E. (Louisa) Yates of Toronto, Mrs. Charles (Ethyl) Thompson of Napanee, and Mrs. A. (Eva) Orr of Hamilton; and twelve nieces and nephews.

Resting at the Grant Funeral Home, 68 North Front street. Service arrangements appear elsewhere in this edition.

Many Services Provided by Red Cross Society

Meeting the emergency needs of disaster victims by providing food, shelter, clothing and bedding, is one of the many services provided by the Belleville and district branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

This service along with many others provided by the local branch of this humanitarian, humanitarian organization, is given free-of-charge to Belleville citizens and residents of Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

The Belleville and district branch's most widely used and practical service is the Loan Cupboard, which provides the loan of hospital beds, wheel chairs, crutches, walkers, and such to those in need of these articles.

Also ranking high on the list of services given by the Local Red Cross branch is the blood donor service inaugurated early this year. The free-of-charge blood transfusion service was set up with the co-operation of the Belleville General Hospital and with the assistance of approximately 500 volunteer Red Cross donors.

Another valuable service aimed at maintaining a family's unity and stability during a mother's illness is the Home Maker Service. With this service the homemaker enters the home and takes over the mother's duties. This allows the wage earner to remain at work and the children to attend school.

PROVIDES RELIEF

The Welfare Service is another of the many services provided by the Red Cross. It is designed to provide relief of hardship and suffering where assistance is not available from any other agency, and to meet emergencies which arise of short duration.

The need for civilian clothing and hospital supplies is met by the Women's Work Committee of the Canadian Red Cross Society. The demand for local, national, and international assistance keeps these volunteer workers busy knitting and sewing the year-round.

Other services provided by the Canadian Red Cross Society include the Junior Red Cross with a membership of 603,000 children in Canada; 127 branches in Ontario alone, home nursing classes, water services, first aid services and assistance to Canada Hospitals and Veterans' Hospitals.

The Belleville and district branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society is a participating agency in the Belleville United Appeal.

IN MEMORIAM

WELLMAN. — In loving memory of our mother, Ellen Wellman, who died one year ago today October 14th, 1957.
A wonderful mother, woman and friend.
One who was better God never made;
A wonderful worker—so loyal and true.
One in a million—mother was you.
Lovingly remembered by her daughter Loved by your friends, all you knew.
A wonderful mother—mother was you.
Sadly missed and ever remembered by her daughter Lorne and daughter-in-law Goldie.

FLEMING. — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Emma Fleming, who passed away October 14th, 1956.
The depths of sorrow we cannot tell
For the loss of one we loved so well.
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep
Her memory we shall always keep.
Sadly missed by her son Ray, his wife Isabel, Richard and family.

ROSS. — In loving memory of Harry Knolton Boyce, who died October 14th, 1957.
I have lost my most kind companion,
I have lost my own dear friend,
And all I do I miss him more,
As I walk through life alone.
Forever remembered by wife and family.

MARK. — In loving memory of my dear mother, who passed away October 14th, 1957.
My dear Dad, on October 23rd, 1957.
If I had all the world to give,
And all the world to live,
I'd give your voice, and your smile
And greet you at my door.
But all I can do is visit Mother and Dad,
Is go and tend your graves,
And leave behind tokens of love.
Lovingly remembered and Dad ever sadly missed.
I like to think when life is done,
Heaven opens wide its door,
There will be standing at the door,
Up there, Mother and Dad.
Up there, reunited and sadly missed by your daughter Rose and grandchildren.

REMARK. — In loving memory of a dear mother, who passed away October 14th, 1942, and a dear father, Charles Remark, who passed away October 23rd, 1951.
From this world of pain and sorrow
To the land of peace and rest,
God has taken you, dearest mother,
Up above to be forever blest.
Sadly remembered by Albert, Pat and children.

Widow Gets New Trial on Murder Count

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Plump, soft-spoken Dorothy Lyles, convicted and sentenced to die for poisoning her 12-year-old daughter, awaited word from her lawyers today on chances for a new trial.

A jury Monday night convicted the 33-year-old widow of murder. She immediately filed notice of appeal and this automatically stayed the date of execution—which had been set for Dec. 5.

Mrs. Lyles also is accused by the state of poisoning two husbands and a mother-in-law with arsenic. She was tried only in the death of her nine-year-old daughter, Marcia Elaine Lyles.

She said she received only $1,750 from insurance while her expenses, including hospital bills, special nurses and burial, totalled $2,000. She maintained she did not kill her child. The state charged that she murdered for hate and greed.

Report of the By-laws Committee

R. Perry, Secretary

A battered safe and stolen truck which had run out of gas were left on a street in Brighton last Sunday morning after thieves had broken into the town's post office about five blocks from the above scene. The robbers nearly tore the side of the safe off by using sledge hammers. They netted about $330 in cash, several hundreds of dollars in stamps and some registered letters. In the smaller photo damage to the side door of the Brighton post office can be seen. This is where the thieves gained entry to the building. (Photo by Georgeson.)

Brighton Post Office Safe Taken by Thieves, Smashed And Cash and Stamps Stolen

TRENTON — Thieves broke into the post office of nearby Brighton early Sunday morning and made off with the 600-pound safe which contained about $330 in cash, several hundred dollars' worth of postage and unemployment insurance stamps, and the registered letters which were being kept there.

The thieves loaded the safe onto a truck they had stolen the same morning from W. McMaster, who lives only a short distance from the post office. The break-in was discovered by Golden Langdon, who had picked up the mail and was bringing it to the post office.

It is believed it would require at least three men to handle the large safe and to load it on the ½-ton panel truck which had been parked behind another building about 50 yards away.

BROKE SIDE DOOR

The thieves gained entrance to the building by forcing a side door, tearing off a large piece of the inside framework. On the outside the marks of a pinch bar which had been forced in near the lock could be plainly seen. After getting in the robbers rolled the safe (which was on wheels) from its place beside the postmaster's desk, to a small hallway and down about four steps to the outside door they had broken. They pushed it across the cement driveway of the post office building, along a path behind the library and to the truck they had waiting.

Marks on the floor of the office and on the driveway gave evidence of this.

After they had loaded the safe into the truck it is believed they drove around to the main street, turned west and then only a few blocks from the scene turned right and up to the street known as the "Back Road."

When they arrived in front of the home of Ross Phillips the truck they had stolen ran out of gas and they were forced to stop.

BROKE INTO SAFE

At this point, and apparently desperate, they unloaded the safe in the middle of the road with the heavy door facing skyward and less than 200 yards from the nearest homes. They then went to work on the safe with heavy sledge-hammers, and perhaps, crowbars, breaking the entire side of the safe away from the door.

It is believed they pried open the smaller doors inside the safe and made off with the money, stamps and registered mail. They left papers, blank postal notes and stamped envelopes scattered around the scene.

They also left the broken safe and gaslen truck blocking half the road. It was discovered by Ross Phillips who immediately called the Brighton Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Mr. McMaster, the owner of the stolen truck, told police that according to the speedometer of the vehicle it had travelled less than a mile. He also said he had meant to fill the gas tank on Saturday night but had left it, planning to do it on Sunday.

HEARD NOISE

Only one person heard the pounding during the early hours of the morning but thought it was someone repairing a tire.

Also on the scene after the safe had been discovered was Cpl. William Baluk, identification officer for No. 3 District of the Ontario Provincial Police. The corporal is stationed in Cobourg. He examined the stolen truck and safe looking for fingerprints.

The postmaster of the Brighton office, Will Pound, was called when the robbery was discovered and later in the morning called in the members of the staff in seeking to determine the amount of stamps, etc., which were lost.

It is also understood that a post office inspector was down to assist in the investigation.

The Brighton post office was built in 1938 and the weekend robbery marks the fourth time it has been broken into since then. The last burglary was about nine years ago.

It is the third robbery within the past few weeks in areas around Trenton. The first was the bank hold - up at Hastings when three men held up the manager and staff and made off with over $4,000. The second was also in three men who held up a farmer and his son on their farm near Frankford.

Police gave no indication if they thought all the robberies could have been by the same trio.

Picket Vessel Loading Nickel

MONTREAL (CP)—A group of miners from Sudbury set up a picket line this morning around a merchant ship loading nickel taken from the strike-bound International Nickel Company of Canada mine at Sudbury.

The men arrived here from an overnight drive from Sudbury and set up their line before normal harbor work started.

Jack Gemmell, executive officer of of the striking International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Can.) local 598, said he expected longshoremen's union members would respect the line thrown around the freighter Birmingham City.

A small wooden box containing a few dollars in dimes, nickles and pennies (above) was found in a field about four miles from Trenton on the Wooler Road, Saturday morning by hunter Sam Ellis of Bay Street Trenton. Provincial Police detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police are investigating. Two shovels, a pick and a lantern were also found beside the box of coins. (Photo by Georgeson.)

Hunter Finds Box of Coins, Number of Tools

TRENTON — A small wooden box containing about $8 in dimes, nickles and pennies was found in a field near the Wooler Road last Saturday morning by Sam Ellis while he was out hunting partridge with a friend.

Mr. Ellis said the box was lying on the ground near a sort of a hole in the field. Beside the box of money were two shovels, a pick, a lantern and a can of kerosene and all items appeared to have been there for some time.

The box was found on the property of Harry Murray on the Wooler Road and about four miles from Trenton. The "treasure" was about 400 yards from the road and out in the field. The box was made of plywood with a large clasp for a lock and was about six inches by six inches in size.

On his return to Trenton, Mr. Ellis informed the town police of his find and they notified the Brighton Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, which is investigating.

Police officials made no comment on the possibilities of there being any connection between the money in the box and the safe which had been taken from town parking meters two months ago.

Also in the box was a quantity of the large type of wood-en matches. The coins appear a little tarnished around the edges but did not feel damp when touched.

Incidentally Mr. Ellis was not successful in his hunt for partridge.

Four Shaken Up As Auto Upset On Highway 33

TRENTON — Four Trenton people had a narrow escape from injury Sunday afternoon when the car in which they were driving went out of control and turned over in the ditch on Highway 33 near Currying Place.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Baker of 31 Marmora Street and two other passengers, one a 91-year-old lady, received only a shaking-up in the mishap.

According to police reports, Mr. Baker, who was driving the car, was attempting to pass another vehicle going the same way when he was forced to take to the ditch. It was going off the road which caused the car to overturn. The car was not travelling fast. Estimated damage was $200.

Constable Lorne Stinson of the Brighton Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police investigated. The mishap occurred about 2.30 p.m.

In Trenton, traffic over the holiday weekend was comparatively light and only a few minor mishaps on town streets were reported.

FALL

It was the morning after the last day of the World Series, but we refuse to believe that that had anything to do with it. The fading of flowers, the cawing of crows; the leaching of color from leaves, the gathering of geese and the ways of the fishes, how they feed and spawn - - all these things may give Mother Nature a nudge along the pathway of the year but we doubt whether any group of men batting a ball around ever caused her to turn a single leaf.

It just happened that the time had come, that day after the end of the World Series, so Nature stepped into town in fall's garb. Probably she had been wandering through the district for many days, changing her garments, but she moves at different paces in town and country and many city-dwellers had not noticed that she was wending her way here.

Of course it may be argued that there are really no seasons in the city. The sun shines brighter or the wind blows with more bite, but the only seasonal change takes place in that part of the city which is in it but yet not of it, those little corners which are countryside transplanted within the brick and stone and wood framework of the town.

In cities like Belleville, though, these corners are so numerous that fall's arrival is evident once it has occurred, though the eye may have overlooked the signs of approach which would be too numerous to miss in the countryside.

Here, on the morning after the end of the World Series, was a day which none could mistake as belonging to summer. Overnight all the trees were yellow and the leaves were tumbling about in their dance of death. The sluggish waters of the Moira reflected the brown grasses where, at other seasons, white water has tumbled. The rains came out of a grey sky and summer was no more than a memory.

Melancholy days they have been called, these days of fall, but melancholy they are not to those in attune with them. There is a sense of life, of movement, which is missing in the heat of summer, when the world seems to stand still under a blue sky and to be doomed to know no more change.

The first fall day, though, the scene changes almost before one's eyes. Between the morning rush to work and the evening stroll home there are trees which have had some of their fingers bared to the bone. And during the day the sky has been constantly changing, disappearing in the mist of falling rain, lightening with the probing of the sun, darkening with the approach of a new front.

There are but two places to be on days like these - - at home snug before a fire, shutting out the life without, or afield where the rain can dribble off hat brims and the wind can pinch with a promise of the frosty bite it will bring tomorrow.

Neither place is a bad one and in either place, as the poet says, each may "find, as in a mirror, what he brings, if not too blind."

The mirror of the outdoors demands some affinity with nature and this comes in many ways. It is the cherished gift of some, but not all, poets and, perhaps paradoxically, of some, but not all, hunters. The child may have it but not recognize the fact; if the aged possess it they are probably acutely aware of this and spice the sensations of today with memories of other years in similar surroundings.

It takes the suddenly yellow leaves, the leaden skies, to provide a break from the shine of the sun and the even blue of summer sky and green of summer field. But after that first day, fall may assume many guises. There will be days when the sun and sky shine again and the grass tries to recapture the green hue of days past, days when the whole world will be wrapped in a golden haze and finally, before the winter whiteness descends, the land will lie still, clad in browns, still and dead and yet promising. What sounds there are will not be lost, as in summer's multitudinous offering, but will stand out sharp and clear. The chatter of a squirrel hoarding nuts, the bay of a hound on a distant hill, the cluck of a partridge in a spruce, the honk of geese high and free above the hilltops, the moaning of a lost breeze in high branches, the creak of bare limb on bare limb in the lofty elm, even the patter of a rabbit hurrying through dead leaves along the hedgerow - - all these will be heard.

JUST FOLKS

BUST
By EDGAR A. GUEST

I am a busy man; you see
I have a suit of blue.
I have no time to think of rhyme
Nor meet my bills past due.

It matters not where I may go,
Nor e'en what I may do;
All dust and dirt, I here assert,
Sticks to my suit of blue.

And so I am a busy man,
With whisk broom never through;
Each hour I stand, with brush in hand,
And sweep my suit of blue.

I even dreamed of it last night;
Methought a man came to
My sleeping room and grabbed my broom
But spurned my suit of blue.

"Oh, spare my broom but take my suit,"
I cried, it seemed so true.
He answered: "No, the broom will go;
I have a suit of blue."

And then I woke up in affright
To think what men will do
In midnight gloom to get a broom
To clean a suit of blue.

Want a Good Used Mink?

By Richard T. Maddam in the Wall Street Journal

A black limousine purred up to a midtown Manhattan shop not long ago, and waited while a stunningly dressed woman hurried inside with a $600 cocktail dress tucked under her arm. A few days later, a fur shop secretary walked out of the shop with the identical frock priced at a bewitching $60.

The elegant gown had passed from the limousine owner to the secretary by way of a busy second-hand fur shop "that specializes in reselling costly, but slightly worn, clothes to ladies with somewhat smaller bargain-basement budgets.

The place bears such names as the Ritz Thrift Shop in New York, the French Poodle in Washington, and the Wardrobe Resale Shop in Dallas. Sellers of the glamorous cast-offs include the wives of Texas oilmen, Wall Street financiers and foreign diplomats; purchasers may be budding actresses, model agency buyers and other fashion-conscious women who love smart and beautiful things but can't afford to buy them new.

"We do what dealers in used Cadillacs do," says Michael, the handsome owner of Resale Associates on New York's Madison Avenue. "We take used models off customers' hands so they can buy new ones, and resell them to buyers who want nice things but can't afford original prices."

Jayne Greenhall says she also resells used furs, lingerie, pocketbooks, shoes and jewelry at a fraction of their original cost. She accepts everything on consignment, puts a price on it that includes a 40% mark-up on up and cuts its price by 20% if it isn't sold within 60 days. Customers may either buy outright and assume all the risk of selling themselves.

Shopkeepers claim their customers have no antipathy to "used" clothes. "Most of them, if they did," says Jayne Greenhall, "think you're crazy to open any store." Still other shop owners attempt to build up the idea in their customers' minds that they handle nothing but the finest clothes at Baghdad bazaar prices.

Although used clothiers attempt to run their businesses with the most respectable decorum, embarrassing moments do occur. The story is told about one cafe society playboy who was lavishing gifts on his name and rather wealthy wife. One of his presents was a used mink coat he purchased at a resale shop for $2,000. But his bride didn't like it, so she resold it to the shop on Third Avenue furrier whose name was on the label. The furrier said the mink was originally purchased at his shop, but noted that it was worn by another wife and not by the lady's husband. Perhaps, he suggested, the gentleman may have found this coat in a resale shop. The playboy in this story are no longer man and wife.

Michael, who formerly did market research for Macy's Manhattan's R. H. Macy & Co., Inc., and prefers to shroud his last name in secrecy, says his June sales were triple those of a year ago. He won't say how much profit Michael, "that I've cut out my July advertising in the hope that fewer people will come into my shop."

Mrs. Florence Barry, wife of movie executive, started her Encore Resale Dress Shop in New York as a hobby in 1954. Her original investment totalled only $600. Now she has annual sales, she says, now run "well up in six figures." Mrs. Barry prefers to do business with New Yorkers, but she says customers sometimes call with the pink - and - charcoal - decorated shop from South Africa, London and Paris.

Wealthy women with expensive clothes to sell are quite numerous, second-hand clothiers insist, and their supply is easily replenished. One New York fashion designer tells a friend her designer who secretly and frequently unloads her wardrobe because she doesn't want the same dress too often, and the wife of a Texas millionaire cleans out her closets about twice a year, "just for kicks."

Jayne Greenhall says that when the Wardrobe Resale Shop in Dallas first opened, the curious were executive's wives who sell them to get spending money. "One woman came in with a perfectly beautiful, but expensive suit," she says, "and sold it on the spot because her husband wouldn't let her wear it. 'You look like hell in that thing.'"

Monty Knew His Faults

Detroit Free Press

The men who fought World War II can feel a little more humble after Montgomery. For the last of the great names among the allied leadership has been retired from active duty.

At 70, age has retired Field Marshal Viscount Bernard Law Montgomery, he of the beret, the Desert Fox, the General Sir victory at El Alamein, from his post as NATO Deputy Supreme Commander.

Of all the men of the allied high command who took active leadership in battle, none was more controversial than Monty, as Monty was. In fact, a great deal like many of the generals of World War I. He was able to win a battle, but seldom hurried on to gain the advantage of victory. He was isted on a "tidy" disposition of his troops, preferring to become "tidy" put brakes on opportunity.

Not that Monty didn't recognize his own shortcomings. When the British government praised the Marshal after the fighting was done, Montgomery replied: "I know my own faults very well and I do not suppose I am any more subordinate. . . But you have kept me on the rails."

To those who argued Monty's merits and demerits, and that included the men as well as the generals, his achievement and the fact that he was the only general of the World War II greats still in uniform — is sure to be a jolt.

Why People Live in North

Fort William Times-Journal

"Tell me," snapped the lawyer from Toronto, "how you people live up here."

Perhaps he was over-tired and edgy from three days of traffic, tropical rain over Northern and Northwestern Ontario's vast lakes and forests, and the constant day-and-night round of hospitality. In any case the Toronto man entertaining the party were somewhat taken aback at the blunt question. He pondered for why they live here — by choice, in fact. For the answer is not the most all of us could make a living in the crowded eastern centres if we really had to. "We live here" because we prefer to; because we find it comfortable living because, to most of us, we've got everything "up here."

We live at a few minutes driving distance to our work — not hours; we can drive to lunch at noon; we are not all nerve-frayed and tired out when we get home from work or return home after hunting or fishing — no commuter traffic; we can own summer homes on scores of beautiful lakes within comfortable driving distance of home and even commute back and forth to work from them during the summer months; we can still take the family for a Sunday drive without being caught in hopelessly congested traffic.

Tell us, Mr. Torontonian, "how you people ever live down there!"

The PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Most of those romances which are to come to their climax next June in weddings are about to commence. It will be this fall, in the social activities of such things that are already under way, as well as in the intimacy forced upon us by our Canadian winter, when we are indoors so much, with little else to do but gaze into one another's eyes, that the romances will ripen.

Naturally, I am a little more inclined to address my warnings to the young males rather than to the young ladies now venturing into this perilous period of the year. But I have lately been observing some of those who have passed through the happy valley and are now young married couples, and I am quite tipped off the girls to one very important point, to wit, food.

Is he a picky eater? Is he a hearty eater? Watch him. In the restaurants he takes you to, does he bury his nose in the menu to sniff and fret and moan? Or does he look around at the food and order any old thing? Is he fond of home cooked food? Or will one of those ready-cooked plates out of the supermarket freezer 'o?

Observe him at the breakfast table. When you get the ring, girls, keep your eye on his appetite.

Shooting It Out

Woodstock Sentinel-Review

Shooting all the politicians and diplomats in the world would bring permanent peace, but it would be a long drawn-out process, as those who shoot them would take their places and others would have to take them, and so on.

Russian Tots Learn English

Fort William Times-Journal

Opinions vary among educators as to the best age for children to start learning a foreign language. In schools in the Soviet Union children normally begin learning a foreign language at the age of 10 or 11 years.

This year, however, an experiment in language teaching for pre-school children is being made in a kindergarten in the city of Barnaul, south of Novo Sibirsk in Central Asia. Over a period of nine months the children have learned sufficient English words and phrases to be able to ask and answer questions and have even written a play in English based on the story of the "Three Little Pigs." They are taught the language as a kind of game instead of a serious lesson.

The Barnaul experiment is being extended, and it is planned to start to take year to start teaching German on the same lines to children in kindergartens.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

JUST BE KIND

I have been thinking a great deal lately about the simple everyday virtues, but as call them — those things that become so much a part of an individual, like kindness, generosity, courage, patience and humility. And three words I think top them all. Here they are: Just be kind.

There is so much unkindness in the world. We need its opposite. How happy kindness makes us! Miracles have been wrought by it time and time again, and it hasn't wiped away so much bitterness and so much sorrow. There are too many heartaches in the world, and too much sorrow.

We do not need money to wipe these things away. People with millions experience the same as those who have next to nothing. On the other hand, I don't believe these kindly qualities you have wealth and affluence cannot buy.

An animal responds to kindness and I've seen many a dog or cat soften tough hearts by its very presence. Many a dog has sacrificed his own life to save that of his master — if that master was always kind. But if he wasn't that dog will wag his tail and be his friend and feed me and I'll always be grateful."

"Billy" Muldoon, the great athlete, once said it was surprising how greatly the human body reacted to just a little kindness. I've often wondered how it is that the body of ours can stand so much abuse. I think it must be severely endured.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN A LARGE ARTERY IS CUT

"Dear Dr. Molner: I cut an artery in my wrist. What happens to an artery after it is tied up? I also cut some nerves leading to my finger, leaving a numb feeling. It stays very cold most of the time because the blood is not circulating very well. — Mrs. D. V."

When a large artery is cut, it has to be tied to prevent further bleeding. The flow of blood is too rapid for a clot to form as is the case when a wound occurs elsewhere.

If the artery is an extremely large one, and if medical aid is available soon enough, then the vessel itself may be repaired. It is not an easy task, of course, to suture the artery so it will not leak. That is why I specify that a large artery can be repaired. If the large enough so the surgeon can handle it, and supply proper sutures. Lesser arteries may be so small that you simply can't work with them.

So what happens when the artery is simply tied off instead of repaired? The body contains an enormous network of blood vessels. If one artery is cut, the blood stream is carried by the arteries, but there are smaller vessels called veins. When an artery is shut off, the blood is diverted in greater quantity to these small vessels. Gradually they enlarge with use, and supply a substantial amount of blood past the point where the artery has been severed.

This is called "collateral circulation," and it is gradually established after a person has survived a heart attack. At first the flow of blood to the heart muscle is diminished by the blockage, but collateral circulation begins to develop gradually, and again the heart muscle gets sufficient blood supply.

The amount of collateral circulation varies, and if not enough develops, then certainly at least a part of the affected part — in your case the fingers/hands.

IN CASE OF NERVES

In the extremities (wrist, forearm, ankle, leg) the main arteries, veins and nerves are very close together, so it is not surprising that nerves as well as arteries may be cut. As to nerves, generally speaking it is possible to tie them together again, so that presently they grow together and resume action. If this is not done, the nerves do not succeed in re-establishing themselves and the symptoms, numbness, weakness and decreased size of the part involved may occur.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I would appreciate knowing the cause of anti-freeze on the oil. No one around here seems to know. — F. L. C."

It has no calorie value, as it is not absorbed as food. Sometimes however, that is a virtue, against using it too much, as it prevents too much absorption (not all) of the vitamins you need.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Could you write something regarding cure of the 'mobilization of the stapes'?

I have been given a 50-50 chance on this type of operation. Is it serious? I am actually scared to go through with it. — Mrs. G. J."

It is one of several types of ear operations, since the causes of nose bearing are various. As I said before, I would say that 50-50 is very low estimate — that is a poor chance. Your particular case may be more difficult than average. Your doctor, of course, is able to estimate your chances. But I'll say that I can't be operated on is afraid of. Delicate surgery, yes, because the tiny mechanism of the ear requires surgery as delicate as watch-repairing. But you have no cause to be afraid of anything except the chance that it may fail to restore hearing. It's a 50-50 chance of hearing, in the case, not a 50-50 chance of surviving. Quite a difference!

Lucky Break In Dim Past

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

Save for one fortuitous event millions of years ago, North America would be a vast desert lying on the same continent as Australia, with no ocean barriers to provide at least some illusion of security. That, at least, follows from the theory of Continental Drift German geophysicist Alfred Wegener in 1620, which has appeared to be accepted by as many scientists in the field as still reject it. The theory is that the earth is at least superficially plausible. When you take a globe and look at the coastline on opposite sides of the Atlantic, he can see that they fit together — "like amazingly well. So it looks reasonable to him that they were once united, that a great top-layer land mass some broke apart and the pieces drifted to basalt until the parts finally settled down in their present positions.

But there is plenty of opposition to this theory. The strongest faction says Antarctica contains non-arctic fossils; that certain rodents and primitive reptiles in Africa and South America are in support of similar fossils in Australia without assuming the t w o continents were joined at some point. The land-Wegener cohorts say the 10,000-foot layer of ice-cover in the Antarctic would never have accumulated since the time of mineral and vegetable life.

Furthermore, they argue, t h e process would have buckled the mountains of the Pacific side of the Americas, which just didn't happen. The answer to this, they say, is just a waste of time.

This is one subject on which the layman can have an opinion of his own, with as good a chance as being right as if he were an expert.

"In the world," Jesus told His disciples, "ye shall have tribulation." Jesus' sayings applies to everyone. We have never lived, no matter how rich or poor, healthy or sick, famous or unknown, everyone has had some kind of trouble or sorrow during his years on earth. This is true.

We cannot escape tribulation, but we can control our attitude toward it. Sooner or later, or both, trouble is going to come upon us and we must accept it. Resenting it will do no good; we can control our resentment. Resenting it will do no good; we might as well bring down, forget, despair, self-pity are equally useless — and worse than useless if

United Appeal Fund

Chairman Lewis Appeals For Success in Campaign

Fellow citizens, on Wednesday, October 15th, we officially open our financial campaign to raise $85,000, for nine charitable, benevolent and philanthropic agencies presently constituted in the Belleville United Appeal.

Will we do it? Of course we will.

This year's United Appeal is going to be a success. Make no mistake about it. You well may ask why we are so optimistic. There are many reasons to support this prediction.

In the first place this appeal is very different to previous appeals.

The greatest difference is that through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce and backed by service clubs and other organizations, a great proportion of industry and business trade and commerce have agreed to adopt the Payroll Deduction Plan for the coming year. This means far more subscriptions than ever before, and for larger amount spread over the year to make it easier for the more than 5,500 people in this group to do their share in giving the "United Way."

The Payroll Deduction Plan is of course the easiest way to contribute to the United Appeal. A few cents a week, the price of a pack of cigarets, or perhaps the price of a coke or cup of coffee each day.

We are also fortunate in having the backing of organized labor through the efforts of Mr. Don Burshaw head of the Belleville and District Labor Council, and also a director and vice-president of the Belleville United Appeal. Mr. Burshaw has received many letters from labor organizations endorsing our campaign including letters from Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Council, and George Meany, president of the AF of L and CIO.

Another factor is that two of Canada's national organizations namely the Canadian Institute for the Blind and the Canadian Red Cross Society have seen fit to join in the United Appeal for the first time this year. This now means one annual appeal for nine agencies, instead of three separate campaigns last year.

Possibly the greatest factor for success is the calibre of the citizens from all walks of life who have volunteered their time and services to make this campaign a success, many of whom have been working on it steadily since May 15th.

Never has the city been covered more completely than in this campaign and right now we have almost 1,000 chairmen, team captains and canvassers to carry out this work, all on a voluntary basis.

The amount of money we require is great and so is the need. It is largely because the individual campaigns of former years fell short of their objectives that this amount of $85,000 has to be raised now.

Here are four formulas for success. (1) Give in accordance with the suggested "fair share" giving on the pledge card. (2) Give one half of 1% of your earning. (3) How about a day's pay per year spread over the year as your "fair share" of giving? (4) Lump together what you gave to the old Community Chest, the Red Cross and the C.N.I.B., then double it. Any of these formulas will enable us with your help to reach our objective.

Canada is still a democracy and you as citizens still have the privilege of giving what you like, but whatever you do—give generously. This is your campaign for the people of Belleville.

A. S. LEWIS —
Campaign Chairman.

Belleville Cars Compete in District Rally

Thanksgiving weekend witnessed a small invasion of northern New York state by about one hundred Canadian motorsport enthusiasts as they competed or officiated in the sixth annual Thousands Islands Rally organized by the St. Lawrence Automobile Club. The rally course, which covered several hundred miles of eastern Ontario roads, saw competitors driving through the Quinte district early Saturday morning as the participants starting from Ottawa, Toronto, Montreal, and Kingston, converged on Kingston for their final common route leg.

Messrs. Jim Williamson, of 294 Newberry Street and Neville C. Davies, of 128 W. Moira Street, were the chief Belleville contenders for the Whig-Standard Trophy, which is awarded to the overall winners of the rally. Driving a new Triumph TR-3 sports roadster, the Belleville representatives were doing quite well until they attempted to prove that the quarter distance between checkpoint A and checkpoint B is a straight line. This experiment resulted in their encountering heavy road construction with a resultant loss of points and time consumed off the proper course.

Also competing from Belleville was Dr. Robert Allore, 276 Charles street, who was driving a Jaguar XK150MC "gran turismo" roadster, with Dr. Harold F. Williamson, of John Street, acting as navigator. Unfortunately this Belleville entry was forced out of the event Saturday morning when the automobile's rear springs collapsed on a particularly rough section of road.

James H. Graham, 365 Front street, was organizer of the rally, which concluded on Sunday. A Concure d'Elegance, a driving skill test, and a banquet were all a part of Sunday's activities. These were held in the Alexandria Bay, N.Y. area.

Also participating as officials on the rally were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Scott, of 146 St. Paul street, who were checkpoint marshals at Jones Falls and Lansdowne.

The overall winner was Dr. Kersb. of Toronto, who was driving a Studebaker Silver Hawk coupe.

Bowling Notes

A mixed doubles tournament on Thanksgiving Day at the local greens wound up the bowling season except for the odd game this season. Twenty rinks were on hand with two from Madoc and two from Kingston to close off the successful season. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Graham were the winners of the handsome Adams trophy, while Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Miller were a close second. Mr. and Mrs. Orin Smith won the two-game high score, while Wally Lavergne and Mrs. Grace Clapp won the one-game high. Mr. and Mrs. William Van Tassel won the no-game high score.

There 14 - end games were played, one in the morning and two in the afternoon. It was quite chilly and although it was not weather for bowling the participants had an enjoyable day and keen competition. The greens were in excellent condition for this time of year, due to the fine care that has been given them by the greenskeeper, Charles Matthews.

Bill Hazzard and Bill Lancaster are the proud possessors of the Fitzgerald Trophy, by winning the local Mixed doubles tournament a couple of weeks ago.

There were not enough women on hand to make all the rinks mixed ones and the two men combined to win the tourney. A nice sum was raised for the coffers of the club in this tourney. The trophy will be up for annual competition.

Maynooth Man Killed, Auto Misses Curve

BANCROFT (Special) — Clifford Thomas Scott, 21-year-old Maynooth man, was fatally injured and his cousin, Arnold Scott, 23, was hurt, when their car missed a curve on No. 62 Highway, south of Bancroft, and plowed into a rock cut. The accident occurred shortly before eight o'clock Saturday night.

Both young men were thrown from the vehicle when it left the road and plowed into the rock cut near the Turriff turn, seven miles south of this village. Police said the car was northbound when it failed to negotiate a left turn.

Arnold Scott, also of Maynooth, was admitted to hospital with back injuries.

It was the second time in a short time that tragedy has struck the Scott home. Two years ago the father, James Scott, was killed in a motor accident.

Albert Seniors Crush Napanee In Grid Fixture

Albert College took to the air before a large crowd of approximately 400 fans Monday to hand Napanee a 45-18 setback in a COSSA Senior "B" rugby fixture played on the Albert College field.

The winners employed a strong passing attack while Napanee used a ground attack, scoring all their major on end runs. Albert out-distanced their opponents by a wide margin in the air while on the ground the visitors had a big edge in yards gained.

James J. Watt sparked Albert College with three touchdowns and was the big man all during the contest. He made 180 yards in nine carries for an average of 20 yards each time he had the ball.

Rob Snelgrove had a pair of majors for A.C. with Forster and Lynn Barstead getting the other pair.

Women's Institute

MOIRA W. I.

The meeting of Moira W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. Milton Vandewater with an attendance of ten members, two visitors and seven children.

The president opened the meeting. Some letters were read by the secretary and business discussed.

The convener on Agriculture, Mrs. Earl Thompson, took over the following program. A solo was given by Mrs. Gordon Foster.

Mrs. Rose Ketcheson gave a talk on her trip to Guelph and visit to the Agricultural College.

Music by Mrs. Gordon Foster included "My Old Kentucky Home."

The topic was given by Mrs. Earl Thompson "Why Boys and Girls Leave the Farm" She also read a speech that had been given by Professor Ralph Campbell on Agriculture. This was followed by a reading by Mrs. Fred Regensburg, "Boy on the Farm."

After the meeting we were brought to a close, refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be at night at the home of Mrs. Don Holling, which was dedicated by the treasurer, Mrs. W. Phillips.

Mrs. Miller, president of the evening group of the WMS, read part of the 8th chapter of St. John's Gospel and prayer was offered by the Rev. T. F. Townsend.

A faithful member of the society, Mrs. M. B. Wese, was remembered in her illness and hope expressed for a speedy and complete recovery.

The beautiful "Consecration" was sung by Mrs. Downs.

Mrs. Townsend introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mrs. Burton Morton, of Wellman's, past secretary of Mission Bands in the Belleville Presbyterial, who gave a challenging talk on being a real Christian, and exemplified her talk by many illustrations, from real life.

"If you continue in My word you are truly My disciple. The truth will make you free. Are you witnessing and testifying to the 'truth' Do we follow in God's train? It takes courage, flow real is your faith? It takes faith to recognize the Saviour in the storms of life. Do we fear 'The Lord is my Helper, I will not be afraid' and 'Lo I am with you always even unto the end.' Is my friends see Christ in me? Take down some of the fences in our hearts and broaden our visions. Let us daily pray for opportunities where we may serve the Master."

Thanks to Mrs. Morton were expressed by Mrs. Coleman.

Mr. Gilbert Wade kindly operated the projector for the film, "Through the Looking Glass."

Refreshments were served by the CGIT girls.

A most successful Baby Band party was also held at Holloway St. Church when the mothers and their small children were entertained. Mrs. Wilkins, of Stirling, Baby Band secretary for Belleville Presbyterial, was the guest speaker.

The Rev. H. M. Davis kindly gave the tape recording of "When a Child Asks," by Nancy Edwards.

Mrs. O. Bertrand, Baby Band secretary for the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch, assisted, also Mrs. N. McKibbon, Mrs. Outingdyke, Mrs. Lucas, Mrs. C. Scott, Mrs. Jim Ketcheson, Mission Band leader, and many others.

Holloway WMS Entertains Church Group

On Tuesday evening the WMS of Holloway St. United Church was hostess to the older ladies' organization of the church, holding their annual "Family Party." Both the CGIT and the Explorer groups, with their leaders.

A welcome was expressed by the president, Mrs. T. F. Townsend, to all visitors and members.

The love of God was expressed in the hymns sung.

"At this harvest and Thanksgiving season we should be truly thankful to God for all His gifts to us and bless His Holy Name."

Silent prayer was followed with prayer by Mrs. Townsend. The Explorer group sang "This Is My Father's World," and repeated their "Purpose."

The rally was announced for October 17th, to be held in Centenary Church for the West Belleville section. Miss Ida Mackenzie, community worker, Regent Park Church, Toronto, will be the guest speaker.

The CGIT girls also sang and repeated their "Purpose." The girls received the thank offering, which was dedicated by the treasurer, Mrs. W. Phillips.

St. Michael's High School Holds Annual Graduation Exercises

On Friday evening St. Michael's High School held its annual graduation exercises in St. Michael's Academy auditorium which was decorated for the occasion with baskets of autumn flowers and potted ferns. The graduates proceeded to their places on the stage, the high school choir sang the customary processional hymn, "Praise Be to Thee, O Lord."

The chairman for the evening, Martin Halloran, addressed a few words of greeting to the relatives and friends of the graduating class and voiced the gratitude of the staff and students to the various organizations which provide scholarships and prizes, noting in particular, the substantial scholarship of the Catholic doctors and lawyers being offered this year for the first time.

AWARDS PRESENTED

The following awards were then made:

Wedding

ALLORE — LATENDRE

A pretty September wedding took place at St. Carthagh's Church, Tweed, recently when Donna Ann Latendre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Latendre, Tweed, was united in marriage to Joseph Allan Allore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Allore, of Bogart, Ontario. The Reverend Father Murphy performed the lovely double-ring ceremony and celebrated the Nuptial Mass.

Mr. Ronald Cassidy was soloist and Reverend Sister Mary Carmel Theresa presided at the organ.

The lovely young bride, entered the church on the arm of her father and made a charming picture in a bouffant waltz-length gown of white embroidered nylon organza with matching jacket. Her veil of tulle illusion, with applique of white medallions and seed pearls, was held by a headdress of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses and stephanotis.

Her attendants, Miss Margaret MacDonald, Tweed, and Mrs. Lorne Thompson, Trenton, sister of the bride, were gowned alike in white nylon organza embossed with flowers motif in pale green and apricot, fashioned in princess style with velvet streamers falling from the waistline in the back. They wore matching hats of velvet mohair and seed pearls, and carried nosegays of white and yellow baby breath and pink rose buds.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Anthony Allore, and Mr. Michael Doran. Mr. Lorne Thompson and Mr. Gerard Latendre acted as ushers.

The wedding breakfast was held at the Stoco Lake Hotel in Stoco, where the guests were received by the bridal party. Mrs. Latendre wore a dress of navy blue taffeta with white hat and her corsage was white tinted carnations. Mrs. Allore, mother of the groom, wore a dress of dusty blue printed sheer with matching hat, and corsage of white carnations.

For the wedding trip to Quebec, the bride wore a black and white two-piece dress with white accessories.

On their return, they took up residence in Tweed, where Mr. Allore is constable on the police force.

Among out-of-town guests at the wedding were friends and relatives from Kingston, Napanee, Trenton, Lindsay, New York State, Montreal and Toronto.

Nun Tended Daily Needs Of Pope Pius for 41 Years

By JENNY NICHOLSON

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — A little German nun stood in the gloom of St. Peter's Basilica and prayed for the last time at Pope Pius XII, the man whose daily needs she tended for the last 41 years.

Sister Pascalina of the Order of the Sisters of the Holy Cross had come to the cathedral to hear requiem mass for the Pope and to stand in the shadow of the high altar close to the bier.

Then on the day in 1917 when she first kept house for the then Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, papal nuncio in Munich, she pitied herself against the Pope's frail constitution and passion for overwork, serving as housekeeper, nurse and cook, the arbiter of his daily program.

When elected Pope in 1939, Pius XII took Sister Pasqulina to the Vatican in his entourage and she became the first woman ever to live in the papal apartments.

She personally directed to the end last Thursday the Pope's diet, working pace and exercise. During his final illness she never left his bedside, day or night.

Sister Pascalina's inner devotion her as having "always such a fresh, happy little face shining out of her white coif."

But the deep respect that everyone, from the humble Vatican garbage collector to the most eminent visiting cardinal, had for her was tempered with cautious regard for her fierce defence of the pontiff's daily routine.

Throughout her years of service, Sister Pascalina's energy never failed her When she slipped and broke a leg a few years ago, a nun who tended her remarked:

"It must have been the first time that one of her little boots touched the ground. She usually flies."

But today, in the words of a Vatican servant, she is "like a bird with a broken wing."

As she prepared to leave St. Peter's, other early mourners recognized and surrounded her, kissing her hand fervently. Her first public acclaim, she accepted it with no show of feeling.

She returned to her task of supervising the inventory of the 220 rooms of the pontifical apartments before the new Pope moves in.

In a few days she will return to the mother house of the order in Memmingen, Germany. With her will go a suitcase containing all her belongings and the last living link with the man she served so long — the Pope's six pet canaries in a gilt cage.

The Experts Say

Don't Need Green Thumb To Have Luscious Garden

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — You don't need a green thumb to get a luscious garden around your home, but it helps, says Helen M. Kippax.

Miss Kippax is a landscape architect, who will design not only a garden but also terraces and patios to suit a home, its occupants and its surroundings.

She is also qualified to design parks, housing developments, and the grounds for public buildings.

SOME HINTS . . .

She offers these hints on garden design:

If you don't like gardening, don't go in for it; you can have a spacious paved area with strategically-placed flower beds that can be kept immaculate with little care.

If your garden is big enough, it can be divided into sections, some (visible from the house) to be beautifully kept. Others (not to be shown to visitors) would need such detailed care.

When a garden or lawn has a retaining wall, it is better (and eventually cheaper) to build a retaining wall than try to cope with soil and water away in rain or try to wrestle a lawn mower along a steep embankment.

If you are moving into a new house, make sure the builder has saved the topsoil—four inches is the absolute minimum even for a lawn.

FENCE VARIETY

You can have fun with fences whether surrounding the house or dividing sections of your garden. You can have a rustic - covered trellis, a woven fence, slatted fences where different lengths of wood make a design—or you can lay a hedge which requires more care.

And keep an eye on traffic in the garden. Lay a pathway or a patio where the garden gets a lot of use.

Kitchen gardens need not be dull. Pathways can be lined with flowers, and it is a good idea to grow flowers here specially for cutting, because showy flower-beds will soon look drab if they are denuded to provide flowers for the house.

OVER-ALL PLAN

"It is a great help when building an architect and landscaper can work together," said Miss Kippax. "We get plans which show the layout and contours of the grounds, and we can advise on possibly its natural features."

She says she tries to provide good view from all important windows of the house. "The kitchen window must be there, because that is where housewives spend much of their time."

The ability of the owners to take care of the garden must be taken into account. "It's almost impossible to get gardeners these days."

Garden layout is changing as much as the design of houses, says Miss Kippax.

"Gardens are less formal and they follow more flowing lines today," she said.

Nurses Want Year Taken Off Their Training Course

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—A year may be lopped off the training period for nurses as a result of changes now being made by the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario.

Now nurses attend a school of nursing for three years before writing examinations to become registered nurses and during the training period work in hospitals under supervision.

Miss F. H. Walker, executive secretary of the RNAO, says a student's work in a hospital often is geared to the hospital's requirements, and not to the needs of the student.

BED-MAKING JOB

"A student need not make a bed 1,000 times to know how to make a bed," said Miss Walker, "and yet this is the chief experience she is often required to do during training.

"The RNAO thinks the training period could be cut if the educational program was devoted entirely to teaching the student, and not to providing additional labor for the hospital.

"We are now making studies to see if the course could be shortened by abolishing unnecessary repetitive work, but without lowering the standard of nursing care."

Planning the education of nurses is just one of the jobs done by the RNAO. From a four-storey building in Toronto, the organization maintains contact with 39,000 members, plus another 10,000 on the official register of nurses.

"Our job is to help keep Ontario healthy—and we do it by ensuring that nurses maintain a high professional standard," said Miss Walker.

Under provincial statutes, the RNAO keeps a register of graduate nurses, sets standards for schools of nursing and conducts nursing examinations.

It can cancel or suspend a nurse's registration if she is guilty of unprofessional conduct.

It also checks the qualifications of nurses coming to Ontario from abroad or other provinces.

WATCHERS PAY RATE

Though the RNAO is not a certified bargaining agent, it advises about pay, and suggests $3,300 a year as the minimum for a general staff nurse.

"Unfortunately, many hospitals still do not meet the minimum," said Miss Walker.

The RNAO has mushroomed from a two-room, four-employee organization in 1945 when Miss Walker joined it, to a group with 40 full-time employees working in a $500,000 building.

Miss Walker was born in Glenboro, Que., Ont., trained as a nurse at Hamilton General Hospital, studied at the University of British Columbia and worked in Vancouver. She became assistant secretary of the Canadian Nurses' Association in 1942, transferred to a similar job with the RNAO, and became its chief executive in 1949.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: WHEN YOU APOLOGIZE

When it's necessary for you to apologize, put some real conviction into your words. Don't just say, "Please excuse me," or "I'm so sorry." You'll show you're a well-bred person if you show you really mean what you're saying. There should be nothing casual or unconcerned, about your manner. Your words and the way you say them have a courtesy-job to do . . . do it graciously.

SHOULD BEAUTY SHOP OPERATOR-OPERATOR BE TIPPED?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When a beauty shop is operated by the owner and one other beautician, Is it proper to tip the owner of the shop when she gives the shampoo, set, and so forth?

2. Should one wear a silk slip when one is eating dinner at a dinner-dance, or should the slip be "packed" somewhere? — Molly

1. Today there seems to be no definite rule about this. Formerly there was a definite rule that you did not tip the owner-operator of a beauty shop. But nowadays you can't be sure whether or not a tip is expected or acceptable. When in doubt, the only thing you can do is to offer the tip and if it is waved away, put it back in your purse, saying perhaps, "Thank you, so very much, for your service."

2. You may wear a silk slip when you are dining if you wish to . . . and you may indeed wish so if the air-conditioning suggests a bit of warmth may be comfortable, or if the style is a detail that contributes to the harmony of your costume.

SIGN FORMAL NAME IN FUNERAL HOME REGISTER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A very good friend of mine died recently, and when I went to the funeral home she was asked to sign my name in the signature-book. I was uncertain about how to sign. My husband was not able to go with me. Should I have signed "Dorothy Brown" or "Mrs. Dorothy Brown" or "Mrs. Carl Brown" or C. B.

In this circumstance it is best to write your formal name . . . Mrs. Carl Brown . . . since th e names in the register are for information to the person who may be going to list or to acknowledge these visits of condolence.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

For the first time since our daughter's engagement was recently announced, my husband and I are inviting the mother and father of her fiance to dine with us at our home. There will be just the six of us at the table. Will you please tell us the correct seating-arrangements? — H. E.

You, the hostess, of course sits at the head of the table. Your husband, naturally, at the foot. Your husband's right, the woman guest of honor, the fiance's mother; and at your husband's left, your daughter. At your right, the man guest of honor, the fiance's father; and at your left, your daughter's fiance.

SELF-INTRODUCTION AT A PARTY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When I go to a big party, say a wedding reception or a tea or cocktail party, and I happen to be sitting or standing next to a person I don't know, is it correct for me to introduce myself? If so, how? — Patricia D.

Yes, a self-introduction is entirely proper in these circumstances, and many people have a special grace about it. You can say, for example, "My name is Patricia Davidson. I'm a longtime friend of our hostess Mrs. Grace and I went to High School together." Giving your name and an identification-item gets the introduction on its way. The person to whom you are introducing yourself gives her or his name . . . you both say "How do you do," adding the name . . . a n d some small talk is in order. P. S.: Many a good and lasting friendship starts in this casual way!

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. L. T. — We're afraid Al is headed for trouble.

Alfred T. — It's all up to the girl.

Mrs. L. T. — My husband and I are terribly upset over the behavior of our son, who has just turned 17. We brought up our children properly — I thought. But apparently our teaching has not taken very well.

At west end recently with b h daughter of a neighbor of ours. The girl is 15, and I always thought, a very lovely girl. When the girl didn't come home on time, her mother stepped outside nervously to look for them. He found them in a parked car doing some very heavy petting.

The neighbors say they blame their own daughter most, but they feel that our son is also responsible. They had provided the girl with out with him because they thought he was a gentleman. We are terribly worried that he's headed for serious trouble.

Alfred T. — In the first place, I can't see any harm in just petting, as long as the girl knows her limits, so "serious trouble" is going to happen. After all, it is natural for us teen-agers to want to enjoy some physical affection with the opposite sex. It certainly can't be healthy to have to wait for another four or five years or so until we get married.

In the second place, everyone knows it entirely up to the girl. No decent guy will use any undue pressure, but it is natural for him to want to go as far as possible — just as it's natural for the girl to set the limits.

My parents have both been heading me up lately with lectures or something since this thing happened. As if they didn't do the same things in their youth.

The Council: The L. T.'s may have given Al a proper upbringing in a general way, but more than generalizations are required at adolescence.

Al appears to have a lot of misinformation about what is "natural" and "healthy." He could not have gotten this information from current medical or religious sources. It is all in the type of early adolescent bull session talk that takes place among teen-agers, who have not been exposed to specific and reliable information about sex and marriage.

It is certainly a step in the right direction that the L. T.'s are deeply concerned and do not simply place the blame on the girl. Their attitude should have been known to Al long ago. Then he could not possibly argue as he now does.

Al appears to be rather arrogant in his defence of himself, and this is a pretty fair sign that he feels that he is not on first ground. He probably very much wants more specific and information as well as moral guidance. If the L. T.'s do not feel quite up to providing both they should see that he gets it from the best possible outside sources — a doctor and clergyman.

A Double Purpose Feather Light Sponge Batter

by Mary Moore

Some of you who keep a clipping file of this column may recall a featherlight pudding I named Plum Puff or Golden Prince. Puff is a baked pudding with a layer of fresh fruit underneath and a sponge cake topping. It is so delicate and just right for fresh fruits in season that it deserves a name of its own. Previously I had varied the recipe and made up the following little sponge drops, then went on to try the same light batter on other fresh fruit puddings. You try this batter both ways too on your crowd. I think you will have two hits.

SPONGE DROPS:

One-third cup sifted cake flour, 3/4 shake of salt, 1 whole egg, 2 extra yolks, 2 egg whites, 1-3 cup icing sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 tablespoon barely melted butter. Sift the sifted flour with the salt 2 times. Beat egg whites until stiff then gradually add the sugar until it will stand in stiff peaks. Without washing the beater, transfer to bowl containing the egg and the yolks and beat until thick and pale. Remove beater and fold egg-yolk mixture into whites, then fold in carefully the flour mixture. Fold in butter last. Drop from spoon onto ungreased paper on baking sheet or into small fluted paper baking cups. Bake at 275 deg. Fahr. about 12 minutes. This amount makes 24 dozen spongy drops to be served for tea or to accompany desserts — especially frozen ones.

NOTE:

With the point of the paring knife I scooped out the centre of half of each and filled them with ½ teaspoon rich lemon filling, put the top back on and sprinkled it with icing sugar. Delectable and irresistible little morsels.

Then came the new

PEACH PUFF PUDDING:

Into the bottom of an ovenware baking dish slice 8 peeled and stoned peaches (or 16 stoned but unpeeled plums). Mix well together 1 tablespoon minute tapioca with ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon each of nutmeg and almond flavoring and grated lemon rind (optional), Mix this into the peaches. Warm the mixture through in oven preheated to 375 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes or while you prepare the batter. Spread Sponge Drop batter (above) over hot fruit and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 20 to 25 minutes. Be sure to test at centre with toothpick to see if the batter is

FRANKFORD

United Church Sunday School Holds Rally

FRANKFORD — Frankford United Church Sunday School held a rally on Sunday, October 5th. The theme this year was a missionary theme "My Father's World — Our Neighborhood".

The service opened with superintendent Ed Martin, giving the call to worship and reading Psalm 100. The responsive reading was read by four juniors. The scripture lesson was read in unison by the intermediate and senior girls.

Following the singing of several hymns, the offering was received. Mrs. J. E. Finnegan told a story "My Father's World".

Mrs. J. Beach, superintendent of the primary department, conducted the next portion. Two vocal trio was rendered by Janie Sharpe, Ronda Wickson and Andy Rowe. A recitation was given by Rolf Hunt and Gary Blair. The older primary boys and girls sang "The World Children".

A brief promotion service was held. A short class period for the whole Sunday School climaxed the rally day.

Marmora

MARMORA — Mr. and Mrs. John Bartlett (Dorothy) of Trenton were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. F. Hannah.

A large number from here attended the Youth for Christ program in Belleville Collegiate on Friday night, when Red Harper, noted singer from Texas, appeared in person. He also brought the Scripture message besides many vocal numbers.

Paul Jones (Ted), son of Rev. C. R. and Mrs. Jones, arrived home from Nova Scotia where he visited his sister, Mrs. George Leonard, Jr., of Sydney. Paul has entered Queen's University to take a course in chemistry.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Crandall of Bancroft were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hannah.

Mrs. Doris Merkley, chief operator for the Bell Telephone Co. here, attended the dedication of the new $42,000 United Church at her home town of Iroquois in the new seaway district.

The newly-elected Moderator, Rev. Anlus J. MacQueen, and over 500 ministers, laymen and their wives, of the General Council of United Churches, took part in the tea and dedication of the new church.

The delegates were from all across Canada, and had been attending the General Council in Ottawa.

Mr. Ted Peel visited with his sisters-in-law Mrs. F. Hannah and Mrs. W. Crandall at Mrs. Hannah's home, on Sunday. Formerly of Highland Grove, he has been for some years a resident of Brownlee, Sask., and will return there shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Auckland of St. Thomas spent a week with his brother, Mr. J. V. Auckland and Mrs. Auckland, and also visited other relatives in Belleville and Middleton Park, Trenton.

ENCOURAGE ARTS

Annual government expenditure on the arts in Britain, including art museums and libraries, now is estimated at more than £8,000,000.

RAWDON

Mrs. G. Hubble Hostess for WA Meeting

RAWDON — Mrs. Grant Hubble was hostess on Tuesday for the quarterly meeting of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon W.A. and she provided quiet music on the record player.

The president, Mrs. Don Johnson, opened the meeting. She read a poem on the theme, "Our Reasonable Service." There were 18 ladies in attendance. The program was conducted by Mrs. Kenneth Weaver and Mrs. Lindsay McKeown.

The Bible lesson was read by Mrs. Oscar Merrick.

A short skit entitled, "Service in the Church," was given by Mrs. Carleton Potts, Mrs. Ross Jeffs, Mrs. Frank Spencer, Mrs. Raymond McConnell and Mrs. Stanley Williams.

Mrs. Weaver read the meditation from the Dominion Council booklet, a questionnaire, "Women Workers in the Church," was followed by prayer.

The president then conducted the business.

Mrs. Robert Merrick gave her report. An invitation to visit Eggleton W.A. was accepted. Plans are made for social time during the Holiston Banquet.

The president read an article from the W.A. Bulletin re "Keeping Your Lantern Lit."

The meeting conducted a contest of "Hymns and their Authors."

The hostess and conveners served refreshments to conclude the meeting.

George Genereaux of Watertown, N.Y., are visiting the latter's sister, Mrs. Alex. Laton, and other relatives in the immediate district. They also visited with Mrs. John B. Poore, of North Victoria St., while in town, and attended Tweed Fair on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Healey attended the wedding recently of Raymond Healey to Miss Joan Barkwell in Lindsay.

Spending a ten-day holiday at the Ketcheson cottage on Stoco Lake were Mr. and Mrs. William J. Grier and Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Maatin of Prescott.

The latest addition to the Tweed district office of the Department of Lands and Forests is Mr. John Trinnell, a former native of Scarborough. He will be in charge of timber clerk.

Mrs. Walter Coltrell, of Saskatoon and Radisson, Sask., is visiting her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Bowsley, Sr., of Northbrook. She also called on Mrs. John B. Foobert in Tweed this week.

Weekend guests recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Lalonde were Mr. and Mrs. John Lalonde of Toronto, who with Mr. and Mrs. Langevin Whalen wedding in Stoco last Saturday.

Tweed

TWEED — Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Akey of Sulphide, were Miss Barbara Akey and Miss Patsy Morris of Belleville.

H-S Assoc. Holds First Fall Meeting

DESERONTO — The first meeting of the fall season of the Deseronto Home and School Association was held on Sept. 18, with the president, Mrs. W. C. McVicker, presiding. The secretary, Mrs. H. Fraser, read the minutes of the last meeting and the treasurer Mrs. H. Lasher, gave the financial report.

The conveners for the year were introduced as follows: publication, Mrs. D. Armitage; sick card, Mrs. M. Kudnan; membership, Mrs. J. Dimmel; high school, Mrs. H. Bender; room mothers, Mrs. S. Knapp; social, Mrs. K. Jackson; project, Mrs. C. Metcalfe; press, Mrs. W. Schell.

The secretary read a letter from Dr. McVicker, telling of the scholarship fund for the high school and asking for a contribution. The meeting decided to give $50 to the fund. The members were informed the stove and refrigerator for the teachers' room were on order and that scales had been installed in the nurses' room. All these were purchased from the membrance fund.

Mr. Bunnell, the principal, introduced the teachers and gave an address to the parents on the students' activities outside of school.

Mrs. J. White, as guest speaker, gave an interesting and informative talk on the benefits of accident insurance for students.

At the conclusion of the meeting the members enjoyed a social half hour with tea provided by the executive committee.

Presentations Made at Regt. Parade

Several presentations were made to personnel of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment on Sunday prior to the battalion's participation in the handing-over ceremonies of the regimental color.

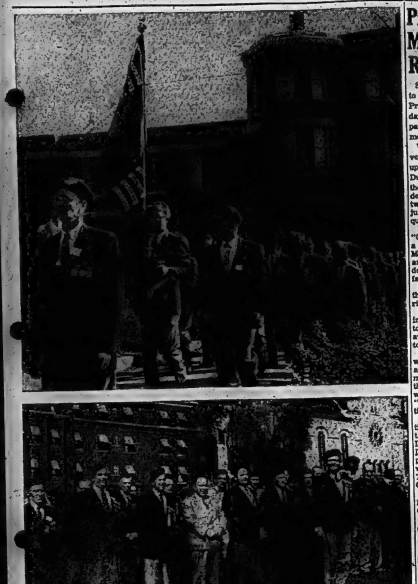
With the battalion and some 250 veterans of the association drawn up on parade, Lieut. Col. A. B. Duffy, CD, commanding officer of the battalion presented, a service decoration, a commission scroll, two shooting awards and sixteen junior non-commissioned officer qualification certificates.

Major H. B. Kellar, received his "C.D." (Canadian Decoration) for a long period of efficient service. Major Kellar saw service with the artillery, the many phases of redesignation of the Argyll Light Infantry, and the present battalion.

Private J. M. Davison received the award for the highest score in rifle shooting for the regiment.

The team prize for highest shooting score was won by First Platoon, A Company, Picton. The award was presented to the platoon through Private D. Pitt.

The platoon was also presented with the care and maintenance for a year of "Son of Little Chief" miniature wooden Indian mascot of the regiment who shares honors with "Petawawa Scotch" and "Little Minnehaha," other traditional mascots of the regiment.



Receiving NCO qualification certificates were: Sergeant C. A. Button and corporals L. E. Davis, R. Day, K. I. Dickey, L. G. Evans, W. H. Herd, B. V. Hobbs, S. H. Hopping, B. S. Jackson, W. D. Maxwell, H. W. McCullough, A. Munns, T. B. Parker, M. E. Rumlens and G. H. Wood.

Lieut.-Col. A. A. Kennedy, D.S.O., commanding officer of the "Hasty Pees" during part of the Italian campaign, recalls famous battles listed on the regimental battle flag, turned over to the H. and P. E. militia unit at colorful ceremony held Sunday in connection with the annual reunion of regiment veterans.

Traffic Crashes Claim 52 Lives During Holiday

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fifty-two persons were killed in traffic accidents in Canada during the Thanksgiving holiday weekend.

The total of accidental deaths stood at 48, two fewer than the figure for the last three-day Thanksgiving weekend.

A Canadian Press tabulation from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday listed 35 road deaths in Ontario and Quebec.

There were six drownings, one death by fire, five accidental shootings by hunters and two air crashes.

The standing by provinces: British Columbia 5, Alberta 8, Saskatchewan 2, Manitoba 2, Ontario 20, Quebec 20, Nova Scotia 4, and New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland one apiece.

Four persons were killed when a car rammed a bridge near Quebec City. Three died in a two-car collision near Iroquois, Ont.

Ontario deaths:

Clifford Thomas Scott, 21, Maxwell, a car Barrett Sunday when his car left the highway.

William Patrick Sullivan, 76, Thorold, hit by a car near his home Saturday night.

Mrs. Anne Labourin, 25, Toronto, and her children, Diane, 7, and Bobby, 6, Friday night when their car collided on Highway 401 at Iroquois.

Thomas O'Farrell, Kitchener, Friday night in a two-car collision on Highway 85 south of Elmira.

Fernand Joseph Roulo, 22, Port Colborne, Monday night when the car he was driving left the highway, hit a tree and overturned.

Following the parade and ceremonies the veterans attended a reception in the officers' and sergeants messes. Receiving in the officers' mess were Lieut.-Col. Angus B. Duffy CD, commanding officer of the battalion, Mrs. Duffy, Major Joe Block, battalion second in command and Mrs. Block, and adjutant Captain Harold Vaughan.

Association president G. Basil Smith, who was re-elected to a second term at the annual meeting, presided at the banquet.

With president Smith at the head table were Brigadier George Henderson, commanding 17 Militia Group, Hamilton; Col. Duffy; Major, the Rev. Fred Goforth, overseas chaplain of the regiment; Mayor Gerald Hyde of Belleville; Brigadier Lyall Carr, commanding 13 Militia Group, Port Hope; Lieut. A. A. Kennedy, DSO, wartime regimental commander; Mayor J. Levigne of Cornwall; Major the Rev. A. S. McConnell, MBE, CD, battalion chaplain, and John F. Cote, Trenton.

Former battalion commanders at the reunion were Lieut. Col. E. S. Fairman, CD; Lieut. Col. Bryson Donnan and Lieut. Col. W. N. Davern.

Speeches were brief at the banquet. Mayor Gerald Hyde extended the welcome of the city to the visiting veterans. "This city" he said, "is extremely proud of all units and personnel that represented it overseas during the world wars. We are extremely proud of the Hasty Pees, and I extend to you the warm and sincere welcome of the city of Belleville."

Former company sergeant major George (Sockless) Ponsford who flew with his bride from Durban, South Africa, to rejoin his former buddies was given a vociferous ovation.

"I'm slipping" he said amid cheers. "I am no longer sockless in fact if I had six pairs I would have them on today." Then in more serious vein, "It is ten years since I have seen you. I probably wont see any of you again. I ask you to keep doing what you have been doing in living up to the traditions of the old regiment. Whatever future holds for us let us always be like we were in the days of the first battalion."

Lieut. Co'onel Kennedy urged that the camaraderie that exists only among war veterans, continue in the ranks of the association. "There is a good fellowship that comes from living, and fighting with comrades can never fade away."

Major Goforth addressed the parades at the playground ceremonies later, presented the framed engraved poem of Major Campbell to the militia battalion from Hoghout Lieut. Col. Duffy.

"The association presents this poem to the battalion with the request that it be hung in the regimental orderly room where present and future Hasty Pees may see it," Major Goforth said.

Col. Duffy accepting the gift said "It will serve as an inspiration to all, as long as the Hasty Pees exist."

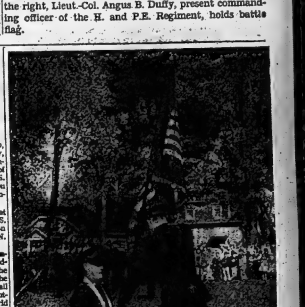
'Plow Jockeys' of Hasty Pees Hold Colorful Reunion Here; Pay Tribute to Living, Dead

Canada's wartime "plow jockeys" of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment unpacked memories of battle-torn Europe and Sicily in annual reunion here over the holiday weekend.

In general the reunion was no different to that held each year by these farm, factory, shop and office ex-soldiers who developed from green rifle-bearing rookies into one of Canada's world war II's finest infantry regiments.

Some 250 of them, representing the 5,000 personnel who passed through regimental archives during the war, were here to reminisce in unit get-togethers, over the banquet board; and in private groups.

They came from the far-flung sections of the country. One with his bride flew half way around the world to be once again with wartime buddies.



In particular the reunion will stand out the annals of the regimental association, and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment (militia).

For in colorful ceremony, said to be the first in the history of the Canadian army, the association gave the regiment which fought in World War II, handed over its regimental colors emblazoned with battle honors, to its militia battalion.

It also presented to the battalion a framed engraved copy of the famous poem written by Major Alex. Campbell, killed in action. The original was found in the battle dress of the dead officer.

The messes of the battalion in the Bridge street armouries, rang: reminiscence and story on Saturday evening. At twelve noon Sunday the association banquet was held in the ANAF auditorium.

Later the veterans and militia battalion paraded separately to the Bridge street playground where the handing-over ceremony was held in conjunction with a memorial service.

Lieut. Jack Fullerton of the color party accepts the Regimental Color from Lieut.-Colonel Angus B. Duffy following the handing-over ceremonies.

Battle-Scarred Hasty Pees Hand Over Regimental Color In Impressive Ceremonies

In a ceremony unique if not a precedent in the annals of the Canadian army, the regimental color of a wartime infantry regiment, was handed over to its militia battalion here on Sunday.

On the leaf-carpeted field of the Bridge Street playground, the color of the First Battalion, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, was given into the safekeeping of the militia unit prior to an impressive memorial service.

Emblazoned on the color were ten of the twenty-seven proud battle honors won by the regiment while serving in Sicily, Italy, Holland and Northern Europe.

These include Sicily, Assoro, Italy, The Moro, Cassino, The Hitler Line, Gothic Line, Rimini Line, San Fortunato and North-West Europe.

The handing-over ceremony was the feature of the annual reunion of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regimental Association.

Under clear autumn skies with a large crowd ringing the playground, Lieut. Col. A. A. Kennedy, DSO, a wartime commander of the regiment, formally handed over the color to Lieut. Col. Angus B. Duffy CD, commanding officer to the militia unit and former regimental sergeant-major of the first battalion.

"We who served in the regiment in World War I, members of the regimental association, take great pride in returning to the regiment, the regimental color with the battle honors" said Col. Kennedy.

Accepting the color, Col. Duffy said, "On behalf of the regiment I accept this regimental color with its new battle honors, which will serve as a lasting inspiration to present and future members of the regiment. To the men, who by their service and lives, earned these high honors for the regiment, we shall be forever grateful."

Col. Duffy then presented the color to kneeling Lieut. Jack Fullerton of the color party. This included Lieut. Bill Scrymgeour, in command, CSM, L. V. Simpson, Staff Sergeant W. Bennett and Sergeant E. W. Burley. The color party then returned to its position in the ranks of the battalion.

On south side of the playground looking north their mental salutes to the sunshine, some 250 veterans of the first battalion stood at attention during the ceremony.

Facing them, bayonets agitter in their new rifles stood some 250 khaki-clad members of the militia battalion, the "blues" of the officers furnished an additional touch of color.

The parades had moved off separately from the starting point at the Bridge street armouries. The veterans under the command of Col. Ransom, with CSM George Ponsford acting as sergeant major left first. The battalion headed by Lieut. Duffy followed. The parades were headed by the trim blue-capped regimental drum and trumpet band.

Prior to the moving off, Col. Duffy made several award presentations to various personnel of the battalion.

Major the Rev. A. S. McConnell, MBE., CD. battalion chaplain conducted the impressive memorial service He was assisted by Major the Rev. F. F. Goforth, MC., CD., wartime padre of the regiment. Association president Basil G. Smith read the lesson.

During the service, wreaths were placed on a simulated grave to the memory of the regiment's dead. A white cross on which was inscribed "The While Battalion" stood at the head of the grave.

The band of the Salvation Army provided music of the hymns during the service. A member of the regimental band played "Last Post" and "Reveille".

Major Goforth in a brief address likened the regiment's battle honors to the memorial cones of the Scottish clan of Farquharson.

"Young men of the clan called to war depodled a stone. Those who came back removed their stones. Those who were left formed a memorial cairn." he said.

"When we look at these battle honors, we should not think of personal pride, of victories won, but of those comrades who died on the grounds celebrated by these names."

"Sockless George" Ponsford

The honors do not represent all victories. Some of them were defeats yet the men who died in them are as much honored as those of other battles." Major Goforth said.

"These are names to be remembered. And remembering them we should be reminded of our indebtedness to those who have gone before."

Major Goforth said that battle flags and honors like memorial cairns represent an unfinished structure. "I do not mean that more wars will follow simply that we are living in a world ever challenged by each generation of the past who gave its best."

Bronte Man, 81, Slain With Axe

BRONTE, Ont. (CP) — Police say they are questioning a suspect in the axe-slaying of Harry Dear, 81, found in the blood-spattered kitchen of his home Saturday.

James Jackson, 80, a boarder was found asleep in an upstairs room with a throat wound and was treated in hospital. Police said the cut was not serious.

The slaying was discovered by William Storey, a friend of Dear.

Halls of Learning Taking on Appearance of Subway at Rush Hour, Bursting at Seams

By JACK VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The traditional absent-minded professor is probably wishing he could forget some of the 75,000 universities and colleges this year.

With enrolments up throughout the country, the halls of learning are taking on the appearance of a subway at rush hour—"bursting at the seams," said one university head.

Some colleges have had to restrict enrolments. In the search for space, Laval University has converted a gymnasium into a science faculty classroom.

The University of Toronto, Canada's largest, has appointed a special administrator for "space utilization and control" for its 13,000 students.

Living accommodation is another headache. One college is faced with eight times more applicants for campus rooms than it can handle.

With accommodation considerably tighter for students off the campus, many universities are building additional quarters. Mount Allison at Sackville, N.B., boasts 20 apartments for married students who pay only $40 a month with heat and light thrown in. The University of Ottawa has 136 students bedded down in converted dens hodded down in converted wartime army barracks.

The larger the university the bigger the problem, a Canadian Press count to most surveys shows. Queen's is building its third new residence for men and its second to house 230. University of Montreal officials say they would be at a loss without their new $11,000,000 engineering centre. Last year the university had 800 students in a building built for 700. Science registration this year is over 1,000.

Many colleges offer new courses, but science, arts and engineering are still the most popular.

Some of the innovations: St. Francis Xavier, Antigonish, N.S., is introducing four courses in Gaelic language and culture; Regina College is instituting a course leading to a bachelor of arts in physical education and the University of British Columbia will teach Russian.

UBC is also starting Canada's first school for teachers of handicapped children. It is playing host to seven Indonesian officials taking a special 13-month course in community planning.

The cross-country picture in NEWFOUNDLAND:

Memorial University at St. Johns closed registration at a record 1,180 compared to last year's 1,126. With plans for a new $1,000,000 university set aside pending a survey, classes resumed in quarters built in 1942 with 254 students registered. Residence fees are $60 but accommodation is short and most are living out and paying $15 to $20 a week for room and board.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

A record 286 enrolled at St. Dunstan's, Charlottetown, to use housing facilities, but in neighboring Prince of Wales College registration dropped from 946 to 802.

NOVA SCOTIA

Acadia University, Wolfville, drew 770 students against 746 last year—two-thirds of them girls. Most of the girls and most of the men live on the campus where room and board is $480 a year. Halifax's St. Mary's University has an enrolment of 950 students, about the same as last year. Campus living costs $550 a year. A new master of arts course in education has been added.

Dalhousie University has boosted registration from 1,608 to 1,839. Students pay $450 a year for room and board, on campus, $20 a week off. St. Francis Xavier boasts a record enrolment of 1,780, including 1,361 full - time. Some applicants were turned down. Some 140 students living in town pay $320 a year.

NEW BRUNSWICK

The University of New Brunswick, Fredericton, has divided classes into sections because of its record 1,500 registration. Campus rates for room and meals average $555 a year. Mount Allison University restricted attendance to last year's record 1,070. Room and board averages $500 on campus.

QUEBEC

Both McGill and Montreal Universities were still counting noses. Both expect the totals to be bigger than last year. McGill's housing appeared in hand with many rooming and boarding houses in the area in addition to university residences and sororities.

Sir George Williams College, Montreal, was "absolutely full up" with registration at 500 more than last year. A total of 4,078 students have signed for night classes and 1,307 for daytime work.

Laval at Quebec City has a record 4,300 students against 4,056 last term. Boarders there pay $28 a month.

ONTARIO

The count is not yet complete at the University of Toronto, but 600 more students are expected than the 13,000 registered last year. Living accommodation is tight but one new residence has been opened and others are planned. Students pay $535 to $600 a year for board, $210 to $240 for room.

Registration at London's University of Western Ontario was up about 300 with 3,065 enrolled. Queen's at Kingston has 2,997 students, 294 more than last year. The waiting list for campus quarters is long. Students pay a little more than $200 to live in residence against more than $300 off the campus.

Ottawa University has 2,324 enrolled compared to 2046 last year while neighboring Carleton University has 760 against 661 a year ago.

Lakehead College of Arts, Science and Technology, Port Arthur, has 120 full-time students, 60 part-time and 125 night students.

MANITOBA

The University of Manitoba and affiliated colleges have an enrolment of 8,558 compared with 4,960 a year ago. New addition is a faculty of dentistry. Students pay $350-$45 a month live on the campus, as high as $65 off.

SASKATCHEWAN

University of Saskatchewan is "bursting at the seams" with enrolment at 4,018 against 3,544. Living is applications from 350 girls and 400 men had to be turned down. A 25-per-cent increase in registration for the education faculty is the major surprise for the U.S.-affiliated Regina College has 327 students, an increase of 33 over last year.

ALBERTA

Enrolment at the University of Alberta has climbed to about 5,700 against 5,115 a year ago. Some 700 live on the campus. Officials say newcomers due to oil development and more students coming from high school are straining a "substantial" building program.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

There are 9,800 students at the University of British Columbia compared with 8,964 last term. Housing is tight. Students pay a low of about $400 a year on the campus against $600 off. New major courses include drama and creative writing in addition to the course in Russian.

Publicly-Owned Railway Sitting as Judge on Itself And Its Passenger Services

MONTREAL (CP)—In a new mood of serious self-scrutiny, the CNR is sitting as judge on itself and its passenger service.

Canada's publicly-owned railway is seeking cheaper ways, testing old-time assumptions and rethinking its whole approach to the passenger business.

The frustrating passenger service isn't paying its way.

It's losing money—"many millions of dollars," says Donald Gordon.

NO ABANDONMENT

But that doesn't mean the CNR wants to abandon the passenger business.

"I have no personal vendetta against the passenger business," said the CNR President Gordon in an interview.

"We wouldn't have invested $74,000,000 in the last 10 years on passenger equipment unless we had a good deal of confidence.

"Far from trying to sell or dry up the passenger business, our whole approach is directed to the opposite—to the operation by tailoring it to the real needs of the travelling public.

That — the "real needs" — is what the railway is trying to find out, never before has it sought the answers with such ferocity.

PROFITS NECESSARY

"We're willing to try anything within reason that shows a reasonable chance of making money," said Mr. Gordon. "We're not pivoting our planning to fewer trains, any community of passenger service which people want and are willing to use enough to make it worthwhile.

"Certainly, we have some profitable passenger runs. But there are others that no longer are being patronized. Our objective is to get rid of services that have clearly outlived their usefulness."

What is the railway doing to get out of the buggy era and into the jet age?

"We are reappraising all our traditional assumptions," he said. "We are testing what people want. We are becoming customer oriented."

Traffic studies, he added, show that most travellers on mainline trains between Montreal and Vancouver use the service for inter-city rather than transcontinental trips.

CONSOLIDATION PLANS

So the CNR decided to consolidate its two transcontinental services for the winter, slimming eight of the 16 trains constantly traversing the country. The Montreal-Halifax services, however, are not affected.

"This is an experiment designed to test exactly what the travelling public wants. If we find that we're wrong, or that the service is inadequate, we will not hesitate to enlarge it to meet the demand."

New schedules are to be announced for the Montreal - Vancouver service, which changes Oct. 26.

"What we are doing now is concentrating on inter-city schedules designed to meet the needs of the majority of people who use our main line for inter-city service, while still preserving for the others a transcontinental run."

said the 36-year-old railway president.

Looking ahead, he visualized an increasingly dense grid of inter-city trains for people travelling from 100 to 600 miles. It will take shape gradually, centring around self-contained geographic or economic areas such as Southern Ontario, the Prairies or the Maritimes.

NEW SCHEDULE

As a step in this direction, a brand-new train service will be launched soon on the Montreal-Ottawa run.

The railway's reappraisal has already shown results.

The CNR says one old-time idea was that first-class passengers demanded luxury at the dining-car table. This was modified after the CNR introduced six dinette cars in 1956, offering snack-bar service. The railway found that what was largely demanded for the hamburger market appealed to some of the pheasant-crowd too. It ordered five more dinette cars.

But to please both groups, it will offer diner and dinette service this winter on the new transcontinental train.

The CNR is experimenting with other ideas. On two Montreal-Toronto trains it is offering reserved seats in one coach. This is aimed at meeting passengers who for one dollar can be sure of a seat. The alternative was to buy a first-class fare plus a $3.55 parlor car chair.

BERTH CONCESSION

On Montreal - Halifax trains, coach-class passengers are being offered upper berths without having to buy a first-class ticket. There is no advance sale; the customer must buy a berth when he boards the train.

To cut costs and speed up travel time, self-propelled railliners have been introduced on some runs. Recently four conventional trains on the Montreal-Sherbrooke run were replaced by four diesel-driven coaches, saving passengers an hour each trip and the railway about $180,000 a year.

Nineteen passenger runs using this type of equipment now operate across the country.

"Passenger habits are not static," said Mr. Gordon. "They change and we have to spot and take advantage of the changes."

As an example, a CNR study showed that many Americans had an "extra-ordinarily regardless of Canada, thinking of it as a wide-open, vast country with a frontier flavor.

In contrast, the American travelling, with Europe beckoning was becoming more sophisticated.

NEW APPROACH

The CNR switched its advertising approach, concentrating on newspapers rather than magazines. It promoted specific details for specific markets, featured Canada's culture and history, its night life and restaurants.

The result: A 10-per-cent jump in revenue from CNR ticket sales in the United States.

Another experiment that proved popular with passengers is the CNR's "package tour" idea — you say where you want to go, how much you want to spend and the railway plans the trip for you.

What about the future? One railway expert said within a decade the passenger coach may take its place in the transportation museum along with the stagecoach, the gild-wheeler and the steam locomotive."

Said Mr. Gordon:

"I don't agree that the outlook in Canada at least — is that gloomy. It doesn't apply to present-day conditions — or so far as I can see."

CONDUCTS REQUIEM

BOMBAY (AP) — Valerian Cardinal Gracias, the first Indian cardinal, conducted requiem services for Pope Pius XII at St. Mary's Church here Monday night. About 50,000 persons filled the church and grounds outside. Those present included S. S. Mirakar, the Communist mayor, who earlier had paid tribute to the Pope.

INTERPRETERS PRACTISE

A system of simultaneous interpretation of Commons debates is scheduled to be inaugurated at the next session of Parliament. Interpreter situated in a closed booth inside the Commons chamber will translate speeches from French to English or vice versa and members will be able to hear them in their own language through earsets by merely flicking a switch. Interpreters already are practising for this job. Here Margo Ouimet (left) reads in one language from the Hansard record of previous debates to Mrs. Valerie Syit in the booth who is giving an interpretation in another language. Her interpretation is taken down by the tape recorder on the table. (CP Photo).

Eight Men and Women Will Simultaneously Interpret All Speeches Made in Commons

By ARCH MACKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — An exacting profession will meet some special problems when simultaneous interpreting is introduced in the Commons at the next session of Parliament.

The system, authorized at the last session with the support of all parties, will extend the Commons' bilingual character. English-speaking members and their French-language colleagues can click a switch for speeches translated on the spot to their native tongue.

The medium will be a man or woman in a booth located at a still - undetermined spot in the Commons. Belgium's chamber of deputies is believed the only other legislative body in the world with the same facilities.

VERY MANY JOBS

"It won't be easy," cautions a government official in discussing the work involved for the eight men and women interpreters.

Secretary of State Courtemanche, the minister officially in charge of the system, agrees. It won't be as easy, say, as the United Nations, where the interpreter is handed to a given subject and where delegates usually read from a prepared text.

"Parliamentary speeches are for the most part improvisations in which the orator voluntarily ignores about all the fundamentals of rhetoric and sometimes even of logic," Mr. Courtemanche says. "The Commons is no way a conference room."

"Questions, answers, repartee, wicked set times, a deluge of words, all follow each other."

But once the adjustment period is over, he feels sure the interpreters will come with the situation.

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE

He draws a careful distinction between the terms interpreter and translator.

The translator must "render in substance the thone and all the subtleties of a text in another language." The interpreter in entirely different work has to produce immediately in another language the "fundamental meaning of an idea which is orally expressed."

You can't expect the interpreter to be as precise, he says. Seven of the eight interpreters have been chosen from among about 125 candidates. An eighth remains to be named. The salary range is $6,840 to $7,860.

Valerie Syit, native of Luxembourg, and Margo Quimet, a newcomer to government service, are the two women so far. Anthony Martin is a Briton and Raymond Jupp from France is the third choice of non-Canadian birth so far. Raymond Baldwin, Maurice Roy and Ernest Plante are the other selections.

HEAD-SETS

The government is still working out what type of head-set will be supplied to the 265 Commons seats. The main wiring system has already been installed, providing facilities at the last session for hearing aids either to overcome physical disability or acoustics faults in the chamber.

It is possible that the head phone may be a simple two-way device similar to the modern lightweight hearing aid. By using a switch a member can tune in on the interpretation of the speech or take it through a straight hearing aid.

The interpreter will be seated in a cubicle, closed to mute his own voice. He will listen to the speech being delivered in French or English, which is transmitted by the Commons' primary amplifying system consisting of a series of suspended microphones. His interpretation—and technical terminology is one of the chief bugbears of the simultaneous interpreter—will go out over the channel to the head-sets.

Interpreters will share the problem of the Hansard shorthand reporter in catching aitchs, wisecracks and interjections.

The microphone system is controlled by a technician who cuts off all mikes but the one closest to the member speaking. This

Big Seven

Tod Sloan of Chicago Black Hawks scored four goals in two weekend games to lead the young National Hockey League season's individual scoring race.

Chimeate Eddie Litzenberger also picked up four points, all assists, as Hawks downed Toronto twice, but Sloan holds top spot on the strength of his goals—two per game.

Six men have three points apiece. Gerry Toppazzini of Boston has three goals, Camille Henry of New York has two goals and one assist; Andy Bathgate of the Rangers, Vic Stasiuk of the Bruins and Claude Provost of Montreal have one goal and two assists each while Norm Johnson of Boston has three assists.

The leaders:

	G.	A	Pts.
Sloan, Chicago	0	4	4
Litzenberger, Chicago	0	4	4
Toppazzini, Boston	3	0	3
Henry, New York	2	1	3
Bathgate, New York	1	2	3
Stasiuk, Boston	1	2	3
Provost, Montreal	1	2	3
Johnson, Boston	0	3	3

fact, accompanied by muttered remarks and the low drone of chatting MPs, can make it impossible to record everything.

The interpreter will have the added problem of keeping on top of a colorful exchange. Nor can he check back with the speaking member later, as Hansard can.

But this shapes as a minor difficulty in considering the whole job. But the interpreting system will bring to the Commons, in the past, members who could not understand a French or English speech had to wait until the printed Hansard record was made available the next day.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

About the happiest guy in the National Hockey League over the weekend was Ted Sloan, ex-thirty goal getter for the Toronto Maple Leafs, who turned on the hands that used to feed him . . . Ted got loose by the Leafs was grabbed up by Chicago, and lookit what happened on his first two appearances against his old club.

Ted fired two goals on Saturday as over 13,000 Maple Leaf fans howled their approval and repeated the same dose in Chicago on Sunday night. Four goals in two nights ain't a bad start, podner, especially when it comes against a club that didn't want him . . . Incidentally Bobby Hull scored the third goal in the Hawks' 3-1 win over Leafs Saturday, and scored another in their 5-2 Sunday triumph . . . Bep Guidolin has signed with the Kingston Merchants. There's a lot of good hockey left in Ki Beppo, and you will likely see it at its best when in action against his old buddies of the Macs . . . Kingston Merchants scored a 6-3 victory over the St. Catharines Teepees Saturday night, with the Cornwall Chevies doing likewise Sunday afternoon. Moe Savard, high scoring forward, secured from Cornwall, was the "import" to score for the Merchants. The others came from holdovers Don Bellringer, Frank Chiarelli and Kenny Linesman.

Oshawa Tony's, remember Charlie Justice and Norm Sagnell, who pitched against Point Anne earlier in the season, won the Quickie A senior "A" baseball championship in two straight games. Bagnell worked eight innings in the second 3-1 victory game, giving up one run and whiffing 15 before Justice took over and mowed down the last batter. . . won the OASA bantam "A" title, defeating Hamilton 7-6 in the second game for straight wins and the crown . . . Jarvis took the OASA intermediate championship with a 2-0 win over the north's Capreol . . . No word of the Eastern senior "A" league meeting held yesterday at this writing. Look for it elsewhere on the sports pages.

Hull-Ottawa defeated the Clinton, Comets, Blair-wan-aged club of the International Hockey League, over the week-end. Score sounded like 6-2 . . . British Columbia Lions defeated the league-leading Winnipeg Blue Bombers 10-8 for their second win in ten starts. Last night in the Pas, too. Neat thing you know, they'll be saying football is "fixed" . . . The Toronto Maple Leafs paid a long out-standing debt Saturday night when they presented "Rap" Day with a golden replica of the Stanley Cup. If ever a guy earned it, it was "Hap." The Leafs should have taken him back "on strength." Seems there's always room for one more around the team table.

Kitchener Dutchmen whipped Whitby 5-3 with a powerful club . . . The Macs go to Peterborough tonight and meet the Dunnies in Trenton tomorrow evening . . . Brilliant Defensive Play Backs Up Ron Knox Strategy; Als Trim Rough Riders 34-13

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Argonauts have sudden death to life. But it could be too late.

Argos, who had won only one of their first nine games, astounded a Thanksgiving Day crowd of only 16,682 Varsity Stadium with a 37-0 victory over Hamilton Tiger-Cats, previously unbeaten this season, in the Big Four football league.

The Scullers lost 38-15 at Hamilton Saturday.

Montreal Alouettes, however, spoiled some of the Argo joy by whipping Ottawa Rough Riders 34-13 at Montreal in a sharp reversal of the Saturday game in which Riders had hammered Als 41-0. It kept Montreal five points ahead of Argos, who must overtake Als to win a playoff berth.

NEED STRAIGHT WINS

Four games remain for each club. Hamilton, leading with 15 points, needs one more win to clinch the title. Ottawa has 10 points for its 5-5 record, one better than Montreal. The last-place Argos can finish ahead of Als for the third playoff spot only if they beat Als and Riders each once and Als lost one of their two remaining games with Ticats.

Toronto's defensive play was brilliant Monday to back up the smooth - working offensive strategy of Quarterback Ronnie Knox. Tiger quarter Bernie Faloney, a one-man team two days earlier when he figured in all the Hamilton scoring, was stopped cold.

Seven Faloney passes were hauled down by Argo runners who then scooped up two of the four Ticat fumbles.

Import fullback Dick Shatto tore the Ticat defence apart on four touchdown carries and Knox, voted the outstanding Canadin in the Big Four last season, got the other three touchdown on a one-yard plunge. Vic Kristopaitis kicked four converts and a first-quarter field goal.

Knox, on loan from Chicago Bears of the National Football League, had a great afternoon, completing 11 of 21 passes for 176 yards. Faloney also threw 31, clicking on 15.

Alouettes had a record crowd of 24,132 roaring encouragement in the comeback drive which upset Ottawa and revenged the crushing defeat Riders had administered in their home park.

Als outgained Riders both on the ground and through the air, rifled three touchdown passes to Dick Hunter and stopped another from Irish Livingstone's hands. Centre Tom Hugo, playing despite a rest call on his knee, intercepted a pass by Ottawa's Hal Ledyard and raced 17 yards to score.

Ottawa led 13-12 at the first quarter mark on touchdowns by Bill Sowalski, who picked up a fumble on the Als' 35-yard line, and Tom Payne and a single by Ledyard who fumbled over the Montreal line. Mack Yoho missed both converts.

The Rider attack was stalled the rest of the way as Montreal tightened its defensive play and centered on a blistering aerial attack.

Filchock Leads Golden Bears To Nine Wins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If any major professional football clubs are looking for a coach —and there probably will be a couple when the season ends—they might consider Frank Filchock. He has the best record of any coach in senior football this year.

Filchock, hired by Saskatchewan Roughriders up the Western Conference after a losing season in 1957—his first in five years—took over the Golden Bears of the Ontario Rugby Football Union this year. And Bears look good.

They won their eighth and ninth victories in Thanksgiving home and - home doubleheader against Kitchener — Waterloo Dutchmen, giving Filchock a perfect nine-for-nine record, unique in senior football.

DUTCHMEN WALLOPED

Kitchener - Waterloo Warrior Terlico Dutchmen 30-7 at Kitchener Saturday, and yesterday Filchock used a Canadian backfield for most of the game as Bears walloped the 1957 league champions 33-6. They clinched first place week ago and now it is a two-point lead for second place between the Dutchmen and London Lords.

Lords edged the winless Detroit Raiders 17-15 at London Saturday. Al Pfeiffer, formerly of Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders, scored 11 points on a touchdown, field goal and two converts and Bobby Freeman, another former Argonaut, scored the winning touchdown in the first minute of play on a four-yard plunge.

Bisons Unbeaten In Four Starts

Buffalo Bisons, doormats of the American Hockey League last season, are off to a fast start with no losses in the 1958-59 schedule.

The Bisons, who finished 31 points out of fifth place at the bottom of the standings last spring, picked up five points during the weekend, defeating Springfield Indians 4-3 Saturday and beating defending champion Hershey Bears 4-1 Sunday.

Buffalo has a five-point margin over second - place Rochester Americans, who played a tie with winless Cleveland Barons Saturday and walloped the Barons 8-3 Sunday.

Hershey shut out Providence 3-0 Saturday when Gordie Gale of Reds came back to defeat Springfield 2-1 Sunday. The result was a three-way tie for third place among Hershey, Springfield and Providence, effects, with two points.

CUBS SIGN MANAGER

CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Scheffing has been given a one-year contract to again manage Chicago Cubs in 1959. Contract terms were not revealed. This year, Scheffing guided the club to a tie for sixth place, their highest finish in six years. He became Cub manager in 1957.

Australians Add Golfing Crown To World Titles

By JOHN FARROW

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—World record miler Herb Elliott . . . Davis Cup . . . Olympic swimming champs . . . British open golf championship . . . add now the world amateur team championship of golf.

That's the proud sports record today of Australia, a country with a population of only about 10,000,000.

The Aussies added the amateur golf title and won the Eisenhower Trophy by defeating the United States in an 18-hole playoff over St. Andrews Old Course Monday.

The Australians had a 322 total and the U.S. 324. The teams had tied with 918 strokes after 72 holes ending Saturday.

Twenty-nine nations competed in the championship, the first of its kind.

SHOT 79

In the playoff, Australia's Peter Toogood shot 39-36-75, Bruce Devlin 37-35-72, bob Stevens 40-35-75, and Doug Sacdal 37-41-78.

On the American team, U.S. national amateur champion Charlie Coe had a 39-36—75, Billy Joe Patton, 36-37—73, Dr. Frank (Bud) Taylor 39-37—76, and Bill Hyndman 40-36—76. The low three scores counted towards the team aggregate.

Britain came third of the 29 countries with 919, New Zealand fourth and Argentina fifth. Canada tied for sixth with South Africa.

Bob Kidd of Vancouver led the Canadians with 77-82—314. Dan Cozalio, also of Vancouver, had 79-80-77-81 — 317; Canadian amateur champ Bruce Castalor of Toronto shot 79-83-76-81—320, and Toronto, Eric Hanson carded 81-79-83-81.

Asked the reason for Australia's sports sweep, golf expert Stevens said: "Well, I reckon it's the sunshine and the outdoor life we lead. I can't see any other reason."

Kingston, Chevs Win Over Teeps

KINGSTON (CP) — Kingston Merchants defeated St. Catharine Teepees of the Ontario Hockey Association senior league Saturday night 6-3.

Ken Linesman, Don Bellringer, Frank Chiarelli and Sabe Savard tallied for Kingston. Ray Culley and Don Grosso scored for the Teepees.

In Cornwall, the Chevvies of the Ontario Hockey Association east senior division defeated the Teepees 4-1. Don Labelle, Bryan Hextall and Bill Sarrasin and Ronny Muir were the scorers.

Doug Robinson was lone scorer for Teepees.

Cornwall moved into a tie with Kingston at the top of the league standings.

Chevs Down Teepees

CORNWALL (CP) — Cornwall Chevvies of the Ontario Hockey Association senior division defeated the Teepees 4-1 Saturday night before 1,500 fans at the Cornwall Memorial Arena.

Don Labelle, Bryan Hextall, Bill Sarrasin and Ronny Muir were the scorers.

Doug Robinson was lone scorer for Teepees.

Cornwall moved into a tie with Kingston at the top of the league standings.

Gerry Chevalo Is Favored Over McMurtry

NEW YORK (CP)—Two young heavyweights on the threshold of big greatness will carry their reputations and ambitions into the throne room of boxing here Friday night.

George Chevalo, 21, of Toronto, 10th-ranked in his division, takes on Pat McMurty of Tacoma Wash., a 25-year-old contender who was in the select circle once and is trying to come back.

Chevalo, 8-1, 195-pound Canadian heavyweight champ, is the 7-4 favorite.

There was a buzz of conversation among boxing observers Monday when George walked into Madison Square Garden for the first time.

"Boy, oh, boy," said one. "It be can only fight."

Jack Dempsey and Rocky Marciano say he can, George thinks he can.

SEEN THEM ALL

"I've seen all the leading heavyweights on television," he said. "I think I can do all right against any of them."

The bull-necked youngster has been fighting for six years. The past 20 months for pay. All 16 of his pro fights—he's 13-2-1—have been in Toronto area.

His only losses have been to Howard King and Trevor Bob Baker. The defeat by King—an eight-round decision—he avenged via a second - round knockout. Since then, he has smashed past Julio Medero, drawn with Argentina's Alex Miteff, then a highranker, and flattened James Parker in one round for the Canadian crown.

If McMurtry Chuvalo will be up against a young, aggressive fighter. Although he's 6-1, 185-pound heavyweight has compiled a fine 39-2-1 record and attracted a big gate in his home territory. Pat decided the time had come.

"It was time to get out of the crew-cut fighter said, "No matter how well you do, people get tired of the same faces.

"Then, too, you get more recognition for a big fight in New York. No matter how much you beat a guy somewhere else, it counts double here.

"Take those ratings. I'm listed fifth or sixth and that's all of a sudden I'm not even listed say two. I just two publicists—both close — to Willie Pastrano and Willi Besmanoff. I may sick by Besmanoff fight but I didn't want to pull out. So right after the fight I'll be number five. And then I'm out of the ratings."

BARNIA WINS

SARNIA (CP) — An 8-8 overtime win Saturday over Sarnia gives a 3-3 lead in their best-of-seven Ontario Lacrosse Association semi-final series against Fergus Thistles. The game was tied 7-7 at the end of regulation time.

Rampaging Lions Rip Riders After Nipping Blue Bombers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ed Dorow, the easiest quarter-back, has become the overnight hero of British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

The three four touchdown passes Monday against Saskatchewan Roughriders, the club that left him in mid - season, Paul Cameron caught two of them and scored another himself on an interception one of Rider Frank Tripucka's passes.

It all went for a 34-16 win for Lions, their third straight victory after losing 13 consecutive games. Lions recorded a big upset Saturday by beating the league-leading Winnipeg Blue Bombers 10-8 winning on Ted Hunt's 14-yard field goal in the last two minutes.

DRAMATIC PLAY

Dorow was also hot in that game. He engineered one dramatic play that started out as a sleeper performance. When the sleeper went sour Dorow sent Cameron running. Cameron was trapped, threw the ball back to Dorow and Al passed to Vic Cheppo who scored the touchdown on a play that covered 87 yards.

Edmonton Eskimos have been making their own mark. At home Saturday night Normie Kwong scored a third-quarter touchdown to beat Stampeders 17-10, in Calgary Monday Eskimos came from behind again with Johnny Bright pulling out a 23-20 win in the fourth to give them a 19-14 victory.

The losses cluster Calgary's playoff hopes. Bombers still lead the league with 20 points, followed by Edmonton with 18 and Saskatchewan with 13. Stampeders have 10, Lions have six and are out of contention.

Lions' victory in Regina was protested by Saskatchewan but only because of the use of both Dorow and quarterback George Herring, who replaced injured Hank Ilesic Bailey.

Riders said they had a deal with B.C. to the effect that if Lions decided to use Dorow Herring would come to Riders. Lions said that under the deal Herring is not to go to Saskatchewan until next year.

Besley Cameron's three touchdowns in the others were scored by Ed Vereb on Dorow passes. Hunt added nine converts. The other Lion point came when Rider fullback Cookie Gilchrist was rouged on the opening kickoff by Jerry Janes, Mike Hagler scored both Rider touchdowns. Jack Hill converted one of them and kicked a field goal.

In Winnipeg Saturday Bob Stransky scored the Bomber touchdown and Charlie Shepard and quarterback Jim Van Pelt added singles. Chapman kicked a B.C. single.

Kwong's game-winning touchdown was preceded by quarter Jackie Parker's 26 - yard touchdown pass to Don Fyan in the end zone. Veryl Switzer scored the Calgary touchdown, Ted Dean clicked a single and Doug Brown a field goal.

Bright and Bright scored both Eskimo touchdowns in Calgary. Parker kicked a field goal. Jon Meadows had two converts. Edmonton's other two points came when Calgary punter Ted Jeanerette conceded a safety touch.

Switzer broke through on a 56-yard run in Calgary's first first touchdown and quarterback Frank Tripucka added the other on a one-yard drive. Brown converted both.

Sloan Back to Haunt Leafs Scores Four in Two Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three former Toronto Maple Leaf players came back to haunt their alma mate this weekend and put Chicago Black Hawks on top of the National Hockey League.

Hawks trimmed Leafs 5-1 in Chicago Sunday night to extend their weekend series and take a one - point lead over Montreal Canadiens who were being dumped 4-2 by Boston Bruins.

Tod Sloan, by Leafs' thin summer for $15,000, slapped home two goals in Saturday night's 3-1 win by Chicago and repeated the performance Sunday night.

Harry Lumley, dealt off by Leafs to New York Rangers five seasons ago, traded to Hawks this year, scored a pair of goals Sunday and Eric Nesterenko, whom Leafs sent to the minors in 1956, picked up a couple of points Saturday night by feeding Sloan a scoring passer.

RANGERS BLANKED

In other NHL action Sunday Detroit Red Wings blanked New York Rangers 4-0 in the Wings' home opener after a 2-0 loss in Montreal Saturday, New York had tied Boston and in the Ranger home debut Saturday.

Chicago now is undefeated with two wins and a tie for five points. Montreal holds a one-point edge on Boston, New York and Detroit are tied for fourth with two points and Toronto has two defeats in two tries.

The 30 - year - old Sloan, who scored 13 goals in 59 games last season, was a terror in front of the Leaf net. Typical of his four-weekend goals was one in the first period Saturday which tied Leafs at 1-1. Tod had Toronto goalie Johnny Bower cold when he slipped an Ed Litzenberger pass into the empty side.

Bobby Hull's final-4-game performance rounded out the weekend scoring for Chicago.

Maurice (The Rocket) Richard scored the 509th goal of his career Sunday night to open the scoring in Boston. The Bruins struck back with goals by Jerry Toppazzini, Allan Stanley, Doug Mohns, Don McKenney in a five - minute onslaught in the second period. Toppazzini matched Canadiens' only goal in the final period by Dickie Moore.

WORSLEY INJURED

An injury to Ranger goalie Gump Worsley marred the game at Detroit. Worsley was carried off by stretcher suffering a badly pulled tendon in his left leg.

Wings' Gordie Howe scored one goal on Worsley and, along with Marcel Pronovost, scored later on Lumley assistant trainer Lorne (Kymkiw who was called in for emergency duty in the New York net.

Saturday night at Montreal Canadiens managed to mix a first-period goals by Claude Provost and Dickie Moore to down the shutout with Jacques Plante turning in an alert performance in the Canadiens' goal. Wings outshot Canadiens 31-20.

Andy Hebenton's goal at 17:36 of the third period gave Rangers the 4-3 tie at Boston after Eddie Shack, Camille Henry and Andy Bathgate had piled up a 3-0 Ranger lead. Only to have Bruins' eventual 3 Boston scorers were Larry Regan, Doug Mohns, Guy Gendron and Bronco Horvath.

Harness Racing

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP) — Canadian - owned horses won three races on the Batavia Downs pari-mutuel night. Miss Kay Cash, owned by S. F. Love of Milton, Ont., won the co-featured class 3 pace for $1,200, doing it in the best time of the night, 2:07 1-6 on a good track.

Janey Johnston, owned by Ross Johnston of Dresden, Ont., captured the fifth. The ninth fell to Billy Dehne, owned by Harold North of Florence, Ont.

MONTREAL (CP)—Wee Irish, a five-year-old bay gelding from Hammonds, N.Y., Monday night ran the mile in 2:05 4-5 and won the featured $3,000-purse open trot at Richelieu Park.

The gelding is owned and driven by George McLear. Carpet Bagger was second and Lucky Tom third.

OTTAWA (CP) — Clever Edna from Ottawa won the invitation trot Monday night at the winding of the season at Connaught Park track. She did the mile in 2:14 3-5 with Clary Hilliard in the sulky.

Second was Mr. Mc. E. Stone from Hull, Que., driven by Al Chapelle, while third was Cheerful Lad from—Morrisburg with Roy Buchanan as driver.

Browns, Colts Top Teams in National League

NEW YORK (AP) — Give Johnny Unitas a football and he'll toss it for a touchdown. Give Jimmy Brown a football and he'll lug it across the goal. Give football fans spectacular play and they'll storm the parks.

And that's virtually the story of three weekend plays in the National Football League.

Unitas and Brown have led the Baltimore Colts and Cleveland Browns, respectively, to the top positions in the eastern and western conference. The two teams are the only undefeated clubs in the league, both sporting 3-0 records.

Unitas, who three years ago was quarterbacking for a semi-pro club, threw his seventh touchdown of the season Sunday, bringing the Colts from behind for a 34-17 victory over Green Bay.

SCORED THREE

Unitas scored three touchdowns, bringing his season's output to eight as the Browns outpaced Chicago Cardinals 35-20 before 65,408 at Cleveland, the day's largest crowd.

Los Angles knocked winless Detroit virtually out of title contention with a 42-28 setback. Newly acquired Bobby Layne led Detroit to a 28-3 triumph over Philadelphia. New York edged Washington 21-14 and Chicago Bears throttled San Francisco 28-6.

Birdie in Hand May Put Haney in Bush

MILWAUKEE (AP) — There may be no way to keep Haney in the eye to Saturday's brisk pen and ink business by Milwaukee Braves' The hiring of Birdie Tebbetts, resigned manager of Cincinnati Redlegs, as executive-vice-president and the rehiring of Fred Haney as field manager should keep the axe stove flaring over the winter ahead.

The biggest area of speculation is whether Tebbetts will tend to his front office business and give Haney a free hand.

Haney gave a hint as to how he feels about his relations with Tebbetts when he said:

"I was told that Tebbetts would work only in the front office and would have nothing to do with the way I run the ball club."

QUIT INSURANCE

He felt obliged to get assurances that Birdie wouldn't interfere with him before he affixed his name to his fourth Braves' contract.

He and president Joe Cairnes, whose acceptance of a post with owner Lou Perini's multi-million dollar Florida real estate venture opened the door for Tebbetts, never had any serious disagreements.

Keeping clear of field problems may not be so easy for Tibbetts, a man with a long and a lines football background at variance with opposing managers.

Tebbetts, who at 46 is 14 years younger than Haney, has been quick to declare he has no further interest in the manager-all end of baseball. "I definitely will never manage again," he said Saturday in Washington.

Ford, Miller Tops in Earned Run Dept.

NEW YORK (AP)—Whitey Ford of the San Francisco Giants, whose most effective pitches are fast last season with the National League's earned run champion-ship, Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees won the American League title.

Statistics compiled by the Associated Press revealed that Miller allowed 50 earned runs in 182 innings for a 2.47 earned run average. Ford permitted 49 earned runs in 219 innings for a 2.01 mark. The crown was the second won by Ford, who paced American League pitchers in 1956 and the first for Miller.

Miller won only six games. This was the fewest ever recorded by a big league earned-run leader. However, in his last 61 innings, the 30-year-old righthander gave up only 12 unlisted runs and reduced his ERA from 2.83 to its final figure. He wound up with nine losses.

Ford a 29-year-old southpaw, had a 16-8 mark. An injury to his pitching arm sidelined him for three weeks toward the close of the regular campaign. He finished with a league-leading total of seven shutouts and a runaway margin in the ERA competition over Billy Pierce of Chicago, runner-up at 2.68.

Dutchies Whip Dunlops 5-3

KITCHENER (CP)—Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen defeated Whitby Dunlops 5-3 Saturday night in their first appearance on home ice, in an Ontario Hockey Association senior exhibition game.

Butch Martin scored twice and Jack McMaster once from a new Kitchener line with Bill Wylie playing centre. Bill Sanders and Ken Laubman scored the others.

Former National Hockey League player Ken Mosdell and Pete Bishando scored for the world champion Dunlops. Sandy Air got their final goal.

Halimi Wins

PARIS (AP) — World bantamweight champion Alphonse Halimi scored a technical knockout in 2:49 of the fifth round over Dante Bini of France in a non-title 10-round Monday night.

Halimi, making his first start of the year, floored his outclassed opponent in the fourth and fifth rounds.

After an even first round, Halimi gave his game rival a sound drubbing. He dropped Bini for an eight count in the fourth round and for a nine-count in the fifth. In the second knockdown, the referee halted the bout.

Halimi weighed 118½ rounds, 1½ pounds over the bantamweight limit.

Along Sidelines

The result: Duren is out $250 and 22 members of the National League Braves are minus 22 $25 spikes as a result of punitive action by baseball commissioner Ford Frick.

Frick's wrath fell on Duren because the New York pitcher made a "choke-up" gesture at umpire Charlie Berry in the 10th inning of the sixth game of the world series after Johnny Logan walked.

Duren was annoyed when Berry called the fourth ball on Logan. He placed his hand on his throat, the traditional chokeup sign in baseball. The count was 2-2 then on Logan and Duren is accused series split was discussed.

of indicating Berry didn't want to call a third strike on Logan before the partisan Milwaukee crowd.

FIXING HIS TIE

Duren denied it later in the clubhouse, joking that he might have been fixing his tie.

The fining of the Braves was more involved. He was fined the first 10 world series hitters that almost a whole team has been fined.

It came about because someone told how the Braves were going to share their series swag. The commissioner's office insists it was not a joke and has announced it.

Frick's men acted to track down the culprit. No one talked. So Frick fined the 22 players who attended a meeting only on the assumption they all knew about it.

Queen's Defeat Redmen 21-0; Varsity Wins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Queen's University Golden Gaels posted their first win in two years Saturday to give the senior intercollegiate league three-way tie for second place.

Unbeaten University of Toronto Blues walloped University of Western Ontario Mustangs 38-14, Queen's, rated the league's weakest team before the start, shut out McGill Redmen 21-0 to snap an eight-game losing streak including a 14-6 loss to Redmen two weeks ago.

This left them tied with Western and McGill at a win and two losses each. Varsity has a three win, three loss record.

Blues switched from running to passing for their victory. Fullback Peter Joyce and halfback Tom Reid, running stars in previous games, had only 36 yards in 11 carries against Mustang defence but quarterback Brian Aston completed 12 of 18 passes.

Joyce, Reid, David Pinkham, Dave Creswell and Dick Reid scored the Toronto touchdowns. Walt Adams kicked a field goal and four converts and Larry Joynt added a single for the other points.

George Shepherd and Lionel Conacher, Jr., scored the losers' touchdowns, converted by Ted Mitchell.

Queen's took quick command in the Kingston game and held a 14-0 lead when the first quarter ended. Mike Wilson scored on a 30-yard pass - and - run play and three minutes later the Gaels drove 55 yards as McGill pass on the Redmen's 40 to set up another touchdown march. Terry Forter got it.

Centre Don Delisle intercepted another McGill pass for the final touchdown in the fourth period. Bob Mitchell took a lateral from Delisle and scored from the McGill 45 yard line. Steve Lyon converts and Jockey Thompson booted a single for Queen's point.

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Champion Shirley's Pride, an English setter from Kingston, Ont., won the best-in-show trophy at the Genesee Valley Kennel Club show Sunday.

George Chuvalo Claims TKO's Out of Date!

"Technical knock-outs are for the birds' says George Chuvalo, leading Canadian heavyweight contender. "I don't want my car knocked out of action this winter. That's why I insist on "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze. Now, every part of my car's engine gets the protection it deserves . . . no matter what way Old Man Winter throws his punches. "Prestone" Anti-Freeze does a complete job for me . . . gives me complete protection against frost. Its exclusive magnetic film blocks rust and corrosion. Nothing, but nothing, is going to knock out my car's cooling system this winter."

On the Tracks

NEW YORK (AP) — Round Table is the world's richest horse but on the basis of the frequent trips the meeting old - timer are making to the bank, the new champion's reign may be a short one.

The four-year-old from Travis Mar Farm's barns finally unhealed Nashua Saturday when he won the $123,350 Washington Special at Chicago and collected $75,250. This boosted his earnings to $1,336,550 and moved him to $1,299,565 won by Nashua before his retirement two years ago.

Round Table accomplished the feat with a track record performance of 1:34 for the mile. Under Willie Shoemaker he finished 2¾ lengths in front of Person's Image, who ran his total earnings to $970,600.

Round Table won only $75,326 as a two-year-old. But First Landing from C. V. Whitney stable already has banked $315,970 following his triumph in last Saturday's Selima Stakes and Gazelle Stakes for juveniles at Belmont Park.

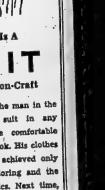
And First Landing is not even the top money winning two-year-old. That honor goes to Emulous Wind who has won $288,048.

Weekend Stars

Goalie Jacques Plante of Montreal, who registered the first of the National Hockey League season Saturday night as Montreal Canadiens blanked Detroit Red Wings 3-0.

Defenceman Bob Bergland, who scored with 2¼ minutes of game-time remaining Saturday night to give New York Rangers a 4-4 tie with Boston Bruins.

Jerry Toppazini, who scored two goals Sunday night to lead Boston to a 4-2 victory over New York.



Centre Tod Sloan, who scored four goals to pace Chicago Black Hawks to two victories over Toronto Maple Leafs, a 5-1 win Saturday night and a 5-3 Sunday night. Sloan counted twice in each game.

Gordie Howe, who scored two goals Sunday night to lead Detroit to a 3-0 shutout victory over New York.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Tuesday, October 14

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Being extravagant in A.M. or following dictates of a jealous person would be most unwise. P. M. however, it is possible to be with most intelligent associate and keep everything in nice balance. Get the right viewpoint.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Many things break into the open today in conjunction with partners and members of your family. Avoid these problems diligently. Tonight, get your work at home and in business nicely schedled for more time to come.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — If you get so tangled up in own affairs that outside obligations cannot be met, this will be most unfortunate. Schedule your time then fine for being with associate and having a lovely time.

Moon children, (June 22 to July 21) — While it seems to you that you have to be extravagant to show appreciation to good comrades, a little party, a thoughtful object or word of two is really sufficient. But do not be stingy. Put your home in fine, clean order.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Situation with family ties is hardly ideal. Each of you is stubborn, prejudiced. Show you have higher intellect and make the first gesture that will restore harmony and reconciliation. P. M. you can then spend with good friend for fun, or plan.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 20) — A private worry could easily keep you from the important obligation you must meet today. Chin up and do a bang - up job of it, instead. Tonight, do some studying that will assist you in financial affairs. Keep a good budget.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — A rather neurotic friend will today endeavor to push you into some unwise move, where real estate or other property is concerned. Don't permit this. P. M. is fine for entertainment through social contacts.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Make sure this A. M. you do not in any way irritate one who has great power over your affairs. Stick to all rules and regulations assiduously. P. M. study quietly advanced psychology that will help you to understand others.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — There are splendid opportunities all about you, but if you don't get out of mood of resentment and despair, you could lose out today. Be alive to one in particular. P. M. dear comrade shows how to add to abundance.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) — Steer clear of an argument between a pal and a good adjutor as each feels he is correct in his assumption. You, however, have the right solution. P. M. an opportunity is present to have conference with vital person in power.

Aquaries (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Avoid getting between an associate and one who has considerable authority over personal life. P. M. a newer partner appears on the scene fortunately to renew your hopes and bring greater happiness into your life.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Here is one of those provocative times when you feel you must do regular work while at the same time newer pastimes beckon most strongly. Be strong and stick to necessary labors to be performed. P. M. play that hunch.

If your child is born today: The fine child born today appears to be the type whom nobody can deceive in his or her intentions. Don't endeavor to change the pattern during early youth. Then very quietly express your thoughts without any force at all. Your intelligent youngster will see the wisdom greater than his or her own and obey very readily. The chart is then most successful, thanks to your fine training.

(ADVT.)

No Substitute For People

Look where you will, there's nothing half so interesting as your fellow man. He robs and murders and discovers cures for killing diseases. He lies and cheats; he gives away all his money and risks his life saving a mutt trapped down a hole. He is at once the silliest and the wisest creature in creation, the most craven and the noblest . . . And his fascinating goings-on are reported faithfully, day by day, in the columns of the Toronto Daily Star. Star correspondents everywhere flash in the latest from homo sapiens. The Star is served by its great news agencies and seven photo services, as well as an editorial staff of over 200 — In the Middle East, London, Washington — the Star's own correspondents are there, bringing you on-the-spot comment and eye-witness accounts. For news about people and places presented in a lively, stimulating manner, read the Toronto Daily Star. 58-14

RETURNS TO HOME

CANNES, France (Reuters)—Movie magnate Jack L. Warner has returned to his nearby villa after spending nine weeks in hospital here following an automobile accident. Warner was driving home in the early hours when his car collided with a truck.

TO DIVORCE PRINCE

PARIS (AP)—British film actress Dawn Addams announced Friday—"with great sadness"—that she has found it impossible to reconcile her acting career with living with her husband, Italian Prince Vittorio Massimo. She said her lawyer has filed suit in Rome for separation.

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Wednesday, October 15 (April 19 to May 21) — A. M. is apt to be fraught with disagreements between bankers or experts who derive their financial benefits from you. Retain perfect equilibrium, poise. Later, be off to some nice spot with delightful companion for charming evening.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — It does not behoove you to argue with associate today or you hardly can get a word in edgewise, let alone win out in any way. P. M. is fine for entertaining much at residence and entertaining there very successfully and happily.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Getting rid of that mountain of work ahead of you requires that you simply pitch in with vim and vigor, plan your labors. See where you can install latest efficiencies, gadgets, make the innovations that save both time and energy.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — A. M. is just fine to get together with vital persons to start that upswing in combined enterprises. Then you are happily aware of the fact that much harmony and assistance of financial nature is forthcoming from family ties. Be happy.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Situation between a stranger and a close tie requires you use different tactics to bring about harmony and happiness. P. M. finds you in a position to step out of dull routines and get obligations met. Be happy with pals tonight.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — The perfect day to get all your shopping done and stock up the larder. Then you can reflect upon all your social and intimate relationships and know if you are headed the right way. P.M. quiet talk with friend brings advancement.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — A. M. is vital time to attend to anything that has to do with finances. See the right individuals. P. M. ideal for being with groups to carry through on some corporate venture.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — It behooves you to be most tactful with others today, since they are very opinionated. Hence, listen and do not be forceful in any way. P. M. is fine for having most satisfying conferences with one in real authority.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — It is not probable that you can get rid of all annoying factors in conjunction with both personal and business ties. But be certain you have all your work caught up nicely. P.M. 'be with charming pals at new locale.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Be sure to join with those with whom you are most compatible in some worthwhile venture today, but steer clear of any private affairs of theirs. P. M. get good suggestions from expert on any problematical affairs you have.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — A day to be very discreet in all your dealings with powerful persons or you get in the middle of some unfortunate fracas. Listen in views of intelligent associate concerning some up-to-date ideas that benefit you greatly.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — You are mentally alive to the methods and intentions of others today, plus knowing which are the better systems for you to adopt in the future. Think out how to make them most practical. P. M. use intuition on your job.

If your child is born today — The interesting child born today is the inventive, intelligent type, but one drawback is a poor sense of timing during earliest years. Hence, your guidance in this is imperative, and since your youngster learns quickly, the chart then becomes very good. The spiritual sense and the practical ability will be co-ordinated nicely and you will have a successful and happy progeny, a charming adult.

Garden Notes

Something Different in Bulbs

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Tulips, daffodils and hyacinths are not the only plants offered in fall bulb catalogues. Many lilies and lesser plants are listed and it will pay you to try a few of the various varieties.

Anemones are something most people have admired in the florists window but seldom grow in their gardens. They are half hardy in southern Ontario. They can be planted in the garden as soon as received, planted in the cold frame or held over until spring and planted out then. They should be treated as gladiolus.

One of the hardest types of anemones is Blanda. It is clear rose pink and sells for $1.00 a dozen bulbs. Mixed pink, blue, and white with large free flowering daisy like blooms are 75 cents a doz.

ST. BRIGID IS POPULAR

St. Brigid is semi-double with striking blue-black center. Very popular strain with rich colors at 60 cents a doz. Fulgens St. Bravo vary from white to brick red. This strain must be planted as soon as received, also 60 cents a doz. The same price buys a dozen mixed Coronaria. This is a super giant strain of single anemones, free blooming brilliant color, velvety four inch blooms in blue, scarlet, pink and mauve.

For the same price or a little more you can try some alliums. These are hardy showy bulbous plants seldom seen in our gardens.

Neapolitanum has small compact heads of cornflower blue, grows two feet high and blooms in July. Moly, the "Golden Garlic" is brilliant yellow, umbels fine for cutting. Blooms in June, one foot high. A good companion for Moly is Ostrowskianum. It grows eight inches high blooms at the same time as Moly and has small carmine pink bloom. Cowani has large heads of white flowers, can be forced, is fragrant and excellent for cutting.

A RARE SPECIES

Giganteum is the giant allium and of course the most expensive. Each bulb sells for $1.25 and well worth it. This form is from the Himalayas, grows five to six feet tall with broad leaves and large heads of violet bloom which appears in July. A rare species and a garden conversation piece.

For fall bloom buy some colchicum. They must be ordered at once. They will bloom from the dry bulbs without soil or water. As soon as the flowers are faded they must be planted out in soil at once. They have been often called the autumn crocus but this is a mistake. They do look like large crocuses but they belong to the lily family.

After they bloom indoors plant out in the border in groups. The foliage will appear in spring, die down in summer and disappear. In September the blooms will come up without foliage. Be sure to mark the place where they are planted. The color range is from sparkling white to deep violet.

Federal Govt. Will Handle Prisoners Given Over Year

Major Change Made By Ottawa Conference

OTTAWA (CP)—It may take three years to see concrete results, but federal-provincial ministers responsible for handling Canada's 12,000 prison population have agreed that some major changes in the country's penal system should be made.

The main decision at a two-day federal-provincial conference on penal problems, which ended Tuesday, was that provincial and federal governments should take over responsibility for all offenders sentenced to a year or more in prison. It currently handles only those serving two years or more.

Possibly even more important was the fact all provinces agreed in principle with the federal view that existing jail sentences sometimes in the 1956 Fauteux committee report should be accepted as the basis for penal reform in Canada.

Justice Minister Fulton described this agreement as the "central achievement" of the conference.

A communique issued at the conference's close said:

"It is the confident hope of all participants that the consideration that the foundation has been laid for major reforms in Canada's correction system.

"It was recognized, however, that there will be a considerable preliminary planning that is required and that three years before one can create results of the plans agreed upon now appeared."

Biggest problem to be surmounted is that of providing accommodation for the extra prisoners the federal government will have to assume after the conference when the change of responsibility is completed.

Mr. Fulton said the federal government has accepted the principle that no more than 600 prisoners should be kept in any one institution.

On the basis, the central government—which already has an overcrowding problem—estimates operations of about $15,000,000—would have to build or the provinces at least five more prisons. The eventual number likely will be greater.

A condition of this proposed change in responsibility for pris-

UN WILL EXTEND PROGRAM TO HELP BACKWARD LANDS

Votes to Set up Fund For Special Projects

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The General Assembly Tuesday created a special projects fund aimed at broadening the scope of existing United Nations programs of technical assistance to underdeveloped countries.

By a vote of 77 to 0, with only one abstention and three members absent, the assembly decided to establish the fund to assist "projects in the field of resources."

It is expected to have an initial working income of $100,000,000 a year.

The assembly resolution said the fund might be used initially in carrying out surveys, research and training, demonstrations and pilot projects but it should concentrate as far as possible on "relatively large" projects rather than spreading its resources thinly over a large number of small ones.

CANADA TO UN

Participation in the fund would be limited to member states of the United Nations, its specialized agencies and the International Atomic Energy Commission and to certain states members of the United Nations.

A number of countries objected to the two provisions and they were voted on separately at the request of Czechoslovakia.

The assembly voted 46 to 0 with 27 abstentions to retain that portion of the draft limiting participation. Canada was in the West Could Have Finished War in 1944 Says Monty

NEW YORK (CP)—Field Marshal Montgomery says the Western Allies could have ended the Second World War in 1944 in Europe instead of in May, 1945.

A German general agrees with him.

The view that Germany could have been defeated a few months after the landings in northern France is set-forth in the second instalment of Montgomery's memoirs published by Life magazine Tuesday. The British war leader's story is being serialized simultaneously in Canada in Weekend Magazine.

Montgomery says he presented a plan concentrating the West's resources into a 40-division thrust directly up the west coast of Europe toward the Ruhr and Berlin.

The Allied breakout from the Normandy beachhead began July 25, 1944, and swiftly overran German armies. Montgomery wrote in his memoirs:

"The German situation in France in the middle of August 1944 was desperate. Paris fell on the 25th August and the reports of the intelligence summary issued by Eisenhower's headquarters said: 'Two and a half months of bitter fighting . . . have brought end of the war in the West within sight, almost within reach . . . .

"The end of the war in Europe was most certainly within reach. But what was now needed were quick decisions and, above all, a plan. I had a plan and . . . a

The Associated Press asked German General Guenther Blumentritt, now 68 and living in Germany, to comment on Montgomery's plan. Blumentritt was chief of staff of the German western armies at that time under Field Marshal von Rundstedt.

"I am absolutely convinced that the war would have been ended in 1944," Blumentritt said. there would have been a saving of Allied lives and that the Western Allies would have been in Berlin before the Russians, had Montgomery's plan been carried out," Blumentritt said.

The German general said the Normandy landings completely disorganized after the Normandy fighting and there would not have been the resources available—25 divisions—to unleashed single thrust of great strength.

Montgomery says he and Gen. Omar Bradley, the U.S. commander, disagreed in strategy. He says Eisenhower adopted a "broad front" approach because there were not enough supplies.

TUNISIA READY TO BREAK WITH ARAB REPUBLIC

Morocco Seeking To Patch Quarrel

TUNIS (AP)—Tunisia is considering breaking diplomatic relations with the United Arab Republic, accusing President Nasser of meddling in internal Tunisian politics.

The feud between Cairo and Premier Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia indicated a struggle for the allegiance of other North African Arabs.

Morocco sought to patch up the quarrel.

The feud flared up Saturday when Tunisia broke up an Arab League meeting in Cairo by declaring some big Arab nations or groups were not in the Nasser group. Tunisian spokesman later said they meant the U.A.R.

Tunisia's foreign minister, Dr. Sadok Mokaddem, told reporters in Tunis here were two main reasons for the action in Cairo. Interference by the U.A.R. in Tunisian internal affairs and U.A.R. support for a group of Tunisians hostile to Bourguiba's government, particularly Salah Ben Youssef.

MAY BREAK OFF

Mokaddem added that a diplomatic break with the U.A.R. "is under study."

Tunisia accused the U.A.R. last March of aiding Youssef in a plot to assassinate Bourguiba.

Youssef broke up as Arab independence movement against French rule in 1956 when that course. Youssef, an anti-Western extremist, has been in exile in Cairo since 1956 when sentenced to death here for allegedly stirring up anti-Bourguiba demonstrations.

Bourguiba said March 6 that unless Nasser gave a "serious explanation" of the alleged plot, "we no longer have any need of diplomatic relations with Egypt."

JOIN ARB LEAGUE

Nothing came of this, however. Tunisia drew nearer the U.A.R. by joining the Arab League Oct. 1. The meeting in Cairo Saturday was to welcome Tunisia and Morocco as new members.

Tunisian delegate Habib Al Thamir said Tunisia's foreign minister had hesitated to join because "some delegations from big countries" had been trying to impose domination on other delegations.

The U.A.R. delegation angrily walked out, and Tunisia also left.

The remaining 7 league members in effect censured Tunisia by removing Al Shatty's remarks from the official record of the U.A.R. to return. Nasser's delegates came back Monday. The Tunisian delegates stayed away.

Meanwhile, the Cairo press attacked Bourguiba in the most strident tones recently reserved for King Saud of Saudi Arabia.

Al Akhbar said Bourguiba did not dare criticize Nasser in Tunisia because "the people would not tolerate it.

"The Tunisian people is in a position to have him ousted from power and removed from the throne," the paper said, citing murders of the ousted royal government in Iraq, the paper said.

AID ONTARIO STRIKERS

CALGARY (CP)—The Calgary Metal Workers Union, an affiliate of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.), voted Tuesday to contribute one day's wages a month to the striking workers at Sudbury, Ontario. About $1,000 a month will be paid by 13,000 striking International Nickel Company employees in Sudbury and Port Colborne.

De Gaulle Faces Threat Of Revolt by Rightists

ALGIERS (AP) — Rightist politicians in Algeria called for a general strike Thursday afternoon during demonstrations protesting the presence of Gaulle's order banning the French army from politics in the North African territory.

In Paris, Gen. Raoul Salan, the military governor of Algeria, and Gen. Paul Ely, commander of all French forces, met with de Gaulle and the cabinet. It was assumed the premier was impressing on them his determination to reimpose the government's authority over the army in Algeria.

Civilian members of the central committee of public safety for Algeria, who touched off the May 13 revolt against the Fourth Republic that brought de Gaulle back to power, raised the threat of a similar r e b e l l i o n against de Gaulle.

TO CONTINUE FIGHT

The Algerian politicians, already openly dissatisfied with de Gaulle's overtures to the Algerian Moslems, said they would "continue their fight for the integration of May 13"—integration of Algeria into France, which would mean French control.

De Gaulle in his order said he would "see that the election Nov. 23 of Algerian representatives to the National Assembly would be held "under conditions of absolute regularity and sincerity and so that candidates or "all tendencies" could emerge.

Army officers resigned Tuesday from the public safety committees in obedience to de Gaulle. But they did not hide their bitter-

Mother of Two Charged With Hamilton Murder

HAMILTON (CP)—The mother of two children was charged with murder Tuesday night after the body of a man she lived died of a knife wound.

Victor Silenuk, 34, stabbed in the back, staggered to a northend grocery store and gasped: "I've been knifed." He died on the way to hospital. Charged was Eleanor Graham, 34.

Police said a trail of blood led from the kitchen of Silenuk's home to the front door and 50 feet to the corner store. A 10-inch bread knife was found in the house. The children, Victor, 4, and Sandra, 18 months, were asleep in a bedroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Wakenell, owners of the store, said Silenuk, a truck driver, had made a small purchase minutes before he returned to the establishment with his fatal injury.

Neighbors said the Silenuks were a quiet couple and they heard no sounds of a scuffle. Friends said Mr. Silenuk was "a very nice man."

Police picked up a woman found hiding behind a truck in an alley shortly after the stabbing.

GM Production Force Climbs to 75,000 Workers

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors' active production force climbed to about 75,000 Tuesday with the local strike settlements.

The total was less than one-quarter of GM's full normal employment.

Strikes on local issues have continued since the Oct. 4 national contract settlement between GM and the United Auto Workers applying to the company's 126 plants. There have been settlements at 32 plants on local issues.

As GM continued its effort to get back all its 275,000 hourly-paid production workers, Chrysler resumed its separate talks with the UAW on contract terms for its 8,000 salaried office workers and engineers.

American Motors, facing a 10 a.m. Friday deadline, also met with the union.

The UAW and AMC have yet to agree on a contract covering 13,000 workers. The previous three-year contract had been extended to Friday.

Martha Raye Going to Altar For Nth Time

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Comedienne Martha Raye, and Robert O'Shea say they plan to be married. A bank spokesman reported Tuesday night. O'Shea was divorced in Bridgeport, Conn. Tuesday.

Miss Raye opened a three-week engagement at the Sahara Sept. 30.

Mrs. Barbara Ann Farr O'Shea obtained a divorce on grounds of intolerable cruelty.

The former Westport, Conn., policeman said he has a private detective agency here. He said he gave his age as 31. Miss Raye is 42.

Judge George C. Conway ordered O'Shea to pay his divorced wife maintenance of $100 plus $120 monthly for support of their child.

Mrs. O'Shea charged alienation of affections in a $60,000 suit against Miss Raye. Mrs. O'Shea's lawyer said the suit was settled for a substantial sum.

British Papers Urge Africa To Drop Charges

LONDON (CP) — In strikingly similar language, two London newspapers urged the South African government to drop its proceedings against 156 defendants in the long-drawn-out treason trial, hailed Monday with the verdict of not guilty in the judgment against the accused.

The Times and the Daily Telegraph, noting that the defendants have not been formally discharged by the court, use the phrase "cut and mouse" to describe the Commonwealth nation's Other British editorial comment joins in urging South Africa to put a case to an end.

The Times says the original 156 "have been arrested two years ago "by methods striking reminiscent of the Nazi era. Conviction would-up." Sixty-one were discharged last January and "no prosecution in South Africa or anywhere else has been convicted that a single case for the defence was in fact guilty of any specific charge."

The Daily Telegraph observes that legal processes have been followed. It also announces the trial as "the spectacle of a political quarrel being pursued almost to legal exorbitance."

TECHNICAL MOVE

The Manchester Guardian says dismissal of the charges cannot be regarded as an act of clemency. It is a legal move, purely as a technical manoeuvre.

PUC at Kingston Approves Vote On Gas Lease

KINGSTON (CP) — Kingston Public Utilities Commission Tuesday night gave third and final reading to a bylaw requesting city council to put before a public vote the lease agreement with Lake Ontario Gas Company Limited.

After the PUC approved the agreement and bylaw by a 3-2 vote, commissioner R. L. Dauphin said they would submit a minority report to city council on their dissenting vote.

Man With Nazi Swastika Drawings Held in Atlanta Synagogue Bombing

ATLANTA (AP)—Police said today they believe they hold the key that will unlock the mystery of bombings at two Atlanta synagogues by a secret ring of anti-Jewish fanatics.

Officers investigating the dynamiting of the Hebrew Benevolent Congregation Temple here arrested a fifth man Tuesday and booked him on a charge of bombing. The temple was bombed early Sunday.

Police Chief T. Little identified the man as Wallace H. Allen and said he admitted he was one of those who helped plot the Atlanta bombing last May. The other man accused of taking part in the May meeting is George Michael Bright, 35. Both live in Atlanta.

The reported break in the investigation came a statement by an unidentified man who said he and four others attended the meeting and planned the bombings here, climaxed by the dynamiting in Birmingham, Ala. All the bombings have occurred in the last eight months.

Rewards for the Atlanta dynamiters have climbed to $13,000.

Allen told arresting officers: "If it's the bombing you're interrogating me, I don't know anything about it. I've never even seen a stick of dynamite." Detectives said they found pencilled drawings of a Nazi swastika and anti-Semitic literature in Allen's home.

Under arrest in addition to Allen and Bright were Robert A. Bowden, 35, Stone Mountain; Ku Klux Klansman, and Kenneth Chester Griffin, 32, all of Atlanta.

Investigators said they believe that when the $200,000 Atlanta bomb plot is solved it will clear up other synagogue bombings in Miami and Jacksonville, Fla.; Nashville, Tenn., and an attempted dynamiting in Birmingham, Ala. All the bombings have occurred in the last eight months.

Rewards for the Atlanta dynamiters have climbed to $13,000.

Washington Sees Scant Hope Of Settling Formosa Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is trying to persuade Nationalist China to withdraw some troops from its offshore islands even though officials here see little chance of negotiating a Formosa settlement with Communist China.

The fate of U.S. action is apparent in statements made by State Secretary Dulles at his press conference Tuesday.

Dulles denied that the United States has any plans whatever for urging Nationalist China to reduce its military strength on the island. He also said that the Communist have extended their bombing there by an additional two weeks.

He added, however, that "no doubt there are discussions that are going on" now on Formosa and the Pescadores Islands, where Neil McElroy and others as to the most useful disposition of Nationalist forces.

He then drew a sharp line between urging Nationalist President Chiang Kai - shek to cut down his forces for military reasons and for political reasons and saying that Chiang should want some kind of agreement to avoid conflict with the Communists.

Dulles said the military question itself is whether it is more effective to have Chiang's forces deployed "on the mainland, perhaps on Quemoy and Matsu or to have a greater number on Formosa. There would be greater flexibility and greater range of operations from Formosa bases—bases—and they could go back to Quemoy if the security were there."

He spoke of the "military question" of reducing manpower "as a possibility" by shifting some of the remaining troops on the offshore islands.

Nationalists have openly opposed any troop withdrawal. But reports from Formosa indicated they may be resigned to the idea of fewer troops equipped with better weapons.

Cabinet Crisis In Lebanon Has Been Solved

BEIRUT (Reuters) — Twenty days of cabinet crisis in Lebanon ended today when a government of 14 ministers was formed. Number 15 ministers to four from eight and shared among Christians and Moslems and Christians.

The announcement of the new government was made by the threatened strike by 20,000 trade unionists and hospital and oil refinery strike of the Christian Falangists that began three weeks ago.

The jubilant Falangists, who have a large representation in government, fired thousands of shots in the air as they marched through started taking down the barricades in the Christian quarter of the capital.

KARAMI STILL PREMIER

Premier Rashid Karami and Deputy Premier Pierre Gemayel, leader of the Falangists, and deputy premier; Raymond Eddé, a Christian group), former minister, and Hussein Oueini, a Moslem and former premier, foreign minister.

Other cabinet portfolios were: Karami—finance; Gemayel—defence and information; Gemayel —public works, education and agriculture; Eddé—social affairs and communications, and Oueini —justice and planning.

Gemayel never has been either a minister or a deputy.

Agreement between the opposing parties was reached early today at the Presidential Palace. Thousands of Lebanese waited anxiously throughout the night for the settlement was announced by radio about 2 a.m. local time.

Hammarskjold Gives Views On UN Force

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold today recommended that the assembly set up standing arrangements to get military forces from member countries quickly to meet specific "conflict situations."

Hammarskjold made his recommendation in a 34,000-word report on the UN's experience with its Middle East emergency force.

Hammarskjold said experience with the different forms of UN operations would be greatly facilitated if Canada, Sweden and Jordan had shown the need for flexibility.

"In each new conflict situation in which the United Nations might be called upon to intervene with military personnel," he said, "the nature of the actual organization required would depend by the participants of the situation and could not, therefore, be anticipated in advance."

SITUATIONS DIFFER

Such situations differ so much, he said, that "the ad hoc United Nations force of the type successfully created so far, without great practical value."

He recommended therefore that the assembly "do no more than endorse certain basic principles which would provide a flexible and adaptable framework for later operations."

Hammarskjold said his secretariat then could sound out governments "on a confidential basis" on the possibility of having to provide certain forces on a standby basis, on specific appeal from United Nations—even and "material" for specific UN operation.

He stressed, however, that in each future case he would need specific authorization from the assembly or the Security Council before he could actually appeal to a member nation for military personnel to be sent to another member country.

Army Chiefs Appeal to Eisenhower Against Civilian Space Agency Raid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army generals have planned a direct appeal to President Eisenhower against a congressional plan to take the U.S. Army surrender its manned space talent and facilities to the new civilian space agency.

Maj.-Gen. John B. Medaris, chief of the army's developmental missile command, flew into Washington Tuesday night and after discussions with Eisenhower for this morning.

There was no immediate comment from the White House.

Brucker refused to discuss the proposed transfer of talent. However, defence department officials said Keith Glennan, the new administration director, had made the proposal to Brucker and Eisenhower at this week's meeting of the National Aeronautics and Space Council.

Medaris and Brucker to arrange an appointment with Eisenhower for this morning.

The proposal would require the army to turn over about 3,000 scientists, engineers and technicians now working at the Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Alabama, the entire facilities and personnel of the army's jet propulsion laboratory at Los Angeles.

Official army spokesmen contend that the loss of their key scientists, including Germany's Dr. Wernher von Braun, could seriously undermine the army's advanced work on military missiles.

The law which set up the civilian space administration permits it, by direction of the president, to order levies on the military services for personnel and facilities in the space field. This authority would terminate Dec. 31. Thereafter, Congress would have to approve such transfer from the military to the civilian administration.

Bumper Worm Crop Brings Skunk Smell

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) The Marin County, Calif., board of supervisors met Tuesday to consider skunks — and heard a dozen complaints about coming to City from people who smelled trouble.

Agricultural commissioner Thomas Ferguson said there was a bumper crop of skunks because there is a bumper crop of field mice because there is a bumper crop of worms.

He recommended poison and traps. The board turned him down. It said children and pets might be victims. It asked Ferguson to study a bounty for skunks.

Striking Miners Plan Meet With Longshoremen

MONTREAL (CP) — Striking miners in Northern Ontario Tuesday arranged a meeting with officials of the International Longshoremen's Association (Ind.) to discuss the longshoremen from Montreal to Fort William, British freighter Birmingham City.

The six miners set up a picket line at Montreal harbor early Tuesday but longshoremen ignored it.

Jack Quesnelville, executive officer of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.), said he was to meet with Clarence Hall, ILA business agent Hector Marchand.

"I am confident (that the longshoremen) will respect our position," he said. "Overall talk to other labor unions, too. We will make sure that cargo is not handled, here or elsewhere."

STAFF OF CHAMBER NOW SIGNED UP IN UNITED APPEAL

Mr. J. N. Yanover, president of the Chamber of Commerce, is pleased to announce that the staff of the chamber, have now been enrolled on a payroll deduction plan in aid of the United Appeal Campaign. Deductions will commence immediately. Mr. Bruce Kerr director of the CAS was the canvasser. The chamber sponsored the payroll deduction plan and starting today many business men and women are launching the United Appeal Blitz.

Chamber Lights Out Half Hour

City council was in the dark for more than half an hour Tuesday evening as municipal deliberations were carried out.

Literally in the dark that is.

During the course of the evening's business the lights in the council chamber suddenly went out and did not come on again for 40 minutes by the reaction council continued their discussion in the dark.

This morning public utilities commission officials said a section of line in the lower Pinnacle Street area had burned out, causing failure of lights in the immediate area.

Health Dept. Needs More Space Council Told

Possibility of the Opportunity Shop or part of the inside market area of city hall being used to increase accommodation of the city health department will be investigated, by city council.

At last night's council meeting of controller Alderman Dr. James Forrester told members that the department staff had recently been increased to six nurses in readiness for serving the added population to come into the city with annexation and that additional space was "desperately needed."

At last week's clinic 150 persons with children were standing in line at city hall health department with no water or toilet facilities available.

He said the feeling was that more accommodation for the health department was not being encouraged by members of council. "They simply have got to have more space," Dr. Forrester said.

City Manager Drury Denyes said he had no specific action pending the outcome of negotiations with the Ontario Hydro for the building on Pinnacle Street formerly used as office headquarters.

But Ald. Doug Moxam suggested additional space could be provided quickly through utilization of the area now used by the opportunity shop. Also this could be renovated and used as a waiting room with entrance off Market Street and use another section of the city hall present space for the Opportunity Shop.

Ald. Alderman wondered what useful purpose the inside market now served, as farmer attendance had fallen off considerably in recent years.

One Campaign, Payroll Plan Distinguishing Features of First United Appeal Here

For the past two years the various campaigns for community welfare organizations have had exceedingly poor support from Belleville citizens. Due to this a citizens' committee held a public meeting on May 19th last and inaugurated the United Appeal program for welfare organizations. Under the guidance of a board of twenty-nine persons, including ten officers or directors, ten persons representative of the local agencies concerned, and nine other persons chosen at large from the community, a campaign has been planned for this communities.

The basis of the campaign is that there would be only one appeal by the agencies involved and that the local citizen may easily contribute to this appeal via a payroll deduction arrangement if he so desires.

AGENCIES CHIEF

The United Appeal campaign replaces the former Community Chest organization. The Community Chest organization —The St. John Ambulance Association, the Red Cross Society, Canada, the Boy Scouts Association, the Girl Guides, Aid Society, the Y.M.C.A., the Victorian Order of Nurses, and the Salvation Army Rehabilitation Society — have been added the Canadian National Institute for the Blind and the Canadian Red Cross Society. With the additions of those two large agencies there also exists the possibility of several smaller and newer welfare societies joining the United Appeal in the next year. For these reasons the objective of $85,000 is much above last year's Community Chest objective.

This objective was arrived at by each agency submitting a budget for its forthcoming year's activities. These budgets were examined and approved by the United Appeal directorate and, together with estimated administration costs and a contingency reserve to those additional agencies which might join before the next campaign were consolidated into one campaign.

CANVASSING DIVIDED

Under the chairmanship of Mr. Archie Lewis, the United Appeal's campaign has been split into several canvasing divisions, including national corporations, railways, special nantes, residential, public service, professional, businesses, trades and labour council payroll deduction, and payroll deductions.

The payroll deduction scheme is new to this area, although it has been tried with great success in other communities for some time. It allows everyone to contribute via a weekly, bi - weekly, or monthly deduction rather than having to contribute one lump sum. Information and literature is available to the employees of over seventy - five local firms from manufacturing, trade and commerce to Belleville General Hospital, the various local municipal departments. Belleville Public Library, Albert College and the staffs of our public and secondary schools.

The payroll deduction canvass begins today. There will also be a house-to-house canvass starting October 27th to cover those who have not participated in the canvass plan. Mr. Lewis states that those citizens who are actively working on the United Appeal are confident that their fellow-citizens generosity will be able to reach the $85,000 objective with little trouble.

Little Countries Of Europe Will Be First Film

Thursday evening the first of a series of six travelogue films sponsored by the Kiwanis Club will be shown in the Collegiate auditorium at 8:00 o'clock. Nicol Smith will present a travelogue on the little countries of Europe. He will take the audience on a magic-carpet trip to the four smallest nations in the entire world: Monaco, Andorra, San Marino and Liechtenstein in order for the traveller to orient his bearings right he will to give him the geographical location of each one of the Lilliputian countries. Monaco — a territory of southeastern France — is situated on the coast of the Mediterranean Ocean, 9 miles east of Nice. Andorra is located on the Franco-Spanish frontier and is chiefly on the northern slope of the Pyrenees. San Marino is a tiny republic on the North-eastern coast of Italy, Liechtenstein lies south along the right bank of the Rhine, between Austria and Switzerland.

Each of these tiny principalities has miniature dimensions, the largest one possessing proudly possessing 175 square miles; and the smallest — Monaco only eight square miles — about the size of Central Park in New York City! Each has a proud past which reaches back deep into medieval history. Although they enjoy a spirit and nearly of self-containment and independence. Each one possesses color and atmosphere that makes all of them unique jewels of national pride and achievement.

Minor Baseball Was Success Meeting Told

A large enthusiastic group of baseball players, managers and executive members met last evening to wind up the season's business at the Belleville Parks or Baseball Association.

The meeting, presided by president Russell Soule was also directed to plan for next year with a number pertinent ideas giving constructive advise and criticisms on how to better the league.

It was the opinion of all present that the baseball facilities in city are inadequate to fulfill the needs of all the boys wishing to play ball.

The Ainslie field came up for discussion and it was hoped that plans installed by the Belleville Kiwanis Club to make this field into a minor ball league park would be fulfilled within the next few months. Also it was also suggested to lay out another ball diamond at the Fair grounds.

Parent interest took up much discussion and plans for next year will be for more parent participation, participation and attendance at all minor league games.

At the conclusion of the meeting, president Soule thanked all who had so ably assisted him this past year and predicted a bigger and better year for 1959. He said that 1958 was a tremendous year in that the baseball team won the all-city Baseball Association finals only to lose out to Stirling in the conference but out in the second round to Port Colborne, while the minors lost out to Thomas, with the juveniles being knocked out by Cobourg.

Mention also reported that the local leagues went well. The Giants, coached by Joe McNeil won the peewee championship. The Marlins, coached by Ed Darrell won the bantam championship and the Orioles, coached by Bob Sinfield won the midget championship.

Council Claims Gas Company Not Properly Fixing Streets

Further criticism of the Lakeland Natural Gas Company because of its alleged failure to properly repair its trench streets and pavements following installation of gas mains, was heard at city council Monday night.

City Engineer Malcolm, Turnbull said that there had been a lack of co-operation by the gas company contractor in repairing designated sections of streets and that complaints had been disregarded.

He said request from his department that not only not being carried out but were being deliberately ignored.

Complaints generally was that excavations were being backfilled and then were left idle without the pavement being repaired immediately.

Mr. Turnbull said he had asked that re-instatement of streets be carried on by the contractor in a systematic fashion so as that no section would be missed. Instead of this repairs were being effected in a spotty fashion and he was afraid the city would be left with considerable repairs after all the company had completed its work.

Several councillors noted that they had been receiving complaints from residents of streets being left with excavation backfill below pavement level and City Solicitor R. A. Pringle said he also had sought to have matters rectified.

Under the terms of the gas company's contract with the city streets and sidewalks were to be repaired satisfactorily. Apparently this is not being done.

Earlier in the year when street repairs were not being carried out speedily enough for the liking of city officials, pavement re-instatement had been carried out by the gas company complained, however, that the charge for this work was too high and a separate contractor was hired to do the job.

Mr. Pringle said the gas company was now responsible to the city's bill and that the city would probably have to sue to get the money.

Operations of the separate maintenance crew being directed by Donovan Construction who are laying the gas mains and instructions to speed effort were not being carried out.

Mayor Hamilton Hunt of Alderman Dr. James Forrester it was agreed that a representative of Lakeland Gas would be invited to attend the next committee meeting to discuss with him the view of ironing out difficulties.

Another phase of the gas question discussed briefly at last week's meeting was whether the city should employ an inspector to check on domestic gas installations.

City Manager Denyes said that in conversation with the fuel board he had learned that this was not considered necessary as all installers of gas equipment were licensed and would carry out their own inspection.

TO HOLD INQUEST

ADDINGTON, Ont. (CP)—Provincial police says Sunday an inquest into the death of Antonio Dipasquali, killed Aug. 21 when a bomb exploded in his car, will be held Oct. 22. Investigators have said they have turned up few clues in the case. Dipasquali was killed when he pressed the starter of his car and a homemade bomb went off.

Urge Holding Middlemen to Lowest Number

QUEBEC (CP)—If the difference between producers' prices and those paid by the consumer is to be narrowed the number of middlemen must be held to a minimum, a royal commission was told Tuesday.

The commission, studying food produce price spreads, heard the suggestion from the Quebec Cooperative Council and the Federation of Co-Operative Stores.

Their briefs, before the seven-member commission, formed in part and finishing its cross-Canada investigation here, said the aim of amalgamation is profit. The more handlers of food between producer and buyer the greater the difference between the producers' price and the cost of the buyer.

FEELS CO-OPS ANSWER

Both groups felt co-ops could narrow this middle ground. Co-op members were both producers and customers, and their main aim was service rather than profit.

Dear mother, you are not forgotten,
Though death has claimed you so many
Still in memory you are with us,
As you always were before.
Never remembered by the Dafoe family.

WOOD — In loving memory of my son, Carl (Buck) Wood, who passed away October 15th, 1952.
"Buck" is gone but we still have "Little Buck" in the same old way.
To hear your voice and see your smile.
To sit with you and chat awhile;
I was out there to see you die.
To clasp your hand and say good-bye.
But I remember every whole His through.
The last few words I had with you.
—Always remembered and sadly missed by mother, sisters, brothers, nieces and Ray.

WOOD — In loving memory of my father, Carl (Buck) Wood, who was taken suddenly October 15th, 1952.
Lines a note of an old-fashioned song
Brings me a thought of you;
Sometimes the days I pass along.
Or a sky that is azure blue,
Or a silver lining in the clouds,
When through sunshine's peeping
—Never remembered by daughter Sharon.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was mixed today in moderately active morning trading.

Industrials continued to fall off before the profit-taking that started late Tuesday and lost almost one point on index today. Golds were off one-third, but their senior issues were practically inactive.

Base metals after tumbling four points in a hour near the close Tuesday were ahead almost three-quarters of a point. West-

Volume at 11 a.m. was 1,265,000 shares, down from Tuesday's 1,698,000.

Macfie was the most active issue and the copper stock turned over 275,000 shares. It was down six cents at 38 cents. Noranda Gold gained four cents at 46 cents on 102,000 shares.

International Nickel ahead ½ at 80 was one of the few industrial issues up.

Court of Appeal Orders J.A. Mills Serve 6 Months

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Court of Appeal ruled Tuesday that a former Belleville postal employee must serve six months in jail for stealing a letter.

James A. Mills had been acquitted by a magistrate earlier this year who said there was reasonable doubt that Mills stole the letter. Postal authorities said the magistrate had a bias in the letter and later found them on Mills.

The Crown appealed the acquittal and the higher court ruled Tuesday that the magistrate had erred in acquitting Mills.

Stengel Signs 2-Year Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — Casey Stengel today signed a new two-year contract to manage the baseball Yankees through 1960.

The salary figures were announced but it was believed Stengel, 68, would receive in the neighborhood of $75,000 and $80,000 for each of the next two years. His salary was believed to have called for $70,000 in each of the last two seasons. He was working on a two-year contract which has just expired.

The announcement was made by Yankee co-owner Dan Topping and general manager George Weiss, who said they are "mighty happy that Stengel will remain.

Union, Company Members to Meet Labor Minister

Friday morning the representatives of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Ltd. and of the Marmora Local 5375 of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CLC) will meet in Toronto with the Hon. Charles Daley, Ontario Minister of Labor and some of his department's conciliation officers. This is the first move towards union-management negotiations since the strike started at 8:00 a.m. last Friday morning.

Some 200 workers of the Deloro Smelting and Refining plant near Marmora are affected by the strike, Charles Clemens, president of Local 5375 of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CLC), reports that the morale of the strikers is high and that several other union locals have contributed to Local 5375's welfare fund, the administration of which will be decided upon tomorrow by Messrs. Bert Gargraves and Gower Markle from the national office of the USA in Toronto. Picket camps have been set up by the Deloro plant and the members on picket duty are receiving hot coffee and light snacks.

Mr. R. G. Walsh, of Deloro Smelting, Belleville, stated that to date the picketing at the Deloro mine has been very quiet and orderly and that the office staff is still working. If an agreement can be reached between the union and management the Marmora plant should be able to reopen in a week's time unless maintenance preparation for winter is required in which case operations would not be able to start for about three weeks.

New Indictment Being Prepared In Treason Trials

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuters) — Transvaal Attorney-General W. J. McKenzie said Tuesday it will be at least two weeks before the South African mass treason trial can be resumed on a new indictment now being prepared.

The crown Monday withdrew the original indictment. It charged 91 persons with treatment and preparation to overthrow the existing state by revolutionary methods involving violence and the establishment of a so-called people's democracy on the basis of eastern European Communist satellite states and China."

McKenzie said Tuesday that a new indictment had to be framed and served on the accused, with defence counsel given time to study it.

He added that he had begun framing the new indictment.

McKenzie said he could not say whether all 91 defendants would be reindicted or whether there would be a single charge involving them all.

He said the situation had reverted to what it had been when the accused were committed for trial at the end of the preparatory examination. McKenzie said he was starting afresh on that basis.

The defendants, he said, were also in the same situation they occupied at the end of the preparatory examination. They would still a charge against them and they were not free but on bail.

Earlier South African Justice Minister Charles Swart conferred with government legal experts concerned with the trial amid speculation the case would open before the Supreme Court here early next year.

Originally, 156 people of all races — including a member of Parliament, an African university professor and a white Methodist minister—were accused. The prosecution subsequently withdrew the charges against 65.

Several of the professional men on trial have had to abandon their practices. Others have lost their jobs.

Most face the prospect of a long term of imprisonment if convictions are filed Tuesday with members of the accused seeking assistance.

Police Monday night raided a party, attended by 60 of the accused to celebrate the withdrawal of the first indictment. One guest said the police broke through the windows, cleared the amount of liquor in the house, and then loaded it onto a police car. No arrests were made.

Three Guilty Of Driving Cars Without Licence

TRENTON — Three cases of persons driving without an operator's licence were heard before Magistrate T. J. Wills in court in Trenton on Tuesday.

Joseph Pomerau of Trenton was fined $50 and costs after he entered a plea of guilty on driving a car without an operator's licence. He was also ordered to pay $3 costs. Constable Sid Vickers gave evidence for the crown.

Russell Hill of Trenton also pleaded guilty to a similar charge and was sentenced to seven days in the county jail. Constable Bruce Westfall gave evidence.

Raymond VanHedegan, presently of Batawa and Frankford stood trial on two cases of driving without a licence and was the fifth time he faced the same charge. One of the charges was laid after the Frankford police and the other by Trenton department.

In giving evidence in the Frankford charges Police Chief Ed McGeachy said he had smashed into another vehicle causing about $100 worth of damage. The chief said he understood this is the second time the same thing happened. VanHedegan is employed by the Batawa Plant.

GIVEN 11 DAYS

Magistrate Wills sentenced him to 11 days in jail on the Frankford charge and to seven days on the Trenton charge with the terms to run concurrently. The Magistrate said this will be an example to him and to others ra well.

Reus Simpson was given one year's suspended sentence and ordered to make restitution for a damaged car and to pay five dollars cost when he pleaded guilty to a charge of joy-riding.

In giving evidence for the crown Constable Sid Vickers told the court the accused had taken a vechicle belonging to Lange and Lange and had injured it over on its side while driving it on the Wooler Road. It was Simpson's first offence.

Magistrate Wills ordered the accused to make restitution at the rate of $100 at the end of two weeks and the balance at the end of four weeks.

Frank Williams, Trenton, was sentenced to two months in jail on a charge of keeping liquor for sale.

RECOVER MAIL

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Six bags of mail bellived stolen from a hijacked mail van at London were found Sunday, ripped open, and their contents scattered through a dense wooded area in Westminster Township. The bags were found by Hugh Ramsay of London while he was taking a walk. Police said they appeared to be part or all of the loot stolen from a royal mail truck when driver James Dolphin of London was dragged from his truck by three youths. The truck was later found abandoned a short distance away.

A feature attraction at Grace Hospital in Detroit were these quadruplets born Sunday to Mrs. Julia Ullman, extreme right, wife of Chester H. Ullman, a carpenter-living in suburban Clawson. Pictured behind the incubators from left: Dr. Jean Moldredge, hospital pediatrician; nurse Mrs. Mary Pieschinski; Dr. William F. Stanley, who made the delivery, and Mrs. Ullman. The quads were born 32 days premature, scurely and weighed a total of 16 pounds, 14 ounces. (AP Wirephoto.)

Grand Ole Opry Show Coming To Gardens

TRENTON — The Grand Ole Opry, direct from Nashville, Tennessee, will appear at the Community Gardens auditorium on Friday, October 17, at 8.30 p.m.

Heading an all star cast will be Porter Wagner, the popular Lovebelle Carter of the original Carter Family and the entertainers will arrive in Trenton for a two hour personal appearance in the heated auditorium.

All tickets will be sold only on the night of the engagement. The last time the Grand Ole Opry appeared in Trenton they drew a near capacity house; this has played a big part in obtaining another Belleville unit to perform here.

This show is proving to be the nation's number one family show, and has two hours of clean entertainment. The Louvell Brothers will feature their guitarist Paul Yandell. All the performers are with the Capitol Recording Company.

Youths Charged With Attack On Woman, Girl

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Four London youths were charged with rape in connection with an attack on a 16-year-old girl and her 35-year-old companion Sunday.

Charged were: William Scott, Jack Bishop, 17, James Campbell, 19, and Lynn Hepworth, 19.

The woman and the girl told police they had accepted a ride home after a midnight movie. The two said they were taken outside the city and attacked.

Miss Kay Ambrose holds up her two travel companions that have been with her over 27,000 miles while she toured with the National Ballet Company of Canada. The miniature ballet dancers are (left) Lillian and (right) Louise. The dolls are dressed in costumes similar to the ones worn by the internationally famous ballet team that is to appear here on October 28.

Family Killed In Plane Crash

BATAVIA, N.Y. (AP) — A private plane carrying a family of four crashed in a field today and all the passengers were killed.

Police identified the dead as a couple and two children.

The four-place single-engined plane crashed about two miles north of here after taking off from the Batavia airport.

Gilbert Chapell, owner and manager of the airport, said the plane belongs to U.S. Air Force Sgt. Francis McKinney, who had been visiting relatives in the Batavia area.

Chapell said McKinney, his wife and two children took off this morning, presumably en route to Little Rock, Ark., where he was stationed.

State police identified the other victims as Mrs. Anna Made McKinney, 34; a daughter Cherrell, 4, and a son Robert, 2. They said McKinney was 31.

Since the first Canadian television broadcasts were seen in 1952, Canadians have purchased more than 3,000,000 TV sets.

Canadian Ballet Outlined to Kiwanis Club

The interest in ballet insofar as the Kiwanis Club was concerned increased considerably after a speech given by Miss Kay Ambrose, the artistic advisor of the National Ballet Company of Canada to Miss Ambrose outlined the many different phases of ballet that would, she was sure, be found interesting by her all-male audience at the Kwanis Centre on Tuesday.

Chapell said McKinney, his wife and two children took off this morning, presumably en route to Little Rock, Ark., where he was stationed.

State police identified the other victims as Mrs. Anna Made McKinney, 34; a daughter Cherrell, 4, and a son Robert, 2. They said McKinney was 31.

The speakey sketched one of the bronze fortunes and stated that it took several years of material to make such a gown. She also described the many costs in the company must meet such as travelling, production costs and others.

Miss Ambrose, has eight books on ballet published and translated into twice as many languages told of the great popularity the Canadian team had enjoyed abroad. She mentioned in particular the reception the company received in Mexico.

The slight vexations suffered by the members of the troupe while on tour in the United States were explained by Miss Ambrose. She said that the questions asked by people about Canada were particularly disturbing. The problem seemed to be that the answer some of the questioners were receiving had to be very polite. This Miss Ambrose termed as hard to do.

She asked the Kiwanis Club to support the National Ballet Company much in the same way that they supported the Belleville McFarlands and she would be satisfied.

Miss Ambrose mentioned briefly some of the dances which would be performed when the company comes here October 28th. Among the selections on the program will be Les Rendegvous, described as a "delightful interlude" by Mr. Shipides, a well-known classic ballet and the Nutcracker Ballet.

Seated on the head table while Miss Ambrose spoke was a pair of dolls. She said that the dolls had been with her during the travels of nearly 27,000 miles.

It was announced that the new president of the Kiwanis Club is Jerry Wishart.

UNITED APPEAL - - THE BETTER WAY

Today marks the inauguration of Belleville's first United Appeal. With this campaign for funds for the various welfare societies and social service organizations within our community comes the introduction of individuals contributing through a payroll deduction scheme. This method, many feel, is one of the best methods for supporting the organizations involved. It allows an individual citizen to spread his contribution over a year, thus permitting him to make a reasonable donation without financially extending himself over a short period.

We feel that the inadequate support given to local appeals during the past few years has been due to the fact that a person is not always able to give a respectable donation in one lump sum. The large number of various appeals in the past has also been a detrimental factor to the over-all success of these appeals.

Now, however, nine of the major community welfare and social organizations have combined their needs into one fund and one campaign, thus eliminating the expense and bother of several individual annual appeals. It behooves those members of our community who enjoy good health and a steady job or any respectable donation in one lump sum, to the best of their financial well-being to contribute to the best of their capacity in support of the United Appeal. There is no excuse "that I can't afford it right now," because most people can afford to give even twenty cents a week for a year.

There can be no question surely as to the fact that a citizen should support these organizations dedicated to the good health, physically, mentally and socially, of his fellow man and welfare of our community. As in a chain the strength of a democratic society is only as good as its weakest link. Where there exists poverty or ill health, or social problems there cannot exist a healthy civilization. — It is the responsibility, therefore, of the more fortunate citizens to assist, either actively or financially, the less fortunate citizens in the community to overcome their problems and difficulties. That these people are unable to solve their own problems is no excuse for a negative approach to the problem.

We do suggest that the less fortunate citizens be surrounded by a "bed" of welfare organizations with plenty of funds. We do suggest that our welfare groups be supplied with sufficient funds to conduct an adequate program calculated to enable our less fortunate citizens to help themselves out of their individual problems. At the same time our welfare organizations require sufficient additional funds to conduct an adequate expansion program to meet the increasing needs of a growing community. This, we feel, is the positive approach. And this is the approach we feel there is no excuse for any responsible citizen to deny the United Appeal's request for contributions.

For a few cents or dollars each week, depending on a person's income, all of us can make a very significant contribution to our community's well-being and we should easily put our United Appeal "over the top" of its objective.

Let us help ourselves by helping others - - and it can be done by giving just a little bit each week.

THE CASE AGAINST TRANQUILIZERS

This is an age of stress and tranquility.

The case against tranquility, whether attained by pills or dogma, is beautifully stated by a man who, from outward appearances, might be judged one of the most tranquil of the world's present day leaders.

"In a sense, I might say that I rather envy those who have got fixed ideas and therefore need not take the trouble to look deeper into the problems of today. Whether it is from the point of view of some religion or ideology, they are not troubled with the mental conflicts which are always the accompaniment of great issues of translation. And yet, even though it may be more comfortable to have fixed ideas and be complacent, surely that is not to be commended, and can only lead to stagnation and decay."

Nehru said it. Nehru emphasize the reference to "the problems of today" and "great ages of transition" and the observation, we suggest, becomes even more, rather than less, penetrating.

JUST FOLKS

WORK

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Our tasks proclaim our inward souls
Far more than words and deeds control
Unreached may be our fairest goals,
But darkness lies in all our deeds.

The work we do our worth proclaims
Far more than spoken praise can tell;
Indifferent toil the laborer shames,
But good is he who buildeth well.

The idler, though his speech be fair,
Is but an idler, gift of tongue;
By work alone can man declare
The faith to which his soul has clung.

Actions express us as we are;
Men judge us by the things we do;
Good work proclaims the man of state,
In bad work men our weakness view;

Forth from our hands must come our deeds,
In substance must our lives be spun;
We are no better than our deeds,
No greater than the tasks we've done.

Who labors daily at his best,
Who does good work from day to day
Has all his dreams of joy expressed
And kept the faith, let come what may.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article fifty-one contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society under the title "OUR HERITAGE OF THE ROAD" — Local history need not be dull.)

Canniff Haight's "County Life Years Ago" is evidence of that.

This small book published in 1885 by Haight, a native of Prince Edward County and a versatile historian in many ways, Canniff "County Life in Canada Fifty Years Ago" describes the Quinte district as Haight saw it in the 1830's.

Haight's writing is charming, and at times very amusing, pictures of the many aspects of pioneer life, with the result that the reader imagines himself living with Haight in the early years of the Quinte district.

In the preface, Haight sets forth his purpose in publishing this volume of reminiscences. He explained that when his "way seemed hedged around with difficulties, and stifled lies" in later years, he sought respite "in the found in the "jotting down of a few memories" of his boyhood.

Originally the sketches were published in the "Canadian Monthly," and later in book form.

The book's charm is to be seen in its simplicity and its heart.

I have no recollection of my own early life in the world, though I was present when the great event occurred; but I have been told that it took place on the date given (June 4th) is correct, for I have it from my mother and father, who were there at the time, and I think my mother had pretty good reason to know all about it."

"I was sent to school early—more, I fancy to get me out of the way than for any part of the day, than from any expectation that I would learn much. It was not long before I knew the alphabet into my head. But if I was dull at school, I was noisy and mischievous enough at home, and very fond of battledore and shuttle-cock. Games, my parents—and no child ever had better—never, that I can be blamed very much if they did send me to school for no other reason than to be rid of me."

"At the commencement of my educational career, I was one of a little lot of urchins ranged daily on hard wooden seats, with our feet dangling in the air, for seven or eight hours a day. In such a plight we were expected to be very good children, to make no noise, and to learn our lessons."

"The terror of the rod was the only thing that kept us quiet and still, and that often failed. Sometimes, tired and weary, we slunk cheap and tumbled off the bench, to be roused by the fall and cry of real."

Of equal interest are Haight's comments on pioneer homes, many of which still remain. Here are the memories of a man who lived in the Quinte district and it was the frontier of civilization.

Mr. Gordon Friesen, superintendent of the Belleville General Hospital, who returned recently from attending a convention of hospital superintendents and managers in Dallas, Texas, gave a very interesting and informative address on hospital and institutional management at the meeting of the directors of the local Chamber of Commerce on Thursday.

Mrs. Ralph Pulver, Bedeville, and the New York City where she will spend the winter.

Mrs. H. J. Leonard, North Front Street, has returned home after spending several weeks with relatives in Wappingers, N.Y., and Buffalo, N.Y.

Mrs. John J. Davidson, who was here to address the Women's Canadian Club on Thursday evening and Miss Winnifred Rose, who accompanied her from Toronto, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wills on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Shaw-Leliveld have left for Dublin, Ireland, where they will spend the fall and winter. Mr. Shaw-Leliveld is a native of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunayer of Brussels, who operates a restaurant in the Belgium capital, a gourmet's paradise with the result of the recession in the Canadian Pavilion at the World's Fair, is full of European's love for Canadian cheddar.

Mr. Russelly by far, in his busy and well-patronized restaurant, has the finest cheese in European cheeses, he says.

And even, he goes on, some Canadian cheese are carrying European names, are preferred cheese, and are highly esteemed residents of this city for forty years.

Miss Eva Dawe and Miss Inez Bonter were the hostesses at the East Belleville Golf Club today.

Miss Flora Handley has left for her home in Rochester, N. Y., after spending a week here with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harris have returned to the city after visiting friends in Newburgh, New York and Jersey City Heights.

Mr. D. Adam Brown, a former resident of this city and son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brown, Church Street, has been elected Supreme Secretary of the Fraternal Bankers' Association of America, with headquarters at Decatur, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Moyse of New York City are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moyse, Bowood Park.

The Men's Canadian Club of this city has secured some able speakers for this season. Prof. Adam Shortt of Ottawa will address the club on Nov. 9th. He will be followed by the Rev. Canon Cody of Toronto and President Gibbons of the London, Ontario Club. Later President Falconer of Toronto University and the Hon. Adam Beck have consented to address the club.

Don't Mourn Pullman Yet

Christian Science Monitor

If passengers travel by rail continue to decline at the rate of the last decade, says an Interstate Commerce Commission commissioner, such a decade by 1970 — "first-class" travel by rail in this country will be examined qualified it with an "if."

Some railroads seem determined to make this prediction come true. The two big eastern lines, the New York Central and the New York Central, are moving to boost rates in passenger fares by as much as 20 per cent. (They proposed boosting them 25 per cent a year or so ago.)

But here comes some further qualification. It is said that other eastern lines are interested in the Central's plan, and as for western lines — granted that they, too, have abandoned a line or two, they've also added a job the automobile and bus now do better — their fast, deluxe trains reportedly have been crowded throughout the summer. Apparently there is still considerable demand for the pullman-type kind of service the railroads can provide best—comfortable, relaxed, safe travel and travel amid the scenery for the tourist.

Some Douks Sure to Stay

Victoria Times

Professor I. G. Dixon, director of the school of social work at the University of British Columbia, has provided food for thought in his warning about the Doukhobor problem.

His own view is that while there may be some migration to the large centres, he would expect it to anticipate that we will at least have a resident Doukhobor population. The leadership of the Sons of Freedom resistant group has obtained a considerable satisfaction in conflict with the government and public opinion. "They will not willingly give up that satisfaction for a land where they are going to get a chance for more abrupt response than here."

To other words, the professor believes that British Columbia cannot package up its entire problem and mail it, coupled, to Russia. The province cannot include all the dissident in the package, even if it is sent.

If this is a discouraging point of view to some people in this province who saw a possible exodus

Should Eat More Cheese

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEWS ADAMS

WHO NEEDS YOU?

To write and then to have people appreciate it is to be a success. There are not enough people in the world to give encouragement—which is the reason everybody needs it. We all need it! We all need someone to talk to, to confide in, and someone who can look deep into our heart and see the things that are hidden. Human beings are quite alike, regardless of their creed, religion, or nationality. I have met them all and I have loved them all. How good we are! That's a pretty thinking about.

What a wonderful discovery to make, to learn that a new friend actually needed us! And what a privilege to serve that one! I keep getting kindly and helpful letters from strangers. I like to write sometimes hesitate about writing to a stranger, but I have always felt that with a friend, even though unseen or unvisited, it doesn't matter. Most of my friends I have never seen!

Recently I visited a reader of these Talks, at her request, while in a hospital in Oklahoma. It made me so happy to have served in a small way to help another happy, and perhaps to give renewed courage in her fight for health. I couldn't compare such happiness to anything else.

My good friend Robert Updegraff once sent me a little book entitled "Giving Yourself Away." By thus doing you can't long remain unhappy or deserted. Somebody needs us in this big world. Perhaps at this moment a stranger and an unknown, but a friend possibility. Why not invest along the way? Be an explorer of friends! You may discover yourself in one of these. What a thrill that would be!

Baby-Sitter Bank Works

The War Cry

"The Mothers, Union of an Anglican parish in Havelock North (New Wellington), New Zealand, offers baby-sitters to parishioners, for 10c cash, but for reciprocal service.

It all adds up to a "babysitters' bank."

When Mrs. A wants a sitter, she "draws a cheque," which she sends Mrs. Z to sit for the three hours, say, that are involved. Mrs. A then has a credit of three hours, and Mrs. Z a debit of three hours in the account.

Mrs. A will later be called on to liquidate her dept, not necessarily by sitting for Mrs. Z's home, but by "sitting" for someone in the parish.

The sponsors hope the system will not only enable husbands and wives to get out together more often, but also help members of the group to get to know one another better.

Passenger Has Duty, Too

Richmond Times-Dispatch

Is back-seat driving not only justified but even required of an automobile passenger? Courts seem to disagree on the answer.

The Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals has taken the view that while a passenger should not interfere in the routine operation of a motor vehicle, it is his duty, responsibility to call the driver's warning to any danger he sees.

In a 1949 case a passenger was barred from recovering damages as a result of a fatal high court that he was negligent in not telling the driver to slow down and approaching the highway crossing.

In the most recent Virginia case (1956) on this point, the court said:

"A passenger in an automobile driven by another isn't required to exercise the same vigilance and watchfulness as the driver.

"It is, however, the passenger's duty of an automobile passenger for his own safety . . . including a reasonable use of his faculties of sight, hearing and intelligence."

But the Michigan Supreme Court last month decided a case in which, according to the United Press report, the court endorsed the position "that it is the duty of an automobile passenger to sit still and say nothing."

But all court decisions aside, and regardless of the risk of having one's self tagged as a "back-seat driver," the wise passenger who values his own neck will sound the warning of danger if he sees the driver may not be fully aware of the situation.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHOSE BURDEN?

In a letter to the Galatian Christians, St. Paul made a wise statement which bears great significance for us today. He said, "Every man shall bear his own burden," he wrote, "and in another sense, "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil the law of Christ."

Everyone should indeed be able to bear his own burdens. We all know how fine it is to have strength and courage to meet our tasks, who can take responsibility and look after themselves. But it is also true that every man can stand on his own feet.

But the world would not be a very comfortable place if we didn't live in separate ways without sharing our lives with anyone else. If we live with other people and love them, we cannot help sharing their burdens, too. That is the life of Christian fellowship and love, and our troubles would never seem bad when we have someone to sympathize with us and share them.

Paul did not contradict himself. We all should be strong enough to bear our own burdens, but loving enough to bear those of others. And in helping others bear their burdens, we often find that we have gained strength to bear our own more easily.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The song "Volare" which, like most popular compositions, flared like a skyrocket for a week or two and then fizzled out, had a curiously persistent effect on members of the older generation. It waked old memories. And then, suddenly, it got its.

It brought back to mind the banana men. In all Canadian cities of any size fifty years ago, used to pass up and down the residential streets all day long melodiously crying "Oh, banana ripe, banana ry-pip!" Ahead of them they pushed a two-wheeled barrow, heaped high with bananas, and, in season, other fruits. Thirty was only one of the street cries of 1910, but it was the most memorable, because the bananas men were mostly Italians, and they had a sense of music. Among the banana men I recall were a few with real operatic effects in their singing. I remember one who sang "Volare" and its oh-ho, ho-ho, very well indeed. But the banana ry-pip, bananya ry-pip!" with flourishes and cadenzas, to my mind, was the best.

In the quiet clop-clop of residential streets, when there were no delivery carts disturbed the peace, these musical cries were a part of the slumberous quality of cities. In due time, it became too dangerous to push hand carts of bananas through our streets; and besides, door-to-door shopping went out of fashion. Amid the white-milk, clatter-cart cries of our residential streets today, "Volare" was like a voice from the past.

Thousand Boys Now Enrolled In Scout Work

Scouting in Belleville has grown even more rapidly than the community itself. Today approximately 1,000 local boys are enrolled in the Belleville Boy Scouts Association.

The job of training these growing boys to become better citizens is undertaken by 110 devoted men and women, backed by the assistance of nearly 300 local citizens. All are serving voluntarily, sacrificing time and energy because of their faith in the high purposes of Scouting.

Your money will not buy leadership, but it will provide these leaders with the "tools" with which to work.

Your contributions are used exclusively in the interests of the boys. They will help to provide a Cub camp, where this year boys earned over 150 badges, a Cubaree or field day where over 600 work for badges, Scout and Rover camporee and the necessary equipment. This money also will finance training courses for young potential leaders training for the volunteer Scouters, assistance to new groups being started and a long list of projects all for the benefit of Cubs and Scouts.

The combined Ranger-Rover hobby fair, the showing of Scout training films the necessary literature and publicity for the work are also made possible by your support.

The boys and their groups do raise funds required for pack and troop activities and personal equipment, but your contributions to United Appeal will help the local association meet the fast growing task of leading Belleville's youth through a program of activities designed to build better citizens.

Belleville Boy Scouts Association is a participating agency in the Belleville United Appeal.

DUTCH EMIGRANTS

South Africa received 644 emigrants from Holland in the first half of 1958, or 70 more than the same period the previous year.

Gold medal winner for styling elegance at the Brussels World's Fair is this 1959 Ford Fairlane 500 Club Victoria, one of 17 new Ford models which will be introduced in Ford-Edsel-Monarch dealer showrooms on October 23. The re-styled 1959 Ford has all new body, 29 per cent more windshield glass area, relocated parking lights, distinctive one-piece non-corroding aluminum starred grille and major engineering changes to give new operating economies plus improved performance. The Atomium, Brussels exposition landmark, is in the background.

High School Activities

In preparation for the second BCIVS Christmas Musical the Junior and Senior Glee Clubs of the school are busy now practising choral and solo numbers. The one-hour-and-a-half performance will be given on Sunday afternoon, December 14, and will be open to the public without charge.

Both schools are soon to hold their annual Commencement Exercises — QSS on Friday, October 17, and BCIVS on Friday, October 24. At these exercises scholarships, awards, certificates, and diplomas will be presented.

Thursday afternoon will see the arch rival rugby teams of QSS and BCIVS meet in both junior and senior categories. The games will be played at Quinte's excellent natural Bowl".

The BCIVS Cadet Corps is undergoing a major reorganization under its new chief instructor, Mr. J. Snetsinger.

Bill Brennan Named President Minor Hockey

Bill Brennan, well known in the city of Belleville for his assistance to minor sports activities, was named president of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association at a meeting held in the city hall last evening.

Vice-Presidents include Mel Richards, William C. Gault and Neil Hallam. Secretary for this year's activities is Cecil Nobes, with the treasurer's job going to William N. Hurst. Conveners for the squirt, pee wee and bantam division remain the same as last year with Fred Poole, Harry Rollins and Neil Hallam respectively. No appointments were made for the midget and juvenile divisions. It was decided that at a later meeting this position would be filled.

A meeting of the executive is planned for October 22 with a meeting of all coaches scheduled shortly after, for the allocation of players to different teams.

Though last night's meeting was short, it was an unanimous decision that more time and effort should be stressed on the midget and juvenile divisions. It was hoped that minor hockey in the city of Belleville would begin approximately the second week in November with all games played at the Belleville Memorial Arena on Wednesday evenings and Saturday mornings.

FAREWELL GIFT

A surprise party and house warming was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Genereaux on Saturday evening by friends and relatives from Trenton, Tweed, West Hoga and Belleville, on the occasion of their moving to Belleville, when they were presented with a lovely rug.

The evening was spent in the playing of cards and dancing.

Prior to moving to Belleville, about six weeks ago, Mr. and Mrs. Genereaux had resided in Trenton where they will be greatly missed. Mr. Genereaux is employed by the Brewers' Warehouse of Belleville.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Genereaux expressed their appreciation thanks to the donors of the lovely gift, and for the good wishes which accompanied it.

BPW Club Holds Business Week Luncheon

"More Power with Women Power" was the theme of Business Women's Week celebrated from October 5 to 11th throughout Canada and the United States by the Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

The Belleville Club opened the week with a luncheon on October 6. On Monday morning Marion Stevens (a member of the Belleville Club) interviewed the president, Miss Hilda Collier, over CJBQ on the slim and trumpet of the club work.

Thursday evening the executive of the club entertained at a tea for members and guests at the home of Mrs. Vi Burwash, Bridge Street East. The guests were welcomed at the door by the president, assisted by Mrs. Burwash, first vice-president, Joy Nichols, poured tea assisted by Muriel Ashbury, Mildred Hall, Muriel Jobson and Ruth McMullen served the guests and Charlotte Strachan and Dorothy Ellis replenished the plates.

A great deal of credit goes to Mrs. Charlotte Strachan and her committee for their planning and carrying through a successful Business Women's Week.

St. Michael's PTA Installs New Officers

The first meeting of St. Michael's Academy Parent Teachers Association, for this new school year, was held, on October 6th. A record number of parents was present.

Following the classroom inspection, the meeting was opened, with prayer, by the Very Reverend Dean Garvin. The new slate of officers was installed as follows: president — Richard Barrett; vice-president — Joseph Doyle; secretary — Mrs. A. Tobin; treasurer — Mrs. G. Fitzgibbon; directors — Reverend Sister Mary Anita, Mrs. A. McFadden and James Hamilton.

Mr. Herbert Brown, treasurer of the Diocesan Council of P.T.A. acted as chairman, for the first part of the meeting.

NEW BUSINESS DISCUSSED

Several new business items were discussed, including the purchase of a new sound projector for the school. Assemblies in radios still required and members to be sent to the curriculum conference.

Sister Mary Andrew, principal of St. Michael's Academy, welcomed the parents. Many helpful suggestions were outlined. Parents promised the progress and good of the children.

The business part was introduced. Following this, the class representatives for the term introduced as follows: Mrs. Daniel Robinson; Mrs. Patricia Barrett; Mrs. Bayliss; Mrs. B. McAlpine; Mrs. Gordon Fowler; Mrs. Joseph Hanna; Mrs. Joseph Farrell; Mrs. P. Cleary; Mrs. J. Watters; Mrs. Thomas Hamilton; Mrs. Ralph Hall; Mrs. Mona Griffiths; Mrs. G. Cooney; Mrs. J. Dorian; Mrs. Alex Gallagher; Mrs. J. Cooper and Mrs. Thomas Mavety.

Mrs. T. Flynn is social convener for the year.

The attendance plaques were won by Mrs. Ryan's senior school and Reverend Sister Mary Anita's junior school. Mrs. Ryan's grades 9 to 10 in the academy.

After the meeting, refreshments were served by the grade X classroom mothers.

Collegiate PTA Holds Back to School Night

Teachers at B.C.I. & V.S. worked overtime on October 6 when Belleville Collegiate Institute and School Association a taste of how it felt to be students again.

In the gymnasium, the audience was divided into classes, given time-tables and guide supplied by the Keyette Club. Lining up, they looked about the halls from the ground floor to the third in typical quiet orderly fashion. They related to four different classrooms.

In 206, Miss C. E. Kelly told how children were taught to use a library and encouraged to read.

In 210, Messrs. Buckley and Hancock expounded the value of learning French and Latin.

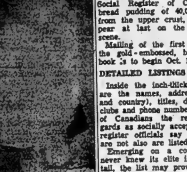
In 311, Mr. Marchand told how the Guidance Department functioned and explained various tests and their value in helping students to discover their abilities and vocations.

In 206, Miss M. C. Kelly gave an interesting resume of commercial subjects and their functions.

In 119, Mr. Stirling presented everyone with an outline of the aims, ideals and regulations of the school and explained how some of them were enforced.

Then the scarlet and well-behaved pupils returned to the gymnasium where they were introduced to the whole staff. Thence everyone proceeded to the cafeteria for refreshments and lively conversation.

It was generally agreed that Mr. Orr and his staff had provided an enjoyable and well-organized evening.



Thanks Today for Blessings Sent From Dawn Until Day's End".

The Scripture reading, taken from Psalm 103, was read in unison. The hymn, "Marvellous Blessings", was taken by Mrs. H. Terry, followed by prayer by Rev. T. J. Riddall.

Business was conducted. The annual bazaar will be held in Rose Lowery Hall on November 12th.

The program was as follows— vocal solo, "Evening Prayer", rendered by Mrs. Claude Morton; reading, "Harvest Time", by Mrs. Harold Terry; vocal solo, "He's My Friend", by Mrs. T. J. Riddall; vocal duet by Janie Sharpe and Ronda Wickson.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Fred Charlesworth, Mrs. Frank Babel and Mrs. D. Malloy.

MacRAE — POMEROY

A lovely double-ring wedding was solemnized in Christ Church at high noon on September 20th when Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley E. Pomeroy became the bride of Bruce Alexander MacRae, son of Mrs. MacRae and the late Mr. Stanley J. MacRae The Rtv. Everett P. Smith officiated and performed the ceremony. Nuptial Mass.

The altar was decorated with white gladioli and yellow 'mums' while white bows marked the pews.

Mrs. Grace Leeman Calvert provided the organ and guild choir boy sang "Praise My Soul the King of Heaven" before the processional. "Psalm 21" before the Nuptial Mass and "Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was lovely in an original floor-length gown of Chantilly lace over pure silk taffeta, the bouffant skirt fell from a moulded bodice with long sleeves that pointed over the wrists. The scalloped neckline was trimmed with pearl and iridescent sequins. Her triple lilered waist-length veil of pure silk illusion fell from a tiara of rhinestones, seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a white orchid surrounded with pale pink Sweetheart roses.

Miss Loreta Fairman of Belleville, as maid of honor wore a floor length gown of royal blue nylon over taffeta and net in princess style. The empire bodice was trimmed tucked with a butterfly bow in the back which extended into floating panels. White feather hat and elbow-length gloves completed her attire and she carried a semi-cascade of white carnations.

The groomsman was Mr. W.

PAYNE — McCOMB

CAMPBELLFORD— St. John's United Church, Campbellford, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday when Marjorie Reta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton McComb, of Campbellford, was married to Irwin Douglas Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Payne of Norwood. The Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. W. W. Archer was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Harry Bradley.

The bride's gown was in floor-length, designed on Elizabethan lines with nipped - in bodice of nylon petit point lace with a high stand - up collar and long pointed sleeves. The bouffant skirt had lace inserts and a tiered bustle of tulle.

Her headdress of matching lace and tulle was in pillbox style showered with tiny pearls and completed by a finger-tip veil. She carried a white Bible with Lestra Hibbard roses.

Three sisters attending the bride were, Mrs. Don Stewart, as matron of honor, Mrs. Jack Patrick and Miss Nancy McComb, as bridesmaids. Their gowns were of similar style in beige, they carried baskets of bronze and yellow 'mums.

Mr. Lionel Althouse attended the bridegroom and Messrs. Eric McComb and William Payne were ushers.

At the reception held in St. John's auditorium, the bride's mother received wearing a wool sheath in peacock blue with matching accessories and a corsage of creamy yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother wore Prussian blue silk sheath dress with black accessories and a corsage of Lestra Hibbard roses.

Out-of-town guests were from Belleville, Peterborough, Toronto, Cobalt, Norwood, Havelock, and Oshawa.

For their trip north, the bride wore a two-piece brown wool mohair suit with brown and beige accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

On their return the couple will live in Campbellford.

Mailing of the first copies of the gold - embossed, blue - bound book is to begin Oct. 31st.

DETAILED LISTINGS

Inside the inch-thick directory are the names, addresses (city and country), titles, decorations, clubs and phone numbers of most of Canada's upper crust regards as socially acceptable. But register officials say some who are not also are listed.

Emerging on a country that never knew its title in such detail, the list may provoke pique, wrath, curiosity, controversy or utter indifference.

It'll depend largely on who's in and who's out.

"There's no way you can buy your way in or out of the Social Register," says one of its chief promoters, David B. Crombie of Toronto. "Only arbiters say your name is in, it is in, if they say it is out, it is out."

Mr. Crombie, editor of Maytair magazine, is vice-president of Social Register of Canada Limited, the frankly commercial outfit that is pressing for publication of the book. President is Peter N. Dawes, a wealthy business executive of Montreal. There are three other shareholders, whose identity is secret.

200 ARBITERS

Secrecy has cloaked the whole operation. Some 200 arbiters across Canada were asked—for a fee — to nominate notables of their hometowns for inclusion in the bible of blue bloods.

Names flowed in, and the register's office sent out formal notices to those named. Charlotte Whitton, former Ottawa mayor and one of those nominated, snorted in her column that she was already in a blue book of thoroughbreds — a Holstein cow named after her was in the directory of pedigree cattle.

A watchman's wife in Vancouver said she'd been invited to send biographical details to the register. The Better Business Bureau in several cities reported that callers were inquiring about the enterprise.

The backers admit they expect to make a profit—but won't say how much.

The book itself is not sold. It is available only to members of the Social Register Association in Canada, which is open only to people listed in the book. Membership fee is $25.

Selection of people for the real call for Canada's aristocracy was on the basis of merit and good breeds as well as social graces. Some women who've never given their lives any listed SNEAKED THOUGH

But some names that arbiters call "undesirable" did sneak through the careful curtain of checking.

"They will disappear from future volumes," said Mr. Crombie.

"And unfortunately, the names of some very worthy people have been overlooked because of the inadequacy of the editing task."

Once it is published, the book will also be made available to "certain institutions such as leading clubs, editorial offices, public secretaries and embassy officials—for $100.

But Social Register officials, in publishing a cluttered, sixth-floor office without a nameplate on the door, reserve the right to judge the "social responsibility" of the applicant. Persons unspecified embassies, they said, won't have a chance of getting a copy.

"Recognizing that publication of one's name in the pages of this book is tantamount to confirmation of a reserved seat in the first lumbril, we shall not list in the directory available to the diplomats of certain nations," a spokesman said in a press release.

Yet it is the duty of Canada's social arbiters to take every precaution lest the pages of our better residential streets run blue with the blood of our members."

St. Joseph's PTA Plans Future Activities

An executive meeting for St. Joseph's P.T.A. was held in the school on October 6th.

General plans and programs for the coming year were discussed. Mr. H. MacDonald, 1st vice-president, agreed to accept chairmanship of the program committee. Committees for the social and membership committees are to be contacted.

Correspondence was read and discussed. Also a great deal of thought and discussion was given to the meals by which greater membership could be obtained.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

It happens that today's column was written on Thanksgiving day. Our shops are closed and although shopping spree is far from our minds, there is much to be thankful for that our shops are filled with the goodies of the land. It may be bordering on sacrilege to even think of the mundane business of buying or selling but it isn't sacrilege to acknowledge sincerely and consciously the blessings of Canada. The custom of giving thanks is thousands of years old but Thanksgiving day is a day set apart each year and we have our American neighbors to thank for this day. The Pilgrims set a day apart in 1621 to give thanks for their first harvest and Thanksgiving has come to be associated with the bounty of the land's harvest ever since. For a long time after the different American Presidents, and often state governors, designated a special day for Thanksgiving. There was no set or established day until President Abraham Lincoln made the last Thursday in November in 1864 the special day for thanksgiving. Since then Canada has followed each president has followed his example and we down in the United States celebrate Thanksgiving this year November 27th.

The fact that Canada's day of thanksgiving is earlier than the United States, does not alter the fact that the purpose and the deeply religious significance of them are the same. Belleville and its two adjacent counties had a special reason for giving thanks for many thanks. Our local regiment, "The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment" was celebrating its annual reunion. The veterans of the Regiment and ladies and other of the Association banded over its battle flags, which, during the years, are emblazoned on it, to the new regiment. In a sense it seems that it is men handing down to the boys their torch of faith and love of Canada. The day was glorious. The sun shone down on the city, lighting up in all its glory the color panorama of autumn leaves. When the two regiments took their places on the Playgrounds on the East Bridge street, there was symbolic accident of color and nature. The two veterans lined the grounds in the shade and the colorful new regiment stood forth in the brilliance of the bright afternoon sunshine. The regimental color party, stood waiting in the dullness of the shade and time, in the pattern of past glories, and when the color party stepped forward to turn the regimental flag over to the color parade of the new regiment it was a moment unique as the sun lit the colors fluttering in the breeze. It was, as Padre Goforth reminded his congregation, neither the end nor the beginning — it was a continuation and a never-ending challenge once accepted, which was being handed on never to be let down. Youth accepted the challenge and the colors, fittingly brighter in the effulgence of sun and a new generation, were safe in the custody and protection of future Canadians.

Your reporter happened to be in Picton the Sunday, nearly nineteen years ago when The Regiment left for the battle fronts. Since 1939 much water has flowed under the bridge of time. Many of those lads remain in Italy, Sicily, North Africa and Europe. There is a change, of course, in those who paraded Sunday. They are nearly two decades older. They have been down in the battle of life which is equal to the best and Belleville for the part it played in it is much to thank these men for.

There was a great deal of the past on that parade and in the brief ceremony on the playgrounds. "I and I" manifested the shade, the sun, the shades of time and the sunshine of youth There was one man who must have been very proud. In a real sense he was the symbol of Christ. Augus Duffy has devoted much, much of the best of his life to The Regiment. From private to N.C.O. to R.S.M. throughout the war, to Lieutenant-Colonel Commanding officer of The Regiment, Augus Duffy is a rocky personality. From there was a continuity and unbroken thread as a former commanding officer handed the colors over to Col Duffy who lit Mr. Plow Jockey with all the pride of a father who keep a watchful eye to see that the shades of time creeping on the veterans will not be dimmed or lose lustre, with youth and the new generation. They have gone thanks and the people are their beneficiaries.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TO HAVE SMALL RECEPTION AFTER LARGE CHURCH WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are planning to have a rather large church wedding, semi-formal. Because of certain circumstances in my family, mainly financial circumstances because of several recent serious and costly illnesses, we cannot afford to have a large reception, inviting all the people we would like to invite. Would it be considered all right for us to have a very small, informal reception, inviting only the members of the immediate families and our attendants? — Bride-to-be

Yes, indeed this is entirely proper, and I am sure relatives and friends will understand. As a matter of fact, after a semi-formal (or formal) church wedding even though a large wedding, it is proper to have any kind of reception the bride and her family find it convenient to have, can afford to have . . . small, large, or none at all.

HOW TO WRITE NAMES ON ENCLOSURE-CARD

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When I send a wedding present directly from the store where I buy it, and use the card provided by the store to enclose with the present, how should I write our names on the card? I'm never sure whether to write "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith" or "John and Mary Smith." I want to be sure I am doing what is correct about this. — Reader

If you wish to write only your names on the card to be enclosed you write: Mr. and Mrs. John Smith. Just as the names would be engraved on your visiting-card if you enclosed this. But if you wish to write a message on the card . . . as is more usual in this circumstance . . . you would then sign the informal names to the message. Like this, for example: "Devoted wishes for your happiness, always, John and Mary Smith." (When you are the one signing the cards, you should, politely, write your name last.)

THE BRIDE'S PARENTS PAY FOR THESE FLOWERS:

Flowers for the church.
Flowers for the reception.
Flowers for the bridal attendants (in some communities the groom pays for these).

THE GROOM PAYS FOR THESE FLOWERS:

Bride's bouquet and going-away corsage.

Corsages for both mothers.

Boutonnieres for best man, ushers, and for both fathers.

Note 1: Since the bride's parents are the hosts of the wedding, naturally they should supply the flowers for the church and for the reception. The florist called on the altar are very often the only flowers used at a church wedding.)

Note 2: Generally the bride's parents supply the flowers for the bridal attendants to carry, because these flowers are planned as part of the color-scene of the wedding. But in some communities these flowers are paid for by the groom; if he suggests he would like to make this gracious gesture, he asks the bride or her mother to order the flowers they wish the attendants to carry or wear and have the florist charge them to his account.

PROPER TO WRITE REPLIES ON INFORMALS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

As a birthday present my sister has just given me a gorgeous supply of Informals, with my name and address engraved on them, and I'm delighted. I'll probably be bombarding you with questions about the white-and-how to a a them! My first question is: When I receive an invitation written on an Informal (I've just received one to a Bridal Shower, and another to a Saturday evening Buffet Supper), is it proper to send my ---- or an Informal?

— Therese B.

Yes, she am . . . it's the proper thing to do. (Congratulations to you on "achieving" your first Informals . . . nice sister you have!

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Gloria M. — Dad wants to marry our girl friend.

James M. — I want to move forward into a new life.

Gloria M. — My sister and are single girls in our early 30's. Our mother died less than a year ago and we have been keeping house for our father.

We have done our best to comfort our father and see that he is not lonely. We have gone out of our way to restrict our social activities to at-home parties so that there are people around the house. Imagine our surprise when, a week ago, Dad announced that he was going to marry one of our girl-friends!

This is just about the craziest thing we have ever heard. There is nearly 30 years between Dad and this girl. We don't mind his getting married again, but it is so very soon after our mother died. I can't help but think how heartbroken Mother would be if she could know. Shouldn't he show more respect for her memory?

James M. — As far as my daughters are concerned my life should have ended with my wife's. For a time I felt that way myself. But now I have the desire to stop looking back. I want to move forward into a new life.

I am in my 50's, true, but I am in very good health and I am taken for many years younger than my real age. I feel young and I want to feel young around me. My daughters think they ought to be old enough for me, but they aren't.

The girls don't realize that they would leave me to myself at the drop of a hat if the right opportunity presented itself. In fact, I suspect them of being a little jealous that I and not they have found love.

The Council: James makes a very harsh accusation when he refers to his daughters' possible jealousy. There may be a grain of truth in it, but it is a brutal answer in some of their justifiable protests. The fact that he could use such a crude weapon suggests that he realizes his position is a poor one and calls for a defensive.

James apparently does not recognize that he is still suffering from the blow of his wife's death. He has just gotten back his wind and is enjoying a resurgence of the feeling of life and the desire to live. His daughters should recognize that his present actions do not imply disrespect or lack of love for their mother. They are the actions of a man who is reliving.

James should make an effort to steady himself. He should recognize that he and his prospective wife are in a hurry to marry because they do not want to give themselves time to think. The girl, who now represents nothing but the rosy glow of youth, is really an ill-balanced individual who will probably be quite hard to live with. In any case, James owes himself time to fully recover from shock.

You'll find them what they are called, "the cards of a hundred uses.") Do send along any questions you have about the uses of these cards . . . I'll be happy to answer them.

WHAT FLOWERS SUPPLIED BY BRIDE'S FAMILY, BY GROOM?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is to be married soon, and we are having a serious disagreement about who buys the flowers. I'm a very nervous person, worry so very much over any mistake I make, and I just don't want to make any mistakes about my daughter's wedding. She tells me that I must buy all the bridal flowers, the flowers for the attendants, the corsage for the groom's mother as well as my own corsage, and the boutonnieres for the men in the wedding party. I thought that the attendants paid their own flowers, and that the groom buys the corsages for both mothers and the boutonnieres for the men. I would be so grateful to you if you will straighten this out for me, tell me what's what.

— Mother.

FLOWER GIRL AND PAGE TO WALK SEPARATELY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm to be married soon, and besides my matron of honor and four bridesmaids, I would like to have my small niece as flower girl and my nephew as page. The niece is the daughter of my sister, who is to be matron of honor, and as she'll be near her mother, I'm quite sure she will behave beautifully. I'm not so sure about that attractive but mischievous nephew of mine. So I think it would be the wise and safe way for them to walk separately. Don't you? (Although in two or three weddings I've been to lately the flower girl and the page have walked together.) — W. M.

I'm quite sure it would indeed be the "wise and safe" plan to have these two very-young attendants walk separately! It's correct procedure, too.

Daytime Importance

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

The daytime dress assumes new importance this fall, as designers give it wide prominence and interesting treatment, such as this dress has. Fashioned of black wool faille, it is cut on fairly straight lines with a slightly shaped body. Curved seaming from under the arm runs straight down each side. A black velvet half belt is placed high under the bust to form a bow embellished with a flowered nosegay.

Fish Runners-Up Become Winners

Now all that has subsided and I'm back to normal and raring to give you some of the fish ideas that didn't make Fish Week — for lack of space — newspaper and stomach.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Barbecued Pork Chops; Fluffy Boiled Rice; Crumbed Eggplant; Waldorf Salad; Peach Puff Pudding (set Tuesday) with Pouring Cream; Coffee.

In my opinion, we Canadian women miss a lot of cooking fun because we miss a lot of spices. Add spice to your life girls — by some thyme — the kind you can buy — and try it sprinkled on buttered, broiled fish fillets.

Another zesty idea came from Laura B: Add grated lemon rind and a little lemon juice to fish fillets, cut into serving pieces, in packaged pancake batter. Dip fish batter and pan fry in shallow fat.

Two recipes for using fish fillets (could be cod, haddock, sole, etc.) are given because they will raise the status of these every-day items to guest fare.

Both of them when carried to the dinner table in your best casserole or on your best platter or chop plate will win indifferent fish eaters to devotees.

FISH FILLETS SCALLOPINI:

One lb. fish fillets, cut into serving size pieces, ½ cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon paprika, 2 medium onions, 4 green peppers, 1-3 cup butter or margarine. Combine flour, salt, pepper and paprika; dip each piece of fish into flour mixture to coat both sides. Cut onions into rings and green peppers into eights. Melt butter or margarine in large skillet. Add onion rings and green peppers and sauté until tender but still crisp, about 5 minutes. Lift out onion rings and peppers. Add fillets and fry about just long enough to brown lightly on both sides. Add onions, peppers and 2 tablespoons each lemon juice and water. Cover pan and cook 4 to 8 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with fork. Serves 4.

FISH FILLETS PUFFS:

One package frozen fish fillets (cod, haddock, sole, etc.) salt and pepper to taste, 1 egg white, at room temperature, ¼ cup mayonnaise, 2 teaspoons minced onion, ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, dash of tabasco sauce.

Preheat oven to 450 deg. Fahr. Separate fillets or cut block of frozen fillets into four serving pieces. Arrange skin side down in greased baking dish. Season with salt and pepper. Beat egg white until stiff but not dry. Fold in mayonnaise, onion, Worcestershire and tabasco sauce. Lightly spread topping on fish fillet pieces. Bake in preheated oven 10 to 15 minutes or until fish flakes easily with a fork and topping is golden brown. Serve at once. Serves 4.

Chemise for Autumn

By TRACY ADRIAN

Despite all the controversy over whether the chemise is here to stay, or whether it will be soon supplanted by new and different silhouettes, there are still a great many being shown for wear this fall in many attractive fabrics.

This version is in corduroy and is a well cut, easy fitting dress. It features an oversize rolled collar and wide, elbow-length, kimono sleeves.

Missionary Auxiliary Told About Alaska and Its People

RAWDON — Mrs. Ernest Spencer was hostess on Wednesday for the Women's Missionary Auxiliary meeting of Mount Pleasant - Rawdon. Sixteen members and three visitors attended.

The pianist provided quiet music and the vice-president presided and read a poem entitled "Give Thanks." All sang "Lift Up Our Hearts," followed by prayer.

Mrs. Eric Summers synopsized the chapter on Alaska. She described the land with its wealth of natural resources and its people.

One of the first missionaries was Dr. Sheldon Jackson. He gave the people of Alaska their first real school system and he also gave the Eskimos a basic industry, the raising of reindeer.

Various denominations have carried on work in that land by ship, airplane and station wagon. There is a great need for church extension and there is a larger population each year and the churches are overcrowded.

The people of Alaska are pioneering people and they are already furnishing overseas missionaries. They have a notable missionary frontier and this land holds promise of one of the future strongholds of virile Protestantism. By prayer, hard work, and God's guidance they hope to realize the fulfillment of their future plans.

At the close of the study Mrs. Summers sang with guitar accompaniment, "How Great Thou Art."

Thanks were extended for hospitality and the program. The business period followed.

The stewardship secretary told of a film, "Uses for Your Money," and the citizenship secretary read an article on "Freedom."

Donnie Campbell gathered the offering which was then dedicated.

An articles entitled "Encore" was presented by Mrs. Grant Hubble, Mrs. Douglas Campbell and Mrs. Ross Jeffs, and was based on the periodicals, "Missionary Monthly," and "World Friends."

The program was arranged by Mrs. Carleton Potts and Mrs. Blake Sharp. The former opened with a sing-song of favorite hymns. She then read "The Story of the First Thanksgiving." This gave a vivid picture of how the Pilgrims gave God special thanks at the end of the harvest season.

Mrs. Frank Spencer read a poem, "The Wealth I Possess," followed by a hymn of thanks. Mrs. M. Wrightman read the Bible lesson, and Mrs. W. G. Fletcher offered prayer. Mrs. Frank Jeffs gave the Devotional paper on the theme, "Giving Thanks for All Things." Mrs. Marguerite McMullen contributed a vocal solo, "We Thank Thee."

Mrs. Percy MacMullen summarized a recent address given at St. Paul's W.M.S., by Miss Muriel Stegbrean, home on furlough after spending five and a half years as a missionary at Indore and Mandleshwar in India.

Mrs. MacMullen also gave a report of the recent School for Leaders held at the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby. She displayed a picture of this structure which was erected in 1859 and called Trafalgar Castle. The Methodist Church later purchased the property and in 1878 the college was founded. A new wing providing 270 people was added in 1956. As this was the 25th anniversary of the school under the direction of the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch of the W.M.S., a special celebration was held and Miss Netta Brownlee composed a lengthy poem in commemoration.

There were 245 people registered with 24 guests and speakers. The literature secretary sold $711 worth of reading material. Each day's program included Bible study, addresses, discussions, book reviews, and study periods. The speakers included Rev. George W. Birch, Miss Elsie Hunt, Burns Lake, Miss Wilna Vera Boyd of India, Miss Wilna Thomas, formerly of Japan.

The service closed with "Sing to the Lord of Harvest," with the last verse read as a benediction.

The hostess and conveners served light refreshments.

Miss McQuaid Honored at Shower

WELLINGTON — About 20 friends of Miss Lulu McQuaid (a bride-to-be of Saturday, Oct. 11th), gathered at the home of Mrs. R. Blower, Main St., on Monday evening to honor her with a miscellaneous shower.

Miss McQuaid was completely surprised when after receiving a phone call to come to Mrs. Blower's home, she was met by all her friends.

Bingo and a contest formed the evening's amusement with Mrs. Don Courneyea and Miss Freda Hudson winning the contest prizes, and several of the guests received prizes for the bingo.

Miss McQuaid was then seated at a table where Miss Betty Faye Smith read a very appropriate address and Mrs. Blower made the presentation of many lovely gifts on behalf of those present. After opening and admiring the gifts, Miss McQuaid thanked her friends for their kindness to her.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Blower, Mrs. Hardy and Mrs. Farley, the sponsors of the party.

Catholic Ladies Are Urged To Seek Out Foster Homes

VANCOUVER (CP)—The 115,000 members of the Catholic Women's League of Canada were urged Monday to help combat juvenile delinquency by seeking foster homes for underprivileged children and by eliminating salacious literature in their communities.

Mrs. H. T. Doolhee of Cornwall, Ont., social action convener, told the league's 38th annual convention the shortage of foster homes presents "real work" for the organization.

She said more than 300 foster and adoption homes were found by the league across Canada during the last year. She urged establishment of child welfare plans in every diocese.

The six-day convention opened Saturday with prayers of mourning for the late Pope Pius XII. Many social engagements were cancelled.

League President Mrs. F. A. Bussieres of Sillery, Que., sent a telegram to the Vatican expressing the league's "profound and prayerful sympathy."

Mrs. Earl G. Knope of Port Credit, Ont., national councillor for Ontario, said cleaning up of newsstands is a matter of great concern to league members in Ontario and there also is much scope for action in the fields of radio, television and movies.

She urged members to keep in touch with operators of theatres and bookstalls and radio and television producers in order to hear their views and advise them of undesirable productions.

Victoria Ave. Baptist Church Bids Farewell to Ten Missionaries

It was thrilling and heart warming experience for the large congregation which gathered recently at Victoria Avenue Baptist Church to say, "Farewell, and God go with you" to a group of young people before their departure to Baptist Foreign Mission Fields of India, Bolivia and Angola.

Ten young men and women are leaving Canada for the first time and four were returning to their mission fields at the end of their furlough.

Many people were present from Kingston, Picton, Cobourg, and other places of the district to pay tribute to their enthusiastic and dedicated ambassadors of Jesus Christ who will represent Canadian Baptists in the foreign mission fields.

Coming from many sections of Canada, they will go well prepared for their tasks, trained as nurses, teachers, ministers and such, and go in faith and trust that God, who called them and prepared their hearts for this work will also go before them to prepare the way for them in the hearts of those they seek to save and that their Heavenly Father will be watching over them.

Miss Irene Cochran, Reg. N., is returning to the Christian Medical Centre in Pithapuram, India, where she meets people at the time of their greatest need and ministers both to the body and to the needs of the soul.

The Rev. and Mrs. Donald Fortier and the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Fritzke are leaving for their first field of service in India. The former couple will minister to and live with the Savara and Oriya, the hill tribes of India and the latter couple will be engaged in village evangelism.

Mrs. Fritzke is a niece of the Rev. L. Keith Dann and will be returning to the scene of her childhood. For 15 years of her life she lived in India where her parents served on this mission field. Now drawn back by the memories of the great need, she is returning, accompanied by her husband. A letter she received from an Indian Christian pastor urging her to come back had tremendous effect in drawing her back to the land of her birth.

END OF FURLOUGH

At the conclusion of their furlough, Miss Grace Anderson and Miss Matilda Findlay are returning shortly to Bolivia to the home where God called them and made them feel they belonged there to share their experiences of the love of God to the Bolivian people.

Two couples the Rev. and Mrs. Fred Habermehl and the Rev. and Mrs. Edward Millon are leaving for a year's language study in Portugal, then to Bolivia to begin missionary work there.

Miss Dorothy Barnett, a teacher, from New Jerusalem, N.B., is going to Angola, Africa, to help in the women's and girls' work. Mr. Eric MacKenzie, well known in this area as he served the Picton Baptist Church as student pastor, is also going to Angola. Many of his former congregation were present to wish him "God-speed" called by God to preach the gospel and aware of the dire starvation in Angola from protein deficiency, he is going there with his agricultural education to seek means of helping to irrigate the land, plan rotation of crops, and to combat the plague of sleeping sickness among cattle by taking there a new strain treated by inoculation. Mr. MacKenzie said: there is no milk in Angola because the cattle are dying from sleeping sickness, and the daily diet was similar to eating tapioca three times a day. He will be accompanied by his wife.

QUARTET SINGING

Interspersed between messages of the missionary recruits, their quartets, male and mixed, delighted the audience by singing the old beloved hymns, "Stand Up for Jesus" "Spirit of God Descend Into My Heart," and "Seeking the Lost." Miss Barnett sang a beautiful hymn of faith, "I Trust In God Wherever I May Be."

An hour of happy fellowship followed the cloister hymn connoisseur, by Dr. H. S. Hilliard, a veteran of many years service in Bolivia. Mr. Eric Quirk pronounced the benediction. He and Mrs. Quirk served in India as missionaries for many years.

GARDEN PRIZE

EDMONTON (CP) — Mrs. Robert Neilich, who came here three years ago from Germany, grew a 15-inch cucumber weighing four pounds three ounces in her garden here this summer from a seed she bought in Germany.

Women's Activities

SHANNONVILLE W.A.

The monthly meeting of the W.A. of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Claude Clarke on the afternoon of October 9 with an attendance of 23. The president, Mrs. Sam Elliott, welcomed all Mrs. Elliott gave a reading appropriate for Thanksgiving and a poem, Mrs. Elmer Virfan, group leader, took charge and Mrs. Frank Doxtator read the Scripture lesson from the 96 Psalm. The group leader read the "Lesson Thoughts" from the devotional leaflet. Mrs. Arthur Houston gave an interesting reading and Mrs. Doxtator a "Thanksgiving reading. Mrs. E. Virfan a patriotic reading, entitled "Our Fair Province, Ontario."

Mrs. Elmer Virfan closed the devotional with prayer and thanked her group for their help. Mrs. Elliott thanked the group and the hostess for opening her home for the meeting.

Mrs. John Robinson favored with a solo, "Sweet Hour of Prayer".

The secretary, Mrs. W. D. Robertson, called the roll and gave the minutes of the last meeting, the secretary read the correspondence; an invitation from Bethany to attend the bazaar on the evening of October 23 was accepted. Plans were made for catering at Scott's livestock sale on October 21st.

After good discussion it was decided to dispense with a bazaar this year. Each member is asked to donate an apron or five a dollar at the next meeting which is to be held at the home of Mrs. Gerald Sprattin.

After the benediction delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Clarke and the group and a social time was enjoyed.

FRANKFORD C. A's

Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle C.A.'s held their regular meeting on Friday evening. Mrs. C. Wright led in prayer.

Mrs. A. Fisher read the Scripture reading, Psalm 55.

Mr. C. Wright conducted a Bible Quiz and the choruses and hymns were led by Miss Gill Walker.

The evening message was given by Mrs. Curry "Likening the Fountain Pen to Our Lives and Fellowship and Use for God". A time of prayer closed the service.

58's most crucial election

Next month's California elections could well decide the future of the Republican Party in the Golden State — and the nation!

Now, in this week's Saturday Evening Post, political expert Stewart Alsop gives you his analysis of the dramatic contest to come!

You'll find out why William Knowland's strategy backfired in the primary . . . the prospects of "Goodie" Knight and powerful Democrats Pat Brown and Clair Engle. You'll learn why Richard Nixon won't stump for any of the candidates, even though the election is so important to his Presidential aspirations!

And you'll learn why this election is so vital to the Republican Party nationally. Read "The Great California Drama."

MacMillan Is Called Best Peacetime Prime Minister

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A white-haired Devon farmer, proud of the white lapel badge proclaiming him an accredited delegate to the annual Conservative party conference, squinted against the glare of the spotlights centred on the tall Edwardian figure on the platform and said: "He's the best peacetime prime minister we ever had."

Not all Britons rate Harold Macmillan, grandson of a Scottish crofter, so high.

But if he succeeds in guiding his party to victory in the general election expected next year, few Tories will quarrel with the elderly Devonian's assessment.

At Blackpool last week, the 4,000 Tory delegates went about their work of drafting a forward-looking election platform with a zest and spirit that reflected the improved fortunes of their party in recent public opinion polls.

The main reason for the improvement is Macmillan's deft leadership both inside and outside Parliament. The outstanding convention feature, however, was not the spirit of the delegates but rather their serious workmanlike concentration on the job in hand.

In daily six-hour sessions from Wednesday to Saturday, the delegates voted approval of what Macmillan called a "forward to freedom" policy based on opportunity, incentive and economic expansion.

Another feature was the accent on youth. More than one-third of the delegates were under 30 and they took a prominent part in every debate. At least three teenagers were among the dozen of youthful - looking delegates who stepped to the rostrum to speak on resolutions.

And, surprisingly in view of the alliance between trade unions and the Opposition Labor party, the delegate roster included the names of some 700 working trade unionists.

The whole conference was a smoothly - organized and slickly-run project, leading up to Saturday's traditional climax of all Conservative conferences—the appearance of the party leader for the final address.

Macmillan launched into what was clearly a call to arms for a general election, in a buoyant, optimistic speech. Memillan said that the government's aim was to build the foundations of the "opportunity" state providing "the opportunity to earn, to own and to save."

James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto, pauses as he boards a plane for Rome. He is to attend the conclave October 25th when a new Pope will be elected. With him are his secretary, Father John O'Mara (centre) and Father Vincent Priester of Oakville, Ont. (CP Wirephoto.)

Omaha Couple Shot Down by Son in Home

OMAHA (AP)—An Omaha business man and his wife, shot down in their home and buried in the back yard under a lilac bush, were struck by six 22 calibre bullets each, police said Monday.

William J. Arnold, 42, and his wife, Opel, 40, were shot Sept. 27 after a violent argument with their son over use of the family car for a date.

The son, William Leslie Arnold, 18, a high school junior, is being held in jail pending the filing of charges.

The boy's statement related how he had carried the bodies to the basement of the Arnold home and then dressed for a date with his girl to a drive-in movie.

The next morning, Leslie said, he borrowed a shovel from a neighbor. The bodies of the Arnolds were carried to the back yard of their home that night and placed in a grave six feet long and three feet deep.

Leslie, for two weeks, lived in the house going about his usual routine, claiming his parents had left town unexpectedly.

Can Prevent Cancer Cells Seeding Selves

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A new technique to prevent cancer cells from working free and then reseeding themselves has been described to the Medical Society of Pennsylvania.

Welcomed as an important aid to cancer surgery, the technique uses a chemotherapeutic agent called clorpactin CXB. Its effectiveness was explained at the annual meeting.

The technique was devised by Dr. Harry E. Bacon of the Temple University hospital staff.

Medical literature shows that cancer cell seedings seem to occur in a substantial number of operations. "The released cells reseed themselves where the parent cancer was removed or, by getting in the bloodstream, in some other part of the body.

The method developed by Dr. Bacon for surgery of the lower intestine appears to be an important step in such procedures.

Dr. Bacon said he tries to maintain the agent's protective effect against the release of cells at all times in his way:

By washing the intestine with clorpactin CXB before surgery; by keeping a protective reservoir of the drug in the intestine; and by washing out the cavity again during the operation and afterward.

The Temple team said the drug produced no toxic effect upon the patients.

YOUR CONTRIBUTION

TO

THE BELLEVILLE UNITED APPEAL

SUPPORTS

THESE NINE WORTHY ORGANIZATIONS

BOY SCOUT ASSOCIATION

Scouting in Belleville has grown more rapidly than the community itself. So much of this growth to the present thousand Boy Scouts, can be credited to the support given by parents and citizens. One hundred and ten devoted men and women direct these boys. All are serving voluntarily, sacrificing time and energy because of their faith in the high purpose of Scouting. Your contribution to the United Appeal will help this program which is designed to build through Scout activities, better citizens for Belleville, for Canada, and for the entire world.

CANADIAN ARTHRITIS & RHEUMATISM SOCIETY

500 people in Belleville and district are totally or severely disabled by arthritis or rheumatism. Continued shortage of hospital beds and the need for prolonged care make home treatment necessary. Any patient referred to the society by his doctor is eligible for treatment. Treatment is given right in the home. Equipment is taken to the home by mobile unit and the unit is staffed by a highly skilled physiotherapist. This service has been free since February 1955 to all who are unable to make a contribution towards their cost. Your donation to the United Appeal will allow this service to continue.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

Last season the "Y" served an enrolment of 1,909 organized in over 116 classes, teams, clubs, councils and committees. 503 of these were boys and girls. One hundred and ninety-one boys and girls learned to swim. Sixty-one boys and forty-six girls enjoyed a summer vacation at the new camp at Oak Lake. Total group and individual attendance at "Y" last season totalled 65,000. Membership in the Y.M.C.A. is open to all regardless of color, race or creed. Everyone is accepted regardless of means. The many other services of the "Y" were extended to hundreds of members of the Youth Division. Your contribution is necessary to carry on this fine work.

THE NEED IS GREAT! YOUR DONATION WILL ENABLE THESE ORGANIZATIONS TO CARRY ON THEIR VERY WORTHY WORK

CANADIAN RED CROSS

The Belleville and District Branch of the Canadian Red Cross provides a number of services to people in Hastings and Prince Edward Counties. These include: Disaster Service, Homemakers Service, Welfare Service, Loan Cupboard, Women's Work Committee, Blood Donors Service, Junior Red Cross, Home Nursing Service, Water Safety Classes, First Aid Services, Voluntary Services and assistance to Outpost Hospitals and Veterans' Hospitals. The Junior Red Cross alone has a membership of 653,000 children in 17,127 branches alone from the Elementary Schools and some high schools in Ontario. Your United Appeal Contribution enables the Red Cross to continue this work.

Canadian National Institute For The Blind

Th main aim of this group is to help the blind help themselves, and to prevent blindness. No one is denied because of lack of funds. Services include regular visitation, guidance, instruction of adult blind, employment training, social and recreational services, residential care, provision of sales outlets for the handicraft articles made by blind homeworkers through the district Blindcraft shop or in local bazaars. No one is too young or too old to receive these services. The agency has a minimum of paid staff serving in large districts, and depends to a great extent on your voluntary contributions.

VICTORIAN ORDER OF NURSES

The Victorian Order of Nurses is a non-profit organization providing a home-nursing-visiting service. In 1957 the V.O.N. made 4,693 visits to citizens of Belleville and a three mile radius of the city. Of these 1,310 visits were made at a reduced fee, and 2,453 visits were made without charge. The V.O.N. also offers care and instruction for mothers and babies. In 1957 the V.O.N. made 1,493 visits to mothers and babies. This work depends on your contributions. It is available to all regardless of age, race, religion or financial circumstances.

DO YOUR PART IN THE COMMUNITY! GIVE FREELY — SUGGESTED RATE ONE DAY'S PAY A YEAR BY PAYROLL DEDUCTION

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

One of the main objects of this society is to protect children from neglect, and to provide homes for children when necessary. Then, too, the society is called upon regularly to help families with social problems where no suspicion of neglect of the children exist but help is required for other reasons. The responsibility of financing this important work rests with the local community. The Province of Ontario makes a generous grant but this does not cover the entire cost of the service. For this reason the Children's Aid Society must rely on the support of the citizens who donate to the Belleville United Appeal.

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE

The St. John Ambulance in Belleville regularly conducts both junior and senior classes in First Aid, Home Nursing, and Child Welfare. Hundreds of girls and boys, men and women are instructed yearly in the proper method of administering to the sick and injured. Voluntary service is given at all public events where First Aid protection is required. They assist at Blood Donor Clinics, give Emergency Home Nursing, and teach artificial respiration. They also conduct the St. John Ambulance Cadet and Crusader division for girls from 11 to 18. The services of St. John Ambulance is free so funds are needed for maintenance of headquarters, for training, transportation and medical supplies.

Navy League (Sea Cadets)

(QUINTE)

Your contribution to the Belleville United Appeal enables this organization to help Belleville's youth to become citizens through supervised training and instruction by officers appointed through the Royal Canadian Navy. In 1957-58, the Quinte Corps was able to instruct on a 2 night a week basis, over 100 boys ranging from age 12 to 18, through Navy League Cadets and Sea Cadets. The officers of the Belleville Corps are interested in making better citizens of such boy they can get into the corps. However, the number is limited to the amount of funds made available.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1958

This peaceful country southwest of Saskatoon soon will echo with the noise of construction as crews start to work on the $184,000,000 South Saskatchewan River dam. After years of wrangling, work is finally going ahead on the project, estimated to take six to 10 years to complete. The massive earth structure will impound water to irrigate areas of now unusable land. (CP Photo).

Stelco Workers Hailed to Court For Interference

HAMILTON (CP) — The strike of 7,500 workers at the Steel Company of Canada plant here goes to court today when management will ask for an injunction banning picket line interference at exits and entrances.

The hearing in Toronto follows an incident at the plant Oct. 6 when Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway cars were prevented from entering the plant to collect steel for shipment.

The company is also suing several officials of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), who it alleges, were responsible for the incident.

The strike is in its 10th week. It started when the company refused to agree to union demands for a new contract that included a package of about 23 cents an hour. The union rejected a company offer of five cents an hour.

Average hourly earnings this year were $2.30 an hour including overtime and shift premiums

NATIVE RIGHTS

Native Maoris may testify in the Maori language in any New Zealand court if an interpreter will be provided with an interpreter.

The Northern Affairs department is well into a program of low-rental housing for wage-earning Eskimos, particularly those employed on DEW radar line sites. These frame houses, fully equipped with the latest electrical appliances, have been erected for Eskimos at Frobisher Bay on Baffin Island. A recent survey showed that bad housing — igloos, tents and shacks — was largely responsible for the fact that 23 per cent of all Eskimos born are dead within a year, chiefly from respiratory ailments. South Saskatchewan Dam Will Give Province First Hydro-Electric Energy

OUTLOOK, Sask. (CP) — Progress has overtaken Outlook and some of the farmers in its path aren't sure it's a good thing.

The object of their concern is the long-awaited South Saskatchewan River dam, a massive earth structure that is to impound 8,000,000 acre feet of water for irrigation purposes and to give the province its first domestic hydro-electric energy.

After years of wrangling, work is finally going ahead on the $184,000,000 scheme which has been hailed with enthusiasm by federal and provincial governments and by local chambers of commerce. Construction crews are carving out the first 17 miles of access roads to the dam site. It will take from six to 10 years to finish the dam and it will be 50 years before its possibilities for irrigation can be fully used.

WATER 300,000 ACRES

It is hoped that eventually 300,000 acres of dry, crop-killing land in this central Saskatchewan area will be brought under irrigation.

But some farmers around Outlook, a town of 1,000 persons 70 miles southwest of Saskatoon and 18 miles downstream from the dam site, are skeptical. They are anxious for information about the provincial government's land policy, what irrigation will cost, how much land they can afford to keep and what they will get for the land they sell.

Saskatchewan Agriculture Minister I. C. Nollet said recently that irrigation won't be cheap. All land, even it it looks perfectly level, needs expensive preparation. This will cost $20 to $25 an acre and as high as $50 in some areas. In addition, the irrigation system on the farm itself will have to be developed.

"These costs alone mean that there is no more than a minimum duty-land value in the land itself," Mr. Nollet said.

The farmer will be charged irrigation costs on all his land; and probably will be forced to sell most of what he can't irrigate. Most farmers in the district now operate at least a section. Under irrigation, one man could not handle the work involved for that big an area. The optimum area for irrigation here is not known but...possibly will be around 160 acres.

DRASTIC CHANGE

All this will mean a drastic change. Under dry farming, the main crop here is wheat, with many farmers keeping cattle as a sideline. Wheat isn't an economic crop for irrigated land and since there is no market here for vegetables or sugar beets, the farmer will probably grow fodder and go heavily into cattle.

Many farmers in the area accept this idea and look forward to irrigation. Others, usually the better - established ones, don't want it.

"They've been talking about it so long, I'd like to see it go through," said Stan Hasberg, who, with his father, farms 1½ sections four miles from the dam site. "I think it's a good idea."

Mr. Hasberg now has 30 to 40 cattle and thinks that with irrigation he might increase his herd to 200.

Farmers who oppose irrigation say they don't need it. Despite prairie drought, they have prospered under dry farming.

IN PALLISER TRIANGLE

How arid is the Outlook region? It is situated near the top and along the edge of the dry Palliser Triangle, a 15,000-square-mile dry belt in southern Saskatchewan and Alberta. The land is generally flat and sandy and during the 1930s it "blew away," as one farmer put it. This year, following one of the driest summers on record, there is evidence of some blowing; a few country roads are lined with piles of Russian thistle and some wheat fields were so short and so choked with thistle that the owners didn't bother to cut them.

But there also are prosperous tree-planted farms with plenty of grain stored and throughout the area improved dry-farming methods have paid off. Although the yield is varied, the district probably averaged a 10-bushel crop.

The Outlook area is described in the 1952 report of the federal royal commission on the South Saskatchewan River project which said the returns from building a dam at that time didn't warrant the expense.

"It secured its measure to distress during the period of great drought in the 1930s," the report said. "It contains excellent dry-farming districts and, as well, marginal areas. He farmers cannot afford to neglect any opportunity for the conservation of water. But it is by no means an abandoned area."

OPPOSE IRRIGATION

The Larson brothers, Arlow and Marmer, who farm 2,400 acres north of Outlook are opposed to irrigation. In their granaries are 100,000 bushels of unsold grain and they have no wish to stop dry farming. This year their wheat averaged 10 bushels to the acre while barley went 30 bushels and some fields of oats ran high as 60. It wasn't a good year but it was what Arlow called "still a paying crop."

Building up their dry farm empire, the Larsons say, hasn't been easy.

"But if you can make a living by farming 365 days a year on dry land, why spend $200,000,000 on an irrigation dam?" Marmer asks.

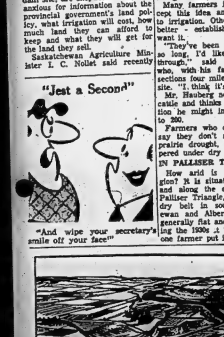
He is also worried that if the entire area goes into cattle the price of beef may drop. And he suggests that Outlook has too short a growing season for irrigation. There has been frosted wheat four years out of eight since 1950.

SUPPORTED IN TOWNS

The agitation for a dam, the brainchild of corn farmers in business men in the surrounding small towns, not farmers. They also question that Dr. W. B. Tuttle, head of the Saskatchewan River basin investigation, has been so much support for irrigation from farmers as he claims.

There was little vocal opposition when the dam agreement was signed, the Larsons say, because farmers are hard to organize and were lulled by years of glowing reporting which it looked as if the dam would never be built.

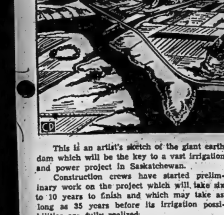
The argument that too many cattle raised at Outlook will depress the cattle market is vigorously opposed by Agriculture Minister Nollet. He claims he is barking back to the law of supply and demand and that there will be a fictitious, man-made law. If it were valid, he says, the farmer should have given up developing of fertilizer and the various methods of increasing food production.



As for those who object to irrigation, he says firmly, "if their land is in the area to be irrigated they can't."

NEED 50,000 ACRES

The province must have 50,000 acres ready for irrigation at the time the dam is finished. Eventually, 10 times that much will be irrigated.



Mr. Nollet admits that getting farmers to go on the land and learn the skills needed for successful irrigation farming will not be easy. He hopes to place one experienced irrigation farmer in each district to set an example.

There is, of course, the power aspect of the scheme. Fully developed, it could produce 375,000,000 kilowatt hours annually, of which only 50,000,000 will be required to run the irrigation works. The Saskatchewan Power Corporation estimates it will need the power to help obtain from the dam by the time the project is finished and it would otherwise have had to get it by building steam generators. But in Saskatchewan, irrigation is considered to be the dam's prime purpose.

"Just a Second"

"And wipe your secretary's smile off your face!"

This is an artist's sketch of the giant earth dam which will be the key to a vast irrigation and power project in Saskatchewan.

Construction crews have started preliminary work on the project which will take six to 10 years to finish and which may take as long as 35 years before its irrigation possibilities are fully realized.

The dam, across the South Saskatchewan River about 70 miles southwest of Saskatoon, will impound enough water eventually to irrigate 500,000 acres of dry land and to produce 375,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity a year.

In this sketch, a road can be seen running across the top of the dam. Power installations are at right. (CP Newsmap.)

De Gaulle Testing Standing With Colonials, Military Men

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In telling the army to get out of politics in Algeria, General Charles de Gaulle is testing to the full his standing with French colonials and military men.

These are the men whose seizure of power last May 13 paved the way for de Gaulle to become premier and bring a measure of stability to the republic.

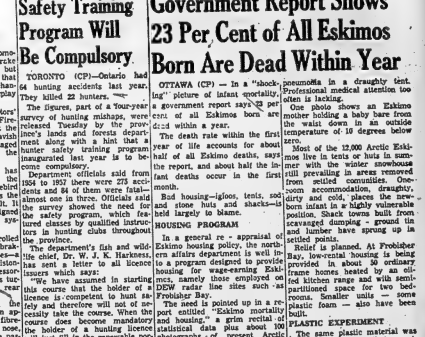
French politicians such as Pierre Mendes-France, who all along have been reluctant to grant almost dictatorial powers to de Gaulle, wondered how big the general's debt is to the Algerian group and how much he is prepared to sacrifice to their demands.

MADE NO MOVE

When he was elected premier, de Gaulle made no move to end the activities of generals Raoul Salan and Jacques Massu and the Algiers committee of public safety that Massu headed. Both men continued to talk of keeping de Gaulle planned no crush the civil war and keep the Moslems politically and economically submerged.

The Mendes-France group began to think its worst fears were confirmed.

Approval of de Gaulle's constitution at the end of September gave him a free hand to decide how to end the Algerian war that has been going on for four years.



The premier hopes to do this by giving Moslems more and better housing, jobs and educational opportunities. And by calling a referendum Oct. 23 for a president and a new slate of deputies he will at last test-check on Algeria's deputies "must be Moslems."

The army helped rally support for the constitution and at the same time prevented any opposition from gaining strength. For the November vote, de Gaulle wants his Moslem opponents, even those who have independence, to be able to campaign.

Without army backing, at least official, it is thought right-wing civilians opposed to greater independence for the predominantly Moslem population will have a field day. Moslems are barred from elected. Initial army reaction was to obey orders. General Massu and 11 other officers walked out of the public safety committee but resigned, although some of them said they were reluctant to do so.

The question now is: Will the army give surreptitious support to embittered colonists?

The elections may help to confirm feelings that if de Gaulle can get his economic and social program moving quickly, that may also make for calmer tempers. But the election of so many Moslems to help in continuing the fight against the Moslems for the integration of many Europeanized Algerians could conceivably result in intensified warfare.

Most of Canada's 12,000 Eskimos spend the winter in snowhouses — or igloos. Here Eskimos are shown putting the finishing touches to an igloo, constructed from blocks of snow. The Northern Affairs department has embarked on a program to provide Eskimos, with more modern housing accommodation, particularly those living near white settlements. Costliest Car Ever Built by GM on Display

NEW YORK (AP)—An automobile without steering wheel, brake pedal or foot accelerator, but with nearly everything else that could be crowded into its mechanical will go on public display here startling Thursday.

The newest of General Motors' experimental models — the Firebird III—will be top billing at the Motorama. The lavish presentation will be staged tonight in the ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

No engineering expert has been made available outside of the cost involved in putting Firebird III on display. It could be the costliest automobile ever built. It is the first car designed to operate on a single-stick control system.

Aside from the hand-controlled acceleration, steering and breaking, the car has two gas-turbine engines to drive a aluminum piston-type unit to drive all accessories, and a 22-horsepower gas turbine engine to drive the rear wheels.

The two-passenger vehicle, the Firebird III is missile-like in appearance. It has a 35-inch fin, of glass. It has a wide, tapered nose, with plastic bubbles over the passengers and seven fins clustered around the rear of the body.

Everything, transistors and computers are used lavishly. By the push of a button the rear can be converted to automatic guidance and speed control.

The control stick is located in the centre of the car, and is easily operated by one passenger. The stick, with a wing-shaped handle, has achieved ability forward for acceleration, to right and left for steering and rear-ward for breaking. A button on the control handle actuates a downhill retarder unit mounted on the differential.

Safety Training Program Will Be Compulsory

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario had 64 hunting accidents last year. They killed 22 hunters.

The figures, part of a four-year survey of hunting mishaps, were released Tuesday as the province's lands and forests department along with a hint that a hunter safety training program inaugurated last year is to be come compulsory.

Department officials said from 1954 to 1957 there were 275 accidents and 64 of them were fatal—almost one in three. Officials said the survey showed the need for the safety program, which features classes by qualified instructors in hunting clubs throughout the province.

The department's fish and wildlife chief, Dr. W. J. K. Harkness, has proposed a letter to all licence issuers which says:

"We have assumed in starting this course that the holder of a licence is competent to hunt safely and therefore will not of necessity take the course. When the course does become mandatory the holder of a hunting licence will just fill in the renewable portion of his licence to purchase a new one. In practice this procedure will be similar to the issuance of motor vehicle licences."

HATTIE CARNEGIE ESTATE

DAY OF MOURNING

QUÉBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis announced Tuesday that Saturday, Oct. 18, will be a day of morning throughout the province for the late Pope Pius XII. Sale of beer or liquor will be forbidden.

Government Report Shows 23 Per Cent of All Eskimos Born Are Dead Within Year

OTTAWA (CP) — In a "shocking" picture of infant mortality, a government report says 23 per cent of all Eskimos born are dead within a year.

The death rate within the first year of life accounts for about half of all Eskimo deaths, says the report, and about half the infant deaths occur in the first month.

Bad housing—igloos, tents, sod and stone huts and shacks—is held largely to blame.

HOUSING PROGRAM

In a general re - appraisal of Eskimo housing policy, the northern affairs department is well into a program designed to provide low-rental housing for wage-earning Eskimos, particularly those employed on DEW radar line sites such as Frobisher Bay.

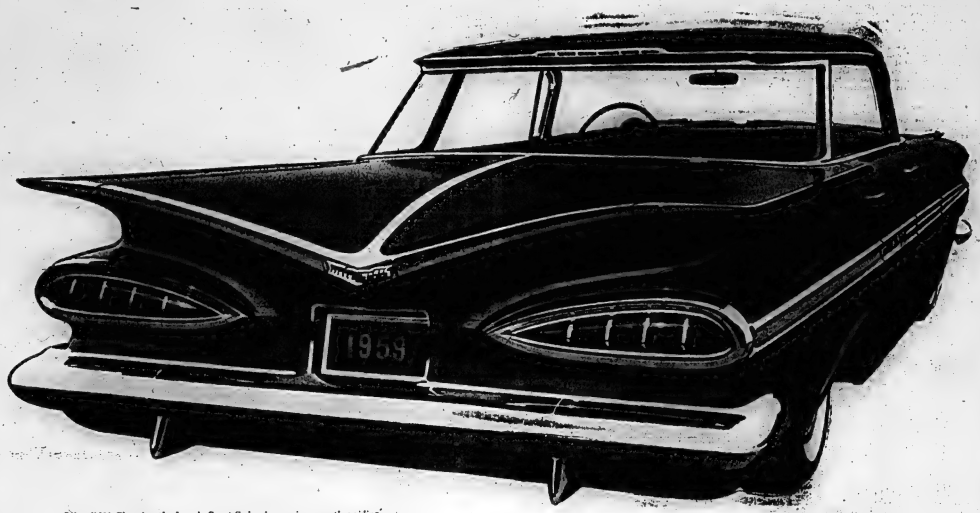
DOOMED TO DIE

The choice facing many newborn infants, it is suggested at one point, is death by gastro-enteritis in a filthy shack or by pneumonia in a draughty tent. Professional medical attention too often is lacking.

One photo shows an Eskimo mother holding a baby bare from the waist down in an outside temperature of 10 degrees below zero.

Most of the 12,000 Arctic Eskimos live in tents or huts in summer with the winter snowhouse still prevailing in areas removed from settled communities. Even-room accommodation, draughty, dirty and cold, places the newborn infant in a highly vulnerable position. Shack towns built from scavenged dumpline - ground tin and lumber have sprung up in settled points.



Relief is planned. At Frobisher Bay, low-rental housing is provided in about 50 ordinary frame homes heated by an oil-fed kitchen range and with semi-partitioned space for two bedrooms. Smaller units — some plastic foam — also have been built.

PLASTIC EXPERIMENT

The same plastic material was used in 1956 for the first experiments on artificial snowhouses. Final result of this project hinges on the "wearability" of the material, still to be assessed. Otherwise, the rounded structures have proven easier to heat, warm and cleaner.

At Fowangnituk, Que., on the east coast of Hudson Bay, about eight experimental homes have been put up, some alone and some wood frame or aluminum and using caribou moss as insulation. Plastic sheeting also has been employed. In an effort to stick close to native materials, sod has gone into the construction of some houses.

The most common Arctic housing unit is the ordinary primus or kerosene camp stove although real oil lamps and the like have by no means vanished.

Like all '59 Chevvies, the Impala Sport Sedan is roomier, smoother riding.

'59 CHEVROLET

CHEVROLET

It's shaped to the modern Canadian taste with a lean, clean silhouette, crisp new contours, beautifully restrained accents. It brings you more spaciousness and comfort with a new Body by Fisher. It has a bright new sheen —a new kind of finish that keeps its lustre without waxing for up to three years. New bigger brakes. Vast new areas of visibility. New Hi-Thrift 6. New handling ease and road steadiness. It's new right down to the tires!

Never before has an automobile manufacturer made such sweeping changes two years in a row. And never before has any car been new like this one.

The 1959 Chevrolet is more than a restyled car — more, even, than a completely new car. It's your kind of car. Shaped to reward your new taste in style. Designed to anticipate your desire for greater roominess and comfort. Engineered for greater safety, economy, ease of handling and smoothness of ride.

Your first look shows you that Chevrolet says new like nobody else. New Slimline design brings entirely new poise and proportion to automobile styling. Inside the new and roomier Body by Fisher you'll find truly tasteful elegance. And you'll have clear seeing from every seat. The new Vista-Panoramic windshield curves overhead — and there are bigger windows all around.

When you take the wheel, you begin to find that Chevy's newness goes down deep. A new steering ratio makes handling easier. New suspension engineering gives you a more stable ride. There's a sweet new edition of Turboglide.* Eight V8's plus a new Hi-Thrift 6 that goes and goes on a gallon. New and bigger brakes. Even new tires!

There's still more! A new Magic-Mirror finish that keeps its shine without waxing or polishing for up to three years. New Impala models. (Continued from page 1)

"In the end it was the Germans who benefited from the argument. Had we adopted a proper operational plan in the middle of August, and given it a sound administrative and logistic backing we should have seized the Ruhr before the winter set in.

Montgomery states that General Omar Bradley also had a plan for an advance in the middle of Germany. He says that Eisenhower compromised.

"The rightness or wrongness of the decision taken is, of course, open to argument. But what cannot be disputed is that when a certain strategy, right or wrong, was decided upon, it wasn't directed.

GERMANS SURPRISED

Blumentritt says the Germans were surprised when the Allies stopped advancing, not knowing available supplies were not enough to support the "broad front" advance. The German general says this pause gave the Germans time to regroup and launch the Ardennes (Battle of the Bulge) offensive.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said President Eisenhower will have no comment on Montgomery's views.

Discussing the unsuccessful airborne operation at Arnhem, Montgomery takes blame for one of the contributing factors, "the dropping of the parashrooers too far from the vital objective — the bridge.

His also admits a "bad mistake". In underestimating the difficulty of opening up the approaches to Antwerp."

Montgomery says Eisenhower's 1945 report on the battle of Normandy left the impression the British and Canadians had failed in the Caen sector and that the American had to take on the job of breaking out in the west.

There was a further dispute over Montgomery's proposal that he be put in command of all ground forces for the dash into north Germany and Berlin.

Montgomery says Eisenhower told him public opinion would not support putting an American army under Montgomery's command and leaving the American army group with only one army.

"I asked him why public opinion would make us take military decisions which were definitely unsound," Montgomery said. "Possibly I did not give sufficient weight to the heavy political burden he bore. Looking back, I often wonder if I paid sufficient heed to Eisenhower's notions before refuting them. I think I did."

TORONTO (CP)—LA-Gen. Guy Simonds says he agrees with Field Marshal Montgomery and a German general that the war in Europe could have been ended in 1944 had Monty's plan for a giant, single thrust into the Ruhr Valley been adopted.

"It is my view," said Gen. Simonds, who commanded 2nd Canadian Corps at that point and later was chief of the Canadian army general staff, "that Gen. Montgomery's plan would have been completely successful." He said he had known of the "single-thrust" strategy and its basic soundness was borne out by the reports of German confusion gathered by western intelligence after the Normandy fighting.

Gen. Simonds said when the Canadian army began thrusting up the west coast of Europe, a large pocket of German troops lay between it and the British 2nd Army.

The envelopment and destruction of this force, he said, could have been accomplished had the Canadians forged on up the coast and joined in a vast pincer movement with the 2nd Army. However, his force was diverted to the siege of the channel ports and, because of the "broad front" policy, found itself chronically short of gasoline and bridging materials to cross the network of canals that confronted it.

Guns of the Eastern Ontario Senior "A" Hockey League will fire barrages in Toronto tomorrow—and they won't be in the nature of salutes.

They will burst verbal shells in the general direction of representatives of the OHA-NOHA when the two leagues meet to discuss monetary matters.

The eastern hockey men requested OHA president Lorne Cook, of Kingston, to call the meeting, saying they wanted several matters clarified in the presence of other leagues.

The meeting follows claims by Wren Blair of Whitby, Wally Brabin of Kingston and Ray Miron of Cornwall, at an eastern meeting held in Gananoque October 9 that teams in the OHA-NOHA were offering bonuses for players to sign—and were exceeding the salary limit.

At a joint meeting in Kitchener, June 15, a $1,750 weekly salary limit was set with penalties on teams who violated the motion. A motion was also passed to the effect no bonuses were to be paid to attract players.

The eastern division meeting in Pembroke June 21 ratified these moves but lowered the salary limit to $1,550 for 16 players plus a spare goalie. The eastern-ers now want to find out whether the OHA-NOHA has stuck to the earlier agreement.

Ray Miron, Cornwall Chevies manager is emphatic in his statement that the west-northern teams have not stuck to their decision.

Said he:

"The Chevies had a couple of kids in camp who were sent here by Toronto Leafs. The youngsters stayed one day, practiced once and then took off.'

"Both had been talked terms. The maximum salary that could be paid to these kids was offered. But the youngsters departed for home in OHA-NOHA where they said 'We can make more money.'

"According to the rules there is one salary limit they can receive and the Chevies offered it to them. They departed for another club under the same rule, saying they are going there as they have been offered more money.

"You figure it.

"We just simply can't afford to break the salary limit in any way. We lost money last year and are faced with pretty bleak prospects. Unemployment in the area could hit our crowds this winter and we have to get a good enough club to win back the fans we lost last year. Another year and a loss like that and we are finished in senior A hockey. The salary limit has been a boon to us. We are on a level with other senior clubs in bigger cities.

"But if we stick to the salary limit in this league and they break it up west, what good is it? I was in a pro camp this year looking at talent when a hockey player who was reinstated last year by a western club was offered a sum by that club away over the salary limit and a bonus for signing. There were supposed to be absolutely no bonuses. Wren Blair and Wally Brabin both agreed with me when I said that salary limits were being broken by the teams in other leagues.

Miron continued: "The other night we were in Hull talking with a player about playing here when he openly admitted that a team in the north had offered him the salary limit plus 'fifty smackers' under the table. He would play with them. The kid made no bones about it and in fact was boasting. He is worth about $25 a week to a team but here they are paying him a tremendous salary. When that club drops ten thousand this year, they will wonder why.

"We took these moves to help save senior hockey and obviously the teams in the other league don't want to be saved. Another year like the last one for them and they are through. Our league has been able to get by with low salaries so far and the limit was a salvation as our men are really determined to stick to it."

MACS AT TRENTON TONIGHT

Tonight should be a unique hockey evening in the neighboring town of Trenton. Unique in the fact that two championship teams, one a world title-holder, the other, wearing the national crown, meet in exhibitional battle. The McFarland tangle with the Whitby Dunlops in a dress rehearsal of main bouts of the Eastern league schedule in the Trenton Community Gardens. It should be quite a battle since both clubs will go all out for victory.

The Macs won their third straight exhibition game in Peterborough last night, downing the junior "A" Petes 6-2 after a lackadaisy first period. Lou Smrke, who has been battling a severe cold the last few days, sparked the Macs' offensive with a pair of goals.

LEADS MONEY PLAY

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Beverly Hanson who won only two golf tournaments this year, finished the season as leading money winner on the Ladies' Professional Golfers Association tour. Figures released Tuesday showed earnings of $16,892.55 for Miss Hanson who won $20,000 for running up Marlene Bauer Hagge, Louise Suggs, the leader until she injured a foot late in the season, finished third with $11,982.30.

Blues Host Boston After Not-Too-Good Road Trip

Recall Wally Hergesheimer To Bolster Scoring Punch Lacking in Opening Games

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Veteran Wally Hergesheimer returns to the New York Rangers' lineup tonight in a bid to supply the scoring punch Rangers need for their first win of the National Hockey League season.

Rangers play host to Boston Bruins in the home opener at Madison Square Garden after a three-game road trip in which they lost once, tied twice and scored only five goals.

"We should have won all three games," coach Phil Watson said on his return. "But we're a little weak on defence and our play didn't click." Rangers tied 1-1 with Chicago Black Hawks and 4-4 at Boston and lost 3-0 to Detroit Red Wings.

"Hergy's got the experience to help us," Watson says of the 31-year-old Winnipeg - born right winger who spent five seasons with Rangers before being sold to Chicago in 1956. He played with Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League last season, scoring 26 goals in 70 games.

MAY HELP ROOKIES

Watson particularly hopes Hergesheimer will help New York's five rookies to get untracked. Jim Bartlett and Eddie Shack, both up from Providence of the AHL, Earl Ingarfield and Les Colwill, the Western League grads, and John Hanna from the College League haven't produced yet.

Another familiar face from Buffalo will be back in the Ranger camp tonight. Marcel Pailie, who played in 33 games for Rangers last season, will replace regular goaltender Gump Worsley, sent Sunday at Detroit. Worsley is expected to be out of action 10 days with a leg injury.

Bruins, who have one win and a tie in three outings, will be without forward Larry Regan, injured in the first Bruins-Rangers clash. He'll be out 10 days with a sprained left ankle.

LARRY UPSET HANG

Watson, who steered Rangers to a second-place finish last year, doesn't think his club is yet good enough to unseat the champion Montreal Canadiens, but won't be beat them this year but you can bet we'll finish in the playoffs at least ahead of Chicago and Toronto."

He says his biggest deficiency is on defence and he's looking for at least one good defenceman. "We'll make a trade to get one, too, but not at the expense of our younger players."

Watson isn't greatly concerned over the fact Rangers have lost like a new car. Sometimes it takes a while to break it in."

Little Known British Heavy Gets Nod Over Zora Folley

LONDON (CP) — An unknown British heavyweight who has spent much time sparring and chopping block sparring mate for contenders has been second-ranked ely. American Zora Folley on a referee's decision Tuesday night.

But it appeared that Henry Cooper, 34, a cockney plasterer, may be in line next to take a shot at Floyd Patterson's world heavyweight boxing crown.

Cooper, who has lost four of his last six fights, bones only fairly and cuts easily. He has fought professionally only 30 times, and often looked leggy Tuesday night.

He was dropped for a count of eight in the third round and blood gushed from a cut over his eye during the last two rounds as he badly he could hardly see.

But when the 10 rounds were over Norman Little, the referee and only judge according to British rules, had given the hulking up Cooper's hand in victory.

TALKED TO OLD FRIEND

Shortly after the fight, promoter Harry Levene talked by transatlantic phone to his old friend in Los Colobrarter, Cus D'Amato, who manages Patterson.

"I saw now Cooper and Floyd Patterson will meet in London next summer for the world heavyweight championship," Levene said after the talk.

D'Amato made himself unavailable in New York, but only Tuesday turned down two Madison Square Garden dates for a Patterson-Archie Valle title fight.

The Associated Press saw the fight as a draw or going to Folley by a slight margin. Several London boxing writers called it Folley's fight and several others avoided saying who they thought won.

INEFFECTIVE PUNCHER

Bill Swift, Folley's manager said:

"Zora was not at his best. But last the same, I did think he did enough to win. The other fellow was an ineffective puncher and Zora never was floor-the slightest trouble. But the referee thought otherwise."

The shocked Folley said he thought he won. He showed no signs of injury from the match other than a slightly swollen nose.

During the fight he moved fast but often was not set up for a punch when the almost inept Englishman gave him big openings.

In the third round he caught Cooper with a hard right cross that sent him spilling to the canvas for an eight count. In the fourth, fifth, six and seventh rounds, Cooper fought aggressively, bobbering Folley with a steady left jab and occasionally driving him into the ropes with a flurry of punches.

But in the last two rounds, Folley, outweighed 196¾ to Cooper 189, Folley was 3-1 favorite.

If Folley is next American heavyweight prestige plunging. Sweden's Ingemar Johansson knocked out Californian Eddie Machen, then second ranked behind Folley, in the first round at Goteborg, Sweden, Sept. 14. Then Brian London won a 7-round decision third-ranked Willie Pastrano of Miami Beach, in London Sept. 30.

Most of the 18,000 people who paid $250,000 to see the fight booed wildly when the decision was announced, but there were some boos too.

Argo Kicker Tied for Top In Points Race

TORONTO-(CP) — Toronto Argonauts players are up near the leaders in the Big Four football scoring race.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show placemen-kicking Vic Kristopaitis in a first-place tie at 36 points with Hamilton Tiger-Cats' Ellis Howell and Tommy Grant and Montreal Alouettes' Joe Welis. Kristopaitis, from Dayton, Ohio, scored seven points during the weekend.

Dick Shatto, 32-year-old half with Argos jumped to a tie for third with a four-touchdown rampage against Ticats Monday. At 30 points are Shatto, team-mates Dave Mann and C. R. Roberts and Dickie Hunter of the Als.

Gerry McDougall, Canadian-born Ticat who joined Hamilton from the University of California Los Angeles last year is just one point off the pace with 35 on three touchdowns, four converts, field goal and single.

CAPPELLETTI LEADS

Gino Cappelletti, quarter from the undefeated Sarnia Golden Bears, leads scorers in the Ontario Rugby Football Union with a 21-point week - end as Bears whipped Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in their home-and-home total-point series. Cappelletti has 77 points, five ahead of teammate Jim Smith who has been the league's top scorer since the season opened.

Ben Heid, Toronto University halfback, is top scorer in the senior intercollegiate series after three games with 30 points on five touchdowns. He is six points up on Gordon Drescher, Jr., of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs. Heid is third place with 18 points each are Toronto's Wally Bulchak and Peter Joyce.

Won't Defend Heavy Crown In Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson won't defend his title in a Madison Square Garden fight this winter.

Julius Helfand, the chairman of the state athletic comission who has been helping in the negotiations for such a match, tossed in the towel Tuesday.

He said Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato, had rejected two suitable December dates in the Garden pitched at a "reasonable rental."

Helfand said D'Amato turned down the Dec. 5 date, a Friday night, because he didn't want to participate in the regular weekly TV show staged by the International Boxing Club.

D'Amato also turned down Dec. 12 where he has the option to use closed circuit television in theatres or no television at all. Helfand said D'Amato said he could not make the proper arrangements from closed circuit TV on the 12th.

Big Four Union Clubs Name 12 American Import 'Keepers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Big Four football union clubs Tuesday night declared the 12 United States imports each will keep for the 1958 season.

Among the surprises were Toronto Argonauts' decision to drop fullback C. R. Roberts, former All-American of Southern California, and Montreal Alouettes' clutching of fullback Bo Dickinson, a Chicago Bears castoff who had been standing in for the injured Pat Abbruzzi.

Players retained:

Montreal Alouettes — Quarterback Sam Etcheverry; halfbacks Dick Shatto, Jim Carr and Joe Wells; fullback Pat Abbruzzi; linemen Jackie Simpson, Ken Jackson, Tom Hugo, Bill Hudson and Billy Shipp and ends Red Ogden and Hal Patterson.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats — Quarterback Bernie Faloney; halfbacks Lovell Coffin, Don Sutherin, Eddie Mason and Mike Campbell; linemen Bob Kelley, P. W. Underwood, John Barrow, Angelo Mosca and Dave Suminski and ends Paul Dekker and Ralph Goldston.

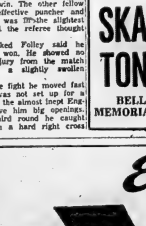
Ottawa Rough Riders—Quarterback Hal Ledyard; halfbacks Dave Thelen, Gerry Nesbitt, Bobby Judd and George Brancato; fullback Ron Gullion; linemen Mike Graham, Ed Vargo, Kaye Vaughan, Hardiman Cureton and Tom Jones and end Mac Hora.

Toronto Argonauts — Quarterback Keith Price; halfbacks Ronnie Menz, Jim Rountree, Dick Shatto and Don Carawan; linemen Bobby Jack Oliver, Larry Cowan, Frank Rigney, Peter Kapalla and Dick Fouts and ends Norman Schriewer and Peter O'Garro.

Toronto held on to the 11 imports they employed in battering Hamilton 37-0 Monday at Toronto, setting clubbing of fullback Bo Dickinson, a Chicago Bears castoff who had been standing in for the injured Pat Abbruzzi.

Ottawa dropped second - year quarterback Tom Dimitroff, 21, who broke a leg two weeks ago, but with him was end Buddy Payne, who joined Riders from North Carolina University only to distance an elbow in pre-season workouts.

In addition to Roberts, Argonauts cut injured halfback Corky Tharp.



Athletics had two men on the injured list, who were neither dropped nor declared. In any case, they won't be eligible to play again this year. They are injured guard Bill Albright, picked up from Toronto, and tackle Ed Hayhurst, once with Cleveland Browns of the U.S. National Football League.

Smrke Paces Pack With Pair In Macs' 6-2 Win Over Petes

PETERBOROUGH — Turning up for the opening of the OHA Senior "A" and Junior "A" schedules this month, Belleville McFarlands and TPT Petes tangled here last night in the Macs winning a 6-2 exhibition before 650 fans in the Memorial Centre. The junior Petes led 2-0 and the first period, but Bentley puckists were up 3-2 going into the third of a fast, clean-cut. Belleville drew five of the six minor penalties.

Lou Smrke led the Macs with two assists, singles being counted by Wiener, Brown, Dave Jones, Keith MacDonald and Eddie Marineau. The latter and Al Dewsbury had two assists each, and like Hildebrand, Rags Ragslan and John McClellan one apiece. Larry Babcock got both Petes' markers, aided once by Pat Casey.

The Quinte club head-manned the puck in smart fashion, turning in a sharp passing game, and their five-goal outburst in the second stanza proved enough against hustling hockey flashed by the TPT's.

The first frame was three-parts spent when Babcock got in fast with two mates to keep it and slap the rubber home from the side. A minute later Fooled Gord Bell again with a snap rebound on Casey's drive at the crease edge.

With MacDonald in the penalty box to open the second, Wiener Brown rapped in Hildebrand's pass at close range. Shortly after, Marineau tied it with Dewsbury's passup and a hot shot. MacDonald got in quickly to cuff home his own rebound for a 3-2 edge. Jones finished a neat combo with Dewsbury inside for No. 4. With each side shy a player, Smrke tallied on a passing play smartly with Ragian and Marineau.

Near the close of the third stanza, Smrke took the only goal of the period on incisive combination with McClellan and Marineau.

TEAMS

Officials: A. Promaine, L. Doolittle, J. Shropshire.

SUMMARY

First Period

Petes Babcock (Casey) 15:17
Petes Babcock (Casey) 16:15

MARLINS JOIN ORIOLES

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore Orioles have signed a limited working agreement for next year with Miami of the International League. The contracts of shortstop Foster Castleman and pitcher Lou Sleater, both with the American League club this year, have been sent to Marlins. Williams Shelton, Orioles executive vice-president, said the one-year agreement was limited in that the Marlins' 1959 team would include players other than just Orioles farmhands.

Ernie Banks Top "Slugger"

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernie Banks, the major league leader in home runs and runs batted in, also won the National League slugging championship with a .614 average in 1958.

He is the first Chicago Cubs' player to win the title since Hack Wilson did it in 1930 on the strength of 56 home runs.

Rocky Colavito of Cleveland captured the American League slugging crown with a .620 mark, figures compiled by the Associated Press also showed today.

Banks pounded out 94 doubles, 11 triples and 47 home runs among his 196 hits. He compiled 380 total bases—but a big league high. The 27-year-old shortstop drove in 129 runs.

Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants, last year's pace-setter, finished second this time with a .583 percentage. Mays collected 250 total bases and 29 homers.

Hank Aaron of Milwaukee had 328 total bases in 601 trips and finished third with .546. He had 196 hits including 34 doubles, four triples and 30 home runs.

Colavito had fewer total bases than both Mickey Mantle of New York Yankees and Bob Cerv of Kansas City. But the Indians' outfielder had clearly 488 official times at bat compared to 519 for Mantle and 515 for Cerv.

Slugging averages are based on total bases accumulated on all hits and times at bat.

Colvito had 41 homers, second only to Mantle's 42. Rocky also wound up with 303 total bases, also had 26 doubles and three triples.

Argo Coach Thinks Tackle Will Return

TORONTO (CP)—Though Toronto Argonaut tackle Danny Nykolak is listed as doubtful, coach Hamp Pool thinks he will be back at practice tonight.

Pool said: "He left of his own accord and subsequently we had to suspend him."

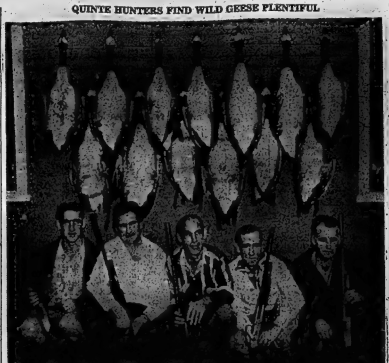
The 245-pound Canadian lineman failed to appear for the weekend Big Four series with Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Managing director Legs Hayman said he expects to meet with Nykolak today to discuss future. It was reported the big lineman wants to be traded, either to Montreal Alouettes or a Western club.

Pool commented a week before the Hamilton-Toronto series when Argos lost 14-10 to Montreal: "Everybody else was hitting, and hitting hard, except Nykolak." The tackle left after a movie review of the game.

Lion Coach Gets Praise, No Contract

VANCOUVER (CP) — Coach Dan Edwards got plenty of praise from directors of British Columbia Lions Thursday night, but no football contract for 1959.



Edwards took over Lions, in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, after the firing of coach Glen Crowe. The club lost 11 straight games before Edwards got them moving. Then they won three in a row.

Directors met to discuss the Lions' record showing. A decision on Edwards' status for next season was put off until the end meeting, probably Nov. 3.

By that time Lions will have played their last three games of the regular season and it is likely Edwards will have the inside track for next season if the team continues its fine play.

QUINTE HUNTERS FIND WILD GEESE PLENTIFUL

Best wild-goose hunting in 30 years is reported from the Bay of Quinte. This group of marksmen shot 13 of the big birds, ranging in weight from seven to 10 pounds each, in one day. Left to right, Andy Cole, Gerald Miller, Dick Cole, Laverne Wright and Gregory Cole.

Ryne Duren Will Pay Fine "With Big Smile"

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (CP)—Pitcher Ryne Duren says he will pay a $250 fine "a big smile" although he doesn't remember committing the offence that caused it.

Baseball commissioner Ford Frick fined the New York Yankees' relief ace for making a "choke up" gesture at umpire Larry Goetz during the sixth game of the world series.

"If I did with a big smile and just be happy that we won," Duren said.

"I honestly don't remember making such a gesture. "But if I did do it I was wrong and deserve to be fined."

Duren said he contacted Berry through a friend who works in the Commissioner's office and asked him to relay an apology.

Kid Howard Wins by KO

Howard weighed 137½, Lynch 132.

It was the New Yorker's first defeat in 13 pro fights. Howard wore Lynch down with a punishing body attack and had him down for an eight-count in the sixth and 10th rounds.

Bleeding about the nose and right eye, Lynch crumbled under a flurry of punches in the 10th round and a short right cross sent him to the canvas for the final count at 2:27.

The two battled to a draw in their only other meeting.

Harness Racing

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP)—An Ontario horse won the first race on the Batavia Downs harness program Tuesday night. Derrish, owned by A. D. McKillop of West Lorne, was the winner by a neck over Rexland Chan.

MONTREAL (CP) — Moonstead Dan, a three-year-old black gelding from Harwood, Ont., ran the mile in 2:06 2-5 to win the feature $1,400 purse, 3 for pacers at Richelieu Park Tuesday night.

The horse is owned by Osier Burrison and driven by Jack Gordon.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — A tally double of 86.80, the smallest of the year and possibly the smallest in several years, was paid Tuesday at New Woodbine track.

The payoff was on Fairgonian, which paid $3 when it won the first race, and Wakefield, which paid $2.80 when it won the second.

Jockey Hugo Dittfach, leading Western Canada rider and highly successful since arrival here 10 days ago, fell from Miss Arcadia in the second but was only bruised.

He rode all but one of his remaining mounts on the day's card.

Feature of the day went to J. C. and J. H. MacKinnon's Joey Jay, a half length before favored Minstrel with Sun Drift third.

Leaders Secure In Western Point Scramble

WINNIPEG (CP) — The first five leaders remained secure in the individual scoring of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press showed that Hill now has 92 points on nine touchdowns, 25 converts and one field goal.

Joe Mobra, place-kicking end with Edmonton Eskimos, held third spot but crept to within two points of Shepard.

Jackie Parker follows with 39 points. Two ahead of Bomber quarter Jim Van Pelt.

LOAN McNAMARA

TORONTO (CP)—Gerry McNamara, netminder with Bufalo Bisons of the American Hockey League last season, has been loaned to Cleveland Barons for the rest of this season, Toronto Maple Leafs announced Tuesday. McNamara is the property of the National League Leafs.

Albright to Coach Redmen

MONTREAL (CP) — Bill Albright, impact Montreal player injured in the first game of the Big Four season, has been recruited as a temporary line coach by McGill University Redmen of the Senior Intercollegiate Football League.

Albright, sidelined with a back injury, was not one of the 12 imports named by Montreal shortly before the deadline. He played with New York Giants of the National Football League and Toronto Argonauts before joining the Alouettes this season.

The Redmen, still smarting from a 31-0 lacing at the hands of Queen's University Golden Gaels in Kingston last Saturday, continued nightly practice sessions in preparation for their fourth game of the season, against University of Western Ontario Mustangs here Saturday.

The Provincial Hospital Plan and YOU

When does the new Provincial Hospital Plan come into effect?
On January 1, 1959.

Is there an insurance plan designed especially to supplement it?
Yes. Mutual of Omaha has a new Sickness and Accident Plan offering many extra benefits not covered by the Provincial Plan.

What are these extra benefits?
The new plan reimburses you for the cost of private or semi-private room care, over and above the standard or ward costs covered by the Provincial Plan. And most important are the surgical, medical and nursing care benefits included in Mutual's MOST COMPREHENSIVE PLAN.

The new Provincial Hospital Plan will affect nearly all of us. But do you know how it will operate . . . how much it will cost you . . . what benefits you will receive? For the answers to these and many other questions, return the coupon below. We will send you, free of charge, complete details about the Provincial Hospital Plan . . . plus full information on the first insurance plan designed expressly to supplement it.

Mahin - Rackin Productions Decide to Make Own Picture

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "We're paying two actors $1,500,000 and neither of us has a maid. Our wives do the cooking."

This was the happy admission of Martin Rackin and John Lee Mahin, a couple of movie mavericks who could write a new chapter in the history of private enterprise.

Together they could point to a half-century of toil in the movie mills. And they could earn hefty salaries working for studio bosses.

"But we weren't satisfied," Rackin said. "When you're working for a studio, you never get to roll the dice yourself. You write a picture for Marlon Brando and you end up with a second-rate actor saying your lines. Or you change a whole script to make it fit Gary Cooper. You never do things the way you want them done."

COMMON URGE

Producer Rackin and writer Mahin were working on a Paul Gallico script for Warner Brothers when their minds met in the common urge: "Let's make our own pictures."

Both had been fond of a Civil War novel by Harold Sinclair, The Horse Soldiers. They bade farewell to Warners and embarked on Mahin-Rackin productions.

Their No. 1 choice for the director was John Ford. He wanted Th. Horse Soldiers and was interested in directing it.

They needed two potent stars. On a visit to Ford's house, they met John Wayne, who carved them for not bringing the deal to his Batjac firm. He grudgingly agreed to do the picture.

William Holden was encountered at a party, liked the sound of the project and joined the team. The outlay: $750,000 plus 50 per cent of the profits apiece to Holden and Wayne; $250,000 plus 20 per cent to Ford.

"We don't mind," Rackin said airily. "You gotta give away to get in this business. And even if we don't get, it'll be worth it. We've had the time of our lives."

SPORT IN BRIEF

PURCHASE THREE

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Royals of the International Baseball League have purchased pitchers Kenneth Howe and Ronald Forsythe from Macon, Ga., of the Sally League and catcher Robert Hurvitz from Des Moines, Iowa, of the Western League. Los Angeles Dodgers have assigned veteran outfielder Elmer Valo and pitcher Babe Birrer to Montreal in exchange for first baseman Jim Koranda and outfielder Solly Drake.

WARRIORS GET CHRYSTAL

WINNIPEG (CP) — Bob Chrystal, who played defence with New York Rangers in the National Hockey League in 1953-54 and 1956-57, has been assigned by Rangers to Winnipeg Warriors of the Western Hockey League. Chrystal has been a WHL all-star the last two years with Brandon and Saskatoon, St. Paul.

Benny Extraordinarily Calm, Unharassed in Years of TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Benny ordered some hot coffee sent up to his hotel suite the other day during a visit to New York.

"Please," he told room service, "make it so hot that you can't carry it." Hanging up the telephone, he said to a visitor, "as I've boasted about it, that line is stolen from George Burns."

"That reminds me of a story," said a friend of Benny. "There was this sadness or four year old who seemed perfectly normal in every way except that he wouldn't talk. His parents were worried sick about it. They did everything possible, but the kid wouldn't say a word.

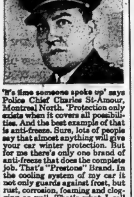
"Finally one morning when they served him his cocoa, he tasted it and yelled, 'gee, that's too hot!' His parents burst into tears of joy, kissed him and asked, 'Why haven't you ever spoken before, dear?' The kid said, 'there hasn't been anything to complain about before.'"

COULD USE THAT ONE

Benny, laughing, said he could use that joke. The winner told Benny's fatigue he could use it too and would try to rush it before Benny did.

Benny was philosophical about the loss of a new joke. After all, he knows millions of them. Besides, he's a very philosophical guy — extraordinarily calm and unharassed in his 26th year of radio and television.

Week in and week out his CBS - TV show Sundays, 7:30 p.m. EDT) is the most longprovoking half-hour comedy show to go on the air. He doesn't worry about "changing format" problems because the format of the show always is changing from week to week anyway.



The first 18 years are the hardest, he feels. He used to work like a dog after he began his radio program in 1932. "Scared every week that they'd fire me if it wasn't the best show ever." But after nine years on television he doesn't worry any more.

Had Already Named Imports

CALGARY (CP) — Coach Otis Douglas of Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union had no last-minute decisions to make when the import - declaration deadline arrived Tuesday. He chose his 12 American players two weeks ago.

Police Chief Points Finger at "Protection" Racket

"It's time someone spoke up" says Police Chief Charles St-Amour, Montreal North. "Protection only exists when it covers all possibilities. And the best example of that is anti-freeze. Sure, lots of people say that almost anything will give your car winter protection. But for me there's only one brand of anti-freeze that does the complete job. That's 'Prestone' Brand. In the cooling system of my car it not only guards against frost, but rust, corrosion, foaming and clogging as well. That's what I call complete protection."

The Chief is right. "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze is the only anti-freeze with magnesic film that coats every surface of your cooling system. Make sure you insist on "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze—identified by the Green Tag that will be attached to your radiator.

Dunlops Down Clinton 4-2

WHITBY (CP) — Whitby Dunlops downed Clinton Comets 4-2 Tuesday night in a sparkling exhibition game before 800 fans.

It was the first home showing of the Dunlops who won the world hockey championship in Oslo last year.

Dunlops were without five of their top players who performed with them overseas, but manager Wren Blair, who also manages Clinton, appears to have most of the gaps well filled.

Gordie Myles, Harry Sinden, John Chasczewski and Whitey Youngworth scored for Dunlops with Spider Brown and Doug McPhee scoring for Comets.

LIFE NOT WORTH LIVING?

Then wake up the liver!

You have that sour, sunk, constipated feeling! It may be caused by the liver. If your liver doesn't pour out up to two pints of bile a day your food may not digest properly, and you feel that life's just one weary thing. That's when the liver tonic sold mostly Carter's Little Liver Pills should help you. Gentle, effective and thorough, these pure vegetable tonic pills help you get your digestive tract functioning properly and your bile flow. Don't accept substitutes. Insist on your very own. Always keep Carter's Little Liver Pills on hand.

The U.S. moon rocket topped all other efforts of man to send vehicles into space but it will soon be just another name on the chart as rockets are sent outward toward Mars and Venus. The moon rocket reached a height of over 79,000 miles before returning into the earth's atmosphere to be consumed by friction. The flight was considered a success by U.S. scientists, who received much scientific data from the recording devices in the rocket. Another rocket will be aimed at the moon on November 7.

ALGERIAN

nesa. Some officers said they resigned only because the order came to them through Salan.

HOUR IS GRAVE

"The hour is grave," said the Algiers committee in a statement calling the strike.

"The fruits of our victory of May 13th are threatened. Political parties move loudest than ever are animating again the policy of the government. The indecible decision of the chief of the government to open electoral competition in Algeria. Communist, progressive and liberal propaganda has no other aim than to turn the Algerian elections into a political free-for-all thus barring the men without a political past.

"De Gaulle's order was generally welcomed in France, where all but the extreme right wing have been apprehensive about the virtual autonomy the army has exercised in Algeria since May 13.

ARMY POPULARITY HIT

But a high officer in Algeria said the premier had "destroyed at least 70 per cent of his popularity with the army."

"Never do you wanted to become career politicians," said another officer. "All we care about is Algeria—Algeria remains French. We are tired of constant defeats and abandonments. The referendum showed that we can do the job better than the civilians. Why destroy everything?"

An officer close to Gen. Salan said the order came at a time when the army was on the verge of mastering the Moslem rebellion.

Algeria's moderate Europeans said that with the withdrawal of the officers, leadership in the public safety constituted passed to extreme rightists. The central committee's new spokesman, for example, is Bernard Lefevre, whose "manifesto of the fourth" openly proposes the creation of a fascist state in France.

Army sources said it would be difficult for the troops to take a stand against the Jvillian committee in case of a serious conflict between them and Paris.

RAY ANTHONY SUED

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Band leader Ray Anthony was sued today by a man who support payments by his ex-wife, singer Shirley Ross. The complaint said Anthony agreed to pay her $225 weekly for life or until she remarried but hasn't paid her anything since last April 23.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this healing substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a world famous research institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injuries! Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

FEDERAL GOVT.

coers is that the federal government eliminate sentences of more than six months but has given a year for breaches of federal laws.

Mr. Fulton said at a press conference that this means that the central government will be responsible for all prisoners sentenced to more than six months for offences against federal laws.

He said the decision reflects the federal view that not much can be done in the way of reforming an offender in less than a year.

On the basis of 1956 estimates, about 2,800 prisoners would be transferred to federal from provincial institutions when the central government assumes responsibility for all on sentences of a year or more.

One estimate as to what the changes will cost the federal government is understood to range from $35,000,000 to $40,000,000.

Mr. Fulton said the proposed elimination of sentences for between six and 12 months should not affect certain offenders getting longer prison terms.

EVALUATION PROGRAM

There was also to be "an educational and informational" program for magistrates and judges aimed at ensuring they took adequate care to evaluate an offender before passing sentence.

Should it be decided the offender required only "punitive" and custodial treatment, the sentence would be for no more than six months.

Should reformative treatment be indicated as well as punishment, a judge would send the offender to a federal institution.

Mr. Fulton said a planning committee will be established within the federal penitentiaries staff at once to work out details involved in implementing the conference decisions.

OTHER DECISIONS

Other items dealt with in the communique:

1. It was agreed that arrangements should be worked out "to encourage regular visits by judges and magistrates to those penal institutions to which they would be sentencing prisoners."

2. Agreement was reached that no person under 16 should be sentenced to imprisonment in an institution where adults are confined, except where the offence is murder, manslaughter or rape.

3. The federal government has agreed to consider establishing one or more new institutions for women, with special considerations being given to providing custody for French - speaking women offenders. The point was not elaborated upon.

55 abstentions, to retain the position of the Chinese Nationalist government in exile as the only recognized currencies.

Earlier; the assembly rejected by a vote of 45 to 30, with three abstentions, an Indian amendment which would have had the full General Assembly elect members of a governing council to administer the fund. The resolution as adopted provides that this election be conducted by the Economic and Social Council, the assembly's principal economic organ.

SUNFED SUBSTITUTE

The special projects fund was devised by the United States to substitute for a Special UN Fund for Economic Development (SUNFED), which has long been who had worked in vain to convert the new fund into a SUNFED-type bank.

The United States and other Western countries opposed creating SUNFED on the ground that the loans can be provided by already existing international organization.

Stood in Nude To Plunge Knife Into Wife's Heart

PARIS (Reuters) — A hushed court heard a woman describe Monday how she stood in the nude—except for black gloves—and plunged a knife into the heart of her lover's wife.

Spinster Simone Deschamps, 47 testified before an assize court at the opening of her trial for murder. French newspapers have dubbed it the "demon lovers" case.

Judge Pierre Bouheure clashed frequently with the haggard spinster.

Her lover, Dr. Yves Evenou, 46, died in prison eight months ago while awaiting trial with Miss Deschamps.

CARRIED AWAY

Hugging a black sweater around her shoulders, Miss Deschamps cried out: "I never wanted to kill Marie Claire. It was Dr. Evenou who insisted that I should kill. I was carried away by a moment of folly."

The judge said Miss Deschamps who faces a possible death sentence, bought the knife with the doctor on the day before the murder in May, 1927. It was agreed, he said, that at Dr. Evenou's signal, she, "nude beneath a fur coat," would join him in his victim's bedroom for the murder.

"I obeyed his orders," the woman cried out in the court.

The judge retorted: "But these are orders one should not obey."

Describing the death scene, the defendant said: Dr. Evenou ushered me into the bedroom. I dropped my coat on a chair.

DARKER HER

"We then stood on either side of the bed where Marie Claire was sleeping. The doctor told me 'you will not have the courage to kill her. You will not give me such proof of your love.'

"I killed not knowing what I was doing."

Judge Bonheure said Dr. Evenou lifted his victim's nightgown and pointed to the heart for Simone to strike there.

As she pointed the knife on the heart, Mrs. Evenou woke up, the judge said, and recognized them both.

The judge said Dr. Evenou, holding his wife's head to soothe her, said "you are dreaming—it's only a nightmare."

The judge added: "At this precise moment, Simone Deschamps in a frenzy brandished her knife and struck, crying out 'your husband is unfaithful to you. Now we've got you.'"

6th SIDNEY

Scott's WA, WMS Hold October Meet

6TH SIDNEY — Mesdames Carl Sine and Maurice Sefton were co-hostesses for the October dinner at the church hall Wednesday. A good crowd enjoyed a wonderful variety of food.

In the afternoon Mrs. C. Copeland, W.M.S. president, convened the meeting. Two ladies volunteered to drive to the W.M.S. Rally at Centenary on October 17, so there should be a way for anyone who wishes to go. Those who wished to take the Missionary Monthly for 1959 paid their subscriptions. The thank offering was taken. Mrs. A. Sine and Mrs. C. Copeland will be hostesses for November.

Mrs. Morley Sine introduced the new Study Book, "Concerns of a Continent."

By use of a large map of the North American continent she showed the countries concerned with their comparative sizes, population, and religion, as follows: Alaska, twice the size of Texas, the newest state of the United States, population 200,000. A few Russian Orthodox churches remain, but mainly a mission field for Protestantism.

Canada, 2nd country of the world in land area, population 16 million. The United Church of Canada and Roman Catholic Church very important.

United States, 5th largest in area in world, population 170 million. The richest country in the world. A Protestant Christian country and Roman Catholic country; half the Jews in the world live in the United States.

Mexico, 3rd largest in North America, population 30 million. A Roman Catholic country.

Hawaii, population one half million; varied religions; Protestant Christianity, Shintoism, Buddhism, Roman Catholic.

Caribbean area; many islands; population 18 million; Roman Catholic, Anglican, Protestant Christians.

Mrs. Edison Sine conducted the devotional, the theme being "The Tribal Relationship."

Mrs. K. Faul read Deuteronomy 17:6-20.

During the changing patterns of the Jewish national history the prophets kept alive the idea of equal right to justice for every man.

The meeting closed with a prayer that the members might be good stewards in bringing about a perfect fellowship.

Scoharie

SCOHARIE — Sincere sympathy is extended to the family of the late Thomas Cleave, who passed away on Wednesday at the home of his son, Borden. Several people from here attended the funeral service Saturday afternoon at Whattam's Funeral Home, Picton.

Mrs. Harry Cunningham kindly opened her home on Thursday evening for the October meeting of the Live Wo-men's Circle. There was a good attendance and a pleasant evening was enjoyed.

Misses William McGee, John Leavitt, Foster Jackson and son spent the weekend north at their hunting camp. Mrs. Mc-of Mrs. Harold Huff, Mary and Gee spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stone.

Mrs. John McGee is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Doug. Pearce and girls for a week.

The Misses Ann and Catherine Leavitt are rooming in Picton as both have positions there.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kerr, Rhonda and Kathy, of Big Island, were Sunday dinner guests Hudson Huff, Mount Pleasant.

RIGHTISTS IN ALGERIA CALL OFF STRIKE

Hog Producers Prepare For War With Packers

Contract Production Scheme Rouses Fears

MONTREAL (CP)—A new battle between Ontario hog producers and packers loomed today as spokesmen for producers warned they will use every effort to maintain their bargaining power in the marketing field.

The Ontario Hog Producers Association, in a statement before the royal commission on price spreads, said there seems to be a trend by some corporations to attempt to integrate the hog industry completely, from production to retail sales.

"It is the intention of the processor to invade the farm production field, then we will have no choice but to throw our weight as a group behind producer-controlled feed supply business.

STATE AIM

"We intend to arrive at vigorous and intelligent remedial procedures which will maintain the present bargaining power of Ontario hog producers."

The association said its marketing agency controls open market sales of some 30,000 Ontario producers. But it suggested the packers are trying to get around this marketing power by getting farmers to produce fixed quantities of hogs for them under contract.

"Hog producers are gravely concerned by the prospect of their industry coming under complete domination of a small group of processors and feed companies through contract production.

"The impact upon the price spread (between producer and consumer) might be serious—consumer prices could go higher while at the same time, producers might receive a smaller portion of the retail price."

Rat-Hunting Army Finds Quarry Scarce

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—It was rat killing day in Oklahoma City Wednesday. Shotgun-armed police and firemen with flame throwers waded into a weedy area in the northwest sector.

Police Chief Roy Bergman personally directed the big hunt as housewives who had turned their anti-rat wrath on city hall watched from the sidelines.

After an hour of hunting, a tiny cotton rat poked his nose from the hunting debris and was pulverized by shotgun blasts. Only four others were found by the hunters, who had expected some 600.

Bergman said philosophically: "Everyone co-operated but the rats."

Tunisian Envoy Informs Egypt About Decision

CAIRO (AP)—Tunisian Charge d'Affaires Abdallah Salah Eldin today officially informed the United Arab Republic foreign ministry of his country's decision to break diplomatic relations with U.A.R.

Eldin said he plans to close down the embassy within three days and go home.

Eldin is the only diplomat remaining at the Tunisian mission here.

With him, however, is Slim Benghazi, director of the African-Near East division at the Tunisian foreign ministry who came here as a member of the Tunisian delegation to the Arab League.

Nuclear Device Fired in Tunnel

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—The biggest tunnel shot fired here—but a baby as nuclear blasts go—jarred the ground 70 miles away Wednesday night.

Another full-scale shot was scheduled to be fired today from a balloon 500 feet high. This will be the first time that two atomic devices had been detonated here within 24 hours.

Magnetism flares dropped from a U.S. Air Force plane illuminated the area as the second atomic blast of the day went off at 10 p.m. Pacific time, a chasm her 230 feet underground. The explosion was seventh full-scale detonation and the second full-scale underground shot of the current test series.

The power yield was described as below one kiloton. A kiloton is the equivalent of 1,000 tons of TNT.

A less than one-kiloton device was fired Wednesday morning from atop a 500-foot steel tower. Perfection of small battlefield weapons is one aim of the test series.

Today's Chuckle

Always put off until tomorrow what you shouldn't do at all.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis—The warm weather that brought mid-70 temperatures to southwestern Ontario kept temperatures Wednesday night near 60 in that region. The dull, cloudy weather over the rest of Ontario kept temperatures close to 50 Wednesday and 45 at night.

Cool weather now moving into Ontario is expected to bring fair and slightly cooler weather Friday.

CORNER STORES ATTACK LOSS LEADER SELLING

Also Against Longer Shopping Hours

MONTREAL (CP) — An increase in daily shopping hours would lead to an eventual boost in retail prices, the Quebec Retail Merchants Association maintained today as it sought extra safeguards against the big chain stores and supermarkets.

The association, representing independent grocers and butcher shops, charged also that so-called loss-leader bellowvent sales represent false economy and the use of premium, coupons and trading stamps "are but a deceptive trick against consumers."

Appearing before the royal commission on price spreads, association spokesmen joined consumer groups in calling for a ban in the use of trading stamps to promote food sales. It urged also that the use of premiums and coupons be declared illegal.

As for extensions in daily shopping hours, they would mean higher labor costs, adding to the cost of handling food.

MONOPOLY STOPPERS

Independent retailers provided a weapon against the growth of monopoly if they were unable to survive, consumers might be forced into the hands of a monopoly food industry that might become controlled by only a few large wholesalers.

The association said its members should be allowed to purchase on cattle exports. The heavy flow from Canada resulted in domestic scarcities that tended to boost retail prices.

2. Provincial marketing boards should be forced to allow lower tariff prices to prevail in stores.

3. Loss-leader sales should be prohibited. No retail sale should be allowed without the addition of at least five per cent on the retailers' cost price.

4. The big retail chains should be allowed to get special concessions from manufacturers simply because of their greater purchasing power.

5. Packaging should be hygienic and functional. Transparent wrappers allowed consumers to get a good look at the merchandise.

Squirrel Season May Never Open For This Hunter

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — If 36-year-old Hobart Godbey could get a shot at squirrel season when it opens Friday you couldn't blame him.

Ray Clemens and Bob Lemon of the conservation department had been tipped that someone was hunting out of season. They were waiting near Godbey's home when he saw the greys from the woods holding two dead squirrels.

Then, in quick order, Godbey:

Began backing his car away when he saw the two agents but then put it in gear, tumbled down a 35-foot embankment.

Jumped through a smashed window, dashed down the hill and ran smack into a barbed wire fence.

Leaped to his feet and lit out again, his clothing in shreds, only to be tackled from behind.

Stood more than slightly humbled before Magistrate Lonnie Gates to get a $50 fine before limping off to the nearest hospital.

Sudbury Farmers Have Guns Ready For Rustlers

SUDBURY (CP) — Provincial police said Hanner Township farmers 30 miles north of here are "ready with their guns" in an attempt to halt livestock rustling.

After investigating the theft of a pig from farmer Gilbert Rheault, Constable Don Barry called Wednesday for . . . if this continues, somebody is going to get it because farmers are fed up with the theft. The farmers are upset and are certainly going to take action.

In the last four weeks chickens, pigs, eating and calves have disappeared without a trace.

Cattle rustling has also been reported in the Sturgeon Falls-Noelville area and on Manitoulin Island.

78, SENT TO JAIL

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Palmire Bezzasso, 78, was sentenced Wednesday to six months in jail for bookkeeping. The aged woman was fined $200 for a similar conviction in 1955.

Husband Returns From Australia, United With Wife After 40 Years

LONDON (AP)—Arthur Walker kissed his wife goodby and stepped aboard a ship for Australia 40years ago.

"We won't be apart long," he told her.

Tuesday Arthur, now a silver-haired 76, came home. His wife Maude, 68, was waiting for him.

"I knew you'd come back to me," she said.

Replied her husband: "I'm home for keeps, love."

"Arthur was gassed in the First World War," Mrs. Walker explained. "He went to Australia for his health and I couldn't bring myself to leave London, where I was born and raised."

She said she had frequently urged her husband to come home.

He was unable to make much money in Australia because of his health.

"But I was lucky on the horses," he said. "They kept me going."

Two months ago Mrs. Walker received the letter she had been waiting for.

"I'm sailing at last," he wrote. What kept the marriage alive over all the years?

"We believed in our marriage vows," said Mrs. Walker. "We have always been in love."

The X-15 rocket ship, a sleek black beauty designed to take man to the fringes of space, is rolled into the sunlight for its first public display at North American Aviation plant. Among the spectators was Vice President Dixon who told the crowd "we have moved into the first place in the race to enter outer space." The plane is expected to fly at speeds up to 4500 mph, and possibly as high as 400 miles. (AP Wirephoto).

Rocket-Powered Plane Puts U.S. Into Space Travel Lead

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The U.S. Air Force, Navy and the new civilian space agency have troubled the forerunner of tomorrow's space vehicle out into public view.

Vice-President Richard Nixon Wednesday called the new rocket-powered X-15 a "major step in man's greatest adventure in exploration beyond our world—the first and logical step in space exploration."

"With the X-15 following the magnificent achievement of the Pioneer (moon - rocket satellite) Americans are proudly say that the United States has recaptured the lead, that we have moved into first place in the race to outer space," Nixon said at a ceremony for the X-15. He added.

"We are on the threshold of seven more exciting adventures into space, of which X-15 is but one manifestation.

"X-15 is perhaps most exciting because of the fact that it is designed to carry man into space for the first time."

The X-15 is long and low, with stubby wings astern and tiny cockpit perched far forward, a protuberance so slight that some uninformed observers speculated wheels.

It is painted black, presumably in connection with radiation studies to be made on coasting flights more than 100 miles above earth. It is designed to fly more than 3,600 miles an hour.

Harrison Storms, chief engineer at North America's Los Angeles division, which built the plane, put it this way: The X-15 can fly three times as fast as the fastest jet fighters, twice as fast as a high-speed rifle bullet, and can "easily exceed a world altitude record by many times."

The X-15 will be hauled by B-52 jet bomber two days to Edwards air force base, 125 miles northeast of here, for the start of a test program.

The initial flight has been scheduled tentatively for early February, test pilot Scott Crossfield reported.

For its space-probing, the X-15 will be carried aloft under a B-52 jet bomber.

In full-scale flights its rocket engine will burn for 90 seconds, hurtling the craft into a ballistic flight path. Empty of fuel, X-15 will arc to a dreadstick landing on steel skids. It uses in place of

Priest Vs. Optimist

Youth, - - Unbelievably Bad Or Finest in 2000 Years?

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Roman Catholic priest says the "unbelievable" behavior of many young people points to a serious decline in Christian civilization.

Very Rev. J. P. Leonard, national director of the Holy Child Association, told the convention of the Catholic Women's League of Canada Wednesday night:

"As we look around the world in which we live, we are shocked to find the unbelievable behavior of today's young people—their complete misconception of the meaning and the purpose of sex, their lack of good manners, a puerile search for sensational reading and a craze for the most shabby kinds of dress; not to speak of the numbing effects that have come to the public attention in the matter of drink."

All these things, said Father Leonard, "point to a serious decline in the civilization that should be truly Christian; a civilization that has decayed because of the false theories of life and of education."

TORONTO (CP) — The present generation, says J. Harold Wilkins, is not beat.

It's the greatest.

The president of Optimist International said in an interview Wednesday that fewer kids have been so "clean, honest and upright."

"To hear some old geezers talk about the good old days one would think they hark back then sin was as scarce as hen's teeth," he smiled.

"But if the FBI were ever turned loose on some of those good old days, there would be some tall rattling of skeletons in the closets.

"Tomorrow the world will be in the safest hands of any time because the present generation of youth is the finest of these 2,000 years."

AMERICANS DIE IN CRASH

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters) — Six of 13 persons aboard a United States Navy Globemaster plane were reported killed early today in a crash near Cape Hallett in Antarctica. All the dead were Americans, according to unconfirmed reports.

De Gaulle Wins Strong Victory With Army's Aid

Salan Follows Orders And Moslems Back Him

ALGIERS (CP) — Algeria's right-wing committee of public safety today called off a scheduled general strike protesting Premier Charles de Gaulle's order to military men to get out of politics.

The cancellation was a strong victory for de Gaulle's policies. The organized opposition to de Gaulle appeared to be falling away in disorder.

The cancellation was announced after Gen. Raoul Salan, de Gaulle's personal deputy in Algeria and the military and civilian ruler of the territory, called in the leaders of the public safety committee.

A public safety committee communique calling off the general strike made no mention of a mass protest demonstration also called for the day. Since the communique said everyone is free to do about his work normally this appeared to rule out the demonstration.

EXPLAIN ACTION

The communique said the new move was made because the committee did not want to interfere with the army's action. The army had warned the committee against both the strike and the demonstration.

The committee said it maintained full confidence in the army and that Salan this morning had explained the new orders from de Gaulle.

Army loudspeaker trucks toured the city warning against the demonstration. Soldiers ringed the government headquarters building.

Leading Moslem members of the committee joined the army leadership and the government in opposing the strike and demonstration. Belief was widespread in Algiers that de Gaulle would triumph and restore peace to the territory.

Military loudspeaker trucks toured the city from the early hours today calling on people to disregard the committee's call.

ALGOMA STEEL WORKERS TO VOTE ON NEW CONTRACT

Approval May Help Hamilton Walkout

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — United Steelworkers of America (CLC) meet tonight and may vote on a new contract agreed on by their negotiators with Algoma Steel Corporation.

Their approval would bring industrial peace to Sault Ste. Marie, where 6,000 Algoma men have been working without a contract since the old one expired June 15.

Settlement might also help end the steelworkers' nine-week old strike against the Steel Company of Canada in Hamilton.

Workers there struck for a 33-cent-an-hour package increase including an unspecified wage boost then later trimmed their demands to 22 cents. The company offered five cents in a hold-the-line wage policy, saying incrfised costs would boost steel prices.

The Algoma settlement, a three-year contract, is understood to provide substantial wage increase. Terms will not be disclosed until the union and the company's board of directors have passed on them.

CONCILIATION BOARD

An Ontario labor department conciliation board under Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville completed hearings into the Algoma dispute Monday. Their findings presumably laid the groundwork for settlement.

Union nominee was Fred Dowling of Toronto, secretary-treasurer of the United Packinghouse Workers (CLC). St. Catharines lawyer Sharman Leacy represented Algoma.

Local 2251 President John Ferris said a union meeting had been

Student Hatches Duck's Egg Under His Arm Pit

OXFORD, England (AP)—Twelve-year-old James Showard had something up his sleeve. He kept it there for three weeks.

The moment came out at dinner at a boys' boarding school here when he cracked the ailing sound of a breaking egg-shell.

"Excuse me, sir," said James to a surprised master, "I think my duckling's hatching."

He slipped off his shirt and jacket and there, nestling in a duck's egg taped under his armpit.

Then he watched with something like parental pride as a duckling pushed its way through the shell for a first beady-eyed look at the world.

James told the story Wednesday, with its sad ending. The duckling died after--five days.

Mink Stole and $14,000 in Cash Among Dead Letter Office 'Loot'

OTTAWA (CP)—Would anyone be so careless as to mail a mink stole without either a forwarding or return address?

The post office department, alas, left a trifle bewildered, answers: yes.

A mink stole was the highlight of the 54,000 odds and ends collected by post offices across the country last year as a result of careless parcel mailing by the senders.

A lot of it is to be auctioned off here Oct. 21 and 22, including the mysterious mink.

From the experience of postal workers, the carelessness of Canadians when it comes to addressing their mail apparently can reach incredible proportions.

Besides the 54,000 parcels that couldn't be delivered—or returned to the senders—there were dozens of improper addressing and failure to include a return address, among 11,000,000 letters, cards and similar mail items got hung up in the post offices for the same reason.

These latter items contained some $42,000 in cash. Post office experts managed to direct all but $14,000 of this to the rightful owners. But they had to give up on the rest and drop it into the federal government till.

REAR-END CRASH CAUSES OVER $500 PROPERTY DAMAGE

A skain reaction rear-end collision involving three vehicles caused over $500 property damage Wednesday evening.

Police said that cars driven by Arnold Vallesi, 208 Farley Ave., and William Cornett, 63 Front St., were northbound on Front Street and had stopped at the line of traffic. A third car, driven by Harold James Bunker, R.R. 2, Belleville, failed to stop in time, hitting the second vehicle and forcing it into the third.

The Vallesi car had about $300 damage and the Cornett car about $200.

Pilot Can Fold Arms as Device Lands Plane

LONDON (AP)—British aviation scientists today announced a new automatic landing system that can bring a plane down safely on the runway though with folded arms.

Landing systems now in use guide aircraft down a radio beam to about 150 feet but the pilot has to control the touchdown after lighting the ground.

The new system, developed by scientists of the government supply ministry, utilizes magnetic fields induced by two cables along each side of the runway. These hold the aircraft to the runway centre line.

An instrument known as a radio altimeter provides accurate measurement of height down to zero and automatically adjusts the rate of descent.

An automatic speed control keeps speed constant during approach and shifts throttles to a safe idling speed as the plane levels out to land.

At a demonstration Wednesday the system brought a Vickers Varsity aircraft down to land from about six miles away.

Canvassers Given Final Details Before Opening

Since the individual canvasser is now the most important link with the contributors who will make the Belleville United Appeal a success, a general meeting of canvassers, team captains and chairmen of all divisions of the United Appeal campaign was held at the Collegiate Auditorium this evening before the official campaign opening under the chairmanship of overall campaign chairman Mr. Archie Lewis. Plans were finalized and many points which the canvassers wished clarified were discussed.

Mr. J. Demeza, vice-president agency participation, brought to their attention the nine participating agencies which are combining to make one appeal a year. With the Red Cross, C.N.I.B. and the Community Chest three former campaigns are now reduced to one.

Mr. L. Maraskas, publicity chairman, reviewed the means by which canvassers have been assisted in their approach to the individual contributor through newspaper, radio ,television, and the directory of services of the nine participating agencies.

Mr. E. G. Gurnett, secretary outlined the Payroll Fair Share Plan and the new voluntary payroll deduction pledge which enables every employee to support the benevolent, charitable and philanthropic organizations which are serving the community.

Mrs. J. Forrester, president and canvass director of residential canvass, gave the background history of the new Belleville and District United Appeal. Through the residential canvass which takes place all those who have not been contacted at their place of work will have an opportunity to share in the last five days of the campaign, putting the campaign over the top.

FINAL CONTRIBUTIONS

Canvassers were assisted in becoming fully acquainted with all services of participating agencies, a copy of the budget, questions and answers, instructions, pledge cards which must be made out so that the carbon copy is fully legible, and a personal card for every contributor, which he or she may carry as proof of 1959 support to the Belleville United Appeal. Canvassers were instructed to turn their completed kits to their team captains who will check the returns and return the completed kit through the chairmen lists to the head office located in the Hydro building on Pinnacle St.

This final organizational meeting prior to the campaign opening was composed of enthusiastic volunteers who in number total over a thousand. They are confident that they will meet with a friendly welcome from the citizens of Belleville who will volunteer support of the $85,000 objective.

Detailed Explanation Given Of Way New Pope Selected

The Canadian Register

The time when the Cardinals enter into conclave to elect a new Pope is from 15 to 18 days after the Pope's death.

This time was established by Pius XI in his Motu Proprio, "Cum Proxime," of 1922. Previously, according to the 1904 rules of Pius X, the conclave was to start after the nine days given over to the funeral honors of the dead Pope.

At that time, however, this meant that it was virtually impossible for Cardinals from the Americas and other places far from Rome to arrive in time for the conclave. Thus Pius XI pius extended the time to 15 days after the Pope's death and gave the Cardinals authority to extend the limit to 18 days if necessary.

Before entering into conclave the Cardinals attend the Mass of the Holy Ghost celebrated by the Dean of the College and hear the discourse on the election of the new Pope, usually given by the Secretary of Briefs to Princes, at present Archbishop Antonio Bacci.

Each Cardinal may take two persons with him into the conclave, one, clerical or lay assistant and a personal servant. If he wishes, he may take only one person. In this case the person must be a layman who will act as his personal attendant.

Pius XII's Constitution, "Vacante Apostolicae Sedis" is legislation currently governing the affairs of the conclave. Issued on December 8, 1945, it abrogated previous legislation but incorporated features of all earlier laws.

CHANGE IN VOTING

Most important of its innovations was the change in the system of voting. Previously a two-thirds vote had been necessary for the election of the new Pope. It must now be two-thirds plus one. This is directed against the possibility of Cardinal's voting for himself, which is forbidden. Formerly, in case of an exactly even two thirds vote, a check had to be made to make sure that the winner had not voted for himself. Now, even if he had voted for himself, his ballot is not required two-thirds vote.

To provide the necessary secrecy the Constitution prohibited the introduction of telegraphic, telephonic, radio, or other similar equipment into the conclave.

Voting takes place in the Sistine Chapel by secret ballot. Two ballots are taken morning and evening until a new Pope is chosen.

When a vote fails to produce a decision, the ballots are burned in a stove with damp straw, which produces a heavy black smoke. When they are burned, smoke coming out of the chimney, the people in St. Peter's Square know that the voting is still going on. When a Pope is finally elected, the ballots are burned without straw. The people know of the election when they see the light smoke coming out of the chimney.

REDUCE FOOD

During the conclave the Cardinals occupy "cells" — small apartments off a walled up section of the Vatican Palace. No one is allowed to enter or leave until the voting is finished. After three days, if no Pope has been elected, the amount of food sent into the conclavists is diminished. Formerly the Cardinals were to live on only bread, wine and water after five days, but this law has been abolished.

When a candidate has received the required number of votes, the Dean asks him whether he will accept the election and by what name he wants to be called. From the time of John XII, who died in 955, each Pope takes a new name in imitation of St. Peter's change of name.

POPE'S FIRST ACT

If he accepts, the master of ceremonies lowers the canopies over the seat of all the Cardinals except that of the Pope-elect. He is then taken in procession to the Papal where he is clothed in the Papal garments. The Cardinals then advance to pay the first homage.

Next the new Pope either confirms or accepts his Cardinal Chamberlain, who puts on his finger the fisherman's ring. He is followed by the proclamation of the election by the senior Cardinal Deacon to the people gathered in St. Peter's Square.

Once a Pope is elected, he must be validly ordained before he is validly the new Pontiff. He is elected for life and may resign only for wise wishes. In such a case a new election would be held. The Bishop of Rome (the Catholic even a layman) can be elected Pope. Should a layman be chosen he would have to be ordained and consecrated a Bishop. In practice, however, the College of Cardinals is virtually certain to choose one of its own members as the new Pope.

Two Thirds Of Canadians Town Dwellers

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's rapid industrial expansion accelerated urbanization even as a nation of town and city dwellers between 1951 and 1956, the latest census statistics said today.

In 1956 two-thirds of Canada's population resided in urban areas, against 53.5 per cent (excluding Newfoundland) in 1951 and 37.1 per cent in 1901.

Canada's urban population in 1956 rose to 6,074,855 from 8,817,637 in 1951 and less than 2,000,000 in 1901. The census figure for June 1956 totalled 5,366,936, compared with 5,165,762 in 1951 and 3,400,000 in 1901.

Ontario in 1956 was the most urbanized province with more than three-quarters of its population living in urban areas.

Orvas Chambers Premier Breeder

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Orvas Chambers of Wilfrid won the premier breeder award Wednesday at the 10th annual East-Central Ontario Holstein-Friesian holstein show. J. T. Brown of Newcastle was grand champion.

The premier exhibitor award went to Dunrobbin and Elmcroft farms of Peterborough, both of them look second place.

The 71 exhibitors from 10 counties showed 231 cattle. Ontario county won the county team award, followed in order by York, Durham, Northumberland, Lennox and Addington, Victoria and Peterborough.

The grand champion cow was Way Brook Duchess Delly, owned by Mr. Chambers. The reserve grand champion was Elmcroft Brae Photo Sovereign, exhibited by Roy Ormiston of Brooklin.

PLANE CRASHES CARS

BARRYLON, N.Y. (AP)—A U.S. military transport plane ran out of gas and landed on busy Southern State Parkway Wednesday night, smashing into three cars and fatally injuring a motorist. Two air force sergeants on the plane and a woman in one of the cars were injured, none severely.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Western oils showed a narrow gain but the rest of the stock market was easier today in moderate morning trading.

Industrials led the way lower, off more than 1½ points on index. Base metals eased almost three-quarters, and golds one-third. Western oils were up a few decimal points.

Volume at 1 a.m. was $25,000 shares, compared with Wednesday's 1,365,000.

Only two speculative issues were active. Macfie was the leader, trading 131,000 shares. It was off 3 cents at 38 cents. Mid-continent, 30,000 shares, off 3 cents at 34 cents.

Moore Corp. eased 1¼ at 79. Toronto Industrial issues were ½ point or less.

International Nickel dipped ¼ at 87 as most senior mines eased.

Unitarians Will Hear Speaker From Ottawa

REV. HOWARD BOX, Minister of Canada's oldest Unitarian Church, at Ottawa, established over 100 years, will be the guest speaker at the Legion Hall at 8 p.m. Sunday next, when he will address the newly formed Quinte Unitarian Fellowship on "A Contemporary Religion".

Mr. Box is a graduate of Yale Divinity School, member of the Mendelvile Conference, and, prior to his Ottawa appointment was minister of a New York Unitarian Church.

Quinte Unitarians congregation is growing rapidly, and Sundoy School classes have now been started. These are held at 11 a.m. at the Legion Hall.

Through Traffic Using New Roads Say Officials

The official opening of 401 Highway which carries through traffic from Trenton to Marysville has had its hoped for effect in reducing the amount of through traffic passing through the city.

This, at least, is the opinion of both city and provincial police officers who say there has been a major reduction in through traffic passing through the city.

"As far as we are concerned the new highway has had a major effect in reducing through traffic," stated one city police officer. "Now we hardly know there is any through traffic."

The same is true with provincial police traffic officers, who say there is hardly any through traffic now on No. 2 Highway.

Opened on the temperature ran from 90 to 100 degrees, no less than twelve international conventions from Ireland to Japan be held there this year, including the World Christian Education Conference. "Scads o' Git's with their wives and families have been in and out of town, and Miss Farley found an opportunity to meet many, all of whom seemed reluctant to leave Japan when their tour of duty ended.

VERY CLEAN CITY

Of particular interest to Miss Farley was the cleanliness of Tokyo. "This great city of nine million people would put to shame many of the smaller cities of Canada," she said. "Indeed, it seemed that cleanliness is a byword, since nothing appears to take up a good percentage of time in Japan. Everywhere, even on the streets Japanese men could be seen in their white shirts. The Japanese ladies follow the western style fashions but do their housework, since this is more practical and less expensive than the beautiful Japanese kimonos.

Ever mindful of learning, Miss Farley compared the literacy rate of Japan to that of Canada, the literacy rate of Japan being perhaps the highest in the world of 88.5 per cent, compared to Canada's 68.2.

She visited skilled shrines, temples, theatres and even department stores. Arrangements were even made for a visit to a Japanese home. Miss Farley's pictures showed many of these beautiful buildings with their skilful magnificent, well tended gardens. Rain and mist did not prevent her from bringing home proof of her visit. In fact she advised the club that the mist "brought out the colors and god saved the rice crop," but that same rain and mist generated her from seeing one of Japan's main attractions, Mount Fuji.

Miss Farley and Mrs. Ashdown were royally received and entertained by members of the Japanese Business and Professional Women's Clubs and Miss Farley's description of legless Japanese chairs and of chopsticks, to say nothing of her account of Japanese food, left little in the minds of her audience that she had a truly wonderful trip.

Miss Farley said, "with the coming of McArthur to Japan, great changes took place in the Japanese Woman's position. Property rights and the franchise were granted women and other rights and privileges which women in Canada are heard of in Japan. Now Japan boasts many women doctors, lawyers, musicians, artists and teachers, while 10 per cent of Japan's Diet today is made up of women.

LIKE WESTERN TV

"Just as television also follows the Western trend, "I Love Lucy" is one of the Japanese favorites, and the Japanese version of 'Robin Hood and Little Johnny' also reminded me of home".

Miss Farley said apparently has not caught up with that of the west. Her description of Japanese hotels and bedding left no illusions on this point, and she positively stated there must have been "beans in that pillow". Traits in Japan also vastly amused two members of a station so that passengers board quickly or be left behind. The luggage is "thrown through the windows". This is said to be due to the extent of travel, since there were "teaming and hills and valleys" in stations." Once aboard the trains, however, the westerners were made quite comfortable.

Among her collection of pictures were several of the Japanese sacred deer. The killing of one of these deer, even by accident, means the death penalty. In her usual humorous way Miss Farley informed her audience that 'if you awake some night and suddenly find a dead deer on you' door step, you immediately moved it to the nearest park and forget that you were up, and be to his neighbor, and so on. This is what is known as "passing the buck".

The treasures of Japan are protected by a National Treasure Law which prevents any of these things being removed from the homeland, thus preserving the beauty and the nation's culture for future generations.

There were many items of interest touched on by Miss Farley by her talk and illustrated by her beautiful color slides. Mrs. Elsie Westfall very capably expressed the Club's thanks.

Miss Hazel Farley Tells Business Women About Japan

TRENTON — The Trenton Business and Professional Women's Club played hostess last night to a large representation from neighboring Clubs from Tweed, Napanee, Belleville and Picton, at the regular monthly meeting, held at the Hotel Gilbert.

The speaker of the evening was Club member Hazel Farley, Miss Anne Johnson introduced her. Miss Farley, a veteran member of the staff of Trenton High School, is an honorary member of the Trenton Legion in recognition of her untiring efforts during World War II on behalf of service personnel from this area, and has held posts in the Trenton Business Professional Women's Club, acting also as U.N. liaison convener for two years. As delegate to UNESCO, it is stated she is presently active in work connected with this phase of local history.

TRAVELLED TO JAPAN

Always fond of travel, Miss Farley became interested in the East-West Cultural Mission to Japan which was organized by the United Nations Association Committee for UNESCO this year with a view to furthering UNESCO's purposes by promoting mutual appreciation of East-West culture. Miss Farley was awarded her application and was accepted, and in company with the members of the Mission, including Margaret Aisdown of Toronto, visited Nations chairman was attending under the sponsorship of the Canadian Federation of Business & Professional Women's Clubs, set out for Japan. Miss Farley was the only Canadian of the Mission who paid her own way, since all others were sponsored by various associations.

Prior to take-off, the group was given a "send off" party and a luncheon given in Vancouver by the Japanese Consul there.

That evening, Sunday, July 13, group flew to Tokyo. From the modern airport, the group was driven to the hotel by bus which was the beginning of many modern customs, flowers, etc. During the trip, Miss Farley took particular interest in the Japanese rice paddy growing for position.

Personal Papers Of CCF Leader Being Deposited

OTTAWA (CP)—The personal papers of M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader since 1942, have been deposited in the public archives here for safekeeping.

The 8-year - old party leader says the papers which include "all sorts of things" won't be accessible to the public for an indefinite time.

Among the papers are letters he has written on matters of public interest, personal letters and notes of his speeches over a 16-year period. The documents now are being sorted and arranged.

The archives already has the papers of J. S. Woodsworth, the first CCF leader who died in 1942.

Four Red Planes Fly Over Isles

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Four Communist planes flew over the islay Wuchiu islands today, raising speculation on Formosa that the Reds might try to seize those Nationalist outposts midway between Quemoy and Amoy.

The Wuchiu lie in the Formosa Strait 15 miles from the mainland and 90 miles from Formosa. One of the two islands, Wuchiu, is 138 acres, and the other, Little Wuchiu, is 57.6 acres.

The Chinese Nationalists use them as lookout posts.

The Nationalist defence ministry said four Red planes circled over the Wuchiu for 26 minutes in mid-morning, then returned to the mainland.

On the 11th day of the Communist cease-fire in the Quemoy group, the Nationalist defence ministry said the Reds continued to wage an military pestilence including those islands. The Nationalists also worked on new gun positions on their outposts.

Prepare for Parade On Remembrance Day

TRENTON — The Trenton Legionnaires are preparing for the annual Remembrance Day parade and service.

The parade this year will assemble at the Market Square at 10 a.m. and will proceed promptly at 10.15 a.m. to the Cenotaph in Fraser Park, where a Remembrance Day Service, nondenominational, will be held under the direction of Flight-Lieutenant the Rev. C. W. Bryce, the branch chaplain.

The parade will be headed by the crack RCAF Station Trenton band, led by Flight-Sergeant Fred Wildish, and will be assembled and dispatched by the perennial Branch parade marshal, John A. Silver, MBE.

Ontario Liberal Leader Speaker Armistice Day

TRENTON — Plans for the Branch No. 110 observance of Remembrance Day banquet are now almost complete and the event promises to be one of the largest in the Branch's history

The guest of honor at this occasion will be the Hon. John J. Wintermeyer, Q.C., M.P.P., leader of the official opposition in the Ontario legislature.

Mr. Wintermeyer is recognized as one of Ontario's most progressive leaders and his address will be awaited with considerable anticipation by the many local Legionnaires and their friends.

Letters taking part in the evening's proceedings will be Stanley President, D. Fairchild, First Vice President Horace J. Ketcheson, Second Vice President W. T. "Bill" Lawson and Immediate Past President Earl Donaldson.

A bountiful turkey dinner will be served by the Branch No. 110 ladies' Auxiliary and a limited number of tickets, moderately priced, are now available at the Legion Memorial Hall.

Mass Vaccination Being Considered By Minister

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario health department is considering mass vaccination of adults in the province with Salk anti - polio serum.

The plan being considered is in response to complaints by residents that they are unable to obtain vaccination at health clinics.

Many also complain doctors are charging up to $15 for the series of three required vaccinations. Health Minister Phillips said the fee should not be more than nine dollars, since the vaccine is free.

"There is enough free vaccine in the hands of doctors and medical officers of health to provide treatment for every person in the province, regardless of age," he said.

"We are determined that everybody who wants to be vaccinated will be able to obtain the necessary vaccination without having to worry about paying doctors' fees.

Setting up mass vaccination centres will require considerable time and study, Dr. Phillips said, and decision on them would have to be by the provincial cabinet.

Believed Drowned

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Wreckage found on the north shore of Lake Superior, 130 miles from here, has been identified as that of a commercial fishing tug missing from the Agawa River since last Thursday. Fishermen Richard Rousselen 50, and son Robert, 28, are missing and believed drowned.

Deck planks indicate fire aboard the craft.

BAN APPLES

West Germany has banned imports of apples to protect sale of its own exceptionally large domestic crop this year.

RADIO, CARS AND COMETS

"Atlantic Shrinks as Comets Begin Runs" reads a headline in the Christian Science Monitor.

In the Toronto Star Pierre Berton, late of Maclean's Magazine, discusses the early days of radio.

There seems no apparent connection. And yet perhaps there is.

Berton recalls that in his boyhood days radio occupied an even bigger place in family life than television does today.

Some may find this difficult to believe. But those of us who are Berton's age and older will recognize the truth. We will remember those Sunday evenings, of which he writes, when Jack Benny and Eddie Cantor gathered the family around the radio. Perhaps it was a two-tube "peanut" set, Northern Electric's contribution to the industry, with two sets of earphones. Or perhaps another stage had been added and the family discovered that, if a set of earphones were placed in a glass cut bowl, this would act as loudspeaker and everybody could hear the program. Later, after much scrimping and saving, there came the day when the three-tube set with the glass bowl gave place to a gleaming five-tube production, with built-in speaker. The house was filled with sound. This, of course, had disadvantages. Dad might arise from his living room chair and retreat with his book to another room, vainly hoping that the firmly closed door would isolate one small corner of the house from Rudy Vallee's crooning. And on Sunday afternoons, even in spring's sleets or fall's drizzles, a main street corner was preferred by the young generation to a home throbbing with the shrieks of an operatic soprano.

The important thing about radio, though, was that its acquisition was a goal for the whole family. Not everybody had one.

The same, of course, was true of cars. There was a time when everybody wanted to be friends with the family on the street which had a big Studebaker touring car in the garage. That car got loaded with picnic baskets every Dominion Day and eventually there was enough room left to squeeze in neighbors, or at least neighbors' boys and girls. An outing at the beach was an event in those days.

Today radios are scattered throughout the house. Nearly every family has a car. Even television was a fence which was quickly scrolled with only a quick backward look at the finance company.

What have radios, cars and TV sets to do with Comets? Well, today, when we read the headlines about the shrinking Atlantic the truth may filter through that for most of us there has been no shrinkage at all. What interests us is not the time from London and Paris and Berlin and Rome and Athens and Cairo from Baghdad and Calcutta, from Singapore and Melbourne and Manila and Honolulu, from Santiago and Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires, is not hours or even miles but dollars.

And, though, there are more and more families which are nibbling at the rind on this tempting melon of far-away places. By dint of scrimping and saving, the same kind of scrimping and saving which once preceded the acquisition of a radio and later of a car, they are managing to sample the delights of some of the more popular spots.

Perhaps there will come a day when world travel will be as commonplace for the person in average circumstances as is the ownership today of radio, car and TV set.

Perhaps the Atlantic will really be shrunk, even the Pacific diminished. We are not so sure that we should like to live to see the day. For with the diminishing of space there will also come a diminution in wonder. When these far-away places are as commonplace as radio, car and TV set, what new horizons will open up to provide that almost necessary feeling of romance which alone can give interest to living?

OLD MAID AT 14

Young ladies of the Western world who begin to worry about matrimonial opportunities at 25 or 30 years of age may be interested to learn something of their sisters in Ethiopia. There girls marry very young -- generally at the age of 11 or 12; and, if for some reason a girl stays single until the age of 14, she is looked upon with disdain and the parents consider her a burden - - one more person to feed. A FRIEND DISCUSSES VANITY

It I were inclined to be vain
To think myself perfect and fine,
If I were inclined to maintain
That all of the virtues are mine,
My pantry of sorrows and joys
Would speedily puncture the sham;
When I stay out too late with the boys,
She can tell me how little I am.

When I'm tempted to show a few airs,
I think of the things that she's said,
To me from the top of the stairs
When I thought I could sneak into bed.

When I promised to get home at ten,
And do not arrive until three,
In language that's crisp, I get then
The positive truth about me.

When I've muttered: "I couldn't get home,"
Or whispered: "The last bus I missed,"
No swelling remains in my dome;
No doubts of my standing exist.
I lose the high notions I hold
And come down to earth with a slam;
And I learn, for in sorrow I'm told,
Just the kind of a fellow I am.

Ousted Rulers' Deadline

The New Yorker

Nothing is more useful in the conduct of human affairs than the doctrine limit — the cause of 10 in the prize ring, the five years of the statute of limitations on felonies, and the five years of a husband's absence before his wife is allowed to presume him dead.

Anything such periods must be, but fixed with some regard to the reasonable. If fighter can't get up at 10, he can't get up at 11, so shouldn't; if a husband doesn't come home in X years, the chances are that he won't in X plus 1, and anyhow he should have the good taste to stay away.

Without devices like these, there would be no steadiness in life; no citizen would know where he was.

We are in favor of a reasonable limit on the time the United States Senate — if a speaker can't convince his colleagues in x hours, he is almost certain to won't in x plus 27 or in 27x — an in favor of a fixed date for capacity with laws and supreme court decisions. There are fixed dates for mortgages, and although we hate to think of them, perhaps we should have one for wives.

What we are getting at, by a long enough route, we hope, is avoid the charge of subversion of state department foreign policy — and the consequent risk of being denied a passport — is that the world lacks a Count of Ten on Fallen Rulers.

How long after a ruler is chucked out on his de'acto ear by an ungrateful country does he remain de-jure chief of government, and how far does he have to be chucked to be out of bounds?

Is Farouk, for example, following a big, rousing debate, at a maximum interval between the time of his ouster and the arrival of fits at country and the time it ceases to be the legal government, international relations would be simplified.

No matter what the UN decided, six months, 10 years or 20 — it would be all to the good. (As a parallel, there is no immediate reason Yarborough Jones should extend three miles from the coast, as they do, or 12, as the United States claimed during prohibition, but there must be an international definition of territorial waters or we'd all be shooting one another.)

• • •

In the name of decency, we are for a fixed minimum interval, too — or at least until the palace chow women finish wringing the blood from their mops. There could be sentimentalists later.

• • •

No government anywhere today has an unflawed original title: England's government is based on Hanoverian succession (Act of Settlement, 1688), France's on a whole pinwheel of revolutions, ours on a revolution, a forced solder job in 1865, and the Tilden-Hayes election of 1876.

• • •

Yet each of the three would find it intolerable if an outside power attempted to withhold recognition and treated with the Anglo-American Monmouth government or the House of Valois or the Sons of the Confederacy.

• • •

In brief, we're advocating some kind of limit as well as some kind of thing at all, of course, to prevent the de-legalized monarch or president in exile from participating in order to get back. After the third out, they go back to the bench.

• • •

A revolution is an internal affair, though, and until it succeeds international recognition or the regime the revolution is against, international law gives it no standing at a time. Let the UN pass an Enoch Arden law.

Black Cats and Witches

Aramco World Magazine

Several reasons have been advanced for the mystic nature of 13. Let's look at them.

Some students say it was the first unknown number after decimal counting, which ran only up to 12 on two hands and 10 fingers. Others note that a dozen witches would have the good thought to hold weekly meetings on Fridays.

Three was also a magic number, said to be a symbol of fatality because it combines that is, life itself. A triangle held standing on end was a witch's broomstick; a ladder was the same as breaking the triangle, life's symbol. Even 4 is a mystic number because the Romans believed that the soul departed itself every seven years. Breaking the mirror was the same as smashing the body, which is only a reflection — and meant seven years of bad luck.

Rabbits' feet became potent charms against evil forces in the Middle Ages. European hares were said to be witches in disguise (as were black cats), and they consorted in nocturnal gatherings on moonlight nights. Strictly speaking, superstitiously, a rabbit's foot should be left thus foot of an animal killed at the full of the moon by a left-handed person, and it should be carried in a left pocket.

The ancients believed the left side was the sinister side, the unlucky one. In fact, the word, sinister, comes from the Latin for left. They also said that salt was magic and that spilled salt was a warning of evil. That is why you toss a pinch of salt over your left shoulder as it lands to the evil spirits congregated there, in case they had planned to harm you.

Originally, shook hands with the right hand because that was the lucky one. Today, Arabs sometimes refer to one by as a polite custom. Similarly, the apologies and cover your mouths when we yawn; the custom started with the belief that, unless you covered your mouth, a yawn would let the devil in.

Many superstitions are similarly fallacies, based on unprovable "facts". Some of these are to him.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Getting a day's work done is like packing a trunk or a suitcase. Some people are wonderful at it. They can pack twice as much in a suit case as anyone else. First, they lay everything out on the bed, all folded and in full view, but not buried under something else. After spreading the suit-case open on an adjoining chair, they size the situation up. And then, in the most orderly fashion, they proceed, without pressure, without jumping up and down, without swearing at it, to place each article in the bag, merely patting it into position. When the bag is filled, the lid drops down, and they snap the locks in place with a satisfied "fet'a". Some of these are to him.

I lose the high notions I hold
And come down to earth with a slam;
And I learn, for in sorrow I'm told,
Just the kind of a fellow I am.

OFF THE RECORD

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

October 16th., 1938

Dr. and Mrs. George Stoble have left for their New York City where he will attend the convention of the American College of Surgeons at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

Mrs. H. N. Jones has arrived home after spending several months visiting friends and relatives in England.

From our file copy at this paper in 1938: At a special meeting of the executive committee of the city council for the purpose of drafting an agreement between the city and the Belleville Brunch Carpet Company there were present Mayor J. W. Johnson and all the members of the executive committee, also Mr. W. H. Ellis, city clerk, and Mr. J. Gagar. A draft agreement was submitted and after some slight changes were made it was accepted by both parties. The agreement will be submitted to the city council at its next meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. H. Wallace, Rockcliffe Park, Ottawa, have been visiting here with Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hinchey, George Street.

Miss Jessie Huffman spent the weekend in Toronto.

Miss Wilma Walmsley, Reg. N. Toronto, is spending her vacation with her parents at their home on Bridge Street.

30 YEARS AGO

October 16th., 1928

The Rev. R. G. Stewart, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in this city, has accepted a call to St. John's Presbyterian Church in Toronto. The stipend is $4,000.00 per year and one month's vacation.

Mr. Allan D. Harper, accountant with the Bank of Montreal here, has been transferred to a responsible position in the superintendent's office of the bank in Toronto. He came to Belleville in 1912 and soon convinced us that he'd turned here in 1919. Many friends regret his departure from the city.

Mrs. A. Sayers of Tweed is the guest of Mrs. W. E. Gartley in this city.

40 YEARS AGO

October 16th., 1918

The city physicians are rushed with calls upon their services owing to the influenza epidemic. The medical men are human like the rest of us and there is a limit to their endurance. The public can materially assist the doctors by showing consideration in the matter, promptly when refraining from calling the doctors unless absolutely necessary. Whenever possible calls for the services of a physician should be made in the morning as then the calls may be grouped to the best advantage and the day mapped out in advance. A little thoughtfulness in this emergency will go far in assisting the doctors.

There are now twenty one cases of measles among the 34 children quartered at the Children's Shelter.

50 YEARS AGO

October 16th., 1908

Mr. William Farnham of Bancroft, formerly of this city, was in town today.

Mr. W. J. Moore, barrister, Moore, was in town today.

Mrs. Abraham Diamond of Chicago, Ill., whose late husband was at one time police magistrate in this city, is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. (Dr.) Chartrand of Montreal is visiting at the home of Mrs. Charles Levis, West Moira Street.

Mr. John A. McNeil of this city is spending a few days in Lansdowne.

Mr. Garnet L. Kerkley, Victoria Avenue, has left to attend Toronto University.

Cervantes Oft Quoted

Ottawa Journal

"Mum's the word," said on erudite critic.

"Cervantes used that first," he continued.

Miguel de Cervantes (1547-1616), was author of Don Quixote, a humorous account of a knight, a slave who never lost his pride or courage in weary years, a will, a doctor who was prisoner, a judge and undaunted even on his a published when he wrote his farewell.

"What a man!" said our friend. Indeed

Unknowingly, the leatherjackets on the priest corner, the politicians on Parliament Hill and the housewife on the telephone quote Cervantes often. Our friend rolled off samples:

"Thank you for nothing."

"To give the devil his due."

"Paid him in his own coin."

"Get out of harm's way."

"A finger in every pie."

"Every dog has his day."

"You may go whistle for the rest."

"I know what's what."

"I shall be secret as the grave."

"I'll turn over a new leaf," the sad, repentant sinner, the unregenerate slave, the hungry prisoner in a stinking cell could invent. "While there's life there's hope," and from his experience in the world, "Little said is soonest mended."

"I know it all by heart," said the child, leaving.

"By the way, that's a Cervantes' quotation, too."

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

OLDER PEOPLE SEARCH IN VAIN FOR FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH

"Dear Dr. Molner: I understand there are certain vitamins on the market which help to relieve to some extent the symptoms of the aging process. I am 62 and at times my outlook on life becomes very depressing. — S. W."

People have been looking for the Fountain of Youth since Ponce de Leon's excursion to Florida. Nobody has ever found more success than he had — which was none.

Lack of adequate vitamins, or anything else that conflicts with normal good health, will make people feel older than they should. I don't think an ordinary mixed vitamin capsule once a day ever harmed any oldster. But we don't need the capsules to good many do.

But there isn't any special vitamin in existence that will prevent aging. I'd like to add this: Being ill is the cause for being depressed. The world never has had as much as it has now. Learning to obey the simple rules of health is bound to give greater dividends than ever. The youngsters can get by without it, but we stay with it — for a time. As we get older, we have to obey the rules or else.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Tennis players seem to get cramps in the calf. Is there a cure for this? I've tried rubbing against the hard court, could obviously be better. Liquid soap is said to play a role, so taking a salt tablet on occasion. Any other suggestions? — A. C."

Massaging the muscle, or as you mention, bending the muscle back and forth, is the best.

• • •

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can allergy be built up over the years by using a strong hair tonic? Symptoms are dry arms, hands and trunk have been showing and small pustules appear. They don't hurt, but look horrible. — M F."

If you happen to be potentially sensitive to something, long use might develop an allergy to it.

But those white spots don't sound like allergy. Rather, they sound like some kind of skin condition in which the pigment disappears. We are also seeing it by beginning to have some success in treating it. It isn't dangerous and many times disappears spontaneously.

Vitamin B and C have been used successfully, and more recently, some new skin drugs which are still in the experimental stage. Sometimes other skin drugs seem to help vitiligo, which is a clue worth investigating.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am a diabetic. I had a miscarriage due to high blood sugar in March. I have one child but would like to have another. What do you suggest? — Mrs. H. A. M."

You can't say that high blood sugar alone caused your miscarriage. There are other factors, and probably behind the inability of some diabetics to achieve a successful pregnancy. It is generally believed that very careful control of the diabetes (meaning avoiding any high blood sugar among many other things) is one of the prime "secrets" of a successful pregnancy despite diabetes.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is sugar essential to the diet? — Mrs. A. R."

You mean the kind of sugar you put in your coffee? No. Blood sugar (which is necessary) is. But the same thing. Your body will, for example, extract sugar from a ham sandwich. The boiled potatoes and sweet stuff is not essential to health.

Note to P. W.: I can't help ill as I do as I should, but I enjoy an occasional mint julep. My husband is church supper; they're still trying to entertain and make with a fancy name and a big price tag.

Are you a victim of "vitamin starvation"? Do you suffer that? your diet always contains proper food, write to me in care of this newspaper for my pamphlet, "Vitamins — Alphabet Of Health," containing daily, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin to cover handling.

Have Surplus Of Ice Cream

St. Louis Post Dispatch

It is just barely possible that those who have been expecting Russia to withstand the grass roots and ice cream attack of the United States may be a grass - roots crisis! Are we to have a crisis in the repeating of the cold war, he fuction passion for this cold blooded weapon may have been neglected. Yet on a war-time visit to Moscow we found ice cream fanatics waiting in zero blasts for their ice cream and we said that if we ever needed a weapon we defeated.

Or so the story goes. Story or no story, the state ice cream industry offers its product in 36 varieties and it is the one consumer industry which has been encouraged to expand during the year-plan after five-year plan. Russian scientists have invented ice cream, fed up! If they can lose their taste for ice cream, what next? Will they invade? Oh, this could be the beginning of something big.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHAT IS MAN?

The psychatrists have a great deal to say about the damage to personality resulting from feelings of inferiority. No doubt there is much in what they say. But I am not convinced that we need to be warned even more against feelings of egotism, conceit, and arrogance.

We twentieth-century human beings have a tendency to think that with the jet plane, the hydrogen bomb, we are sitting on top of the universe. Far from it. With all our material accomplishments we are no more than puny specks in vast space.

ON GIVING UP

Few of us there are who have not experienced the sad event of having to give up something precious or dear. That is part of well-known phrase, "It is more blessed to give than to receive," but it is also a very hard thing to do. Nevertheless, sooner or later we all are to the inevitable. If we are difficult to give up, but if we can present these things to others the happiness of others, thousands of times greater, will add to the enjoyment and mental growth.

I have visited great institutions where treasures are legion, and I am reminded that in all such places is given a story of long civilizations, works of art done centuries and centuries ago, and were inspired thousands. I t a k e away from such galleries as The National Gallery of Art at Wash-

Medicine Man Fails to Locate Missing Person

WANLESS, Man. (CP) — An Indian medicine man made ritual smoke and chanted incantations all day but searchers following his directions failed Wednesday to find a trace of Alec Thorne, missing two weeks from his home on the northern Manitoba settlement.

Louis Prince, a Sioux from the Canuck reservation near Portage la Prairie, told relatives Thorne was killed by an animal and lay in the bush three miles west of his house. He claims to have a birth sense for finding lost persons.

Thorne, 47, unemployed railroad worker and father of eight children, went into the bush near his home on the morning of Oct. 4. He was lightly clad and carried only a .22-calibre rifle.

RCMP search parties, at times aided by an RCAF helicopter and a police dog, have tramped through the dense bushland nearly hunting a clue to the man's whereabouts.

Tuesday, Thorne's father-in-law, Alex Richards of The Pas, summoned Prince. "He has found lost people before," he said.

SMOKES PEACE PIPE

Prince spread a blanket on the floor of the Thorne home, sat down and began smoking a peace pipe while burning a bundle of incense in a plate. He occasionally muttered incantations and cried out in a sing-song.

"After about an hour and a half, he said Alec is dead," Mr. Richards said. "He was killed by something—an animal."

Prince said Thorne's body lies three miles west of his home, in the opposite direction to that which searchers had taken earlier.

RCMP at The Pas, 25 miles south of here, said they are continuing their search independent of the medicine man's directions.

The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society through its home care is doing wonderful work among Bothwell and district residents afflicted with the crippling disease. Shown above is Mrs. Greta deVries, Boswell Street, 10-year sufferer of arthritis, having hand bandages applied by Miss Hesba Williams, branch society nurse. Five Jehovah Witnesses Held In Shanghai

TOKYO (AP) — Peiping radio reported today arrests in Shanghai of five Jehovah's Witnesses and banning of the religious sect.

The five — two Britons and three Chinese — were accused of trying to wreck China's "socialist construction."

The charge was denied in New York by the head of the sect, which has three Shanghai Chinese in 1947.

The Britons are Stanley Ernest Jones, 42, and Harold George Ung, 56, the only foreign missionaries of the Jehovah's Witnesses in Communist China. Peiping gave no immediate indication of what will become of them or of the three Chinese.

Other foreign countries in China have been sentenced to long prison terms for espionage offences. At least one is still under lenient house arrest in Shanghai.

PEIPING CHARGES

Peiping radio said the group headed by Jones and King "was by no means a religious organization, but an imperialist base or subversive and disruptive activities." The broadcast said:

"Under the cloak of religious activities, they distributed reactionary books hostile to China. These people published by the U.S. imperialists carried out counter-revolutionary activities designed to wreck China's socialist construction by preaching from the Bible to house.

Military Plane Lands on Road Killing Motorist

JABYLON, N.Y. (AP)—A military transport plane with seven men aboard crash-landed on a busy highway Wednesday night, smashing into three cars during wild skid and fatally injuring a motorist.

The twin-engined C-123 ran out of gas and swooped down on the four-lane southern state parkway, ripping hundreds of feet, it sloped through an underpass and struck three cars before stopping in flames.

Harold J. Schneider of West Islip, N.Y., one of the motorists, died of head injuries shortly after 12 accident.

Three air force personnel and two women motorists suffered minor injuries. The crash backed up traffic for miles on the parkway, in Suffolk County on Long Island.

The plane had been trying to wind at Zahn's Airport, about half a mile from the crash scene. In landing on the parkway the pilot avoided a heavy concentration of houses in the immediate area.

Planes of the C-123 type had been grounded until Tuesday in order to remedy a defect in the fuel system.

Argues That CBC Comes Under Lord's Day Act

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada Wednesday heard an argument that the Queen as majesty cannot be prosecuted for violating the criminal law, an agent of the Crown can be.

This distinction was drawn by C. F. H. Carson of Toronto, counsel for the attorney-general of Ontario, in arguments at his plea that the CBC should stand trial in Toronto on charges of violating the Lord's Day Act by broadcasting on Sunday.

The CBC, through its counsel, W. B. Williston of Toronto, argued earlier that the Crown is exempt from the provisions of the act and that it, as a Crown agent, also is exempt.

The publicly-owned corporation is appealing to the Supreme Court of Canada from the lower courts in Ontario that it is a "juristic person" and can stand trial on the charge laid on a complaint by the Toronto Telegram.

EXPLAINS VIEW

Mr. Carson contended that the CBC can be indicted as "a corporate person" but not as an agent of the Crown. It was a rule of law that a minister of the Crown, if he does anything illegal, can be personally prosecuted.

He argued that the true basis of the Crown's immunity under the law is not incongruity of the charge laid on a complaint by the Toronto Telegram.

He argued that the true basis of the Crown's immunity under the law is not incongruity of the charge laid on a complaint by the Toronto Telegram, but the courts lack the judicial authority to hold the Crown guilty.

However, this did not excuse the Crown agents from carrying out the duty of abiding by and obeying the criminal law.

SAYS LAW APPLIES

The Crown contended that the Lord's Day Act applies to the Crown and its agents. The Crown because the act adopted the Criminal Code's definition of "a person." This definition includes "her majesty."

The Crown was subject to the broader prohibitions, but not to its punishment.

The charge against the CBC is one of the five laid in Toronto. The others are against Toronto daily newspapers — The Telegram, The Star and The Globe and Mail — and against radio station CKEY.

The Telegram was charged after it began publishing a Sunday edition, March 17, 1958. It published the edition for five months later. The four others were charged on a complaint by The Telegram.

The Star gathers news but does not publish on Sunday. The Globe's first Monday morning edition was on the same basis as newspapers and both the CBC and CKEY broadcast in Toronto on Sunday.

Atomic Expert Guards Wife's Vacuum Cleaner

DENVER (AP)—An atomic scientist carried a bulging briefcase to the energy resources conference here Wednesday.

It never left the side of Dr. James L. Tuck, director of thermonuclear research at the Los Alamos laboratories in New Mexico.

A reporter asked Tuck whether recent Russian nuclear development was concealed in the briefcase.

Replied Tuck: "No, it's part of my wife's vacuum cleaner. Every time I return home in Los Alamos and she insisted that I have it fixed in Denver."

Douks Appoint New Organizer For Migration

VANCOUVER (CP) — With only a week left in which to sign up for their proposed migration to Russia, British Columbia's Sons of Freedom Doukhobors have appointed a new organizer.

Peter Elasoff Jr. has taken over the task from the Sons' executive secretary, Bill Mooljelsky.

Mr. Mooljelsky retains his post, but as executive secretary and leader of the radical sect in the absence of its spiritual leader Stefan Sorokin.

The Sons have declared through their leadership that they want to emigrate to Siberia.

Provincial and federal governments have offered financial assistance provided they sign papers renouncing their Canadian citizenship.

Deadline for receipt of the papers by the two government is Oct. 21.

INTENT NOT PROVED

TORONTO (CP)—A 41-year-old construction worker, who ran amok with a rifle after he lost his job last spring, was acquitted Wednesday on charges of attempted murder and shooting with intent to wound. Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow directed an assize jury to return the not guilty verdicts against Calogero Scrio. Scrio will be sentenced Friday for unlawful possession of an offensive weapon, to which he pleaded guilty.

Bourguiba Says 'I'm Westerner, Will Remain So'

TUNIS (AP) — Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba, who broke diplomatic relations with the United Arab Republic Wednesday, today proclaimed: "I am a Westerner and will remain so."

Angrily attacking the policies of the United Syrian UAR, Bourguiba bluntly said the Egyptians had collaborated in an assassination plot against his own person.

"The primary enemy, one has the habit of saying, is Israel," Bourguiba said. "However, now it is that this state is quiet while the Arabs are killing each other!"

Reporting to the Tunisian consultative assembly, Bourguiba said:

"We must not be frightened at the crisis through which we are living. It will assuredly serve Arab nationalism and give positive results. It will even be profitable to the United Arab Republic itself."

LEVELS CHARGES

Bourguiba again accused the Egyptian government of sheltering and giving active aid to Salah Ben Youssef, Bourguiba's former political ally who fled Tunis for exile in Cairo, where he preached the policies of Egyptian President Nasser. Ben Youssef also actively plotted Bourguiba's assassination, Bourguiba said.

Speaking of alleged his country with the West, Bourguiba said that "once the Iron Curtain drops there is no escape from communism. On the other hand, it is possible, no matter what the time, to leave the Western camp."

He said his policies have even helpful to the nationalists in neighboring Algeria fighting for independence from France.

Bourguiba said Tunisia recently joined the Arab league only with the understanding that outstanding issues—including the activities of Ben Youssef—should be quickly settled. This proved impossible, Bourguiba said, adding:

"The Egyptian government continued surrender Ben Youssef because it is his accomplice."

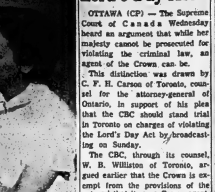
WAS ACTIVE SPORTSMAN

TORONTO (CP) — Arthur William Miles, 69, funeral director and active sportsman died Wednesday. A son of Arthur W. Miles who established Miles Funeral Home, Mr. Miles was a well-known polo player and captain of the Toronto Argonauts football club in 1907.

Forecast Big Beaver Season

TORONTO (CP) — The beaver trapping season opened in Ontario Wednesday and lands and forests officials predict it may surpass the record 1937-38 season when 141,268 pelts were produced.

Trapping is by quota only and the total value of all varieties of fur taken in the province is exported or tanned, is estimated at $3,000,000 from Cost to June 30, 1953.



J. L. Grew, trapline manager and supervisor, said reductions are that the over-all beaver population is still on the increase."

The market outlook for beaver, fisher, lynx, mink and otter is about the same as last year but marten and muskrat seem to be in poor demand.

In the parts of Ontario, Wednesday also marked the opening of the trapping seasons for mink, muskrat and otter.

DE GAULLE

Workers went to their jobs as usual.

A stormy session of the central public safety committee, attended at the end by only 13 of the 44 members, decided to go ahead with the defiance of de Gaulle.

"We are going until the end, former paratroop lieutenant who heads militant local student organizations.

"Go home and sleep, you cowards!" he shouted to committee members who bolted the emergency night meeting.

La Gaillarde had boasted that he could put 10,000 men on the streets with machine-guns. Later he trimmed his predictions, say: "I will put enough if we have 5,000 men on the streets." He added that he wanted the dismissal of generals to be peaceful.

POWER DAYS WANING

Other diehards admitted the public indifference to their call would be vital to the future of the movement. They obviously feared their days of political power and operating politically independently of the Paris government were over.

A general committee meeting here walked out after Gen. Raoul Salan, supreme civilian and military commander in Algeria, in a radio appeal knuckled under to de Gaulle and said he could not "accept the strike and demonstrations."

Cherif Si Cara, a Moslem colleague from Oran repudiating the committee's call. Azem Oualhi, the other Moslem co-president and el Madoui, a vice-president, appealed from Paris for the population not to follow the committee's orders.

Public safety committees in other large cities of Algeria also have voted against the strike. Salan's declaration was made. It appeared doubtful whether this would be effective in view of his stand.

The strike call was the result of de Gaulle's directive Monday ordering the army to get out of politics. This meant army officers must give up their places on the committee.

Rescue Crew From Steamer

LONDON (Reuters) — Fifteen crew members of the 5,147-ton Norwegian steamer Gudrun were rescued today in heavy seas about 60 miles south of Cape Wrath in Scotland.

Three ships went to the Gudrun's aid when she reported she was taking water fast and her pumps were not working.

The Danish trawler Orion was believed to have sunk in the North Sea after the crew was rescued by another fishing craft. Another trawler was reported missing after a search of the Aberdeen area in England, the Thames overflowed its banks and coastal farmland was flooded. Heavy seas delayed shipping at the mouth of the river.

HAS IDENTICAL QUADS

DETROIT (CP) — Doctor said Wednesday that quadruplets born Tuesday to a 40-year-old mother are identical. The odds against having quadruplets, they said, are 200,000 to one, and the odds against them being identical are astronomically high. They were born to Mrs. Charles Ullman, 40, a nurse from Windsor, eight years ago. Her husband is a carpenter.

Over 350 Persons Given Polio Shots at Clinic

The Belleville Department of Health held its first adult polio immunization clinic last evening between 7.00 and 10.00 o'clock at their City Hall office. According to Miss O. Roman, superintendent of nursing, the response was "very gratifying indeed". Over three hundred and fifty persons of all ages were vaccinated by the medical officer, Dr. McColl Metcalfe, during the two - hour period.

Dr. Metcalfe advises that "polio immunization is available for anyone over three years of age. The vaccine is presently in free charge, and anyone over three should have it." Previously there has been a lot of credence given to the theory that those over forty or forty-five years of age need not worry about polio. The doctor stated that this was not so: everyone, regardless of whether he has reached middle age, is susceptible to polio and should be vaccinated.

Dr. Metcalfe's department is well ahead of most departments of health or health clinics across Ontario with Belleville's adult polio immunization program. The Wednesday evening clinics will be kept in operation until the department is reasonably sure that every adult in Belleville has had a chance of being immunized. Together with this clinic there is being conducted an industrial employees immunization program in the local plants.

There is also an immunization clinic at the City Hall office of the department on Thursday afternoons between 2.00 and 4.00 o'clock, as well as the weekly Well Baby Clinic Immunization Clinic held in the Holloway Street United Church on Tuesday afternoons at the same hours.

Hamster Back Within Confines Of Cardboard Box

TORONTO (CP)—The hamster that made newspaper headlines here by evading capture is back within the confines of a cardboard box late Wednesday.

The brief spell of glory for the five-inch-long rodent — christened "Hammy" by reporters — ended when a newspaper photographer, flushed him from the back seat of a car owned by Mrs. Joyce Golden.

Hammy was one of a pair bought as pets by Mrs. Golden and her sister Mrs. Jean Owen for their children. On the way home Hammy escaped, and bit the finger of seven-year-old Jean Golden.

Mrs. Golden enlisted the aid of Toronto Humane Society inspectors Robert Johnstone and Will Batty.

They opened the car door and managed to trap it in a hat but it hopped to the back and burrowed in the seat upholstery.

The inspectors placed a rag of chloroform in the car and closed the door. Hammy didn't even get sleepy. Then they tried a spray of strong disinfectant which didn't even sneeze. They ripped the seat apart. Still no Hammy.

The inspectors left to plan new strategy when the photographer arrived. He frightened the little critter into the waiting hands of one of the young owners.

British Official Shot to Death By Cypriots

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—A British government official was killed and five other persons injured today as the bloody round of bombings and ambushes continued on Cyprus.

British authorities said a man, identified only as an official of the colonial government, was shot to death in the village of Kokkino otrimithia, 10 miles west of Nicosia.

A civilian engineer was wounded in the head when a grenade opened fire as he started to drive his car from his home in a Nicosia suburb. He was identified as John McGillivray, 39, employed by the Cyprus Telecommunications Authority.

Four Greek Cypriots — one of them a British constable — were in two of four bombing attacks against British patrols. No soldiers were injured.

The renewed violence prompted authorities to clamp a house curfew on Nicosia but loudspeaker trucks later toured the streets announcing the curfew applied only to Greek Cypriots.

ATHENS (Reuters) — Greek Foreign Minister Evangelos Averoff prepared to fly to Paris today to explore possibilities of solutions for attending a round-table conference on Cyprus to NATO's Council tonight.

Britain has instituted a seven-point plan to settle the colony in co-operation with Turkey and Greece but the Greek government has refused to accept the plan.

The NATO council Wednesday postponed consideration of the Cyprus question when Greek delegate Michael Melas said he still was awaiting his government's final instructions on the terms of reference and composition of the proposed conference."

Nova Scotia Joins Hospital Insurance Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—Signing of a hospital insurance agreement between Nova Scotia and the federal government was announced today.

Federal Health Minister Monteith was in Halifax today for the signing. Similar agreements are in ces into the federal-provincial scheme.

The others are Ontario, British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Newfoundland.

Nova Scotia's program will become effective on July 1, the same date as Ontario's. Those of the other provinces already have been in effect since July 1.

Under the terms of the federal-provincial agreements the announcement said, the province's plan will not only provide insurance coverage for services in hospital but also one of the broadest ranges of out-patient services made available so far in any part of Canada.

Out-patients would qualify for certain laboratory and x-ray examinations, dental services, the use of physiotherapy and radiotherapy facilities and the full treatment of malignancy, and necessary nursing services.

Nova Scotia's share of the costs will be financed through a three-per-cent sales tax.

Berlin Occupation Determined Long Before War's End

TORONTO (CP)—Lord Beaverbrook said Wednesday he hopes no one will be misled by the Montgomery memoirs into thinking the British wartime commander's plan of campaign would have resulted in a British-American occupation of Berlin.

Lord Beaverbrook, in Toronto on private business, said in an interview that plans for the occupation of Berlin had been determined at the diplomatic level long before the war ended.

Field Marshal Montgomery said in his memoirs that his plan for the western allies after the breakout in northern France in 1944 was for a single thrust into the Ruhr Valley. Instead, the western allies advanced on a broad front.

Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian-born publisher who served as minister of aircraft production in Britain during the Second World War, said:

"Long before the war was over the European advisory commission and land already defined what the zones of occupation for the Allied armies were to be when the war was over."

TOWNSHIP STAYS DRY

WEDDINGS

NICHOLLS — TWIDDY

CAMPBELLFORD — Stone Church, Sidney, Ontario, was decorated with ferns and yellow and white mums on Saturday on the occasion of the wedding of Shirley Marlene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Twiddy, R.R. 5, Belleville, to Donald Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Nicholls of Campbellford. The Rev. R. B. McMullin, B.A., B.D., officiated.

Miss Margaret Nelson sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "With This Ring" during the signing of the register, accompanied by Mrs. Dirk Koning, sister of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of net over taffeta with a lace bodice. Her veil of nylon tulle was to the floor length and she carried a white bible crested with red roses.

The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Gwendolyn Twiddy of Belleville. Her gown was a forest green sheath of peau de soie with a nylon tulle overskirt and a matching cummerbund. Bridesmaids were Miss Jackie Legace of Belleville and Louise Irwin of Toronto, cousins of the bride. They were gowned similarly to the maid of honor in pink sheaths.

The best man was Mr. Robert Nicholls of Queen's University, Kingston, brother of the bridegroom, and the ushers were Mr. Dirk Koning, brother-in-law of the bride's cousin; Mr. David Nicholls of Campbellford, brother of the bridegroom and Mr. Arthur White of Campbellford.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for approximately 100 guests, catered to by the Women's Institute of Foxboro. The bride's mother received in a blue dress with cocoa-peau de soie, embroidered with a matching picture hat and gloves and a corsage of yellow roses.

The bridegroom's mother also received wearing a gown of smoke blue brocade with rose accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

For a wedding trip to Boston, New York and the eastern States, the bride wore a two-piece blue linen suit with black and white accessories and a corsage of roses.

Guests were present from Picton, Northport, Belleville, Stirling, Campbellford, Peterborough, Lindsay, Bobcaygeon and Toronto.

Upon their return the couple will reside in Peterborough.

For the rehearsal dinner, the bride was entertained by Miss Gwendolyn Twiddy, Belleville and Mrs. Glen Lane.

She was presented with an electric clock by her fellow employees of the London Life Insurance Company.

LISLE — SMITH

CAMPBELLFORD — Miss Doreen Smith and Claire Lisle of R.R. 2, Havelock, were married in St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Campbellford on Saturday, October 4th. Rev. J. C. Mahoney officiated.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Smith and the late Daniel Smith of R.R. 2, Hastings, was given in marriage by her eldest brother, Angus Smith, of Oshawa. She wore a floor-length gown with a bodice of French lace and a skirt of net over satin with long sleeves. Her silver-lined veil was caught to a Juliet crown with seed pearls and orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. Emmett Lee was matron of honor for her sister. Mrs. Lee's attendant, also a sister of the bride and Mrs. Vel Merrill were bridesmaids. Carol Smith and Harry Lee, niece and nephew of the bride, were flower girl and ring bearer.

The attendants' and flower girls' dresses were of blue taffeta with semi-balloon skirts at front, falling into soft folds at the back. They were matching blue feathered hats and carried white chrysanthemums.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Lisle and the late Robert Lisle of R.R. 3, Havelock, was attended by Leonard Smith, Belleville and Robert Lisle, Jr., were ushers.

Mr. Ross Cotton of Oshawa, sang "Ave Maria" and "On This Day," with accompaniment by Mrs. Ross Cotton, organist.

A reception was held later at George's restaurant. The bride received the guests in a two-piece blue wool crepe dress with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore Dior blue wool crepe with satin and black accessories. Their corsages were of pink and white carnations.

McMURTER — POSTE

Mountain View United Church was the setting on September 27th, at 3 p.m., for a very lovely early autumn wedding, when Lillian Yvonne Poste was united in marriage to Ralph Wesley McMurter, of Sarnia. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Poste, Belleville R. R. 7, (Mountain View), and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy McMurter, Belleville R. R. 8.

The Reverend H. H. Hillis of Belleville, officiated assisted by Mr. Wm. Farrow, minister of the church.

Tall standards of shell pink gladioli and white chrysanthemums, interspersed with ferns, added to the beauty of the ceremony. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mrs. Donald Trumble, a former schoolmate of the bride, as soloist organist, presided at the console of the organ and rendered favorite wedding music as accompaniment to the ceremony during the signing of the register and sang "I Love You Truly", and "Oh Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Alfred Poste, the bride was radiant in her all - white Victorina lace gown, exquisitely niched in fine embroidered thread lace, over clouds of nylon net. The bodice had a high neckline enhanced by front and back redingote panels, and long sleeves coming to lily - points over the wrists. Her waist length veil of silk net was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls, sequins and rhinestone headdress, and she carried a cascade of Better Time red roses. A single strand of pearls and matching earrings completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Ford (Phyllis) Brownson, of Belleville R. R. 5, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, was gowned in a floor-length dress of orchid taffeta, having short sleeves, bouffant skirt with flowing panels at the back. She wore a matching feather headdress and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and white chrysanthemums with green streamers.

The flower girl, Miss Pam Freeman, of Sarnia, niece of the bridegroom, was dressed in her frock of white nylon with small pink flowers, short frilled sleeves, with matching feather headdress and carrying a nosegay similar to the matron of honor's, only miniature in size.

The ring - bearer, Master Brian Shearer, of Sarnia, nephew of the bridegroom, carried the ring to the altar on the traditional white satin cushion.

Mr. Cecil Cunningham, of Sarnia, attended the bridegroom while Mr. Lawrence Poste, brother of the bride, and Mr. Harold Werkhoven, of Mountain View, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Maple Inn, Bloomfield, where a delicious dinner was served by the staff for sixty guests.

The bride's table was daintily appointed with white linen damask beneath an arch from white streamers suspended from a white wedding bell. The table was centred with a white wood pedestal all-white wedding cake, adorned with pink roses and topped by two white doves, each carrying a ring under an arch of pink roses and over lace-like valley. White tulle with red rose buds centred the base of the cake. Tall, white candles in silver holders and the bridal bouquet completed the beautiful accent.

The bride's mother received the guests in a Dior blue crepe frock, with navy accessories and corsage of red carnations. She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, in navy taffeta over taffeta dress with white accessories and corsage of red roses and white carnations.

Mr. W. H. Farrow acted as master of ceremonies and proposed the toast to the bride which was ably responded to by the bridegroom. The Reverend H. H. Hillis proposed a toast to the bridal party and mentioned Mr. Cunningham, groomsman, responding. The toast proposed to the matron — to the honor and flower girl. Words of congratulations were also given by the bride's father and the bridegroom's mother.

For the wedding trip by motor, to Lake Placid, White Face Mountain in the Adirondacks and other points of interest in New York State, the bride wore a green check wool dress with dusty-rose and navy accessories, with corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Guests were present from Sarnia, Toronto, Oshawa, Whitby, West Hill, Belleville, Centre and Mountain View.

Among the honored guests was the bride's grandfather, Mr. Chas. Poste.

Numerous beautiful and useful wedding gifts were received.

Chapter 55 O.E.S. Sponsors Most Successful Autumn Tea

Invitingly open, white gates in a white, picket fence led to a delightfully appointed tea room yesterday afternoon in the Masonic Temple for the tea which was sponsored by Chapter 55 of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Horns of Plenty filled with rust and golden-tinted flowers, flanked by graduated branches of red-berried Mountain ash adorned the windows, while charming sunsac flaunted their gorgeous coloring from strategic points about the spacious room, and white baskets of mauve-tinted, white and rose petalled added their quota of colorful beauty.

Receiving the numerous guests at the door were the Chapter executive members, Mrs. Olive Jones, worthy matron, and Mrs. Edna Hughes, wife of the worthy patron.

The tea room committee included Mrs. L. Elvidge, Mrs. M. McLean; Mrs. D. McGlashon; Mrs. M. Smith; Mrs. Kathleen Mrs. B. Clarke, who escorted the guests to the little quartet table with their white cloths centred by tiny green squashes filled with miniature bronze and rust colored, mums, fragrant cedar clusters, and brown candles.

AUTUMN LOVELINESS

The tea table was a picture of autumn loveliness with its white damask and golden centre-piece filled with glowing chrysanthemums in bronze and gold mingled with sprays of MacDonald; E. Francis; F. Laycock; A. Hall, and Mrs. A. Pinder and Mrs. A. McCoy in charge of the dainty felt shopping bags. Little miniatures, a virginia creeper leaves, mingled with willow and maple completed the lovely effect.

Presiding at the silver service were Mrs. Ethel Grills; Mrs. M. Shaw; L. Pitt; E. Morden; I. Clapp and M. McLean. Those who poured coffee were Mesdames J. Brown; E. Adams; P. Mc Mullen; M. Wilson; E. Sylvain; H. Baragar; J. Adams; A. Elliott; G. Wannsmaker; L. Jones and J. Nelson.

Serving were: Mesdames: M. Barlow; J. Clapp; F. Bowen; K. Jones; K. Pinder; M. Gay; M. Black; M. Bush; I. Bolton; E. Hallgy; L. Wick; E. Carson; G. Grey; W. Claire; M. Reynolds; M. Wenaus; J. Scott and L. Brickman.

In charge of the refreshments were Mesdames: H. Darvell, convener; M. Stairs and C. Briens. Tie tea room committee: Mrs. D. Sweet; E. Landy; W. Macken; M. Payne

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

DIVORCED PEOPLE BE FORMALLY ANNOUNCED?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a divorcee, 40, and I have just become engaged to a man in his middle fifties, also recently divorced. We are to be married soon, a small wedding to take place in my home. We do want to do the correct thing about making the announcement of our engagement. Would it be proper for us to make a formal announcement of our engagement in the newspapers? — Divorcee

It would not be in good taste for you, both divorced and especially both recently divorced, to make any formal announcement of your engagement. Best to wait and make a formal newspaper announcement of your marriage.

75 WEDDING GUESTS, . AND USHERS TO SEAT THEM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Our wedding is to be in church, our only attendants to be a maid of honor and best man. We are to have about 75 guests, and we feel that we should have ushers for the church. Do y o u agree? If so, should the ushers wear business suits, or tuxedos like the groom and best man?

2. If it is proper to have ushers, do they sit at the bridal table even though I do not have bridesmaids? — C. K.

1. I'm glad you are so wisely planning to have ushers to seat the 75 guests you are inviting to the wedding . . . I suggest y o u have at least two ushers to seat this number of guests. It's a mighty awkward procedure to have guests arrive at a church wedding and have no ushers to escort them to their seats. If it's an evening wedding (that is, after 6 o'clock at the earliest), and t h e groom and best man are to wear tuxedos, it would be proper, much better form, for the ushers to wear tuxedos whether or not you plan to have them take part in the processional and recessional. But if they wear business suits, they should not take part in the processional and recessional.

2. If the ushers wear tuxedos like the groom and best man, they may sit at the bridal table if you and the groom wish. The fact that you are having no bridesmaids doesn't make any difference.

DOES A FRATERNITY PIN NECESSARILY MEAN AN ENGAGEMENT?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a young man gives a girl his fraternity pin to wear, please tell me what is the proper procedure as to the families meeting one another and so forth. — A.

On some campuses, when a young man gives a girl his fraternity pin to wear, this means they are engaged, and that in d u e course the fraternity pin will be followed by an engagement ring. But today in many colleges this practice of "pinning" hasn't too much serious consideration. Therefore, the family of the girl and the family of the young man must not take the engagement for granted, must not make any "too previous" gestures toward meeting one another until the engagement has actually been decided on, has become official.

MUST EXPLAIN TO BRIDE SHE CANNOT AFFORD TO BE BRIDESMAID

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been asked to be a bridesmaid in the wedding party of the sister of my best girl friend. I would love to accept, but I can't because of financial reasons. How should I tell her without hurting her or having her feel

Lab Luxury

By ALICE ALDEN

Fashion relies on the laboratory for some of its most successful materials, as well as for making the most of natural fibers. This handsome corduroy coat is fitted with a luxurious pile-lining that is light, yet toasty warm, resistant to moths and mildew, and cleans beautifully. The skirt is of matching corduroy and the modestly-priced duo comes in a variety of attractive colors.

I don't want to be in the wedding party? She is depending on me. — M.

Please do not feel at all self-conscious about having to tell the bride-to-be that you are unable to accept her charming invitation to be a bridesmaid in her bridal party. First tell her how very deeply you appreciate her friendly gesture to you, then explain to her graciously and straightforwardly, that your family cannot afford this expense. Since she is a sister of your best girl friend, she will, I am sure, be most understanding of your situation.

Club Activities

HOLLOWAY KUM DOUBLE CLUB

On Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morgan entertained the Holloway Kum Double Club in their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Embury Hough were in charge of the worship service.

Plans were made for the Couples' Club rally to be held at Hollowood United Church.

Mrs. Hough gave the group some important facts concerning the Co-Op Surgical and Physicians Services Insurance.

"The Holloway Howler" was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Donaldson and Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Townsend.

A social half-hour was enjoyed as the hostess and her assistants served refreshments.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Doris Y. — Going home would be death to Dave.

David L. — I'm a misfit in the city.

Doris Y. — I am a married woman with two small children. My only real problem is my younger brother, whom I'm trying to help.

Dave is 26 and is still floundering in life. We come from a small town and Dave was helping my father in the business. He and my father don't get along very well. Besides that, Dave really doesn't belong in a small, dull town. He has a college education and was planning to do something in the professional world, but seemed unable to make up his mind just what.

I invited Dave to come to stay with me, to look for a job. We live in a very large city and I knew that there are lots of jobs around, but Dave doesn't find anything. He wants to go home, but I'm afraid that would be death to him.

* * *

David L. — I seem to be one big misfit. It's true our home town is death to me, but I'm no city slicker either. I never thought the competition would be anything like this in the city.

Whenever I get a job, people laugh and tell me that others with much more education and experience than I have are begging for jobs at less money than I would need to live on. They say I made a big mistake when I left town where everyone knows me to come to the city where I am not known and nobody gives a darn about me.

My job problem is really very serious because I have not been trained to do anything except some manual work and bookkeeping in my father's business. I can't go on living off my small savings and inconveniencing my sister and her family. So I must go home.

The Council: David's big problem does not appear to be a real job problem, but a personal problem involving his determination to accept the negative about himself and everything around him. Unfortunately, individuals with this turn of mind manage to find plenty of corroboration from the outside. Those who approach their problems in a positive way manage to find encouragement rather than discouragement.

David has a college education, intimate business experience, some skill at bookkeeping, some experience of manual labor. This he admits — but he considers nothing. We would guess that if he really delves into his complete background he will find that he has other strong points. We are fairly certain that he can be of great use to some employer.

David should carefully analyze all his experience and abilities and try to come to a decision about what he wants to do. When he has narrowed down his field of interests and pinned down his abilities, he will be ready to start looking for a job in earnest. If he finds that he lacks the training to do exactly what he wants to do, he should set about getting that training, through schooling, night or on-the-job experience. For a man of 26 to say he lacks training and leave it at that is just ridiculous.

It is probably that at this point David does not really know whether he can cut out for town life or city life. But we believe that he can live a fuller, more productive life in either place if he makes an active effort to work out his abilities and stops pitying himself for his lack of them.

Grand Lady Reaches 90th Milestone

Last week Mrs. John Archibald quietly celebrated her 90th birthday with her immediate family.

This frail little lady was born on a farm near Madra, and is of U.E.L. descent being the daughter of the late Samuel and Alvina (Denyes) Alcombrack.

As a young girl she lived at Hallowy where her father operated the mill in that village, but several years ago she and her parents moved to Camiffton where she lived until a year ago when she and her sister "Minnie," who is eighty-five moved to the city. They have had the unique experience of having always lived together.

Until a severe illness when Mrs. Archibald was eighty-two years old, she and her sister very frequently walked the three miles from Camiffton to Belleville and even now can walk several city blocks.

Mrs. Archibald is the oldest member of the Camiffton United Church and with her family has always been interested in every phase of church work.

Besides her children, Myrtle Lockyer, Helen Twiddy, and William, of Belleville, and Percy "Jack" of San Francisco.

Among the congratulations on her birthday was a much appreciated telegram from her son in San Francisco and a birthday card from her granddaughter, Betty (Twiddy) Maybee of Edmonton, which expressed the love and wishes of her family and friends.

"For all the thoughtful things you've done
Through every passing year,
For all the happiness you've brought
God bless you, Grandma, dear,
And through the years that lie ahead
May He reward you, too,
With all the fine and worthwhile things,
That ought to come to you."

Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary Holds Delightful Fall Tea

Branches of autumn leaves in red and gold adorned the walls for the Kiwanis Centre, Dundas Street, Wednesday afternoon, setting the theme for the annual Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary tea.

Bouquets of 'mums and bitter sweet placed around the room completed the early fall decoration scheme.

Guests were received at the door by Mesdames Joan Lusk and Erma Reid. They were ushered into the "tea room" by hostesses Elsie Punchard, Pattie Emerson, and Edna Hume, and placed at quartet tables covered with gaily embroidered cloths and centred by plates filled with fancy sandwiches and cookies, each centred by a flower.

Guests were welcomed by tea convener Mrs. Kate Cook and co-convener Mrs. Margaret Black. The tea-room convener was Mrs. Cara Mott and co-convener was Mrs. Win Quinney.

Tea was poured at an attractively decorated table covered with a dark-brown cloth and featured by a bouquet of yellow and bronze 'mums flanked by three - branch silver candelabra set with yellow tapers.

Pouring tea during the afternoon were: Mesdames Bessie Marsh, Chris Logan, Harriett Edwards, Jessie White, Hazel Baragar, and Vera Fairman.

Servers were Mesdames Helena Duffy, Gertrude McKenna, Monique Templeman, Margery Pake, Hilda Keel, Kathleen Burton, Kay Craig, Ruby McConnell, Nancy Fraser, Bernice Swain, Peggy Drysdale, Josephine Griffiths, Rita Harland, and Eva Coleman.

Those replenishing the plates were Mesdames Lillian Wallen and Rita Coleman.

Refreshments conveners were: Mesdames Eva Dustin, Lydia Tripp, Dorothy Argue, Myra Cresswell, Josephine Griffiths, Rita Coleman and Berna Sills.

The large decorated home cooking table, filled with a tempting array of pastries — berry, apple, pumpkin, lemon pies, a variety of iced cakes, fancy iced cupcakes, banana cakes, cherry and nut, and date and nut loaves, tarts, cookies, both plain and fancy, date squares, and buns — was conveyed by Mesdames Josephine Domenico, Ethel Lee, Mildred Stanton, and Alice Burditt.

Treasurer for the afternoon was Mrs. Laura Hyde. Mrs. Lois Morris was in charge of selling tickets on an attractive centre-piece, and Mesdames Mary Cooper and Vera Creegan were in charge of selling tickets on a $100 bill.

The $100 bill, drawn by Mayor Gerald Hyde, was won by Mrs. Charles Brindle. The floral centre - piece was won by Mrs. Charlie Lusk, and the door prize by Mrs. Ernie Finkle.

G. Shortt Reaches 79th Milestone

Last Sunday Mr. George Shortt, of Centenary, celebrated his 79th birthday at the home of his son, Mr. Wilmot Shortt, with whom he resides, and with several members of his family present.

A birthday cake, presented by his daughter, Mrs. Arnold Vallean, was a highlight of the occasion, bearing the legend, "Happy Birthday, Dad" surrounded by an array of 79 candles in blue and white.

Among those present were: his daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vallean, and granddaughter, Joyce, of Belleville; his brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Shortt; his nephew, and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shortt and daughters, Marion and Marilou, all of Campbellford; another nephew, Mr. Ernest Stiles, of Rosebriar, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot Shortt and David.

Mr. Shortt received many fine personal gifts, for which he expressed his appreciation, as well as for the happy time accorded him.

He is enjoying the best of health, and keeps steadily employed on the farm, a work always dear to his heart.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

TRINITY UNITED W.M.S.

MADOC — Trinity United W.M.S. Society held its regular meeting in the church parlors on Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance of members. Mrs. Albert Empey, president, presided and opened the meeting by reading a circular letter of interest from the Knights of Angelo, Africa, and who are now on furlough.

During the business period, announcement was made of the Madoc district rally which is to be held in Marmora on October 20th, with morning and afternoon sessions.

Mrs. L. Bennett, stewardship convener gave an interesting paper on "True Stewardship", followed by prayer for the missionary, Miss Elsie Rosenberg.

Mrs. Fred Fleming reported on Community Friendship with many cards being sent to the ill and shut-ins.

Mrs. R. Jackson was in charge of the worship service with program, the topic being "Racial Discrimination", with Mrs. John Storring reading the Bible Story and Mrs. Jackson giving the comment and reading on "Racial Prejudice".

Following this, Mrs. Jackson gave an informative and interesting talk on 'Racial Discrimination and New Canadians'. This was followed by an interesting discussion by several of the members giving their opinion on the same subject.

Tea was served by the ladies.

ST. ANDREW'S GUILD

WELLINGTON — St. Andrew's Guild held its regular monthly meeting on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Thomas Boyle. The president, Mrs. D. Harrington, was in the chair.

There was a good attendance to answer the roll call.

In the absence of Mrs. Lane, the treasurer, Mrs. Boyle took charge of the fees and donations.

It was decided to hold the annual bazaar on the afternoon of November 27 in the town hall.

Plans for a harvest turkey dinner, to be served in the town hall on October 23rd at 6.30 p.m. were also discussed.

A meeting to make final arrangements will be held at Mrs. Davern's home on October 16, at 7.30 p.m. Tickets for the dinner may be obtained from members of the Guild.

Several sick friends were mentioned and will be remembered with cards.

The president thanked Mrs. Boyle for opening her home for the meeting.

A cup of tea was served and a social half hour was enjoyed by everyone.

BIG HAZARD

Whooping cough, a preventable disease, kills more children under two years of age than polio, measles and scarlet fever combined.

D.D.P. Installs Officers at Open Ceremony

After a short session of Oakdale Rebekah Lodge, the doors were opened to admit visiting Oddfellows and their wives, Rebekahs and their husbands for the open installation ceremony.

Sister Bessie Heyworth, district deputy president for district No. 4, was admitted through a colorful guard of honor and installed the following officers: Sister Blanche McMurray, past grand; Lottie Bailey, noble grand; Lillian Morrison, vice-grand; Myrtle Lough, chaplain.

Sister Vera Hill, Marshal, conducted the following officers and others of the staff to their respective chairs.

Sister Marguerite Rodgers favored with the solo hymn, "Jesus, the Very Thought of Thee," accompanied by Sister Lola Fraser, at the piano. Sister Pearl Blakely and Sister Lottie Bailey gave readings, and Sister Nina Emmory a reading of her own composition.

Brother Colin Rose also favored with a solo composed by himself at the time the Lodge was instituted.

GIFTS PRESENTED

The district deputy president was presented with a gift from the Lodge also one from her son, Bob, and Sister Vera Hill was also presented with a gift from the Lodge.

Long standing members were called to the centre of the floor, 17 Sisters, and one Brother, Jesse Reid. The Sisters were presented with cups and saucers bearing Lodge emblems, and Brother Reid with a billfold.

Brother Coveney of the Oddfellows and other Brothers were loud in their praise for the DDP and her staff, and thanked the Rebekahs for their kind invitation.

Special mention is made of Sister Ruby Brady, who, through her untiring efforts as a staff captain, made the installation such a success.

Following the installation, the visitors and members repaired to the dining hall where the banquet took place, with its highlight of a lovely birthday cake commemorating the 45th birthday of the Lodge. This was cut by Sister Ethel Richmond.

Among those present were four members from the United States, guests of Sister Lottie Bailey.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

RANGER NEWS

The Belleville Land Rangers had a wonderful time at camps this year. Some enjoyed the Ranger weekend camp held at Doe Lake, the first part of September, while still others went to Doe Lake for the two-week leadership camp held during the earlier part of the summer. They made friends from all parts of Canada and the United States.

Apple-picking was enjoyed at the Boozer Farm, where the Rangers tackled their first money-raising project. Plans for the coming year include an Ontario School for the Deaf project, which will be on a three-month trial basis. Ranger's also plan to lend a hand at the Girl Guide and Brownie meetings.

At their first official meeting, Rangers welcomed three girls who hope to become Rangers and discussed with them their first task, pre-enrollment.

The Rangers have been planning a work-day for Saturday, October 18. They will housecleen, mow and rake lawns for a fee determined by the householder. The girls would appreciate calls between 8 and 9 o'clock in the evening. Please state the work to be done. Call Marianne Corke, WO 9-2065, or Aida Adams WO 8-7130.

Queen E. H-S Assoc. Holds Tea

The annual tea for the new mothers of the Queen Elizabeth School was held recently in the school auditorium.

The ladies were greeted at the door by Mrs. Frank Benson, wife of the president of the association.

Mrs. W. Paradis, past president, welcomed the new mothers on behalf of the president, and Mr. Anderson introduced Mr. J. M. Cousins, B.A., supervising principal.

Mr. Cousins gave an interesting address and stressed a child's kindergarten days as most important. He said in order that the child adjust to this stage of life, it is important that both the home and school work closely together.

Mr. Anderson introduced the teaching staff and Mrs. Wanda Sine, supervisor of primary department, who spoke briefly.

The tea table was beautifully appointed with a centrepiece of red and yellow mums flanked by silver candelabra with tall yellow tapers.

Presiding at the two silver tea services were Mrs. W. Paradis and Mrs. D. Ross.

Replenishing the tea table were: Mesdames A. W. Hume, E. T. Pope and C. R. Scott, while Mesdames R. Bailey, E. L. Burnham, C. Campbell, A. V. Platt and J. R. Wilson served.

Puff Pastry Tartlets For Amateurs

by Mary Moore

Set your sights on a vision of you beaming as you pause in the doorway to your dining-room bearing a trayful of French pastries. French pastries that you have made for a party dinner and your guests are eagerly waiting to make their choice.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Broiled Beef Cakes Bacon-wrapped; Buttered Noodles with Poppy Seeds; Brussels Sprouts; Heart of Lettuce Salad with Thousand Island Dressing; Homemade Canteloupe Ice; Sponge Drops (see Tuesday); Coffee.

SUNDAY

Melon Ball Fruit Cup with Orange; Baked Glazed Picnic Ham; Broiled Pear Halves; Fluffy Mashed Squash; Broccoli with Cheese Sauce; Peach Puff Tartlets (see Thursday); Coffee.

You say you can't make French or puff pastry? Wait before giving up. This is a foolproof recipe that amateurs are working from to turn out flaky tartlets of mouth-watering napoleons, tender patties. You could use this puff paste recipe in some course in your party meals all of this Fall and at Christmas time too.

This week I have been concentrating on using the late peaches so the puff pasue I made ended in

PUFF PEACH TARTLETS

The Puff Pastry:

Two cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1¼ cups plus 1 tablespoon hard butter (do not substitute), barely 3-3 cup commercial sour cream. Measure flour and cut into it with pastry blender, as you would for pie pastry, the butter. It should not be thoroughly blended with the flour — little flat pieces about ¼" are ideal. Now stir in the sour cream lightly. Press into a chunky roll, wrap in foil or wax paper and chill thoroughly. Once when I was in a hurry I chilled the dough in the freezer compartment for an hour, but overnight in refrigerator is ideal. Cut roll in two and on lightly floured board roll out of ¼" thickness. Cut out with fluted cookie cutter about 2¼" in diameter and place on baking sheet. Roll out second half of dough, cut out with same cutter, but cut centres from these with cutter. Carefully place rings on top of circles. You must work fairly fast or dough will soften. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. — about 15 minutes or until tinged with gold. When cool fill centres with Golden Peach Filling: Peel and cut up 7 peaches and add 1 cup sugar and 3-3 of a lemon sliced wafer thin. Cook gently about 1½ or 2 hours, stirring very frequently, until reduced to stiff jam consistency. Cool. Fill tart centres with this peach filling. Top with a little mound of unsweetened whipped cream. Now sit back and listen to the raves.

There will be more of these puff paste confections in a week or so for I am currently working on peach-pineapple tarts and napoleons with peach and custard fillings with toppings of cream-cheese icing and chopped almonds. How does that appeal to you?

INSTRUMENTS FOR POPE'S ELECTION

Here are some of the voting tools used during the election of a new Pope. Left is a box containing white and black balls. Each cardinal takes a ball and introduces his hand in the instrument in centre and drops the ball in the first or second well. The secrecy of the operation is guaranteed by a long black cloth covering the cardinal's arm. Plates on right are used to carry the voting "biglietton" in the final balloting.

BATAWA — On Monday evening the Girl Guides and Brownie mothers from Batawa, Frankford, Stockdale and Glen Miller gathered in Frankford Community Hall to welcome Mrs. Frances Spears, Area Commissioner, and see the fine work being done in the interest of Guiding.

The gathering was under the direction of Mrs. Marion Moore, Commissioner of Frankford-Batawa district.

Colored sound pictures of the International Girl Guide Camp at Doe Lake were features.

All workers in the Bata Shoe Plant were glad to welcome the members of the Shoe Sales division for their shoe line conference.

The annual presentation dinner was held Tuesday evening.

The Sacred Heart P.T.A. is planning an auction dance to be held in Bata Recreation Hall on November 29th. The C.W.L. is also holding their annual Hallowe'en dance on October 31st.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. F. O'Neill and brothers, Pat and Mike, on the arrival of a fine new son and brother, born Wednesday October 8th in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

More than 200 people gathered in the Cobourg pavilion on Wednesday for the Central Ontario Divisional meeting of the 'Fire and Accident Prevention Movement. Mayor Burnett, fire chief, Walker were special guests and the speaker of the evening was the reporter and editor, A. Duncan of Batawa.

'Fat Cat' Backer Sought in Probe Of Dynamiting

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A hig-up "fat cat" backer of anti-Semitic terrorism figured today in police investigation of the $300,000 dynamiting of the Jewish Temple here.

This financial angel of a fanatic hate-mongering ring was mentioned in one of two letters seized as police raided the homes of five persons held for questioning about the early Sunday outrage.

Det. Capt. R. E. Little described the other paper as a pencilled draft of a letter addressed to an Atlanta Jewish leader before the temple blast.

It said: "You will soon witness a terrifying experience."

The detectives did not say where either letter was seized, whether the one to the Jewish leader was ever mailed or what the leader's name is.

The other letter, Little said, was mailed from Arlington, Va., just before five men were arrested here in July for an anti-Jewish demonstration.

"Thanks to one man, one 'fat cat' financier, we can now do the things we've been planning to do," it said.

The letter did not identify the "fat cat" but Little said the name of a man once prominent in public affairs has turned up repeatedly in the bombing investigation.

Police said they are attempting to locate five men other than the five already held. They said an unidentified sixth man was questioned "when he began to spout off" while in jail on another count.

DeGaulle Moves Decisively To Fight Algerian Alliance

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

With the timing of a political veteran, Gen. de Gaulle has moved decisively to the challenge of the alliance of generals and right-wing politicians that has ruled Algeria for the last six months.

The group's successful defiance of the civil authority in Paris last May started the train of events that brought the general to power. Its active rule in Algeria and its implicit threat to metropolitan France contributed heavily to the overwhelming vote in favor of de Gaulle's constitutional reforms.

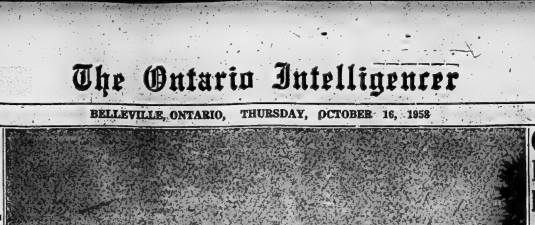
But as long as the army played an active role in the communiques of public safety, de Gaulle ruled Algeria only by their consent. The knowledge of their potential veto power was the focal point of resistance to his constitutional proposals and created misgivings among many others who approved them.

CHOICE CLEAR...

Now, barely two weeks after the referendum that gave him his popular mandate, the general has forced a showdown on his dangerous allies with his flat order to the army to get out of politics.

The Algerian committees that used de Gaulle's name to justify their rebellion against authority Henceforth they could be Gaullists or rebels but would have to choose between the two.

To the politicians, the choice became comparatively insignificant when the army elected to obey orders. Without military support, there no hope of maintaining their authority.



Some of the more hot-headed committee members talked of organizing general strikes. But other leaders read the handwriting on the wall.

The resignation from the Algiers committee of Leon Delbecque, one of the principal organizers of the insurrection, was an additional blow to the morale of those who hoped to keep the independence of action. His letters of resignation said confidence of the committees "would run the risk of bringing about confusion and tarnish a work of which we can be proud."

The rightists' obvious course was to work for victory in the elections next month on their own demands for integration of Algeria with metropolitan France and all-out pacification of the war against the Arab nationalists who sought its independence.

With France's left-wing parties badly split by quarrels over de Gaulle's constitutional referendum, France's traditional tendency to favor Socialist and Communist candidates may be reversed. But de Gaulle's assurance of a free election campaign and his assertion of control over the army have altered the political climate.

The general appears genuinely willing to give the left a fair chance to all shades of political opinion. If left-wing politicians can conquer their habit of bogging down in factional disputes, the perpetrators of the May rebellion may find themselves no better off under the Fifth Republic than they were under its predecessor.

This is Outlook, Sask., a sleepy town of 1,000 persons about 70 miles southwest of Saskatoon. With work now underway in the long-proposed South Saskatchewan River dam, the town expects to double its population in five years and increase to 3,000 in 20 years. (CP Photo).

Alice, Albino Killer Whale, Institution Around Island

VICTORIA (CP)—Alice is an exception.

She's an albino killer whale who has become an institution around Vancouver Island during the last 2 years, particularly in the Victoria area.

Killer whales, 18 to 26 feet long, are the most vicious mammals in Pacific Coast waters, But Alice isn't vicious; she's a part of the family.

Killer whales generally travel in groups of 10 to 100 so they can employ wolf-pack tactics in their victims — larger whales, seals, sea lions, porpoises, squid and other large fish. Alice, however, usually travels with only two or three friends.

Killer whales are so shy of men it's almost impossible to approach within ¼ mile of them. But Alice appears curious about people and has even staged water shows for them on occasion.

Killer whales are dark in color, sometimes called blackfish. But Alice is white, a female Moby Dick of her breed.

Albino whale sightings started in Vancouver Island go back to 1922, but it's considered unlikely the subject of those early reports was Alice. Now there is no reason to believe there is more than one albino killer whale in the area.

Dr. Clifford Carl, curator of the provincial museum in Victoria, dates Alice back to about 1946.

Sightings since then have been reported from Bellingham, Wash.; through Sooke, Ucluelet, Estevan Point up the west coast of Vancouver Island; Port Hardy — the northern tip; down the east side at Campbell River, Courtenay, Nanaimo and to Point No. 1 just outside Victoria on the southern tip.

Alice's ex-wife wasn't determined until she had been sighted several times, when a spotter with a knowledge of killer whales got a good look at Alice's dorsal fin and label her once and for all as female.

Dr. Carl has, in effect, adopted Alice.

"We know very little about the killer whale—that's why Alice is so important to us. She's easy to approach, and through sightings, provide us with data on the killer whale life span, habits and food requirements.

It doesn't appear, however, that Alice will provide Dr. Carl with much information about killer whale habits. The species has been spotted hundreds of miles out in the Pacific, but Alice appears to be content with the Vancouver Island circuit.

Alice's last big show was in January when she and two black buddies staged a three-hour water ballet for over-the-fence spectators on Victoria's waterfront. It opened with synchronized charge at the shoreline and a turbulent take about 30 feet out.

Then the whales seemed undisturbed by the cheering spectators on shore. At one point Alice lay on her back to rest for a couple of feet out, regarding the people intently.

"Perhaps," said Dr. Carl, "she was thinking in terms of food."

OUR ROADS DON'T IMPRESS RUSSIANS

Dr. V. V. Michailov, director of Russia's highway research institute, who is touring Canada with other Russian engineers, appears impressed by the high way building equipment he saw in Toronto. But he wasn't impressed with the roads or even the automobiles. He seemed to think that if Canada had big traffic problems, Russia had even bigger ones.

2 Expressways Would Cut 3 City Parks

TORONTO (CP)—Plans to two expressways to extend Highway 400 to downtown Toronto and cut across midtown Toronto were submitted to Metropolitan Toronto planning board Wednesday night.

The new routings would cut through three city parks and two in the suburbs and require building the first three-level interchange in Ontario to connect the two expressways. A 2¼-mile section of the Highway 400 extension would become Ontario's first eight-lane expressway.

No cost estimate or date for construction was submitted. The expressways would form part of a basic network of high - speed roads planned for the Metro area by 1985.

Highway 400 now runs from Highway 401 at Toronto's northwestern outskirts to north of Barrie. The extension would stretch about eight miles south to the Gardiner Expressway along Toronto's waterfront, meeting it just west of the Canadian National Exhibition grounds. A half-dozen interchanges at main city streets were proposed.

The other artery would connect the Gardiner with the north-south Don Valley Roadway, about three miles east.

'Demon Lover' Is Given Life

PARIS (Reuters)—Simone Desnoes, 24-year-old central figure in the Paris "demon lovers" case, was sentenced Wednesday to hard labor for life for the murder of her lover's wife Mrs. Yvette Dreyer.

Simone admitted killing Mrs. Dreyer, her lover's fiancee, her lover, had ordered her to do it to show her love for him.

She said she used a knife except for a pair of black gloves over Marie-Claire Dreyer. The doctor pointed to his wife's heart, she said, and she plunged a knife into her half-clogged victim.

Dr. Evenou died in prison earlier this year while awaiting trial on the murder charge.

Declare Judge Used Insulting Language

TORONTO (CP) — Halton County Judge W. N. Robinson was criticized by Dr. Ontario Court of Appeal Wednesday for the way he handled a criminal case last May and his treatment of the crown attorney.

Judge Robinson acquitted Murray M. Viger of Burlington, charged with wilfully obstructing the use of a public telephone, and ordered crown attorney F. K. Mc-Williams out of court for asking "crazy questions."

Chief Justice Dana Porter and Mr. Justice J. B. Aylesworth and Mr. Justice F. G. MacKay ordered a new trial. Mr. Justice Aylesworth remarked the judge had used "completely insulting language" in speaking to the crown attorney.

Construction Crews Hacking Out 12-Mile Road as Start On New Saskatchewan Dam

OUTLOOK, Sask. (CP) — Construction crews southeast of here are hacking out a 12-mile road which will link provincial highway No. 12 with a grassy prairie valley where cattle now graze.

Their work is the first step in a progression that will see the valley barred by a mighty earth dam more than three miles long and 200 feet high, and the grass covered by 180 feet of water. The road will give access to the South Saskatchewan River dam, the long-awaited irrigation and power project now becoming a reality.

Soon to start is the storage of 170,000 cubic yards of earth off a gravel deposit at the dam site, 18 miles south of here. Stockpiling of 621,000 tons of gravel and sand enough to cover 60 miles of the dam itself under way.

LONG JOB

During the next six in 10 years, while the dam is under construction, workers will swarm around the river valley. To the builders, the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration, the next few years will mean mostly hard work.

After years of argument, the signing of the dam agreement last summer came quickly. Dr. W. B. Tufts of Saskatoon, president of the Saskatchewan River Development Association and a country doctor at Outlook for years, said last spring that both the federal and Saskatchewan governments had reached "the point of no return in negotiations. A little more than a month later, both governments signed.

Under the agreement Saskatchewan is to pay 15% or up to $60,000 of the $184,000,000 cost of the project. It must pay one-quarter of the cost of the dam itself, about $24,000,000, and all the cost of the irrigation and power installations, $86,000,000.

The province has been fighting for the project for years. PFRA began investigating the feasibility of the idea in 1943. Sites in the central Saskatchewan area were investigated along a 180 - mile stretch of the river from Swift Current to Outlook. Finally the present site, at Coteau Creek, was chosen from 10 possibilities.

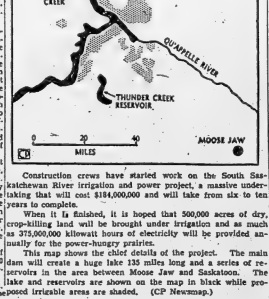
COMMISSION

A royal commission was appointed by Ottawa in 1952 to investigate, but it decided the dam's benefits were not commensurate with its cost to the Canadian people. In 1954, then Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent said he personally favored the dam but was not prepared to approve federal legislation which would enable construction to start. Then Prime Minister Diefenbaker said in 1957 the Progressive Conservatives would build the dam within six months of coming to office.

The Ottawa site is not without its problems. Gordon MacKenzie, director of the PFRA in Regina, says stability is a problem in any dam. Conditions dictate that the dam must be of earth for the foundation is not steady enough for concrete. But with proper treatment, says Mr. MacKenzie, the massive structure will be safe from disaster.

PFRA is continuing its study of soils and has taken some 1,600 samples since investigations began.

Material for the fill—half earth, half clay—are available t the site. Rock for riprapping the reservoir side of the dam is within 40 miles.



Perhaps the greatest optimism over the project is voiced by the town for development. Now they are receiving applications requesting land for restaurants, motels, banks, lumber yards, stores and a shopping centre. More than 3,000 lots in each of building has been lined up.

A sleepy prairie town of about 1,000, some 70 miles southwest of Saskatoon, Outlook may double its population in five years and increase to 3,000 in 20 years, but it isn't looking for a boom.

"We want a steady, permanent increase," says Mayor J. C. Carter, 76-year-old veteran of Outlook civic politics who homesteaded in the area in 1904. He is also aware that expansion could backfire and that some irrigation towns have businesses that haven't made a cent.

The Outlook Chamber of Commerce is less cautious. Referring of the town as "the irrigation tians and Jews, it was announced capital of Saskatchewan" in a re-today.

SOUTH SASKATCHEWAN RIVER PROJECT

Construction crews have started work on the South Saskatchewan River irrigation and power project, a massive undertaking that will cost $184,000,000 and will take from six to ten years to complete.

When it is finished, it is hoped that 500,000 acres of dry, crop-killing land will be brought under irrigation and as much as 375,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity will be provided annually for the power-hungry prairies.

Construction Strife Cuts Into Possible Record Year For Toronto and District

TORONTO (CP)—A strike of 650 cement masons has mushroomed into a $150,000,000 construction slump during what appeared to be a record year for building in the Toronto area.

The masons, members of the Operative Plasterers and Cement Masons International Association, struck Sept. 11 over shift premiums. Now, an estimated 30,000 building trades workers are idle in a city-wide stoppage at major construction projects that account for a third of all building contracts in the area.

Union members refused to cross the masons' picket lines as contractors of the Toronto Builders' Exchange shut down their building projects, others of the four unions directly involved a 25-per-cent-an-hour wage increase and told them construction would resume only when contract agreements were signed.

The contractors' offer has been rejected by representatives of Union, the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, the International Union of Operating Engineers and the masons.

Current basic wage rates are $2.50 for masons, $2.50 for carpenters, $2.16 for cement and $2.20 for the top classification of engineers.

SEPT. 22 LOCKOUT

The lockout imposed Sept. 22 by 91 general contractors engaged in heavy construction such as office building and industrial, Home and apartment building is not affected.

Before the tie-up the construction industry in Toronto had been experiencing its biggest boom. At the end of September the total value of contracts awarded filed in the area was $460,400,000.

The MacLean Building Guide showed $678,700,000 worth of construction awards all last year. In 1956 the figure was only $423,800,000.

Construction in the Toronto area has been tremendously active in the post-war period. This year is expected to be heading in an all-time high.

It is still too early for statistical results to show effects of the tie-up. The monthly construction totals are usually not taken from the middle of one month to the middle of the next.

But industry sources said the lockout is hitting the small subcontractors and supplies. Suppliers are also reported heavily hit by the tie-up, but figures of losses, however, was available.

MAJOR PROJECTS BIT

The shutdown will make construction in the Toronto area is virtually complete.

Among the shut-down are the Dominion Sugar Company plant on the waterfront, the Royal York Hotel extension, the O'Keefe Auditorium and Civic Square and the apartment tower at McKenzie Building, the new head offices for Toronto Life, Shell Oil's head office building and a new sewage treatment plant on the Humber River.

The $150,000,000 estimate includes only projects under construction in the Toronto area.

The builders' exchange has estimated that wages lost since the lockout Sept. 22 have averaged about $290 a man.

The building union has announced it plans to seek the consent of the Ontario labor relations board to pay strike benefits for lost wages.

Some union officials have suggested they may try to boycott construction jobs being done by exchange members outside the Toronto area.

Labor officials have forecast a two-year period of uncertainty if the tie-up continues. The federal unemployment commission has decided that men on strike or who are not yet eligible for unemployment benefits.

Sheet Metal Workers' Strike Stalls Project

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — More than 24 major Southwestern Ontario construction projects have been stalled and an estimated 4,000 tradesmen left temporarily jobless by the strike of London members of the Sheet Metal Workers International Association.

The walkout, which moved into its third day Wednesday, has already paralyzed at least 38 jobs in London and suburbs. Three outside centres have also been hit, and delay in settlement the dispute will spread to a fourth Ontario centre.

Kenneth Martin, president of the London Building Trades Council, said about 4,000 tradesmen and laborers honored Sheet Metal Workers' picket lines.

Not included in that figure, he said, were workers in supply outlets who may close down with no place to deliver their products and in any event would likely refuse to cross lines.

Other out-of-city centres, Beachville and Strathroy, were hit by the walkout Tuesday, Industrial Federation.

Spokesman for the strikers also said the walkout would spread to Stratford.

The strike, called Monday, followed breakdown of demands of a 60-cent-an-hour wage increase and a welfare plan to which employers would contribute 10 cents an hour for time worked.

Wilfred Gibson, president of the London Sheet Metal Contractors Association, said that only 17 of the 70 sheet metal shops in London are unionized.

Oshawa Strike Ends

OSHAWA (CP) — A member ship meeting or local 1817, United Steelworkers of America (CLC), Wednesday voted to end a strike at the Fittings Limited plant here.

Workers went on strike six weeks ago after contract negotiations broke down. They will return to work today.

The union bargaining committee submitted terms of a memorandum of settlement reached in Toronto last week. It includes a 17 cent an hour package increase but drops union demands for a cooperative wage study plan and strict seniority clauses.

The increase will be 10 10¢ in favor of the settlement.

Professional Treasure Hunters Leave Halifax for Mediterranean

HALIFAX (CP)—A rugged little ship carrying a crew of professional treasure hunters sails from here today in search of sunken riches.

For the Dreadful and her 32-man crew, the summer went into the books as a profitable one. Anchored 12 miles off Cape Sable in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, they hoisted 300 tons of valuable copper bars and wire from one of two sunken hulks.

An informed source said the ship will spend the winter off the coast of French Morocco on a salvaging for a sunken derelict laden with a cargo of tin.

The 1,000-ton Droxford is owned by Risdon Beazley, Limited, of England, world's largest private salvage firm.

In 1957, Beazley's men worked the vessels off Gaspe from the Twyford. Both sunken ships were torpedoed during the Second World War. They flew the Greek flag.

Bearded diver Freddie Smith of the Shetland Islands said the Gaspe job was not difficult except for the great depth of 800 feet.

"It's ruddy dark down there," he said. "We had to use lights all the time. There's still some cargo left—we don't know if we'll come back again next year or not."

All diving during the salvage work is done in heavy metal chambers built to withstand extreme pressures. They are designed and built by Italian engineers of deep sea salvage.

The Droxford crew scoffs at publicized plans to lift the Italian luxury liner Andrea Doria from the Atlantic floor.

"A bloke's got to build a bloody big ship to lift it in the first place," said Smith. "And what's he got when it's on the surface? Just a bloody big hull—nothing but scrap.

"But they can do it, if they have the money. We wouldn't be in it. We only go after cargo."

"Just a Second"

BACKACHE May be Warning

Backache is often caused by lazy kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, dizzy head and that tired-out and worn-to-a-frazzle feeling may soon follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills now. 39
